1. BASIC INFORMATION

Purpose of the Funding

The Office of Justice Programs (OJP) is committed to advancing work that furthers the U.S. Department of Justice's (DOJ) mission to keep our country safe and secure and uphold the rule of law and protect the rights of American citizens. OJP provides federal leadership, funding, and other critical resources to directly support law enforcement, combat violent crime, protect American children, provide services to American crime victims, and address public safety challenges, including human trafficking and the opioid crisis. OJP supports DOJ's commitment to Gold Standard Science and scientific integrity.

This is a notice of funding opportunity (NOFO) for the NIJ FY 2026 Research and Evaluation on Human Trafficking. This opportunity supports proposals for rigorous research and evaluation projects to better understand, respond to, and reduce Human Trafficking in the United States in three areas: (1) prevention, including justice system and other initiatives to prevent trafficking in the first place or to prevent further harm after it has occurred, (2) evaluation of federal policies that may have the unintended consequence of perpetuating or increasing human trafficking, and (3) applied research and program evaluations that directly support effective services for American victims. This NOFO is released by the National Institute of Justice (NIJ), in collaboration with the Office for Victims of Crime (OVC).

Topic Area 1: Justice System Trafficking Prevention Programs

Funds will support rigorous outcome/impact evaluations of programs and strategies to identify and develop best practices to prevent labor and sex trafficking and child exploitation in the U.S. Programs created to prevent sex trafficking, labor trafficking, and child exploitation in the U.S include educational campaigns to reduce vulnerability to trafficking, law enforcement strategies to investigate and prosecute traffickers to hold them accountable and break up networks, technology solutions, and partnerships with community and faith groups. However, few of these programs have been rigorously evaluated for whether they measurably reduce sex and labor trafficking or child exploitation.

Proposed evaluations may include survivor collaboration. Successful applications may include the following criteria:

- Clear, defined population(s) targeted by the prevention program;
- Size of the target population(s), sampling plan, and unit of analysis (e.g., individuals, firms in an industry);
- Specific prevention outcomes and what data will be used to measure them;
- Potential confounding factors for treatment effects and how they will be controlled; and
- Preliminary, falsifiable hypotheses for expected effects.

Topic Area 2: Effects of Federal Policies, Laws, and Strategies on Trafficking

Part of DOJ's mission to keep America safe includes identifying areas where federal programs or policies that may have inadvertently contributed to human trafficking in the United States. Funds will support research projects that identify and evaluate federal laws and policies that may have enabled or perpetuated trafficking and how they did so. The government is most able to prevent human trafficking by examining its own policies which may have contributed to the problem.

Applicants should propose research on specific areas where federal policies, laws, or strategies may have inadvertently rewarded, enabled, or otherwise led to an increase in human trafficking. Applicants should specify:

- The Federal policies or programs that will be studied, including an explanation of why the specific program is likely to have had impacts on human trafficking.
- A plan to evaluate the impact of the policy or program on the incidence of human trafficking.
- Suggestions for reform of the policy in future.

Topic Area 3: Trafficking Victimization Topics

Funds will support research and evaluation projects in the following areas:

- Rigorous evaluations:
 - Impact evaluation replications for trafficking victim services
 - Impact evaluations of victim identification trainings or methods, which include measurements of behavioral change outcomes
- Applied research on trafficking victimization topics such as:
 - National prevalence estimates
 - Victims' exit strategies and paths to freedom
 - Forced criminality

Note that applications for formative evaluations and/or evaluability assessments alone will not be considered.

Evaluation Research. Applicants proposing evaluation research must include cost/benefit and cost effectiveness analyses. Applicants are also encouraged to review the information found here Applications Proposing Evaluation Research.

See the Eligible Applicants section for eligibility details.

- (b) Combatting violent crime;
- (c) Supporting services to American citizens;
- (d) Protecting American children; and
- (e) Supporting American victims of trafficking and sexual assault.

Note: Addressing these priorities is one of many factors that NIJ considers in making funding decisions. Receiving priority consideration does not guarantee funding.

Unallowable Activities: The following are certain unallowable costs and certain activities that are out of the program scope and will not be funded.

1. Out of program scope is any program or activity, at any tier that, directly or indirectly, violates (or promotes or facilitates the violation of) federal immigration law (including 8 U.S.C. § 1373) or impedes or hinders the enforcement of federal immigration law—including by failing to comply with 8 U.S.C. § 1373, give access to DHS agents, or honor DHS requests and provide requested notice to DHS agents.

2. Out of program scope is any program or activity, at any tier that violates any applicable Federal civil rights or nondiscrimination law. This includes violations that – (1) indirectly violate the law, including by promoting or facilitating violations; or (2) unlawfully favor individuals in any race or protected group, including on a majority or minority, or privileged or unprivileged, basis, within a given area, population, or sector.
3. As specified in the DOJ Grants Financial Guide, in Chapter 3.13 “Unallowable Costs” (“Legal Services for Aliens”), any obligations of funds, at any tier, under this award to provide (or to support the provision of) legal services to any removable alien or any alien otherwise unlawfully present in the United States shall be unallowable costs for purposes any award made under this notice, but the foregoing shall not be understood to apply— (1) to legal services to obtain protection orders for victims of crime; or (2) to immigration-related legal services that may be expressly authorized or required by any law, or any judicial ruling, governing or applicable to the award.

Expected Outcomes

NIJ expects recipients to submit deliverables and performance reports, as described below. Read the Application Resource Guide for more information. NIJ will measure success by reviewing a recipient’s submission of performance reports and data and the Development and delivery of interim products should be built into the Project Timeline. Author-accepted manuscripts for peer-reviewed publications derived from research funded by the award should be deposited in a publication repository designated by NIJ. A final research paper is required.

- Research Dissemination Products should translate the research into actionable information for policymakers and practitioners to promote change in the field. Grantees should devote equal effort to development of these products as they do scholarly products.
- Data Sets and Associated Files and Documentation resulting in whole or in part from their funded research must be archived to ensure the preservation, availability, and transparency of data collected. For more information on this requirement, please review the information found here: Data Archiving.

Performance Reports
