April, 1987

The Honorable Vincent L. McKusick Chief Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court

The Honorable John R. McKernan, Jr. Governor of Maine

Ladies and Gentlemen of the 113th Legislature

It is a privilege and pleasure for me to transmit the 11th Annual Report of the Judicial Department.

Once again our Maine state court systems have experienced a record number of case filings - over 285,000 statewide in all courts. Numbers alone do not tell the whole story; court cases are increasingly more complex, reflecting the complexities of modern society. They require and get a high degree of competence and dedication from the more than 300 Judicial Department employees who make our judicial system come alive.

Once again the courts have responded to the need. The Superior Court for the fifth year in a row has disposed of more civil cases than were filed with it while keeping pace with over 11,000 criminal newly filed cases, an all-time high.

The District Court workload peaked to a new high of 268,000 cases, up 8% over 1985. While nearly half were in the categories of civil violations and traffic infractions, family abuse, small claims and criminal cases were up to unprecedented levels, too.

In the pages that follow, more details are presented about all aspects of the Judicial Department's operations in the past year. These data are gathered at the 51 court locations across the state where the cases were filed and where the work of the courts is done. Once again Debra Olken compiled and edited the data and wrote this report, ably assisted by Fran Norton and others. To all, my thanks.

Sincerely,

Dana R. Baggett

State Court Administrator

A Report to the Joint Convention of the 113th Maine Legislature (First Regular Session)

January 28, 1987

"THE STATE OF THE JUDICIARY"

A Report to the Joint Convention of the 113th Legislature

By Chief Justice Vincent L. McKusick

January 28, 1987

It is with particular pleasure this year that I appear before this Joint Convention to report on the State of our Judiciary. You iegislators and we judges both have a special reason to celebrate in this year 1987. We are privileged to serve during the biennium when Maine, as part of one of the original 13 states, is joining the rest of the Nation in commemorating the 200th Anniversary of the framing and the ratification of the Constitution of our United States.

This Constitutional Bicentennial turns our minds back to first principles and to the grand plan designed at Philadelphia during that hot summer of 1787. That plan not only divided powers between the federal government and the states; it also divided the federal powers between the three branches of that government and thereby served as the model to us in our State Constitution and its division of powers between our own three branches. Our coming together on these occasions symbolizes our mutual recognition that, while we have a constitutional responsibility to retain our independence from each other, we also have a constitutional responsibility to each other. You legislators carry the responsibility for funding the courts and for legislating their jurisdiction and structure; we in the judiciary have a corresponding responsibility to you to manage those courts efficiently and to keep you fully informed of their operations. As you have heard me say in the past, in discharging their interrelated responsibilities the three separate branches need to practice toward each other a policy of the 3 C's -- communication, cooperation and comity. I report to you today in that spirit.

You have received the final report of the Appropriations Committee on its study during the last 6 to 8 months of the relationship between the judicial branch and the other two branches on financial and administrative matters. Our work on that study with the Appropriations Subcommittee headed by House Chair, Representative Carter, has made us in the Judicial Department better informed of the legislative process and more sensitive to your constant need for information about our operations. The Committee's report makes uniformly valuable recommendations. We are immediately implementing all within our power to implement administratively; the others requiring legislation we fully support, and we commend them to your favorable consideration. To carry out one of the Committee's recommendations, I have appointed a legislative liaison for the Judicial Department. His job also include liaison with the executive branch and service as our public information officer. He will function as a facilitator of communication. With his help, we are determined to be more accessible, not less, to you -- and to the public.

I am proud to announce that our computerized budget control system is now in final testing. That system is designed to produce, immediately after the end of each month, a detailed accounting of expenditures at each of our nearly 60 court locations and functional units. It will enable each of our responsible managers to address immediately any out-of-line costs that appear. It is appropriate here to note that some of our costs are driven by factors over which we exercise little control. A major example is the cost of court-appointed counsel for indigent criminal defendants. Because of the size and the special nature of that item, we fully support the proposal, made by the State Bar Association, that the legislative appropriation for that constitutionally required State function be identified as a separate line item, rather than being lumped with the appropriation for "All Other" expenses of the courts.

The entire cost of operating our state-funded court system ran to about $20 million in the last fiscal year; and, as compared to that gross cost, the courts collected revenues in fines and fees of almost $14 million. The courts thus impose a very small net burden on the $2 billion budget of the State. That fact must not, however, reduce one bit the rigor of our financial stewardship. Our computerized budget control system is a valuable tool that should help us do even better in managing our financial resources.

In the past year with your help we have further improved our niethods for collecting fines. At this session you have before you further legislation that will help the courts to reach scofflaws, principally from out of state, who fail to appear when summortal to court for traffic infractions and civil violations. That legislation is desirable for its financial consequences. Even more, it is needed to assure the integrity of the court process.

My report this morning on the operation of our trial courts during 1986 just closed will sound to some of you like a rerun of my report a year ago for 1985. The litigation explosion that pushed the case filings in our trial courts to record levels in 1985 continued in '86 to produce still new record highs. New cases in the District Court totaled nearly 267,000, a staggering number even to contemplate. In the Superior Court over 11,000 new criminal prosecutions were initiated, producing a total record case load of over 17,500 filings. I can suggest some of the reasons for this continued growth in the work of Maine courts: an increasing population and greater highway traffic; enhanced law enforcement, in, for example, the areas of child abuse and drug violations; stepped-up development and economic activity and the added zoning and other governmental regulation that responds to it; a steadily growing body of statutes to protect consumers, to vindicate individual rights, and otherwise to meet perceived needs in an increasingly complex society; and undoubtedly there are other reasons.

While the total number of civil cases is not increasing at the same rate as criminal and traffic cases, our civil trials are becoming qualitatively more complex and they take more court time. The run-of-the-mill auto negligence case, once common in the Superior Court, is replaced by lengthy product liability trials, such as the asbestos cases, and by complex cases of administrative review, under statutes such as the recent hospital cost containment law.

The District Court is experiencing the same increase in the length and the complexity of its civil trials. That court is the closest we come to having a family court. For example, it handles almost all divorces, with at times hotly contested issues of marital property and child custody. It handles most protective custody proceeding involving abused or neglected children, as well as the termination of parental rights in appropriate cases. The District Court also is now hearing many other substantial civil cases that would formerly have routinely gone to the Superior Court, such as mortgage foreclosures and money suits up to $30,000. Opinion writing and the recording of the evidence for purposes of appeal is becoming almost as regular a practice in the District Court as in the Superior Court. Except in certain special proceedings unique to one court, there is no longer any reason to have different procedures in civil cases in the District and the Superior Courts. The Supreme Judicial Court will soon promulgate a single, merged set of civil rules for both of those trial courts.

To meet the growing work load of the trial courts, we are doing many things, most of which are possible only with your support. First, computerization of the criminal and traffic infractions dockets in the District Court is well along toward completion, and the introduction of computers into the Superior Court is starting in March. This process has taken longer than we originally estimated. Nonetheless, as compared with many other states, the Maine courts are making the transition to the high tech world with fewer personnel and at a faster pace. We are also proud of the high quality of the technical work by our computer director. The trial court computers will make needed information available much more readily than the present manual system and will help the already hard-pressed staffs of our clerks' offices to cope with the ballooning case load.

Second, in the last biennium you at our request added one judge to each of the trial courts. Our previous projection had indicated that we would also need an additional judge in each trial court at the first regular session of this Legislature. We do much need that one additional judge in the District Court. At this time, however, we are deferring our request for the additional Superior Court judge until the critical shortage of jury courtrooms in Cumberland County is relieved. Even with one more District Court judge, the Maine judiciary is remarkable small. Other than the part-time county probate judges, 48 men and women comprise our entire active judiciary. In good part, credit for our small judiciary's being able to cope with their increasing work load goes to the help we get from our active retired judges. After retirement those experienced judges continue to perform judicial service as assigned by the chiefs of their respective courts, and they do so at only a minimal cost to the State. We are much indebted to them.

Third, we are making steady progress in improving court facilities statewide. In Bath, Belfast, Farmington, Millinocket, Fort Kent, and Madawaska, new or improved court facilities are open or are in preparation. At those and other locations around the state, we have made courtrooms accessible to the handicapped. In Cumberland County, with excellent cooperation between the County Commissioners and the courts, planning is under way for the major addition to the courthouse approved by the county voters a year ago November. This addition is much needed. That Cumberland County Courthouse does about 20% of all the business statewide of both the District Court and the Superior Court. We responsible for the courts are working hard in the planning process to assure that we get the maximum possible in additional courtrooms and support facilities for the rent dollars that we will pay to the County.

Fourth, the trial courts constantly work to improve their methods of operation and the quality of the justice they dispense. By the end of this week the Superior Court's expedited case flow program for civil cases will have been in operation statewide for a full year and in four test counties for more than two years. The indications continue that the civil cases that are put on the fast track (and that is about three quarters of all of them) are settled or are disposed of through trial faster than would otherwise be true. The public directly benefits from reduced delay and cost.

By statutes you enacted in the last biennium, our court mediation service and our CASA program, both nationally acclaimed, have become regular features of the Judicial Department. Our mediation service continues to produce in many cases what I am confident is a better brand of justice than is possible with the black-and-white of an adjudicated outcome. Despite the suspension of mediation for 2 1/2 months for budgetary reasons, our mediators handled 3.322 cases in 1986, over 70% being marital relations cases. CASA (the acronym for court appointed special advocates) is now fully operational at six District Court locations from Biddeford to Lewiston to Rockland. In the CASA program a carefully selected and trained citizen volunteer is appointed by the court to act as guardian ad litem for the child involved in a child protection proceeding. Throughout the pendency of that proceeding, the CASA volunteer works closely with the child, in and out of court. Extension of the CASA program to other court locations will proceed as fast as the CASA director is able to carry out recruitment, training, and supervision of the needed volunteers. The CASA volunteers are performing a great public service in helping the courts to protect children in jeopardy.

In his Inaugural Address Governmor McKernan said, "We must rekindle a volunteer spirit of citizen helping citizen." I fully agree. We in the courts already are the beneficiaries of much citizen participation, but we can use more. In the CASA program, over 100 volunteer guardians ad litem are now working under court appointments in over 125 child protection cases. Our active mediators, now numbering about 60 and including, I am pleased to note, Barbara McKernan of Bangor, bring to their mediation efforts a variety and depth of life experience that money alone could never buy. Citizens also participate in the courts' work in other ways: Last year 7,700 Maine men and women served on the grand and traverse juries of the Superior Court. Many citizens serve on committees and boards advising the Supreme Judicial Court. In fact, lay persons now preside over both the Board of Overseers of the Bar, the body responsible for superintending the legal profession, and the Committee on Judicial Responsibility and Disability, the body responsible for investigating complaints against judges. To refashion an old adage, the courts are too important to leave to us judges and lawyers alone.

Turning to the Supreme Judicial Court, last year produced another record high in the number of appeals to the Law Court -- 520. I am proud to report again that my hard-working colleagues have kept well abreast of this heavy appellate case load. This the Court has accomplished, while at the same time discharging the court's "board of directors" responsibilities in setting administrative policy for the Judicial Department and in making procedural rules for all courts. During the past year Justice Elmer H. Violette has taken active retired status, and former Chief Justice Robert W. Clifford of the Superior Court has succeeded him. Both are here with us today.

As part of the Law Court's commemoration of the Constitutional Bicentennial, it is going "on the road" outside Portland for all four weeks of its regular May and June terms. For one of those weeks the Court will sit to hear oral argument in Alfred and for another week it will sit in Houton. And I am personally pleased to announce that the Law Court will sit for one day of oral argument at the courthouse in my native County of Piscataquis. The State and County Bar Associations are to help in arranging visits by school students to the Law Court sessions around the State.

Two weeks ago you received the final report of the Supreme Judicial Court Relocation Commission, a study commission created by you in 1985. In considering their recommendations, you will be addressing two basic questions: First, should Maine bring its Supreme Court together into its own central home, thus doing what all other States of the Union have done? Second, should Maine headquarter its Supreme Court in its capital city, thus doing what all the other States of the Union, except Louisiana, have done? Yours is a "Once in a Statehood" decision, as Commission member Eugene Mawhinney of Orono calls it. In broad historical perspective, you will decide whether to finish the job, started by the Maine Legislature in the late 1820's, of moving the seat of all state government from Portland to Augusta.

Before closing, I want to return to the subject of the Constitutional Bicentennial. Last year you authorized and funded a Maine Commission for the commemoration of the Bicentennial. That Commission, under the dynamic leadership of Dr. Arthur M. Johnson, former President of the University of Maine at Orono, is encouraging and coordinating the efforts of great numbers of Maine communities and other organizations, public and private, in sponsoring appropriate celebratory events. During the next several months we can all enjoy a refresher course in civics and history occasioned by the Bicentennial.

From my reading about the historic events of 200 years ago, I draw several lessons, of which I now mention two. First is the importance placed by the Founding Fathers upon an independent judiciary. At Philadelphia the delegates accepted without debate the proposition that the Constitution's division of powers, its guarantee of individual rights, and its intricate set of checks and balances would be monitored by a judicial system independent of, and as much as possible insulated from, the other two branches, the political branches. The only debate was over how to assure an independent judiciary. The delegates gave federal judges life tenure and in the "compensation clause" prohibited the reduction of a judge's salary during his tenure. The principal debate, such as there was, concerned a parallel proposal to prevent the temptation of salary increases. Promoted by James Madison himself, the proposal lost largely on the practical ground that the cost of living might rise. In 1787 the Massachusetts Constitution already had provided for judges with life tenure, and Maine followed that example in its Constitution in 1820. Although in the flush of Jacksonian democracy Maine in 1839 substituted 7-year terms for its judges, judicial independence remains a cornerstone principle of Maine government. Judges must be free to make unpopular decisions when either constitution or statute requires. No citizen wants his rights to liberty or property ruled upon by a judge who is influenced by any consideration other than the requirements of the law, determined as wisely and as dispassionately as is humanly possible.

A second lesson that I get from my Bicentennial reading is a renewed respect for the political process, a renewed respect for you in the political branches of government, the legislative and executive branches. That remarkable document that 39 delegates signed on September 17, 87, came about through political debate and political compromise. The drafters resolved conflicting interests, particularly between the large and the small states, through political compromise, and they kept a constant political eye out for what would sell or not sell in ratification conventions back home. The ratification process during the next year was a real political squeaker. In February '88, Massachusetts, including the District of Maine, ratified by a convention vote of less than 53%, and then only when that convention vote was joined with a recommendation of amendments that would make a more clear and extensive cataloguing of individual and state rights. In the following months, that political formula succeeded in turning the tide in favor of ratification in other critical states. As a direct consequence of the political debate in the ratification conventions, the first Congress within 6 months of being organized approved the Bill of Rights for submission to the States for ratification. Thus, the framing of the Constitution, its ratification by the States, and the adoption of the Bill of Rights were all the product of the political process at its best.

The high standard of political debate and compromise set by our politician founding fathers stands as a challenging model for you citizen politicians in going about your legislative duties in this bicentennial biennium. I wish you all possible success in doing what is best for the State of Maine. I know that is the goal of every one of you.

Thank you for your time and attention.

Revenue

Judicial Department gross revenue for FY'86 totaled $13,754,938. Table F-7 below identifies a source breakdown of that revenue for FY'82 through FY'86. Revenue and percent change by Superior Court locations is shown on Table F-8. Revenue and percent change by the District Court locations, including the Administrative Court, is shown on Table F-9.

All funds collected by the Judicial Department, except project grants, go into the State general fund. A relatively small proportion of these funds consist of fines for specific violations of law which are dedicated to certain agencies. A comparative summary of dedicated fines by fiscal year is also shown below:

District Court Building Fund

Pursuant to 4 MRSA §163(3), $3,000 per month is transferred from the District Court appropriations to the District Court Building Fund. This fund is "to be used solely for the building, remodeling and furnishing of quarters for the District Court......". Monies in this fund are carried forward from year to year.

The balance forward from fiscal year 1985 was $72,964. The addition of $36,000 from the appropriation and $4,800 from the Bureau of Public Improvement for fiscal year 1986 brought the total available fund to $113,764. Of this amount $23,285 was spent during the year to replace equipment and for renovations in Portland, Brunswick, Lewiston, Augusta and Ellsworth court locations, leaving a year-end balance of $90,479.

COURT STRUCTURE

History

Until separation in 1820, Maine was a part of Massachusetts and therefore included in the Massachusetts court system. However, in 1820, Article VI, Section I of the new Maine Constitution established the judicial branch of government stating: "The judicial power of the State shall be vested in a Supreme Judicial Court, and such other courts as the Legislature shall from time to time establish". From the start of statehood, the Supreme Judicial Court was both a trial court and an appellate court or "Law Court". The new State of Maine also adopted the same lower court structure as existed in Massachusetts, and the court system remained unchanged until 1852. The Court Reorganization Act of 1852 increased the jurisdiction of the Supreme Judicial Court to encompass virtually every type of case, increased the number of justices and authorized the justices to travel in circuits. The Probate Courts were created in 1820 as county-based courts and have remained so to date.

The next major change in the system came in 1929, when the Legislature created the statewide Superior Court to relieve the overburdened Supreme Judicial Court. Meanwhile, the lower courts continued to operate much as they always had until l96l when the municipal courts and the trial justices system was abolished and the new District Court created. The most recent change to the Maine Judicial System occurred in 1978 with the addition of the Administrative Court.

Supreme Judicial Court and Law Court

The Supreme Judicial Court is the governing body of the Judicial Department and, sitting as the Law Court, it is the court of final appeal. The Law Court hears appeals of civil and criminal cases from the Superior Court, appeals from final judgments, orders and decrees of the Probate Court, appeals of decisions of the Public Utilities Commission and the Workers Compensation Commission's Appellate Division, appeals from the District Court in parental rights termination and foreclosure cases, interlocutory criminal appeals from the District and Superior Courts, and appeals of decisions of a single justice of the Supreme Judicial Court. A justice of the Supreme Judicial Court has jurisdiction to hear, with his consent, non-jury civil actions, except divorce or annulment of marriage, and can be assigned by the chief justice to sit in the Superior Court to hear cases of any type, including post-conviction matters and jury trials. In addition, single justices handle both admission to the bar and bar disciplinary proceedings. The justices of the Supreme Judicial Court make decisions regarding legislative apportionment and render advisory opinions concerning important questions of law on solemn occasions when requested by the governor, Senate or House of Representatives. Three members of the Supreme Judicial Court, appointed by the chief justice, serve as the Appellate Division for the review of criminal sentences of one year or more.

By statute, the chief justice is head of the Judicial Department, and the Supreme Judicial Court has general administrative and supervisory authority over the Judicial Department.

The Supreme Judicial Court has seven members: the chief justice and six associate justices. The justices are appointed by the governor for seven-year terms, with the consent of the Legislature. The court determines the number, time and place of its terms depending on the volume of cases. The court sits in Portland four times a year and in Bangor twice a year. Each term runs from two to three weeks and handles from 50 to 60 cases.

Upon retirement, a Supreme Judicial Court justice may be appointed an active retired justice by the governor for a seven-year term, with the consent of the Legislature. On assignment by the chief justice, an active retired justice has the same authority as an active justice, and may sit in either the Supreme Judicial Court or the Superior Court. As of the end of 1986, there were three active retired justices of the Supreme Judicial Court.

Superior Court

The Superior Court was created by the Legislature in 1929 as Maine's trial court of general jurisdiction. The court has original jurisdiction over all matters (either exclusively or concurrently with other courts) that are not within the exclusive jurisdiction of the District Court. This is the only court in which civil and criminal jury trials are held. In addition, justices of this court hear appeals on questions of law from the District Court and from the Administrative Court.

There are 16 justices of the Superior Court who hold sessions of the Court in each of the 16 counties. The justices are appointed by the governor for seven-year terms, with the consent of the Legislature. A single justice is designated by the chief justice of the Supreme Judicial Court to serve as the chief justice of the Superior Court.

Upon retirement, a Superior Court Justice may be appointed an active retired justice by the governor for a seven year term, with the consent of the Legislature. On assignment by the Superior Court chief justice, an active retired justice has the same authority as an active justice. As of the end of 1986, there were two active retired justices of the Superior Court.

District Court

The District Court was created by the Legislature in 1961 as Maine's court of limited jurisdiction. The court has original jurisdiction in non felony criminal cases, traffic infractions and civil violations, can accept guilty pleas in felony cases and conducts probable cause hearings in felony cases. The court has concurrent jurisdiction with the Superior Court in divorce, non equitable civil cases involving not more than $30,000, and also may grant equitable relief in cases of unfair trade practices and in cases involving local land use violations. In practice, the District Court hears virtually all child abuse and neglect cases, termination of parental rights cases, protection from abuse cases, and cases involving local land use violations. The District Court is the small claims court (for cases involving not more than $1400) and the juvenile court. In addition, the court hears mental health, forcible entry and detainer, quiet title and foreclosure cases. It is the only court available for the enforcement of money judgments.

There are 23 judges in the District Court; the chief judge, who is designated by the chief justice of the Supreme Judicial Court, 8 judges-at-large who serve throughout the state, and 15 resident judges (including the chief judge) who sit principally within the districts where they live. The judges are appointed by the governor for seven-year terms, with the consent of the Legislature. On assignment by the chief justice of the Supreme Judicial Court, District Court judges may also sit in the Superior Court.

Upon retirement, a District Court judge may be appointed an active retired judge by the governor for a seven-year term, with the consent of the Legislature. On assignment by the chief judge, an active retired judge has the same authority as an active judge. As of the end of 1986, there were five active retired judges of the District Court.

Administrative Court

The Administrative Court was created by the Legislature in 1973 and became a part of the Judicial Department in 1978. Prior thereto, the Administrative Court had jurisdiction over suspension and revocation of licenses by a specific list of executive agencies. Effective July 1, 1978, the Legislature substantially expanded the jurisdiction of the Administrative Court. Other than in emergency situations, the Administrative Court was granted exclusive jurisdiction upon complaint of an agency or, if the licensing agency fails or refuses to act within a reasonable time, upon complaint of the Attorney General, to revoke or suspend licenses issued by the agency, and original jurisdiction upon complaint of a licensing agency to determine whether renewal or issuance of a license of that agency may be refused. Effective in 1983, the Administrative Court also has exclusive jurisdiction to hear appeals from disciplinary decisions of the Real Estate Commission.

There are two judges of the Administrative Court; the Administrative Court judge and the Associate Administrative Court judge. The judges must be lawyers and are appointed by the governor for seven-year terms, with the consent of the Legislature. On assignment by the chief justice of the Supreme Judicial Court, Administrative Court judges regularly sit in the District Court and in the Superior Court, almost exclusively in Portland.

STATE COURT CASELOAD SUMMARY

Caseloads throughout Maine's state court system have undergone significant changes during the past several years. There are characteristic differences in 1986 court caseload compared to that of the 1970's, but these changes are difficult to quantify. For instance, statistics cannot demonstrate the degree to which civil litigation has become increasingly complex, and it is often impossible to document the actual impact of new legislation each year. Nonetheless, the statistics summarized on the following page and detailed in the appendices to this report should provide one with a basic understanding of state court caseload.

In the Law Court, the state's highest appellate court, incoming filings remained virtually stable in 1986 compared to last year. There were a total of 520 cases filed and 501 cases disposed of. In cases for which opinions were written, the average time from notice of appeal to final disposition by the Law Court was 8.6 months. The court wrote 139 opinions in criminal cases and 181 opinions in civil cases. 1986 saw a dramatic speed-up in the justices' work; only 57.5 days were required for a case to proceed from oral argument to disposition, a significant decrease from the 87.9 day average in 1985.

The Superior Court is the state's court of general jurisdiction. There were 17,716 cases filed in 1986, of which 30% were civil cases. Statewide, 1986 is the fifth consecutive year in which civil dispositions exceeded civil filings, resulting in the lowest level of pending caseload in recent history. As of the end of 1986, the average civil case had required 529 days to reach disposition, a reduction from the 562 day average the previous year. Of the 5,974 dispositions during 1986, over one-half were dismissed upon agreement of the parties (Rule 41(a)). The 221 civil jury trials accounted for 3.7% of all dispositions. It took an average of 2.4 years for a civil case to reach jury trial during 1986, a marked reduction from the 2.8 years required last year.

The number of criminal filings in the Superior Court rose to an all-time high of 11,094 in 1986, a 5% increase over the record previously set in 1985. Although dispositions rose by over 12%, the 10,586 dispositions still fell short of incoming filings, resulting in a pending caseload of over 7,100 cases. It should be noted, though, that 29% of all pending criminal cases are pending as a result of outstanding warrants of arrest. About one-half of all criminal case filings were transfers from the District Court involving Class D and Class E proceedings. Cases involving murder, Class A, Class B and Class C crimes (formerly classified as felonies) constituted 31% of the state's criminal caseload. A total of 56% of all dispositions were convictions, while dismissals by either the court or the District Attorney accounted for 28%. Of the 6,089 convictions, 93% were by plea of guilty. The 472 criminal jury trials accounted for 4% of all criminal dispositions.

The state's major court of limited jurisdiction is the District Court. This court has witnessed large increase in caseload during the past year, reaching an all-time high of over 268,000 filings, an 8% increase over 1985. Civil violations and traffic infractions, the case category responsible for 46% of the Court's caseload, totaled 123,352--14% more than the number filed in 1985. Other types of cases rising to unprecedented levels in 1986 included family abuse, small claims and criminal cases.

The Administrative Court has jurisdiction over the suspension and revocation of administrative agency licenses. Almost all of this Court's caseload originates from the Bureau of Liquor Enforcement. In 1986, there were a total of 364 filings in the Administrative Court, a 31% increase over the level reported last year.

MAINE JUDICIAL COUNCIL

As set forth in 4 M.R.S.A. § 451, the purpose of the Judicial Council is to "make a continuous study of the organization, rules, and methods of procedures and practices of the judicial system of the State, the work accomplished, and the results produced by that system and its various parts."

The council consists of the following members: the chief justice of the Supreme Judicial Court (chairman, ex officio), the attorney general, the chief justice of the Superior Court, the chief judge of the District Court, the dean of the University of Maine Law School, an active or retired justice of the Supreme Judicial Court, one justice of the Superior Court, one judge of the District Court, one judge of a Probate Court, one clerk of courts, two lawyers, and six laypersons, the latter to be appointed by the governor for such periods not exceeding four years, as he may determine. The executive secretary, by contract, provides all executive services to the council.

The full council met on four occasions during 1986. It continued to press for probate reform during the legislative session, sponsoring its own measure, L.D. 1250, and working with the sponsors of L.D. 2402, a bill that resulted from the work of the Family Matters in Court Commission. Unfortunately, neither bill was enacted. Later in the year, the Council voted to again recommend probate reform to the Legislature.

During 1986, the Council was involved with or monitoring proposals to relocate the Supreme Judicial Court to Augusta, to commemorate the bicentennial of the United States Constitution, and to study the compensation of court-appointed counsel by the Maine State Bar Association's Commission on Court Appointments. In addition, a Council committee prepared a final draft of a Citizen's Guide to the Maine Courts and was seeking funding for its publication at year's end. The Council also continued to work for legislative enactment of a bill to strengthen the state's powers to collect overdue fines.

COURT ADMINISTRATION

The administrative structure of the Maine Judicial Department is similar to that of a corporation. The Supreme Judicial Court serves as the Department's "board of directors" and by statute has general administrative and supervisory authority over the Department. This authority is exercised by promulgating rules, issuing administrative orders, establishing policies and procedures, and generally advising the chief justice. The chief justice is designated as head of the Judicial Department and is assisted by the state court administrator. Each of the four operating courts has a single administrative head, responsible to the chief justice, who also heads the Law Court. The chief justice in the Superior Court and the chief judge in the District Court are each assisted by two court administrators. All three chiefs, together with the state court administrator, the trial court administrators, and some members of the Administrative Office of the Courts, meet at least every other month to address administrative and policy issues, although each court's chief meets with his respective administrators on a more frequent basis.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT MANAGEMENT STRUCTURE

ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICE OF THE COURTS

The Administrative Office of the Courts was created in 1975. The office is directed by the state court administrator who is appointed by and serves at the pleasure of the chief justice. The Administrative Office staff is appointed by the state court administrator with the approval of the chief justice, and includes the following positions:

FISCAL CONSTRAINTS

The Judicial Department entered calendar year 1986 facing the prospect of a severe funding shortfall before the end of that fiscal year. Pending legislative approval of supplemental funds. the Department, at the direction of the Supreme Judicial Court, took drastic measures to limit expenses. Effective February 1, 1986, the so-called "Cut-Back Management" project affected all levels of court operations. Specifically, court mediations were suspended (with certain limited exceptions); Superior Court clerks were asked to limit their call of prospective jurors; part-time and overtime hours were limited, and the hiring of temporary employees was prohibited; out-of-state travel was eliminated, as were all evening meal expenses and expenses for judicial and non-judicial education; in-state travel was curtailed; leases on court facilities were frozen; computerized legal research was discontinued; use of consultants was prohibited; equipment purchases were frozen; and publication of the "Court Crier" newsletter was discontinued and other printing curtailed. These measures remained in effect for the first several months of 1986. In late spring, the Legislature approved a bill for some supplemental funding and the Supreme Judicial Court reinstated some activities such as funding for mediations, but some of its previously-imposed constraints such as publication of the "Court Crier" remained eliminated for the balance of the calendar year.

COURT FACILITIES

Trial Court Facilities

During 1986, District Court regional court administrators and administrators of the Superior Court continued to work with local developers, county commissioners and municipal officials to facilitate necessary improvements and to promote barrier free access in all trial court locations.

In Bath, construction continued on an annex to the Sagadahoc County Courthouse. The $1.25 million project includes complete renovation of the Superior Court courtroom and new facilities for jurors, the clerk of courts, conference and public waiting areas and other related trial court functions. The project also includes renovations to the existing courthouse and new facilities for the sheriff and other county offices.

Programming and architectural planning continued for the Cumberland County Courthouse Annex and related parking facility in Portland, in accordance with Cumberland County voters' approval of a countywide referendum in November 1985 authorizing the construction of a $4 million court annex and $2.6 million parking facility. Construction of an addition to the Belfast District Court bagan during 1986, pursuant to Waldo County voter approval of the $485,000 referendum in 1985.

New District Court facilities were leased in Madawaska, Fort Kent and Farmington during 1986. In Fort Kent, the court relocated to new space in a privately developed governmental center in October 1986, while the District Court in Madawaska moved to newly developed space in November 1986. In Farmington, planning was completed and construction commenced for new court facilities in a new state governmental center to be occupied in early 1987.

Handicapped Access

Significant progress was made in 1986 to insure trial court accessibility and usability for physically handicapped persons. An extension of the January 5, 1985 Consent Decree and Order was granted by the United States District Court for the District of Maine, altering the initial August 31, 1986 accessibility deadline for selected court locations. The Order effectively extended mandated accessibility until January 1, 1988 for the District Courts in Bridgton, Portland, Presque Isle and Machias; the Kennebec County Superior Court and the Piscataquis County Superior Court; and August 1, 1987 for all other District and Superior Court locations.

JUDICIAL EDUCATION

The Ninth Maine Judicial Conference was held in Augusta on November 7, 1986. Because of fiscal constraints, the conference was limited to one day and involved judges only. Three judges and justices attended the General Jurisdiction Course at the National Judicial College in 1986. The attendees were newly appointed jurists who, by custom and practice, have always attended this vital orientation program.

NON-JUDICIAL EDUCATION

The annual clerks of court conference was cancelled in 1986 due to fiscal constraints. Approximately eight employees attended one-day programs on supervision, stress and related topics. Several employees availed themselves of job-related credit courses pursuant to the collective bargaining agreements.

JUDICIAL RESOURCES

Scheduling

In the District Court, resident judges serve in the district to which they are appointed by the governor, although occasionally they may assist in other districts in emergency instances. There are eight at-large judges who are scheduled by the deputy chief judge on a monthly basis. Seven District Court locations require the services of an at-large judge every month, leaving only one judge available to cover special assignments and vacancies due to illness, vacations, and educational conferences, and to assist courts experiencing particular backlog problems.

The chief justice of the Superior Court assigns Superior Court justices to serve throughout the state, although justices serve primarily in a few courts close to their homes for most of the year. On a monthly or bi-monthly basis, the court administrators, in coordination with justices, clerks and attorneys, prepare schedules detailing the daily work of justices and court reporters, for approval by the chief justice.

Use of Active Retired Justices and Judges

Upon retirement, any justice of the Supreme Judicial Court or Superior Court, or any judge of the District Court, may be appointed by the governor to active retired status. These members of the judiciary render invaluable service by their availability to serve throughout the state assisting overburdened courts. During 1986, three active retired Supreme Judicial Court justices, two active retired Superior Court justices, and five active retired District Court judges served a total of 840 days, equivalent to the work of 3.5 full-time judges.

COURT APPOINTED SPECIAL ADVOCATE PROGRAM (CASA)

The CASA program was established in 1985 to address the needs of abused and neglect children by using trained volunteers to represent these children. These volunteers, who are paid only for their travel and expenses, largely replace state-paid attorneys who had routinely served as guardians ad litem to the children prior to the program's development. During 1986, legislation was enacted to establish CASA as a regular part of the Judicial Department structure. By the end of 1986, the program had been operational in Rockland, Wiscasset and Lewiston for 12 months and in Portland and Brunswick for six months. Of the 193 child protection cases filed in these District Court locations during 1986, a total of 110 cases were assigned to CASA volunteers.

COURT AUTOMATION

After the Rockland District Court served as the pilot site in Maine for the introduction of computerized case management in 1985, significant progress continued during 1986 to computerize the District Court at other locations. By the end of 1986, criminal case processing in the District Courts located in Biddeford, Portland and Bangor was fully automated. Two new versions of software were written to enhance the programs previously installed in the Rockland District Court. The Technology Task Force, chaired by the Deputy Chief Judge of the District Court, met regularly throughout the year to review progress and set priorities. Plans for 1987 include continued computerization of additional District Court locations and software development for Superior Court criminal processing.

Following a second evaluation of computer assisted legal research, use of leased Westlaw terminals was continued at three court locations, and updated Lexis software was made available to two District Court judges.

COUNTY LAW LIBRARIES

The enactment in 1981 of 4 M.R.S.A. §191 et seq increased public access to, and the financial accountability of, Maine's 18 county law libraries. The legislation provided for a system of law libraries within the state, under the supervision of a State Court Library Committee appointed by the chief justice of the Supreme Judicial Court and a professionally trained law librarian who is employed by the state court administrator. Each library is assigned to one of four tiers based on potential use, and collection guidelines and state stipends are established for each by the committee. Only one of the libraries has full time staff. One has a part-time librarian; five are served by clerks of court's offices; three by law clerks to Supreme Judicial or Superior Court justices, and six by members of the bar. One library is closed until construction work is completed and the other is served by the secretary to an active retired justice of the Supreme Judicial Court.

During 1986, the state court library supervisor made 41 visits to various libraries; met with representatives of five county bar associations, primarily about space concerns; attended staff and administrative meetings to coordinate activities with court administrators' offices; and carried out additional duties assigned by the committee, including a history of law library legislation and funding. Several new and/or revised publications on Maine practice were purchased by the Judicial Department and distributed to all county law libraries, in addition to the Maine Reporter. A major role of the supervisor continued to include service as a clearinghouse for information on both legal materials and library management.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT WORK ON STATE COMMISSIONS

The Judicial Department devoted much staff time to serving on and providing information to various state commissions and committees during 1986. They included: the Legislature's Appropriations Subcommittee Studying the Relationship Between the Judicial, Executive and Legislative Branches of Maine Government; the Supreme Judicial Court Relocation Commission; the Maine State Bar Association Commission on Court Appointments; the Judicial Council's Committee on Collection of Fines; the Asbestos Management Task Force; the Committee to Study Computerizing Criminal History Records; the Legislature's Committee to Study the Processing of Traffic Fines; and the Maine OUI Committee.

Legislature's Appropriations Subcommittee Studying the Relationship Between the Judicial. Executive and Legislative Branches of Maine Government.

During the spring of 1986, the Legislature enacted legislation to create a subcommittee of the Appropriations Committee to "conduct a study of the relationship between the judicial, executive and legislative branches of government with respect to financial and administrative practices and procedures." The chief justice of the Supreme Judicial Court and other representatives of the Judicial Department worked closely with this committee, and Administrative Office of the Courts' staff devoted many months to responding to the sub-committee's requests for information. The end result was a constructive report issued in December 1986, including several requests for additional information and recommendations for new legislation to reduce Judicial Department expenditures by transferring responsibility for some expenses to other state agencies.

Supreme Judicial Court Relocation Commission

During 1986, the Supreme Judicial Court Relocation Commission, a legislative study commission, held a series of hearings concerning the feasibility of constructing a Supreme Judicial Court building in Augusta. By the end of 1986, its final report was virtually complete. It recommended that the Supreme Judicial Court, the chief justice of the Superior Court, the chief judge of the District Court and the Administrative Office of the Courts be relocated to the City of Augusta, and included draft legislation for consideration by the 113th Legislature during the First Regular Session.

LEGISLATIVE HIGHLIGHTS

During the 1986 legislative session, the Judicial Department Legislative Committee met regularly and continued to monitor legislation affecting the courts. Throughout the session, Administrative Office of the Courts' staff reviewed all proposed legislation and prepared fiscal and programmatic impact statements. The following listing portrays the legislation enacted in 1986 significantly impacting the Judicial Department.

LAW COURT CASELOAD STATISTICS

This table presents Law Court caseload information, including filings, dispositions and pending caseload since 1976. The "end pending" category includes four distinct sub-groups: cases not yet at issue (awaiting completion of the record on appeal or completion of briefing); cases at issue awaiting oral argument (cases fully briefed as of the end of the previous year); cases orally argued awaiting opinion; and cases remanded to the Superior Court prior to oral argument for correction of procedural defects. The comparison of filings and dispositions on this table indicates the degree to which dispositions have risen to meet the demand of incoming filings. Although filings increased by 133% from 1976 to 1986, the number of cases disposed of rose by 160%. Written opinions during 1986 totalled 320, the majority of which involved civil cases.

This table details the type and outcome of Law Court dispositions during 1986. Several categories require some explanation. "Other Administrative Proceedings" are cases seeking review of action (or refusal to act) by agencies of the Executive Department governed by the Maine Administrative Procedure Act and M.R.Civ.P.80C, or by agencies of local government such as planning boards pursuant to M.R.Civ.P.80B. Since the creation of the Appellate Division of the Workers Compensation Division in September 1981, most workers compensation cases are now disposed of by denial of petition for appellate review and do not involve full briefing, argument and opinion. "Discretionary Appeals" are requests for certificates of probable cause in post-conviction review (15 M.R.S.A. §2131) and review of extradition (15 M.R.S.A. §210-A) cases. "Change in Results" means a reversal, vacation, or substantive modification of the trial court's judgment.

TABLE LC-3

The average time required from notice of appeal to disposition for cases in which written opinions were issued is presented for 1981 - 1986 on Table LC-3. Since most non-opinion disposition cases do not complete all of the steps of an opinion disposition, the inclusion of these cases in this table would skew the results, particularly in the early stages. The four sections correspond to (a) work done primarily by trial court clerks and court reporters; (b) work done by the parties' attorneys; (c) pre-argument study by justices and law clerks and scheduling lag; and (d) the actual decision making process and preparation of the opinion. The fifth section traces the cases through the entire Law Court process, from notice of appeal to final disposition. 1986 saw a dramatic speed-up in the justices' work; only 57.5 days were required for a case to proceed from oral argument to disposition, a marked decrease from the 87.9 day average in 1985.

TABLE LC-4

More complete timeframe data for only 1986 are included on this table, detailing the actual number of cases during each stage of case processing.

TABLE LC-5

This table presents the Appellate Division's caseload statistics for the past seven years, itemizing filings, dispositions and pending caseload.

- (a) Includes new appeals, interlocutory appeals, and reports.
- (b) As of September 1, 1980, M.R.Civ.P. 73(f) was amended to provide for docketing of civil appeals in the Law Court promptly upon the filing of the notice of appeal in the Superior Court. Under the amended rule, a total of 61 civil appeals were docketed in 1980 that would not have been docketed in that year under the former rule.
- (c) It appears that a tabulation error in the past year is responsible for the discrepancy in the number of cases pending at the end of 1981 versus the beginning of 1982.

SUPERIOR COURT CASELOAD STATISTICS

The data tables contained in this section are organized into four segments, detailing the composition and flow of Superior Court caseload for the past seven years. These data are derived from the Superior Court Statistical Reporting System established in 1977. Statistical sheets for each case are prepared manually by Superior Court clerks; these sheets are subsequently entered for computerized editing and updating on a monthly basis. Numerous reporting programs provide caseload information for management purposes throughout the year and serve as the source of the data presented in this Annual Report. Definitions of types of cases and dispositions for civil and criminal cases appear on pages 103 and 150 respectively.

In order to determine trends over a period of time, many tables in this 1986 report include information for the years 1980 through 1986. As a result of periodic auditing, however, some of these figures may not match those which appeared in previous Annual Report publications, although the variations in most instances are minimal. All figures are presented by calendar year.

It should also be noted that all figures reflecting filings also include refilings. Refilings are cases which were previously disposed, but have returned to the Superior Court for substantial further action. The specific circumstances under which a civil or criminal action is considered a refiling appear on pages 103 and 150 respectively. Refilings constitute from one to two percent of the total caseload.

Summary

Table SC-1 presents a one-page summary of total Superior Court caseload. Table SC-2 traces the flow of all cases in each of the 16 Superior Court locations since 1980. In 1986, total pending caseload remained stable due to the rising backlog of URESA and criminal cases counteracted by civil pending caseload decreases. As Table SC-3 demonstrates, criminal cases account for almost 63% of the Superior Court's caseload, with civil and URESA cases comprising 30% and 7% respectively.

Civil Caseload

Graph SC-4 through Table SC-15 provide detailed information concerning the Superior Court's civil caseload. Statewide, 1986 is the fifth consecutive year in which civil dispositions exceeded civil fillings, resulting in the lowest level of pending caseload in recent history. Of the 5,974 dispositions during 1986, over one-half were dismissed upon agreement of the parties (Rule 41(a)). The 221 civil jury trials accounted for 3.7% of all dispositions.

Table SC-12 presents timeframe data for the civil pending caseload. As of the end of 1986, the average civil case had been pending for an average of over 17 months, and almost 25% of all pending civil cases were over two years old.

The average time required for a case to reach jury trial is presented on Table SC-13. It took an average of 2.4 years for a civil case to reach jury trial during 1986. It should be noted, however, that the average number of days from filing to pre-trial memorandum, a period over which the courts have little control, alone consumed over one year (see Table SC-15). Table SC-14 summarizes the average number of days required from filing to disposition for civil cases during the last seven years. The statewide average is now 529 days, a marked decrease over last year. When reviewing this table for individual courts, the detailed 1986 figures on Table SC-15 should also be consulted, since smaller courts may have had few cases from which to calculate an average.

Five key timeframes are measured on Table SC-15:

Filing to Pre-trial Memorandum

Pre-trial Memorandum to Pre-trial Conference

Pre-trial Conference to Jury Trial

Pre-trial Conference to Non-Jury Trial

Filing to Disposition

Although the first two timeframes occur prior to final disposition, these measures cannot be calculated until the information is entered into the computer at the time the case is actually disposed. Also, the data do not take into account the newly instituted statewide civil caseflow expedition project whereby cases proceed to trial without pre-trial memoranda or conferences.

The first timeframe is largely a measure of the time required for attorneys to file a pre-trial memorandum after a case has been filed in the Superior Court. About 37% of the cases required over a year from filing to pre-trial memorandum, with a statewide average of 373 days. The measure from pre-trial memorandum to pre-trial conference reflects the time required to reach conference after the request has been submitted; statewide, this averages 191 days. The next two timeframes, conference to jury trial and conference to non-jury trial are significant in that they indicate how quickly the court is able to accommodate the demand for trials. However, it should be noted that courts may employ different scheduling policies which may impact these calculations; for instance, some courts may deliberately not schedule pre-trial conferences until the court's ability to schedule a trial is imminent. Nonetheless, the cases disposed during 1986 took an average of 430 to reach jury trial from pre-trial conference, while non-jury trials were held within 331 days. The last timeframe traces the total time required for civil cases to move from filing to disposition, and reflects the total number of cases disposed during 1986. Of the 5,974 cases disposed, 27% took in excess of two years to reach disposition.

In late 1984, the Supreme Judicial Court issued an administrative order establishing the civil caseflow expedition project in Aroostook, Cumberland, Kennebec and Oxford Counties on a pilot basis, upon the recommendation of the Advisory Committee on Rules of Civil Procedure. The project involves the use of an expedited pretrial list with fixed discovery deadlines and no pretrial memoranda or conference. A Superior Court justice periodically reviews all incoming cases and determines which cases are not complex and can be placed on the expedited trial list. In January 1986, the project was expanded to every Superior Court location. The operation of this project affects the timeframe figures presented in this report, but specific data are not available.

URESA (Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act) Caseload

The Superior Court's URESA caseload is presented on Table SC-16 through SC-19. The number of URESA filings in 1986 represents a 33% decrease from the 1980 level. Since the number of dispositions did not meet the number of incoming filings, the pending caseload increased by 9.4% over last year.

Criminal Caseload

Criminal caseload in the Superior Court may be counted by either docket number or defendant number. When counted by docket number, the actual number of cases assigned a docket number is reflected. Some courts report multiple-defendant cases more frequently than others, due to differing District Attorney practices, resulting in docket numbers which contain more than one defendant. From a statewide perspective, the issue is not particularly significant, since caseload measured by number of defendants is only a few percent higher than when calculated by docket number. (See Table SC-27). In this report, the core analysis of filings, dispositions and pending caseloads are counted by docket number, as are the types of cases, such as appeals, transfers, indictments, etc. However, classes of charges are counted by defendant, as are types of dispositions and trials. The latter two items are counted by defendant because of the likelihood for the multiple defendants included in a single docket number to be tried and/or disposed in different manners.

Graph SC-20 through Table SC-36 depict the criminal caseload statewide. The number of criminal filings has risen by 5% since last year, reaching the highest level ever reported in the Superior Court. Dispositions totaled 10,586, a 12% increase, but they still fell short of the 11,094 cases filed. As a result, pending caseload reached an all-time high of 7,106 cases. About one-half of all criminal case filings were transfers from the District Court involving Class D and Class E proceedings. Cases involving murder, Class A, Class B and Class C crimes (generally considered to be felonies) constituted 31% of the state's criminal caseload.

Boundovers from the District Court create a difficult situation with regard to the counting of cases for statistical purposes. When a boundover is filed in the Superior Court, it statistically remains a "boundover" type of case even if an indictment results. (See Table SC-25) When a boundover results in an information being filed, however, the District Attorney dismisses the boundover, and a new docket number is assigned for the information. Under such circumstances, the case is actually being counted twice, and the number of District Attorney dismissals is slightly inflated.

Table SC-28 was prepared in order to document the effect of outstanding warrants of arrest upon criminal pending caseload. In general, the assumption has been made that pending caseload serves as an indication of a court's ability or inability to efficiently dispose of cases in relationship to incoming workload. In reality, cases may be pending in the Superior Court that cannot be processed because a warrant issued for the defendant is not or cannot be served. Thus, it may be unfair to hold the courts solely responsible for increases in pending caseload which in fact may be beyond their control. Certainly the effect of outstanding warrants upon pending caseload varies considerably throughout the state. Statewide, 28.9% of all criminal pending caseload appears to be a result of outstanding warrants.

Case disposition data on Tables SC-29 and SC-30 reveal that defendants were convicted in 56% of all cases, while dismissals by either the court or the District Attorney accounted for 28% of all dispositions. Of the 6,089 convictions, 93% were by plea of guilty. There were 472 criminal jury trials during 1986 which represents about 4% of all criminal case dispositions. (See Table SC-31).

Table SC-34 portrays the average time required for indictments and transfers to reach a jury trial. Indictments took an average of 6.8 months to reach a jury trial while transfers reached jury trial in about 7 months. Table SC-35 includes the average time required to reach final disposition for indictments and transfers. These figures reflect all cases reaching disposition, including those which may have been quickly terminated via dismissal, so the average time is less than for the previous table where all cases culminated in jury trial. When reviewing averages for individual courts, Table SC-36 which refers to the actual numbers of cases should also be consulted, since smaller courts may have had few cases from which to calculate an average.

^{*-}Includes cases filed and refiled.

⁻Prior to 1984, there were some discrepancies in calculating the number of jury trial days which may have affected the accuracy of these figures. The problem occurred when cases scheduled for trial underwent multiple voir dire (the justice conducted voir dire for several cases on one day, instead of limiting it to the one case facing imminent trial). Since the clerks were instructed to calculate trial days by rounding to the nearest .5 day, each of four cases voir dired on one day, for example, would have .5 days added to their total trial time, resulting in a total of 2 trial days being reported for only I day of trial activity.

^{*-}Includes cases filed and refiled.

⁻Cases counted by docket number.

⁻Types of cases are described on Page 150 of this report.

⁻Boundovers from the District Court create a difficult situation with regard to the counting of cases for statistical purposes. When a boundover is filed in the Superior Court, it remains a "boundover" type of case even if an indictment results. In 1986, there were actually an additional 117 indictment case dispositions to the 10,586 recorded above. (Refer to Table SC-25 for detail by each court). When a boundover results in an information being filed, the boundover is dismissed and a new docket number is assigned for the information. Under such circumstances, the case is actually being counted twice but it is not believed that this creates a serious statistical problem.

⁻Bot overs from the District Court create a difficult situation with regard to the counting of cases for sudistical purposes. When a boundover is filed in the Superior Court, it remains a "boundover" type of case even if an indictment results. In 1986, there were actually an additional 117 indictment case dispositions to the 2821 on Table SC-24. When a boundover results in an information being filed, the boundover is dismissed and a new docket number is assigned for the information. Under such circumstances the case is actually being counted twice but it is not believed that this creates a serious statistical problem.

DISTRICT COURT CASELOAD STATISTICS

The District Court Statistical Reporting System was established in July 1978 to collect information concerning filings, dispositions and various caseload activities by type of case, although the reporting of gross filings and dispositions began in fiscal year 1975. Beginning in 1982, only those statistics relating to filings, dispositions and waivers have been collected. Monthly statistical forms are manually completed by each District Court clerk and submitted to the Administrative Office of the Courts for manual compilation and analysis on a quarterly and annual basis. Some discrepancies have arisen during the past several years, primarily due to the enormous volume of cases being manually tallied. While the statistics may be less than 100% accurate, they do nevertheless indicate gross trends since 1980.

It should be noted that much judge and clerk activity occurs after judgment is entered and the case is reported as disposed which is not reflected in these figures. For instance, many divorce cases may require the processing and hearing of numerous motions which are not reported in the caseload statistics. Similarly, when judgment is entered in a small claims case, a disclosure (money judgment) is often filed, requiring a separate filing fee and considerable judge and clerk time. Since the disclosure is filed under the original small claims case docket number, it is never included as a distinct case in the caseload statistics. Consequently, actual judge and clerk workload is considerably higher than may be indicated simply from the statistical figures. As District Court operations become computerized in the next year, the collection of more detailed caseload statistics will be facilitated.

The following tables present statistics relating to District Court filings and dispositions for eleven case type categories, waivers and electronic recordings. Footnotes for these tables appear on page 177 of this report. Case type definitions appear on page 178. For the first time, this report includes a table detailing child protective caseload (Table DC-6).

Two tables may need clarification. Table DC-3 (Filings, Excluding "Civil Violations and Traffic Infractions") was prepared because civil violations and traffic infractions constitute such a significant portion of the District Court's caseload and generally require less than average judge-time and cierk time than other types of cases. The "waivers" detailed in Table DC-7 are disposed cases in which the defendant waives court appearance in favor of paying a fine. The bulk of these waivers are for civil violations and traffic infraction cases, but some sea and shore, and fish and game waivers are also included.

STATISTICAL ANALYSIS

During 1986, there were more cases filed in the District Court than in any previous year. The 268,355 filings amounted to a 8% increase over 1985 levels. The courts located at Bridgton, Machias, Portland and Van Buren experienced increases greater than 20%.

The case type entitled "civil violations and traffic infractions" accounts for the largest single type of case handled by the District Court. In 1986, there were 123,352 such filings, a 14% increase over 1985 and the highest level ever reported. Also, the number of waivers reached an all-time high of 109,524.

ADMINISTRATIVE COURT CASELOAD STATISTICS

Table AC-1 portrays Administrative Court caseload since 1980, indicating a 31% rise in filings since 1980. The vast majority of this court's caseload originates from the Bureau of Liquor Enforcement.

Table AC-2 indicates the considerable amount of time contributed by Administrative Court judges and staff to the hearing of cases for the Superior Court and District Court. During 1986, the judges spent at least three weeks each month handling such cases. Secretaries spent 171 hours recording District Court cases and acted as courtroom clerk when the judge heard Superior Court cases.

APPENDIX V

COURT MEDIATION SERVICE CASELOAD STATISTICS

COUPT MEDIATION SERVICE CASELOAD STATISTICS

The Court Mediation Service provides a supplementary method of dispute resolution in domestic relations, small claims and other types of cases in the District Court and the Superior Court. From 1977 to July 1984, participation in mediation was voluntary in domestic relations cases. In July 1984, new legislation was enacted requiring mandatory mediation of contested divorce cases in which minor children are involved, thereby drastically increasing the number of domestic case mediations.

Pursuant to 4 MRSA §18, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court established the Court Mediation Committee to set policy for and monitor the Court Mediation Service, and the Court Mediators' Selection Committee to assume responsibility for the selection, training and evaluation of mediators. The Director of the Court Mediation Service is Lincoln H. Clark and Jane Orbeton is Deputy Director; both are appointed from among the mediators. Associate Administrative Court Judge Dana A. Cleaves serves as judicial liaison to the Service. In order to simplify administration, the mediators are divided into seven regions, each headed by a mediator serving as regional coordinator. Court mediators are independent contractors, receiving per diem fees and travel expenses. Mediations held during 1986 were conducted by 58 mediators. During the year eight new mediators were added and 11 mediators left service. The District Court is responsible for providing necessary clerical assistance for the Court Mediation Service office and arranges for appropriate facilities in which to hold mediations.

A total of 3,920 mediation sessions were held during 1986, of which 2,899 were for domestic relations cases and 1,021 were for small claims and other types of civil cases, representing a 35% decline since 1985. This decline may be due to several factors: (1) the suspension of mediation from February 1, 1986 until April 22, 1986, due to shortage of funds; (2) the Legislature's enactment of a special mediation fee of $60 beginning in April 1986; (3) a decline in the number of divorce filings; (4) an increase in mediator efficiency; and (5) an increase in settlements by attorney negotiations.

Beginning in 1986, data are also available on the number of cases mediated. There were 3,412 cases mediated, of which 2,416 were domestic relations and 996 were non-domestic. The ratio is 1.2 sessions per domestic relations case and 1.0 for non-domestic cases. The disposition of the 3,412 cases in 1986 was as follows:

Referred to Trial	27%
Resolved to Mediator	45%
Continued to Another Future Session	13%
Other	15%

Table CM-1 compares the total number of mediation sessions in District Court and Superior Court for 1983 through 1986. Domestic case mediations drastically increased by 431% from 1983 to 1984, and again by 165% from 1984 to 1985, but decreased by 41% from 1985 to 1986.

Unlike previous Annual Reports, which only detailed mediation sessions by court location, this year's report provides detail on the number of cases mediated. Table CM-2 details the number of cases mediated held in each District Court location and the type of disposition for each case, while Table CM-3 provides identical information for the Superior Court locations.

NOTES: "Other" includes sessions continued, not held, not further scheduled and other. Cases "not further scheduled" are those in which virtually all major issues are resolved and the case before the judge will likely be uncontested, but a minor issue such as attorney fees may be outstanding.

The decrease in the percentage of resolved mediations in 1985 compared to previous years is a result of a refinement made to the mediator's reporting forms.

NOTES:

[&]quot;Not Further Scheduled": cases in which virtually all major issues are resolved and the case before the judge will likely be uncontested, but a minor issue such as attorney fees may be outstanding.

[&]quot;Not Held": one of the parties or the attorneys did not appear and failed to inform the mediator; the mediator is still paid and the case is either rescheduled or cancelled if a settlement has been reached.
