All manuscripts utilizing data made available through the Consortium should acknowledge that fact as well as identify the original collector of the data. The ICPSR Council urges all users of the ICPSR Data facilities to follow some adaptation of this statement with the parentheses indicating items to be filled in appropriately or deleted by the individual user.

The data (and tabulations) utilized in this (publication) were made available (in part) by the Inter-university Consortium for Political and Social Research. The data for IMPROVING CORRECTIONAL CLASSIFICATION, NEW YORK, 1981-1983 were collected by Kevin Wright. Neither the collector of the original data nor the Consortium bear any responsibility for the analyses or interpretations presented here.

In order to provide funding agencies with essential information about the use of archival resources and to facilitate the exchange of information about ICPSR participants' research activities, each user of the ICPSR data facilities is expected to send two copies of each completed manuscript or thesis abstract to the Consortium. Please indicate in the cover letter which data were used.

Wright, Kevin;

IMPROVING CORRECTIONAL CLASSIFICATION, NEW YORK, 1981-1983 (ICPSR 8437)

There were three specific goals of this research. The first was to evaluate three procedures currently available for the classification of correctional inmates: the Risk Analysis method, Megargee's MMPI Typology, and Toch's Prison Preference Inventory. Second, the research devised and tested a postdictive model of adjustment to prison life. Third, a new classification scheme was developed for predicting inmate adjustment to prison life that considers individual and organizational (contextual) level factors and various interactions between the two.

These data were collected from a sample of 942 volunteer inmates from ten New York state correctional facilities, five of which were maximum security and five of which were medium security facilities. Only one-half of the original 942 inmates completed the MMPI. Background and questionnaire data were collected during the summer and fall of 1983. Outcome data on each inmate infraction were collected for a three-year period prior to that time.

Each case in the first file represents survey response data from an individual inmate. There are 172 variables for 882 cases in this file. Of the 172 variables, 56 are from the Prison Preference Questionnaire (PPQ), 86 are from the Prison Environment Inventory (PEI), and the remaining 30 are from the Prison Adjustment Questionnaire (PAQ). Cases in the second file are records of medical contacts and diagnoses of inmates' illnesses. There are five variables for the 12,502 cases. The third file contains 35 variables for 529 cases; cases are personality assessment information and scores for each individual offender. Data in the fourth file consist of 54 individual-based variables covering inmates' background characteristics. The fifth file contains records of offenses and disciplinary action by individual offender; there are 32 variables. The client number is unique and consistent across all data files.

The first file has a logical record length of 80; the second, 264; the third, 968; the fourth, 264; and the fifth, 80. Class IV

Data Element (Field)	Codes	Value Labels
Under Custody status (20)	0 = Currently under custody 1 = Paroled 2 = Discharged
Conditional Release Date (50-57)		If conditional release date is blank enter 9 in all columns.
Maximum Expiration Date (58-65)		If the maximum expiration is Life enter 9 in all columns. Where there is more than one sentence and the sentences are concurrent (CC) the maximum expiration date applies to the longest sentence. Where the sentences are consecutive (CS) the maximum terms should be added together to determine the maximum expiration date (e.g. 1 sentence with a 5 year maximum added to a second consecutive sentence with a 3 year maximum. The maximum expiration date would be 8 years after the admission date).
