Introduction

The Victim Witness Coordination Program of the National District Attorneys Association proudly publishes this second, updated edition of the nationwide directory of prosecutor-based victim witness programs. The high demand for the earlier edition and positive reactions lead to the conclusion that this document serves as a good resource in victim assistance.

In 1975, the NDAA played a pioneer role in setting up the first victim assistance programs in prosecutors' offices. The services of these eight programs were enthusiastically received by both clients and staff, and NDAA recommended that every prosecutor focus such attention on the needs of victims and witnesses in their respective jurisdictions.

The eighties saw the growth of the movement for recognition of victims' rights in the criminal justice system and proposals for improvement in the victim's treatment. Increased government involvement, financially and otherwise, has allowed prosecutors to start up new programs or expand existing programs. Many prosecutors contribute substantially from their own budget to the victim witness assistance efforts.

The information contained in this directory was updated in the period October '86 to February '87. The directory also provides, in addition to a listing of over 400 prosecutor-based victim assistance programs, a list of currently operated state victim compensation programs. Upon request, the V.W.C.P. can provide referrals for other types of victim services, such as domestic violence and child sexual abuse programs.

This directory will be widely distributed to prosecutors and criminal justice agencies across the country. Prosecutors who operate programs not listed in this directory are urged to fill out the form in the back and send it to the V.W.C.P. Also, notification of any changes in programs already included would be appreciated to update the directory. We hope that this directory will remain a useful resource for prosecutors and other agencies working with victims. By improving services to victims of crime, prosecutors perform an important and valuable service to their jurisdictions and to our society as a whole.
