TO THE HONORABLE CHIEF JUSTICE
AND JUSTICES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF NORTH DAKOTA:

TO THE HONORABLE MEMBERS OF THE
NORTH DAKOTA JUDICIAL CONFERENCE

Once again, I am pleased to submit to you the Annual Report of the North Dakota judicial system. This report highlights the activities of the North Dakota judicial system during calendar year 1986. It provides statistical information on our courts and reports on other developments and activities which are shaping our judicial system. It should prove valuable as a reference source for anyone wishing to learn about the operation of the judicial system in North Dakota.

I take this opportunity to publicly acknowledge the valuable assistance and cooperation extended to me by the judges and court personnel whose reports provided the information contained in the Annual Report. Particular thanks go to the staff of the State Court Administrator's Office for their diligent work in compiling the statistics and designing the format for this work.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM G. BOHN
State Court Administrator and Judicial Conference Executive Secretary

The Structure of the North Dakota Judicial System

Profile of the North Dakota Judicial System

Structure of the Court System

The original constitution of the State of North Dakota created a judicial system consisting of the supreme court, district courts, justice of the peace courts, and such municipal courts as provided by the legislature. This judicial structure remained intact until 1959 when the Legislature abolished the justice of peace courts in the state.

The adoption of a new judicial article to the state constitution in 1976 significantly modified the constitutional structure of the judicial system. The new judicial article vested the judicial powers of the state in a unified judicial system consisting of a supreme court, district courts, and such other courts as provided by law. Thus, under the new judicial article, only the supreme court and the district courts have retained their status as constitutional courts. All other courts in the state are statutory courts.

In 1981 the Legislature further altered the structure of the judicial system by enacting legislation which replaced the multi-level county court structure with a uniform system of county courts throughout the state. This new county court structure became effective on January 1, 1983.

With the new county court system in place, the judicial system of the state consists of the supreme court, district courts, county courts, and municipal courts.

Administrative Authority

In addition to these structural changes, the new judicial article clarified the administrative responsibilities of the supreme court by designating the Chief Justice as the administrative head of the judicial system and by granting the Chief Justice the authority to assign judges for temporary duty in any nonfederal court in the state. It also acknowledged the supreme court's rulemaking authority in such areas as court procedure and attorney supervision.

Selection and Removal of Judges

All judges in North Dakota are elected in nonpartisan elections. Justices of the supreme court are elected for ten-year terms; district court judges for six-year terms, and all other judges for four-year terms.

Vacancies in the supreme court and the district courts can be filled either by a special election called by the governor or by gubernatorial appointment. However, before a vacancy can be filled by gubernatorial appointment, the Judicial Nominating Committee must first submit a list of nominees to the governor from which the governor makes an appointment. Whether the vacancy is filled by a special election or by appointment, the person filling the judicial vacancy serves only until the next general election. The person elected to the office at the general election serves for the remainder of the unexpired term.

Vacancies in the various county courts are filled by the board of county commissioners of the county where the vacancy occurs or by a special election called by the board of county commissioners. If the county commissioners choose to fill the vacancy by appointment, they must select from a list of nominees submitted by the Judicial Nominating Committee.

If a vacancy occurs in a municipal court, it is filled by the executive officer of the municipality with the consent of the governing body of the municipality.

Under the North Dakota Constitution only supreme court justices and district court judges can be removed from office by impeachment. All judges, however, are subject to removal, censure, suspension, retirement or other disciplinary action for misconduct by the supreme court upon the recommendation of the Judicial Conduct Commission. Other methods for the retirement, removal and discipline of judges can be established by the legislature.

Supreme Court of North Dakota

The North Dakota Supreme Court has five justices. Each justice is elected for a ten-year term in a nonpartisan election. The terms of the justices are staggered so that only one judgeship is scheduled for election every two years. Each justice must be a licensed attorney and a citizen of the United States and North Dakota.

One member of the supreme court is selected as chief justice by the justices of the supreme court and the district court judges. The chief justice's term is for five years or until the justice's elected term on the court expires. The chief justice's duties include presiding over supreme court conferences, representing the judiciary at official state functions, and serving as the administrative head of the judicial system.

The North Dakota Supreme Court is the highest court for the State of North Dakota. It has two major types of responsibilities: (1) adjudicative and (2) administrative.

In its adjudicative capacity, the supreme court is primarily an appellate court with jurisdiction to hear appeals from decisions of the district courts and the county courts. All appeals from these courts must be accepted for review by the court. In addition, the court also has original jurisdiction authority and can issue such original and remedial writs as are necessary to exercise this authority.

The state constitution requires that a quorum, composed of a majority of the justices, is necessary before the court can conduct its judicial business. It also stipulates that the court cannot declare a legislative enactment unconstitutional unless four of the justices so decide. When the court decides an appeal, it is required to issue a written opinion stating the rationale for its decision. Any justice disagreeing with the majority decision may issue a dissenting opinion which explains the reasons for the disagreement with the majority.

In its administrative capacity, the supreme court has major responsibilities for ensuring the efficient and effective operation of all nonfederal courts in the state, maintaining high standards of judicial conduct, supervising the legal profession, and promulgating procedural rules which allow for the orderly and efficient transaction of judicial business. Within each area of administrative responsibility, the court has general rulemaking authority.

The court carries out its administrative responsibilities with the assistance of various committees and boards. It exercises its authority to admit and license attorneys through the State Bar Board. Its supervision of legal ethics is exercised through the Disciplinary Board of the Supreme Court and its supervision of judicial conduct is exercised through the Judicial Conduct Commission. Continuing review and study of specific subject areas within its administrative jurisdiction is provided through four advisory committees—the Joint Procedure Committee, the Attorney Standards Committee, the Judiciary Standards Committee, and the Court Services Administration Committee. Other committees, such as the Judicial Planning Committee and the Judicial Training Committee also provide valuable assistance to the supreme court in important administrative areas.

Administrative personnel of the supreme court also play a vital role in helping the court fulfill its administrative functions. The clerk of the supreme court supervises the calendaring and assignment of cases, oversees the distribution and publication of supreme court opinions and administrative rules and orders, and decides certain procedural motions filed with the court. The state court administrator assists the court in the preparation of the judicial budget. The state court administrator prepares statistical reports on the workload of the state's courts, provides judicial educational services, and performs such other administrative duties that are assigned to him by the supreme court. The state law librarian supervises the operation of the state law library and serves as court bailiff when the court is in session.

Supreme Court Caseload for Calendar Year 1986

Luella Dunn, Clerk of the Supreme Court

The statistics for 1986 confirm an overwhelming increase in the overall workload of the Supreme Court. New filings in 1986 came in at an all-time high of 377 cases. The new cases plus those carried over from 1985 amounted to a crushing total of 577 cases in 1986. New filings were up by 11.5%. This year the highest increase was in criminal filings, an increase of 18.4%. Following the same pattern, the output for the year in the number of dispositions increased by 6.6% over last year. It is clear the Court will not be able to keep pace with this ever-increasing caseload.

During the year the Court disposed of 357 cases. Of these, 271 were civil cases and 86 were criminal. Of the 357 dispositions the Court affirmed the trial court in 110 civil cases and 40 criminal cases, affirmed in part 29 cases and dismissed 13 cases. Reversals including modifications and remands totalled 67 cases.

The average time required from hearing to decision of civil cases in 1986 increased from 68 days to 82 days. Disposition time in criminal cases decreased from 73 days in 1985 to 50 days in 1986. Disposition time is computed from the date of submission to the Court, that is, oral argument or waiver of argument until the date the opinion of the Court is rendered.

During 1986 the Court spent 71 days in Court hearing oral arguments in 256 cases. There were 331 administrative matters referred to the full Court. These included Motions for Writs of Habeas Corpus, Mandamus, Superintending Control, Applications for Release Pending Appeal or Applications for Stay of Execution of Judgment. These matters often require the immediate attention of the Court and are often crucial to the case. However, the caseload does not adequately reflect this important function of the Court.

The Chief Justice or Administrative Judge ruled on 166 administrative matters and the Clerk acting under authority granted by the Supreme Court ruled on 342 motions.

The Court held six hearings in 1986 on proposed amendments or on proposed new rules relating to Rules of Professional Conduct and Lawyer Discipline, Admission to Practice, Continuing Legal Education, Limited Practice of Law by Law Students and the IOLTA (Interest on Lawyers' Trust Accounts) Program.

The 1987 Legislature will decide whether a Temporary Intermediate Appellate Court will be authorized for the coming biennium. The intent of the proposed HB 1677 is that implementation of the temporary intermediate appellate court will not occur unless the Supreme Court has disposed of 250 cases by opinion in a twelve month period preceding September 1. The fiscal note attached to the bill is minimal since the Court will be staffed by district court judges and retired judges. If authorized, the intermediate appellate court will alleviate the workload of the Supreme Court considerably.

District Courts

There is a district court in each of the state's fifty-three counties. They have original and general jurisdiction in all cases except as otherwise provided by law. They have the authority to issue original and remedial writs. They have exclusive jurisdiction in criminal felony cases and have concurrent original jurisdiction with the county courts in all criminal misdemeanor cases.

The district courts also serve as the juvenile courts in the state. Under Chapter 27-20, NDCC, which enacted the Uniform Juvenile Court Act, the juvenile court has exclusive and original jurisdiction over any minor who is alleged to be unruly, delinquent, or deprived. This jurisdiction was expanded in 1981 when the Legislature adopted legislation granting the juvenile court jurisdiction over all cases where a female minor is seeking judicial authorization to obtain an abortion without parental consent. Unlike a majority of the other states, the responsibility of supervising and counseling juveniles who have been brought into juveniles court lies with the judicial branch of government in North Dakota. To meet these responsibilities, the presiding judge of each judicial district has the authority to appoint juvenile supervisors, probation officers, and other support personnel. The juvenile employees must perform their responsibilities independent of the judges who preside in juvenile court in order to preserve the judges impartiality. In addition to these personnel, the presiding judge may also appoint judicial referees in lieu of district court judges to preside over juvenile proceedings, judgment enforcement proceedings, and domestic relations proceedings other than contested divorces.

The district courts are also the appellate courts of first instance for appeals from the decisions of many administrative agencies. Acting in this appellate capacity, they do not conduct a retrial of the case. Their decisions are based on a review of the record of the administrative proceeding conducted by the administrative agency under review.

In 1979 the supreme court divided the state into seven judicial districts. In each judicial district there is a presiding judge who acts as the chief judicial administrator for the district. All presiding judges are appointed by the chief justice with the approval of the supreme court. The duties of the presiding judge, as established by the supreme court, include convening regular meetings of the judges within the judicial district to discuss issues of common concern, assigning cases among the judges of the district, and assigning judges within the judicial district in cases of demand for change of judge.

There are twenty-six district judges in the state. The South Central Judicial District and the Northwest Judicial District each have five judges, the East Central Judicial District has four judges, and each of the remaining four judicial districts has three district judges. All district court judges are required by the state constitution to be licensed North Dakota attorneys and citizens of the United States and North Dakota.

The office of district court judge is an elected position filled every six years in a nonpartisan election held in the district in which the judge will serve. If a vacancy occurs, the governor may either fill the vacancy by appointing a candidate from a list of nominees submitted by a Judicial Nominating Committee or by calling a special election to fill the vacancy. If the vacancy is filled by the nomination process, the appointed judge serves until the next general election, at which time the office is filled by election for the remainder of the term.

NORTH DAKOTA JUDICIAL DISTRICTS

District Court Caseload

The district court caseload continued to show the increase in filing that has been evident since 1980. There was a 6% increase in new filings, compared with a 3% increase in dispositions.

The three major components of the district court caseload have remained stable in comparison with previous years. The civil component continues to be the largest category of cases making up 84% of the district court filings. Criminal and juvenile filings each contribute 8% of the district court caseload. These percentages have been very similar since 1980.

There were increased filings in all districts resulting in an additional 40 cases filed per judge on a statewide average. The overall increase is generally reflective of the civil filing within each district.

The percentages of increases or decreases of criminal cases varies greatly from year to year. However, the small number of cases makes comparisons of percentages misleading. The South Central District showed the largest increase in criminal filings, 373 filings in 1986 up 53 filings from 1985. Meanwhile, the Northwest District showed an increase of 18 criminal filings, the Northeast Central Judicial District showed an increase of 39 filings, the East Central Judicial District showed an increase of 14 criminal filings, the Southeast Judicial District increased 32 filings. The remaining districts showed small decreases in criminal filings, the Northeast District showing a decrease of 22 filings and the Southwest District decreasing 16 filings.

The total number of dispositions increased by 524 cases (3.1%) in 1986. This raised the per judge average dispositions to 661 compared with 641 in 1985 and 615 cases in 1984.

Despite the increase in dispositions, the increased filings resulted in 8,049 cases pending at the end of 1986 compared with 7,235 cases pending at the end of 1985.

Civil Caseload

Civil filings increased by 5.9%, continuing a steady increase over the past several years. However, unlike previous years where civil filings increased in county and district court, in 1986 county court civil filings decreased by 9%.

Within the civil caseload, domestic relation cases made up 51% of all civil filings. As a category, the domestic relations filings increased 6% from 1985. Child support actions make up 47% of the domestic relation cases, divorce 36%, adoption and paternity 4% and 6% respectively, adult abuse 5% and custody less than 1%. Adult abuse filings increased from 236 in 1985 to 367 in 1986, a 38% increase. The adult abuse filings have increased from 156 in 1984, a 135% increase over the two year period.

Also of significance was a 12% increase in child support hearings and a 31% increase in paternity cases. Both increases can be partly attributed to increased emphasis in governmental efforts to insure the financial responsibility of non-custodial parents.

The number of contract and collection filings decreased slightly (about 1%). Additionally, the number of property related filings increased 19%, chiefly because foreclosure filings increased from 1,148 in 1985 to 1,317 in 1986, a 15% increase.

Nearly 500 more civil cases were disposed of 1986 compared with 1985. Of the cases disposed, 24% were by trial. Of the cases disposed by trial, 2% were jury trials and 98% were court trials.

Even though civil dispositions increased in 1985, they were out paced by increased civil filings resulting in a 9% increase of pending cases. Though the workload increased, the district courts continue to process civil cases in a timely manner. Standards adopted by the Supreme Court require that a civil case be disposed of within 24 months of filing and within 90 days of a concluded trial. Certain types of cases such as trust cases and support cases are exempted from these standards because of the continuing nature of the cases. The standard may be waived for a specific case by the presiding judge of the district or by the Chief Justice if a district judge demonstrates good cause for the waiver.

Only 4 percent of the pending civil cases were more than 24 months old at year end. This is the same percentage that has been evident over the last several years.

ND CIVIL CASELOAD COMPARISONS FOR
DISTRICT COURT FOR 1978 — 1986

Criminal Caseload

North Dakota traditionally ranks as one of the lowest crime areas in the nation, (49th in 1984) especially for violent crimes (50th for the last several years). This fact is reflected in the relatively small number of felony filings and in the types of felony charged.

Of all the criminal cases filed in district courts, 5% were felony A, 24% felony B, 67% felony C and 4% were infractions or other criminal filings. This proportion of cases has been relatively constant over the last several years.

In 1986 there was a 8.5% increase in criminal filings (116 cases). As can be seen from the chart below, the number of felony filings has been stable since 1980, with the exception of 1983 and 1986.

Statewide 41% of criminal cases were disposed of by trial. Jury trials accounted for 15% of the trials, or 47 cases. This compares with 45 jury trials in 1985.

As with civil cases, docket currency standards have been established for criminal cases. These standards require criminal cases to be decided within 120 days of the filing of the information or indictment in district court. The presiding judge of the district or the chief justice can waive these standards for specific cases if good cause is demonstrated. At the end of 1986 approximately 23 percent of the pending criminal cases failed to meet the 120 day standard set by the docket currency standards. By comparison, 32 percent of the criminal cases pending at the end of calendar year 1985 were older than 120 days.

The graph below shows the various trends since 1978 for criminal filings, dispositions, and pending cases.

CRIMINAL CASELOAD COMPARISON FOR DISTRICT COURT
FOR 1978 — 1986

Juvenile Caseload

As with the criminal caseload, the low violent crime rate in North Dakota is reflected in the juvenile court statistics. Offenses against persons made up only 2% of the juvenile court caseload. Meanwhile, status offenses (offenses which only a child can commit) made up 14% of the caseload, offenses against property 33%, traffic offenses 6%, deprivation 17%, and other filings 29%.

The method by which cases were disposed showed a continued increase in using informal supervision. In 1986, 55% of the cases were disposed of through informal adjustments, 28% were counseled and adjusted, and 17% were handled formally. This compares with 54% informal, 70% formal and 29% counseled and adjusted in 1985.

Overall, the juvenile court caseload increased by 10.7% continuing a trend of the last several years.

The table below compares the reasons for referral to juvenile court in 1985 and 1986. As in previous years, the illegal possession or purchase of alcoholic beverages continues to be the most common single reason for referral followed by misdemeanor thefts. Overall, the major reasons for referrals in 1986 have changed little from those recorded in 1985. Interestingly, the number of deprivation cases decreased slightly in 1985 despite the continued increase of reports of child abuse to the Department of Human Services.

Report of the Northwest Judicial District

The Honorable Wallace D. Berning, Presiding Judge
William Blore, Court Administrator

District Court Judges: Wallace D. Berning, Presiding Judge; Jon R. Kerian; Everett Nels Olson; William M. Beede; and Bert L. Wilson.

County Court Judges: Gary A. Holum; Gordon C. Thompson; Robert W. Holte; and William W. McLees, Jr.

Number of Counties in District: 6

District Court Chambers: Minot and Williston

Personnel:

Two long-time Clerks of Court did not seek re-election this year resulting in the retirement of Dominic Buzzell in Burke County and Lester Wehrung in McKenzie County. Dominic was replaced by his deputy clerk, Susan Olson, and Lester was replaced by his deputy clerk, Connie Bruins.

Cal Asendorf has taken over the administration of Juvenile Court Services in Ward and Burke counties effective July 1, 1986. On that date Bill Blore's reclassification to Court Administrator also went into effect. It is anticipated that two part-time referees will be hired soon to relieve Mr. Blore of that responsibility that he might devote full time to court administration.

District Judges Beede and Wilson have primary responsibility for cases in Williams, Divide and McKenzie counties. Judges Berning, Olson and Kerian have primary responsibility for cases in Ward, Burke and Mountrail counties. There is periodic rotation, etc.

In Ward County Court Judge Gary Holum is continuing to utilize the services of Referee Mark Flagstad for small claims litigation in Ward County. Judge McLees handles, by ad hoc assignment, additional cases in Williams County.

Facilities:

Due to recent federal legislation concerning the incarceration of juveniles and a prohibition against the use of existing jails for that purpose, Williston will have a detention facility by July of 1987 which will meet current federal mandates. A remodeling project in the law enforcement center is currently underway. Work also continues on alternatives for shelter care in the Williston area. In Ward County a feasibility study has been initiated to consider utilizing space in the new Ward County jail for an alternative court room. Such a plan would greatly relieve pressure on scheduling with existing available court rooms for the Minot office.

Emphasis has been placed on making electronic recording equipment throughout the district compatible. The limited number of court reporters now require the use of electronic equipment for juvenile and child support hearings. It is now possible to interphase recording equipment in most counties throughout the district rather than necessitate transporting recording equipment from courthouse to courthouse.

Caseload Increases:

The impact of our current economic situation is apparent as one reviews the increases in juvenile court caseloads as well as child support enforcement and restitution impact generally throughout the district. It is interesting to note that the Ward County Juvenile Court processed over 900 referrals with an excess of 100 formal hearings last year. They collected over $13,000 in restitution during 1986. Ward County experienced an increase of over 100 cases in child support enforcement matters. Once again, over $4,300,000 has been received and processed in this district through child support enforcement payments during this same period. Most of these payments are in small monthly amounts reflecting an immense volume of activity and workload for the various clerks of court. Over $13,000 has been recovered in indigent defense payments.

Volunteers and Students:

The Northwest District has placed greater emphasis on utilizing volunteers and students during the current budget crunch. A program which began on a modest basis some years ago has been expanded. Minot State University students from the Criminal Justice Division as well as the Social Service Division have been placed in the probation department during their senior year. Recently the Business Department has also participated by placing secretarial students who help fill in the gap resulting from retirements and staff changes. The guardian ad litem program has also been expanded and now utilizes over a dozen local citizens who assist in formal Juvenile Court hearings and related matters.

Report of the Northeast Judicial District

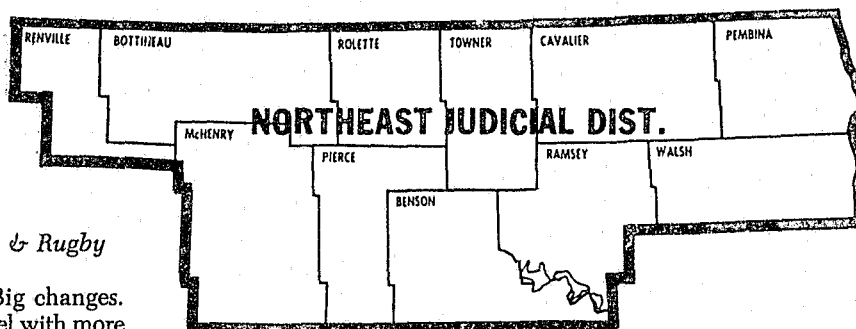

The Honorable James O'Keefe, Presiding Judge

District Court Judges: James O'Keefe, Presiding Judge; William A. Neumann, and Lee A. Christofferson.

County Court Judges: James M. Bekken, A.S. Benson, Thomas K. Metelmann, John C. McClin-tock, Ronald M. Dosch, and Theodore Weisenburger.

Number of Counties in District: 11

District Court Chambers: Devils Lake, Grafton, & Rugby

The byword in the district has been "change". Big changes. There has been an unprecedented turnover in personnel with more to come. Presiding Judge Douglas B. Heen has retired and has been replaced by James H. O'Keefe of Grafton. He was our first and only Presiding Judge and also the Chief Judge of the Council of Presiding Judges. Dagny Olson, calendar control clerk, also left in mid-year. She has been a prominent person in the district and, indeed, the state for many years. She was a court reporter for many years with several judges. She has been replaced by Diane Tallackson.

Lee A. Christofferson was appointed by the Governor to replace Judge Heen at Devils Lake and was elected to the office in November.

We are honored by the election of Judge William A. Neumann as Chairman-Elect of the new Judicial Conference.

Three of the five new county judges elected in the state were in this district: Donovan J. Foughty, M. Richard Geiger, and Lester S. Ketterling. The three who left us are Theodore Weisenburger, A. S. Benson, and Ronald M. Dosch. We wish them well in their future endeavors. Walsh, Pembina, and Cavalier signed a new multi-county agreement to share the services of two judges. It is note-worthy that one of our county judges, James M. Bekken, operates in three judicial districts. County judges have been most cooperative in working outside their jurisdictions, on assignment, in cases of illness or demand.

The Juvenile Court has seen three of its long-time referee/super-visors retire: Orville V. Olson, James E. Very, and Frank J. Hager. They were all "grandfathered" into the system years ago so they must now be replaced with lawyers. These three were performing the functions of six job descriptions. It is uncertain, due to caseload and budgetary factors, how they will be replaced. Dale Thompson, a Rugby lawyer, has been hired as a referee and there will shortly be two new supervisors and possibly two probation officers.

Several years ago the district judges went from a rotational system with terms of court, to continuous terms. Judge O'Keefe hears cases in the eastern counties, Judge Christofferson in the middle and Judge Neumann in the west. This has drastically cut travel and expense and is working well for all concerned.

The indigent counsel contract is functioning smoothly with an interchange of three different law firms throughout the district.

New Clerks of Court in the district are: Reuben Schoenberg, Renville County, Robert Indvik, Bottineau County, and Beverly Gellner, Cavalier County. Leaving us are: Dorothy Adam, Ross McNea and Robert Reiser. The three of them represent many years of service to their counties.

High incidence of mortgage foreclosures has placed the courts in the unpleasant position of having to be a party to the disposition of many farmlands. It seems that this type of action has eased somewhat most recently.

Report of the Northeast Central Judicial District

*The Honorable A.C. Bakken, Presiding Judge
Pat Thompson, Court Administrator*

District Court Judges: A.C. Bakken, Presiding Judge; Joel D. Medd; and Kirk Smith.

County Court Judges: Frank Kosanda; Jonal H. Uglem; and Ronald Dosch.

Number of Counties in District: 3

District Court Chambers: Grand Forks

Facilities:

The Board of County Commissioners for Grand Forks County adopted a resolution during February, 1986, to proceed with a project which would provide the District Court with two jury courtrooms and a Judicial Referee's hearing room on the second floor of the county courthouse. The third floor of the county courthouse would be remodeled to provide one large jury courtroom.

During the past year the county purchased the former Midwest Federal Savings & Loan Building and a number of administrative offices have been moved into those quarters. County Courtroom facilities are presently under construction on the main floor of the courthouse in preparation for the remodeling and expansion of the correctional center which is located in the 5th Street wing. The object of this development is to retain the highest classification of correctional facility for this district. Construction of Court facilities and moving of offices will be in planned stages extending beyond 1987.

Juvenile Court:

The Northeast Central Juvenile Court is participating in the establishment of the Greater Grand Forks Children's Consortium. The organization is a collaboration between 16 agencies in the Greater Grand Forks area who work extensively with children. The project's objective is to provide ongoing parenting education for the surrounding community. Probation Officers Deb Carlson, John Fuher, and Beth Veeder are among a pool of 15 trained group leaders which utilized the Active Parenting Program. The Consortium is funded through a grant from the North Dakota Children's Trust Fund.

During the past 18 months the Northeast Central Juvenile Court has presented a 2-hour workshop to 10 of the 14 rural schools within its three-county district. It is part of an outreach service which focuses on chemical dependency. The program content is broken down into four areas of concern:

1. Twenty Years of Change — "Adolescent at Risk"
2. The Addiction Process
3. The Alcoholic Home
4. Drinking & Driving — "Kevin's Story" (a video presentation followed by questions and answers)

The program has been offered to students in grades 5-12 as a lyceum presentation.

Caseload:

Statistics provided by the State Court Administrator's Office have shown a steady increase in filings in the Northeast Central Judicial District resulting in the highest statewide caseload per judge. A request for a fourth district judge for the Northeast Central Judicial District was submitted with the 1987-89 budget. The justification in support of the request was based on statistics for the years 1981 through 1985, and projected to the year 1990.

County Court:

Effective August 1, 1986, Ms. Rebecca Absey was appointed Clerk of County Court for Grand Forks County, filling the vacancy created by the resignation of Ms. Helen Zahn.

County Court recently modernized its filing system by installing open lateral file cabinets with a color coded filing system. Lateral files provide more storage and require less floor space. The Clerk of District Court converted to the open shelf system in 1984.

Law Clerks:

Continued cooperation with the University of North Dakota School of Law enables each district judge to have the assistance of a student law clerk. The law school gives students three credit hours for performing 10 hours of law clerk duties each week during a regular semester and two credit hours during the summer.

Report of the East Central Judicial District

The Honorable Norman J. Backes, Presiding Judge

Richard Sletten, Court Administrator

District Court Judges: Norman J. Backes, Presiding Judge; John O. Garaas; Lawrence A. Leclerc; and Michael O. McGuire.

County Court Judges: Donald J. Cooke; Cynthia A. Rothe; and Jonal Uglem

Number of Counties in District: 3

District Court Chambers: Fargo

District Court:

The civil caseload continues to increase in the district with an 11% increase in filings compared to 1985. As a direct result, the motion practice indicates an increase of 12% over the last year. With the steady increase, however, the district continues to stay in compliance with the docket currency standards as set by the Supreme Court.

The second phase of the computerized caseflow management system is in development. Selected information from the existing system will be loaded into a micro-computer in the Calendar Control Clerk's office for scheduling purposes.

With the remodeling of the District Court facilities complete, the Court now has four courtrooms available for scheduling. In addition, the administrative offices have been redesigned and new jury rooms have been added. The new facilities have already proven more efficient for staff.

Juvenile Court:

In March 1986, a successful restitution program was developed and implemented within the district. Since its development, there has been a substantial increase in the amount of monetary restitution collected and in the amount of societal restitution completed. The district has received positive comments from the community regarding the program and it is hoped the program will continue to expand.

Arthur H. Lieb, Judicial Referee, retired following thirty-five years of service to the Judicial System of North Dakota. His services will be greatly missed.

Advisory Committee:

Attorneys David Bossart, Chairman; William Yuill, Leland Hagen, and Duane Ilvedson were appointed to the Advisory Committee by Judge Backes in 1986. The committee acts for the entire Judicial District and acts independently of the Court. Its existence has proven beneficial during the new construction and the Court is looking forward to working with the committee in the future.

Intern Program:

In a cooperative effort with local universities and under the direction of Judge McGuire, the District Court administers internship programs for local college students. The program is designed to give students the opportunity to view the judicial system in actual operation and in addition enables the students to become acquainted with the law by directly working with district judges.

Jury:

To assist in jury management, the Court Administrator is developing a jury indoctrination program for the district court. The program is designed to educate and instruct prospective jurors about their role as a juror and also assist them in understanding the judicial system.

Report of Southeast Judicial District

*The Honorable Robert L. Eckert, Presiding Judge
Marguerite Aldrich, Court Administrator*

District Court Judges: Robert L. Eckert, Presiding Judge; Gordon O. Hoberg; and John T. Paulson.

County Court Judges: James M. Bekken; Mikal Simonson; Harold B. Herseth; Bayard Lewis; Gary D. Neuharth; and Lowell O. Tjon.

Number of Counties in District: 9

District Court Chambers: Wahpeton, Jamestown and Valley City.

District and County Court Judge Election:

District Judge John T. Paulson was re-elected at the November 1986 general election. His chambers are in Valley City, the county seat of Barnes County. The following county judges were also re-elected: James M. Bekken, New Rockford, serving Eddy, Foster, Benson and Wells Counties; Harold B. Herseth, Jamestown, serving Stutsman County; Bayard Lewis, Wahpeton, serving Richland County; Gary D. Neuharth, Oakes, serving LaMoure and Dickey Counties; Lowell O. Tjon, Lisbon, serving Ransom and Sargent Counties. Judge Mikal Simonson, Valley City, was elected County Judge for Barnes County following his appointment on January 1, 1986, to fill the unexpired term of Judge C. James Cieminski.

Annual Meeting of the Southeast Judicial District Bar Association:

The seventh meeting of the Southeast Judicial District Bar Association was held at Ellendale on April 19, 1986, hosted by the members of the Dickey County Bar. Presiding at the meeting was President Dean Lenaburg of Valley City. New officers elected for two-year terms are Robert Heinley, Carrington, President, Ronald Goodman, Oakes, Vice-President, and Thomas J. Aljets, Carrington, Secretary/Treasurer. Following the luncheon at which Bruck Quick, Deputy Attorney General, presented an overview of the scope and operations of the Attorney General's Office, Presiding Judge Robert L. Eckert convened a meeting of all of the district, county and municipal judges.

Meeting of Court Personnel:

A district-wide meeting was held in Valley City on May 5, 1986. State Court Administrator William G. Bohn and Fiscal Officer Jana Thielges were present to discuss the impact of the four percent budget cuts and the prospects for improvement of the state fiscal position. All district court and juvenile personnel in the district attended.

New Personnel:

Lee Erickson, Jamestown, joined the juvenile staff as a Probation Officer in Jamestown on September 1, 1986, filling the vacancy created when Lisa Noah left for a similar position in the East Central Judicial District. A retirement party was held on June 27, 1986 for Gerard D'Amour, Jamestown, who retired after 38 years as a Court Reporter. Joining the staff as D'Amour's replacement on July 1, 1986, is Arnold Strand. Strand had been Court Reporter for Douglas B. Heen, Devils Lake, who retired on July 1, 1986.

Report of the South Central Judicial District

The Honorable Benny A. Graff, Presiding Judge
Ted Gladden, Court Administrator

District Court Judges: Benny A. Graff, Presiding Judge; Gerald G. Glaser; Larry M. Hatch; William F. Hodny; and Dennis A. Schneider.
County Court Judges: James M. Bekken; Donavin L. Grenz; Burt L. Riskedahl; Lester J. Schirado; and O.A. Schulz

Number of Counties in District: 13

District Court Chambers: Bismarck, Mandan and Linton

Court Administration:

During 1986 substantial efforts were devoted to the needs analysis of the administrative and financial recordkeeping practices in the County Court and Clerk of District Court's Office. Based on this analysis, approval was obtained from the Burleigh County Commission for installation of an automated management information system. The system will meet the recordkeeping, case management, calendaring, and financial recordkeeping responsibilities for the clerks of Bismarck Municipal Court, Burleigh County Court, and Burleigh County District Court.

Funds have been requested from the Attorney General's Office through a federal grant application to support this installation. This will provide a mechanism for ease of transfer of criminal history information and drivers licensing data to the affected state agencies.

District Court:

The judges of the district court again processed the largest caseload of any district in the state. With completion of the Burleigh County Courthouse, cases are being scheduled expeditiously. The average length of time from filing to disposition of contested civil matters is 21 months. The average length of time for noncontested civil matters was 4.8 months. Pleas of guilty take 70 days to process on the average.

Juvenile Court:

In 1986, 2208 children were referred to the Juvenile Court. Of this number 113 were in Burleigh County and 523 were from Morton County. There were 567 children referred back to the Bismarck-Mandan Police Youth Bureau for informal disposition. Approximately 1641 children were handled either informally or formally in Juvenile Court. There were 285 formal petitions filed in 1986. There were 1356 referrals processed informally. There were 67 temporary orders issued in which children were placed in temporary alternative settings outside of the parental home and were returned to their appropriate custodians without further formal intervention. There were 522 involved children who were alleged to be deprived.

Judicial Referees heard 572 Orders To Show Cause. This represents about one half of the total of matters actually set before the referee.

County Court:

During the year the Supreme Court approved the appointment of a part-time county judge to provide relief for the Burleigh County Court. This court, having the highest caseload of any court in the judicial district, was able to manage the high volume of cases with the additional appointment of a part-time county judge. This position became a full-time judgeship, effective January 1, 1987.

Clerk of Court:

State-wide recordkeeping practices have been approved by the North Dakota Supreme Court. These new recordkeeping practices provide for increased efficiencies in clerk's offices and are more cost effective than the use of the traditional bound registers of action and judgment books. The Clerk of Court in McLean County has adopted open-shelf filing using the new case numbering series approved by the Supreme Court. Burleigh County Court has initiated the new open-shelf filing as well as the use of the new registers of civil and criminal actions which require less space and are much less costly than the more traditional recording practices.

Judicial Facilities:

Renovation of the Burleigh County Courthouse was completed. The County and District Courts now have three jury capable courtrooms and three nonjury courtrooms used by the five judges and the two judicial referees with offices in the Burleigh County Courthouse.

Consultation began with the Morton County Courthouse Planning Committee regarding space needs of the judiciary in the county. Requests have been made for the county commission to retain professional consultation for a complete assessment of the space needs in the county. There is need for at least one more jury capable courtroom, one nonjury courtroom, public and witness waiting areas, as well as office and recordkeeping space for Juvenile Court personnel and the Clerk's of Court functions.

Report of the Southwest Judicial District

*The Honorable Maurice R. Hunke, Presiding Judge
Ardean Ouellette, Court Administrator*

District Court Judges: Maurice R. Hunke, Presiding Judge; Allan L. Schmalenberger; and Donald L. Jorgensen.

County Court Judges: Tom Beyer; Ronald L. Hilden; and F. Gene Gruber.

Number of Counties in District: 8

District Court Chambers: Dickinson and Hettinger

Caseloads Increase:

The major portion of the increase in new cases was in the single category of mortgage foreclosures which were up 35%. The same economic circumstances causing such a high number of foreclosures may also be reflected in the family law area which had a modest increase in divorces and a startling jump of 85% in formal juvenile court proceedings, along with a less dramatic increase in informal juvenile cases. The danger inherent in prognosticating future caseload is proved by last year's report which incorrectly predicted that "the high number of mortgage foreclosures should decline and our overall caseload may be reduced moderately in the year ahead."

Personnel:

None of our three district judges, but all three county judges were up for election last year. County Court Judges Tom M. Beyer and F. Gene Gruber were re-elected without opposition. We extend congratulations to Stark County Judge Ronald L. Hilden who won his contested election.

During July Lorraine Scanson resigned. She was the first judicial secretary to serve in this District. Mrs. Scanson has accepted a position on the staff of Supreme Court Clerk Luella Dunn.

We were able to obtain an experienced legal secretary, Mrs. Carla Kolling, to replace Mrs. Scanson. Carla's prior experience with word processors has been a valuable asset during our transition to computerization.

Transition to Computers:

During 1986 we took a first but large step toward needed computerization. Two computers (with one shared printer) were installed in the Dickinson chambers along with a computer and printer at the Hettinger chambers. Features of our computer equipment are capacity, versatility, function and economy. Particularly considering economy, our combination of equipment might well serve as a model for other districts. Primary credit and our gratitude goes to District Judge Allan Schmalenberger and Court Administrator Ardean Ouellette for their months of study and work in selecting and installing the equipment at such great financial savings.

County Courts

County courts in North Dakota underwent a major transformation in 1983. A new uniform system of county courts took effect on January 1, 1983, and replaced the previous three-tier county court system. The new county courts differ from the old county courts in three other major aspects: 1) all county courts are now courts of records; 2) all county judgeships are now full-time positions; and 3) all county judges now must be legally trained. Under the old county court system most of the county courts were not court of records and many of the county judgeships were part-time positions staffed by laymen rather than licensed attorneys. As was the case under the old county court system, county courts under the new county court system are still funded by the counties.

There are 26 county judges in North Dakota. Fourteen of these judges serve more than one county. The legislation creating the new county court system authorized counties to contract with one another for the services of a single county judge. Through their contractual arrangements, called multi-county agreements, four county judges serve a two-county area, six county judges provide judicial services to a three-county area and four county judges render judicial services to a four-county area. Eleven counties have a single county judge and one county, Cass County, has two county judges. Most of the multi-county courts operate within the boundaries of a single judicial district. In three instances, however, the multi-county courts cut across the boundary lines of more than one judicial district. In one of the instances, a county judge serves four counties located in three different judicial districts.

Another unique feature of the new county court system is the county magistrate. Because many county judges serve more than one county, they cannot always be in each county when they are needed. To insure continuity in judicial services in the judge's absence, the judge can appoint a magistrate to handle preliminary matters in the county until the judge returns. Through an administrative rule the Supreme Court has established the qualifications, authority, and procedures governing magistrates. In several counties, the county judge has appointed the clerk of the district court as the magistrate for that county.

Like the old county courts, the new county courts are limited jurisdiction courts. They have original and exclusive jurisdiction in probate, testamentary, guardianship, and mental health cases. They have concurrent jurisdiction with municipal courts in traffic cases and concurrent jurisdiction with the district courts in trust, criminal misdemeanor, and civil cases where the amount in controversy does not exceed $10,000. County judges also preside at the preliminary hearing in criminal felony cases before the case is turned over to the district court. The presiding district judge of each judicial district may assign a county judge to hear any district court case filed in the district.

County courts also act as small claims court in North Dakota. The jurisdictional limit for a small claims case is $1,500. There is no appeal from the decisions of the county court when it is acting in its capacity as a small claims court. All decisions of the county courts in such instances are final.

While the subject matter jurisdiction of the new county courts is equivalent to the subject matter jurisdiction of the old county courts, their jurisdictional limits are generally higher. For instance, no county courts under the old county court system had concurrent civil jurisdiction with district courts in cases where the amount of controversy exceeded $1,000. As stated above, the concurrent jurisdiction of the new county courts is up to $10,000. Similarly, the jurisdictional limit for small claims cases under the old county courts was $1,000 compared to $1,500 for the new county courts.

In establishing the new county court system, the Legislature vested county court judges with the same power and authority as district court judges. Moreover, the rules of practice and procedure governing district court proceedings also apply to county courts. Thus, both in terms of their jurisdiction and authority, county judges under the new county court system have greater judicial responsibilities and power than their predecessors.

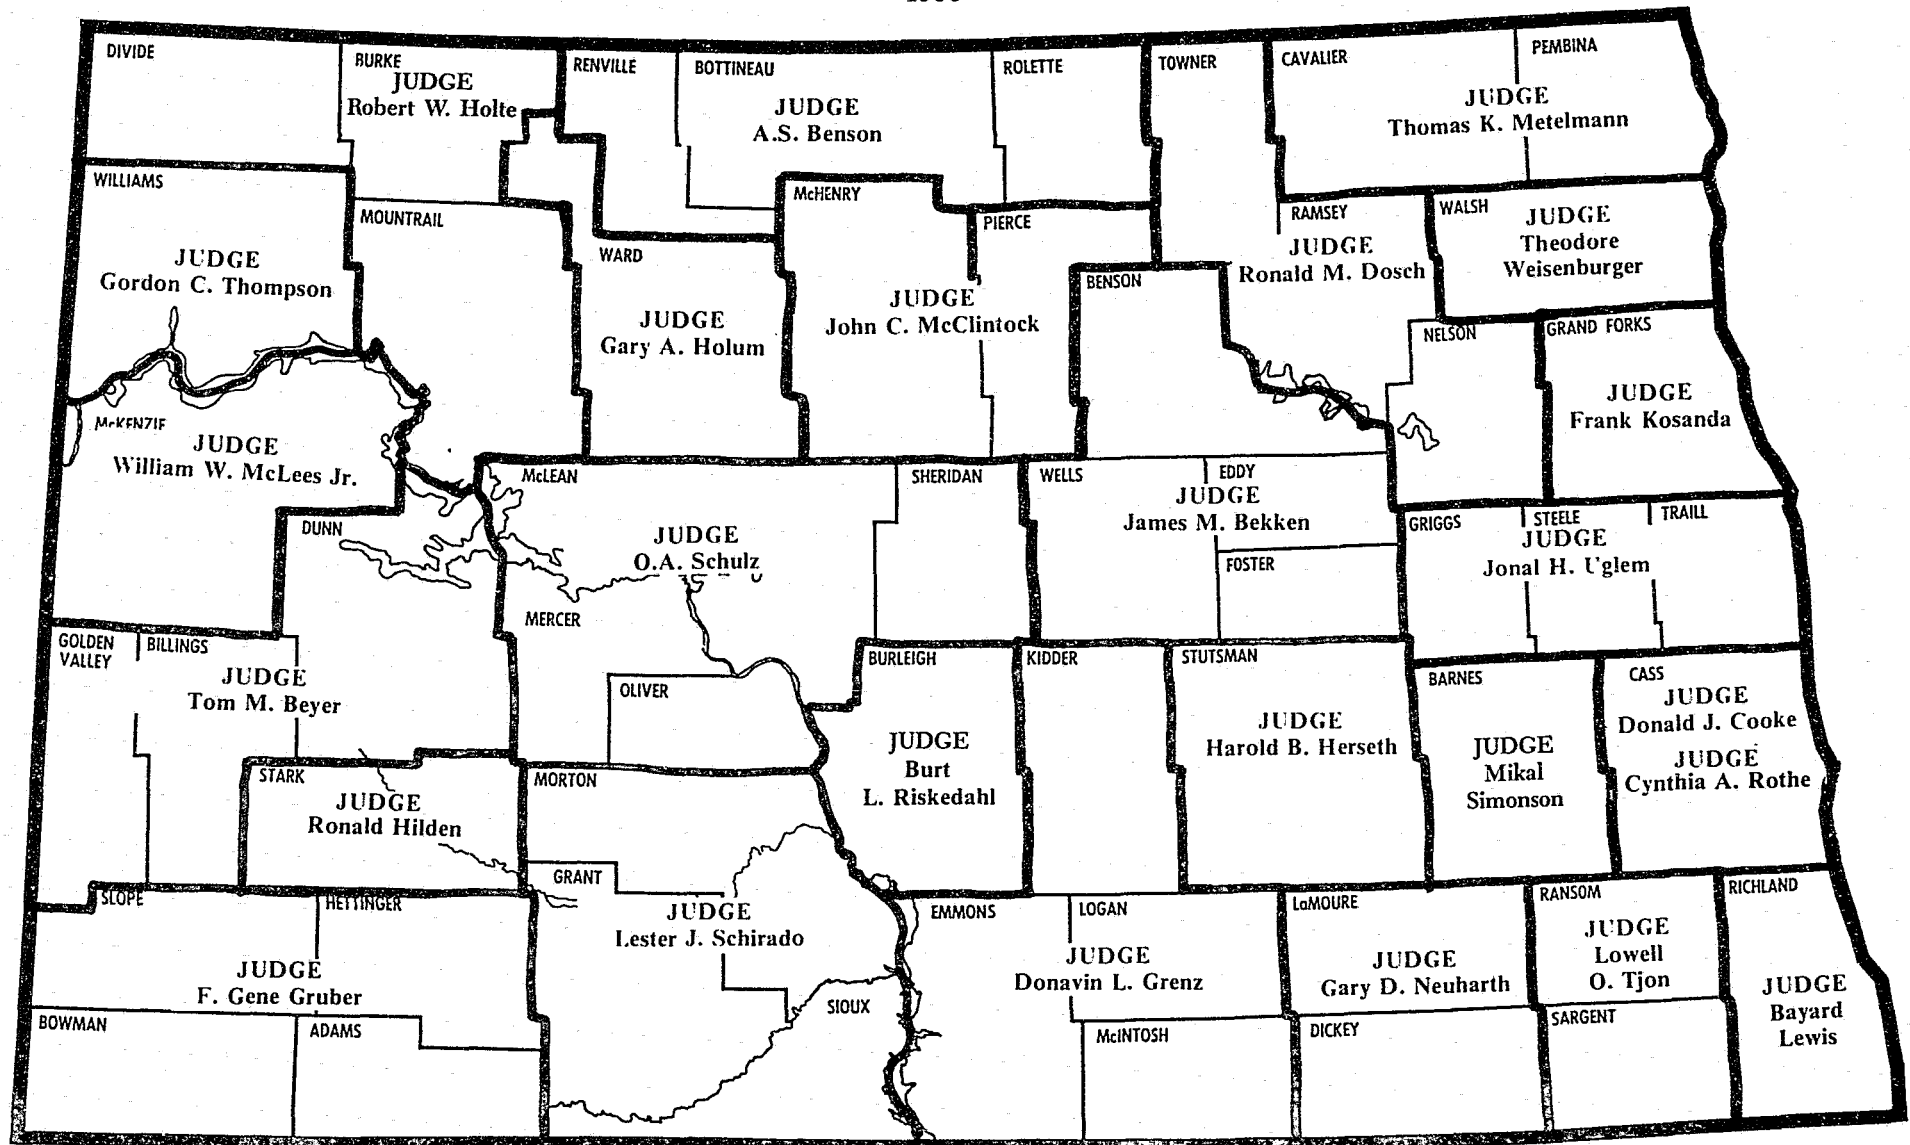

Appeals from the county court go directly to the Supreme Court. Under the old county court systems appeals from the county justice and county court went to the district court while all appeals from county courts of increased jurisdiction went to the supreme court with the exception of probate cases, which were appealable to the district court.

In addition to its trial court duties, county courts also serve as the appellate courts for appeals from municipal courts. All appeals for municipal courts to county courts are trial de novo appeals. In other words, when a municipal court case is appealed to the county court, a new trial is held in the county court. New trials are required in county courts because municipal courts do not maintain official records of their proceedings.

The office of county judge is an elected position filled every four years in a nonpartisan election. If a vacancy occurs, the county commissioners can either fill the vacancy by selecting a candidate from a list of nominees submitted by a Judicial Nominating Committee or by calling a special election to fill the vacancy. If the vacancy is filled by the nomination process, the appointed judge only serves until the next general election, at which time the office is filled by election for the remainder of the term. In those counties which share the services of a county judge, the judge is elected by the eligible voters of the participating counties. The appointment of a county judge to serve a multi-county area must be approved by a majority vote of each board of county commissioners of the affected counties.

In counties with a population over 25,000, the county judge has the authority to appoint a clerk of county court. In counties with a population less than 25,000 the clerk of district court also serves as the clerk of county court.

County Court Caseload

The breakdown of the county court caseload showed little change in the composition of county court dockets. The caseload continues to be predominately noncriminal traffic, followed by criminal, small claims, other civil and probate.

Overall, the number of filing and dispositions increased slightly in 1986. The bulk of this increase can be attributed to 1,700 more noncriminal traffic cases. Civil filings decreased 9.3% in 1986.

The number of mental health hearings and preliminary hearings in felony cases remained stable.

For the first time in several years, the number of small claim filings decreased (about 8%).

Municipal Courts

There are approximately 360 incorporated cities in North Dakota. Of the total municipalities, 155 cities have municipal courts. There are approximately 142 judges serving these 155 municipalities. State law permits an individual to serve more than one city as a municipal judge.

In 1981 the Legislature amended the state law pertaining to municipalities to allow each municipality the option of deciding whether or not to have a municipal judge. Before this amendment, all incorporated municipalities were required to establish a municipal court. Despite this requirement, those incorporated cities which did not have a police force tended not to have a municipal court.

The municipal judges have exclusive jurisdiction of all violations of municipal ordinances, except certain violations involving juveniles. Violations of state law are not within the jurisdiction of the municipal courts.

A municipal judge is elected for a four-year term. He must be a qualified elector of the city, except in cities with a population below 3,000. In cities with a population of 3,000 or more the municipal judge is required to be a licensed attorney unless an attorney is unavailable or not interested in serving. At present, there are approximately 23 legally-trained and 132 lay municipal judges in the state.

State law requires that each municipal judge attend at least one educational seminar per calendar year conducted by the supreme court. If a municipal judge fails to meet this requirement without an excused absence from the supreme court, his name is referred to the Judicial Conduct Commission for such disciplinary action as is deemed appropriate by the Commission.

Most of the municipal courts' traffic caseload are noncriminal traffic cases or administrative traffic cases. While these cases greatly outnumber the criminal traffic cases, they generally take much less time to process. There is not only a lesser burden of proof in noncriminal traffic cases than in criminal cases, but most noncriminal traffic cases are disposed of by bond forfeitures. While no judge time is needed to process bond forfeitures, support personnel in the clerk's office must account for every citation received by the court.

Although criminal traffic cases compose only about 6 percent of the municipal courts' caseload, they require more time and resources for their disposition than noncriminal traffic cases. Litigants are more likely to demand a trial in criminal traffic cases since the penalties for violation of criminal traffic laws are more severe than violations of noncriminal traffic laws. Moreover, the prosecutor also has a greater burden of proof in criminal traffic cases than in noncriminal traffic cases. Whereas in noncriminal traffic cases the prosecutor has only to demonstrate a preponderance of evidence for conviction, in criminal traffic cases the prosecutor must prove each element of the charge beyond a reasonable doubt.

COMPARISON OF MUNICIPAL COURT TRAFFIC DISPOSITIONS FOR 1980-1986

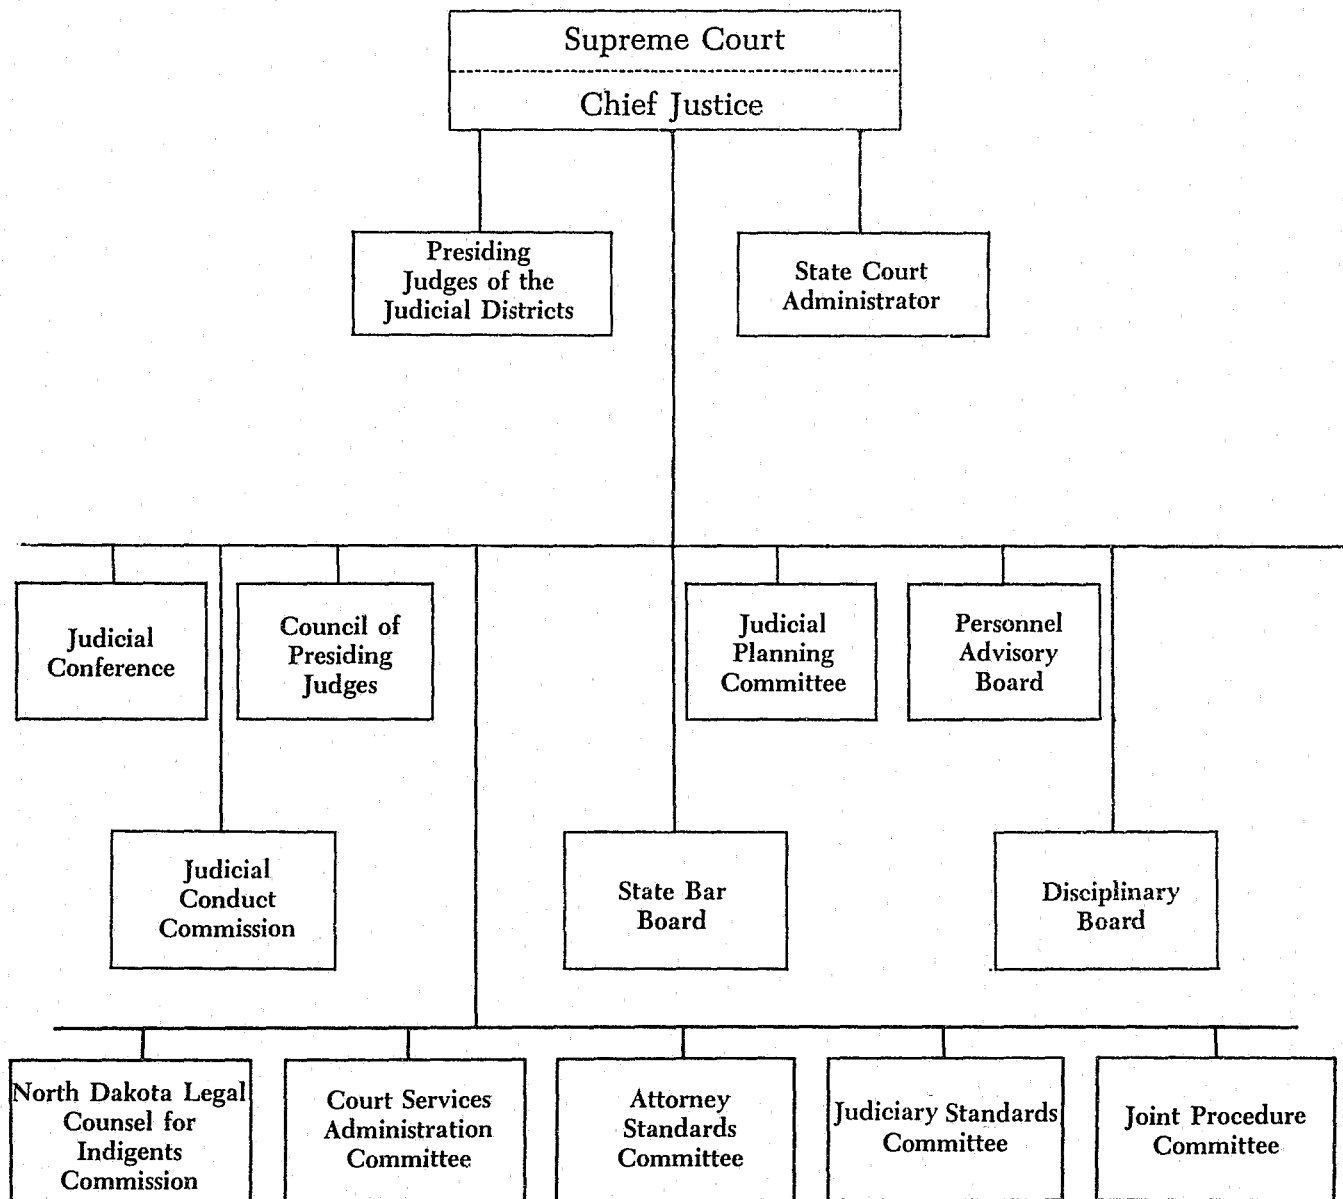

Administration of the Judicial System

Ultimate responsibility for the efficient and effective operation of the judicial system resides with the Supreme Court. The constitution has emphasized the Supreme Court's administrative responsibility for the judicial system by designating the chief justice as the administrative head of the judicial system. In addition, the state constitution also grants the Supreme Court supervisory authority over the legal profession. Article VI, Section 3 states that the Supreme Court shall have the authority, "unless otherwise provided by law, to promulgate rules and regulations for the admission to practice, conduct, disciplining, and disbarment of attorneys at law."

To help it fulfill these administrative and supervisory responsibilities, the Supreme Court relies upon the state court administrator, presiding judges, and various advisory committees, commissions and boards. The functions and activities of these various bodies during 1986 are described in the subsequent pages of this report.

A diagram of the administrative organization of the North Dakota judicial system is provided below.

ADMINISTRATIVE ORGANIZATION OF THE NORTH DAKOTA JUDICIAL SYSTEM

Office of State Court Administrator

Article VI, Section 3 of the North Dakota Constitution authorizes the chief justice of the Supreme Court to appoint a court administrator for the unified judicial system. Pursuant to this constitutional authority, the Supreme Court has outlined the powers, duties, qualifications and term of the state court administrator in an administrative rule. The duties delegated to the state court administrator include assisting the Supreme Court in the preparation of the judicial budget, providing for judicial education services, coordinating technical assistance to all levels of courts, planning for statewide judicial needs, and administering a personnel system.

Judicial Education:

Under the guidance and supervision of the Judicial Conference Committee on Judicial Training, the Office of State Court Administrator develops and coordinates training programs for all levels of judicial and court support personnel. In addition, a number of other professional development and information activities are coordinated and conducted under the auspices of the State Court Administrator. These activities are described in greater detail in the section of this report which discusses the activities of the committee.

Research and Planning:

Staff services are provided to the Judicial Planning Committee and other advisory committees of the Supreme Court by the planning staff in the State Court Administrator's office. The duties of these staff personnel include research, bill drafting, rule drafting, arrangement of committee meetings, and such other tasks that are assigned by the various committees. Specific activities and projects of the different Supreme Court standing committees are provided in a latter section of this report.

Personnel Management:

The state funding of most district court employees in 1981 significantly increased the personnel management responsibilities of the State Court Administrator. To insure uniformity in personnel administration across districts, personnel policies and a pay and classification plan for district court employees were developed under the direction of the State Court Administrator.

Fiscal Responsibilities:

One of the State Court Administrator's primary administrative responsibilities is the management of the judicial budget. As the budget director for the judicial system, he is responsible for the coordination and preparation of the Supreme Court and District Court budgets, preparation and analysis of monthly budget status reports, the development of budgetary policies for the judiciary, and the maintenance of payroll records for judges and court personnel.

Even with the addition of most District Court expenses to the judicial budget, the judicial budget constitutes only a small portion of the state's total budget for the 1985-87 biennium. However, this is not to say that the budgetary impact of the additional expenses has been minimal. Since the absorption of most district court expenses by the state in 1981, the judicial portion of the state's budget has doubled.

The impact of the state's funding of nearly all District Court expenses can also be seen in the way in which the judicial budget is allocated. Whereas the Supreme Court portion of the judicial budget used to be over 40 percent, now it is less than 23 percent.

In viewing the judicial budget, it should be noted that it does not include the salaries of district court clerks and deputy clerks or any county court or municipal court expenditures. District court clerk expenses and county court expenses are funded by county government in North Dakota. Likewise, municipal courts are funded by the particular municipalities they serve.

Advisory Committees of the North Dakota Judicial System

To assist in its administrative supervision of the North Dakota Judicial System the Supreme Court utilizes the services of numerous advisory committees. These committees address specific problem areas within their study jurisdiction and make recommendations on the resolution of these problems to the Supreme Court.

Four of these committees—the Joint Procedure Committee, the Attorney Standards Committee, the Judiciary Standards Committee, and the Court Services Administration Committee—were established by the Supreme Court in 1978 as an essential part of its rulemaking process (NDRPR). One of these committees, the Joint Procedure Committee, existed before the Supreme Court adopted its rulemaking process, but was incorporated into the advisory committee structure created by the Supreme Court rulemaking process.

Other committees of the judicial system include the Judicial Planning Committee, the Personnel Advisory Board, the Special Committee on Judicial Training, the North Dakota Legal Counsel for Indigents Commission, and the Council of Presiding Judges. All of these committees contribute to the improvement of court services in North Dakota. Special committees established to address timely issues include the Constitutional Celebration Committee and the Civil Legal Services Study Committee.

Summaries of the activities of these committees during 1986 are provided below.

Judicial Planning Committee:

The Judicial Planning Committee is the forum for overall planning for judicial services in North Dakota. It is chaired by Justice Beryl J. Levine and its membership includes representatives of presiding judges, attorneys, district judges, county judges, municipal judges, court support personnel, and the public. The role of the Committee is to identify, describe and clarify problem areas which can be referred to judicial leaders and other standing committees for resolution.

As part of its planning process, the Committee prepares a Judicial Master Program for each biennium which sets the goals, objectives and tasks for the North Dakota Judicial System during that biennium.

Much of the Committee's efforts during 1986 were spent in preparing the Judicial Master Program for the Biennium Ending June 30, 1989. This Judicial Master Program was based on the local judicial district plans submitted to the Committee and the results of opinion surveys of the public and judicial system personnel as prepared by the Bureau of Governmental Affairs of the University of North Dakota (North Dakota Survey of Courts, Judges and Law-Related Issues, Judicial Personnel Survey, Bureau of Governmental Affairs, February 17-20, 1986; and, North Dakota Survey of Courts, Judges and Law-Related Issues, Public Survey, Bureau of Governmental Affairs, February 10-13, 1986.)

During 1986 the Court Services for Victims and Witnesses of Crime Subcommittee, chaired by Irv Nodland of Bismarck, contributed its report to the work of the Governor's, Attorney General's and Supreme Court's Commission on Victims and Witnesses of Crime. The Subcommittee helped to raise awareness of the needs for courteous treatment, notice of legal proceedings, and assistance to victims and witnesses of crime without adversely affecting the rights of defendants in criminal cases.

The Municipal Court Study Subcommittee, chaired by Calvin N. Rolfson of Bismarck, prepared legislation for consideration by the 1987 Legislature and distributed minimum standards for municipal courts to assist in improving municipal court services.

Joint Procedure Committee — Justice H.F. "Sparky" Gierke, Chairman: During the year, the committee;

(1) Submitted the rules adopted by the Supreme Court effective March 1, 1986, to West Publishing Company for publication. Distributed the North Dakota Court Rules 1986 Desk Copy to the district and county courts.

(2) Approved amendments to the rules which track the 1985 and 1986 Federal amendments.

(3) Approved amendments to Rule 38(c), NDR CivP, 48(b), NDR CivP, and 23(b), NDR CrimP, to reflect statutory amendments. Rule 23(b) would supersede the criminal jury statute in part due to the fact that the Constitution provides that a person accused of a crime for which he may be confined for a period of more than one year has the right to a jury of twelve.

(4) Approved amendments to Rules 58, NDR CivP, and 68, NDR CivP, which eliminates reference to judgment book. Also, the amendment to Rule 68, NDR CivP, allows statements of confession of judgments to be filed in county court as well as in district court.

(5) Approved an amendment to Rule 5(d) (4), NDR CivP, which provides that the clerk of court must not accept for filing any document that adds a party to the action or proceeding without an order of the court or pursuant to Rule 14. This amendment is intended to curb the adding of parties of a lawsuit by way of caption.

(6) Approved an amendment to Rule 30(a) (b) (c), NDR AppP, which delineates what must be contained in the appendix to the appellate brief.

(7) Approved an amendment to Rule 28(c), NDR AppP, which would require that a table of authorities be filed with a reply brief.

Attorney Standards Committee:

The Attorney Standards Committee studies and reviews all rules relating to attorney supervision. Vern C. Neff of Williston chairs the Committee.

In 1983 the Committee initiated a major subcommittee study, chaired by Christine Hogan of Bismarck, of the American Bar Association Model Rules of Professional Conduct in cooperation with the State Bar Association of North Dakota and the North Dakota Trial Lawyers' Association. The study was completed in 1986 and recommended by the Committee and by the State Bar Association of North Dakota to the North Dakota Supreme Court for review.

In 1984 the Committee and the Disciplinary Board of the North Dakota Supreme Court appointed a special committee, chaired by Mark Stenehjelm of Williston, to conduct a study of the lawyer discipline process in North Dakota. The Attorney Standards Committee approved the special committee's report in 1986 which includes substantial revisions of the Rules of Disciplinary Procedure and is before the Supreme Court for review. The IOLTA program, if implemented, will require that lawyers place client funds in interest bearing trust accounts. The interest generated from such accounts would be remitted either to the client, if feasible, or to the Bar Foundation for use in supporting civil legal service programs for the poor and other law related projects.

In 1986 the State Bar Association of North Dakota withdrew its petition for the establishment of a lawyer specialization plan in North Dakota.

In 1985 the Attorney Standards Committee initiated a study of an Interest on Lawyers' Trust Account Program (IOLTA) for North Dakota. The report and proposed administrative rule to implement an IOLTA program in North Dakota was submitted in 1986 to the North Dakota Supreme Court.

In 1986, the Supreme Court adopted amendments to the Limited Practice of Law by Law Students Rules which removed the right of opposing counsel to veto participation of law students in a case and revisions to the Rules for Continuing Professional Education of the Members of the Bar and the Admission to Practice Rules which charged the CLE reporting periods for attorneys and streamlined the procedures for enforcing compliance by attorneys with the CLE requirements.

Judiciary Standards Committee:

The Judiciary Standards Committee, chaired by Jane Voglewede of Fargo, studies and reviews all rules relating to the supervision of the judiciary including judicial discipline, judicial ethics, and the judicial nominating process.

During 1986, the Committee continued its efforts toward the implementation of a judicial advisory service within the Judicial Conference of North Dakota. The Committee continued its study, initiated in 1985, of the campaign and political conduct provisions of the Rules of Judicial Conduct. In 1986, the Committee approved amendments to the part-time judge provisions of the Rules of Judicial Conduct to clarify the application of the Rules to all part-time judges in the state and initiated a study of the retired judge provisions of the Rules. It is expected that the Committee will submit its recommendations concerning these projects to the Supreme Court in 1987.

The 1985 proposal of the Committee to the Supreme Court to amend Administrative Rule 7 to designate separate county judgeships for those counties which authorize more than one county judge to serve in a county was superseded by the Supreme Court's interpretation of the law to require county commissions to decide the issue of separate judgeships for these county judges.

Court Services Administration Committee:

The Court Services Administration Committee studies and reviews all rules and orders relating to administrative supervision of the North Dakota Judicial System. It is chaired by William A. Strutz of Bismarck.

Through the Future Appellate Court Services Study Subcommittee, chaired by Rep. William Kretschmar of Venturia, the Committee prepared legislation to establish a court of appeals in North Dakota and a proposed administrative rule to aid in its implementation.

Through the County Court and Clerk of District Court Funding Study Subcommittee, chaired by Judge Jonal Uglem of Hillsboro, the Committee concluded to terminate its study of possible state funding of county court services and clerk of district court services in North Dakota. The Subcommittee continued its study of court costs and fines.

Through the Court Records Management Study Subcommittee, chaired by Ted Gladden of Bismarck, the Committee approved the Subcommittee proposed North Dakota Clerk of Court Manual to establish uniform and efficient recordkeeping forms and procedures for clerks of district court and county court in North Dakota. The Subcommittee initiated a study of recordkeeping procedures for child support proceedings.

Through the Personnel Subcommittee, chaired by Prof. Marcia O'Kelly of Grand Forks, the Committee initiated a study of the place and due process procedures for "at pleasure" status employees in the North Dakota Judicial System.

During 1986 the Committee also prepared a Legislative Council study resolution relating to sentencing statutes in North Dakota and proposed legislation to permit the Supreme Court to designate officials to administer oaths and to provide respondent anonymity in mental health commitment proceedings.

Personnel Advisory Board:

The Personnel Advisory Board was created by the Supreme Court on January 21, 1982, and reconstituted by the Supreme Court on July 27, 1984. The Board consists of the state court administrator, three district court employees, and three supreme court employees. The state court administrator is an ex officio member of the Board while the other six employees are appointed to the Board by the Chief Justice. The Chief Justice also designates the chairperson of the Board from among its membership.

The Board serves as an advisory body to the Chief Justice and the Supreme Court; it has no independent decisionmaking authority. In this capacity the Board has two primary functions:

- 1) To develop personnel policies for the North Dakota judicial system; and
- 2) To serve as a review board for employee grievances, reclassification requests, and other personnel matters.

During 1986 the Board undertook an array of new projects. It developed a performance evaluation form and began drafting a performance evaluation policy in an effort to establish a performance evaluation system for judicial employees. It proposed a discipline policy to the Supreme Court for consideration and reviewed the existing policy and practice of granting reclassification salary increases. At the end of the year the Board initiated an evaluation of the judiciary's pay and classification system to determine the need for revisions to reflect changes in legislation, administrative rules, and job requirements. Upon its recommendation the Supreme Court adopted policies on overtime compensation and minimum wages for bailiffs which comply with recent amendments to the Fair Labor Standards Act.

In exercising its review function, the Board conducted ten reclassification reviews during 1986 and recommended that each reclassification request be granted. The Chief Justice followed the Board's recommendation in all ten cases.

Judicial Training Committee:

The Judicial Training Committee is a committee of the North Dakota Judicial Conference. It has fourteen members representing a cross-section of judges and court personnel. Judge Larry Hatch, a district court judge in the South Central Judicial District, is the current chairman of the committee.

The committee is primarily responsible for providing seminars and other educational tools which meet the professional needs of judges and court personnel of the North Dakota Judicial System. In addition to its program development function, the Committee also has a variety of other duties. They include:

- 1) Development of a biennial training budget for in-state and out-of-state training programs;
- 2) Monitoring training costs and programs to promote cost effectiveness;
- 3) Designation of approved out-of-state professional development programs and sponsors; and
- 4) Drafting and reviewing appropriate legislation and court rules relating to judicial training.

Because of anticipated shortfalls in state revenues, the training budget for the 1985-87 biennium was reduced by approximately 70%. As a result, only four of the twelve scheduled programs for 1986 were conducted. These programs were attended by 57 judges and 124 court personnel. One of these programs, the Municipal Judges Institute, was conducted with financial support from a federal grant.

To help clarify its duties and responsibilities, the Judicial Training Committee developed bylaws defining its role and training mandate. The Judicial Conference endorsed the bylaws at its November meeting.

During 1986 the Committee also developed a training budget for the 1987-89 biennium. The budget was submitted to the Judicial Conference for review before submission to the Supreme Court for inclusion in the state judiciary budget.

Council of Presiding Judges:

The Council of Presiding Judges consists of the presiding judge of each of the seven judicial districts with the chairman being named by the Chief Justice. Present members of the Council are: The Honorable Douglas B. Heen, Chief Presiding Judge; The Honorable A.C. Bakken; The Honorable Norman J. Backes; The Honorable Benny A. Graff; The Honorable Maurice R. Hunke; The Honorable Wallace D. Berning.

The role of the Council of Presiding Judges centers primarily in the area of budgets and caseloads with the responsibility for insuring that the business of the courts is handled with dispatch and efficiency. The Council meets on call of the chairman. In attendance at each meeting is the chief justice, the state court administrator, and the trial court administrators. The state court administrator's staff acts as staff to the Council.

In 1986, the Council of Presiding Judges met four times. At each meeting there was a review of the district court budgets as they related to the legislative appropriation in the various program areas within the district courts. During 1986, at the request of the governor, the judicial branch, including the district courts, was asked to reduce their general fund appropriation by 4% and 6%. The Council of Presiding Judges reviewed the budgets to determine where they could be reduced and made recommendations to the Supreme Court to meet those objectives.

Some other major issues that came before the presiding judges in 1986 were matters such as the continuation of liability insurance coverage for district judges and referees, development of budgets for the 1987-89 biennium, proposed legislation having impact on the district courts, and the fiscal impact of providing payment for court-appointed lawyers for indigent persons in civil matters.

North Dakota Legal Counsel for Indigents Commission:

The North Dakota Legal Counsel for Indigents Commission is composed of seven members who are nominated by the North Dakota Association of counties, the Chief Presiding District Court Judge, the Board of Governors of the State Bar Association, and the Attorney General, and appointed by the Chief Justice. Judge Gail Hagerty of Bismarck serves as chair of the Commission.

The Commission provides rules and guidelines for the administration of indigent defense services in criminal cases in North Dakota. It provides a mechanism for the resolution of counsel fee disputes between judges and court appointed attorneys or contract attorneys who are representing indigent defendants in criminal, mental health and juvenile cases. The Commission also provides technical assistance concerning indigent defense services to judicial districts, counties, and municipalities.

The funds appropriated by the Legislature for indigent defense services in criminal and juvenile proceedings in the district courts of North Dakota are administered by each of the seven judicial districts through the Office of the State Court Administrator. Each county and municipality in the state is responsible for funding the indigent defense expenses that arise in the criminal and mental health proceedings in each county and criminal cases in municipal court.

In 1986 the Commission proposed legislation to clarify the responsibility of municipalities for funding the indigent defense costs incurred in appealing a municipal court decision to county court and to remove the requirement that state's attorneys seek court approval before initiating proceedings to recoup indigent defense costs from defendants who have acquired the means to reimburse the state or county.

The Commission issued revised indigent defense procedures and guidelines for use by all judges.

The Commission also explored training programs for criminal defense attorneys and continued efforts to develop guidelines to assist the judicial districts, counties and cities in the development of indigent defense counsel contracts.

Civil Legal Services Committee:

The Civil Legal Services Study Committee, chaired by Judge Joel Medd of Grand Forks, in cooperation with the State Bar Association of North Dakota, pursued its study of mechanisms for the future provision of civil legal services in North Dakota.

Constitutional Celebration Committee:

The Constitutional Celebration Committee, chaired by Justice Herbert L. Meschke, was established to assist and encourage preparation for the celebration of the Bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution during 1987-1991 and the Centennial of the North Dakota Constitution in 1989. The Committee is made up of judges, attorneys, legislators, and civic leaders.

Disciplinary Board

The Disciplinary Board of the Supreme Court has responsibility for handling complaints alleging unethical conduct by North Dakota attorneys.

There are seven lawyer and three non-lawyer members of the Board, as follows: Robert Vaaler, Grand Forks, Chairman; Mike L. Halpern, Glen Ullin, Vice Chairman; Sandi Lang Frenzel, Dickinson; Dann E. Greenwood, Dickinson; Lewis C. Jorgenson, Devils Lake; J. Michael Nilles, Fargo; Maynard Sandberg, Minot; Charles R. Volk, Bismarck; Al A. Wahl, Williston; James A. Wright, Jamestown; Luella Dunn, Clerk of the Supreme Court serves as the secretary for the Board. Disciplinary Counsel is Vivian E. Berg.

Complaints against attorneys are docketed by the secretary and forwarded to the chairman and either to the chairman of the Inquiry Committee East or of Inquiry Committee West of the State Bar Association. An investigation is then conducted by a member of the respective committees or disciplinary counsel. All parties to a complaint have the right to appear before the Inquiry Committee.

The Inquiry Committee may dismiss or may recommend discipline to the Disciplinary Board. The Board may also dismiss, or it may issue a private reprimand, in which event the attorney may request a formal hearing. If the Disciplinary Board recommends a public reprimand, suspension, or disbarment, the matter proceeds much as a civil case. It is heard generally by a three-member hearing panel, although it may be set before a hearing officer or the Board en banc.

A hearing panel may also dismiss or refer to the Disciplinary Board for private reprimand. If a greater sanction is recommended, the matter is presented to the Supreme Court with briefs and oral argument. Review is de novo on the record and the standard of proof for the Disciplinary Board is clear and convincing evidence.

Following is a summary of complaints handled by the Disciplinary Board in 1986.

SUMMARY OF DISCIPLINARY BOARD COMPLAINTS FOR THE YEAR 1986

Judicial Conduct Commission

The Judicial Conduct Commission was established by the legislature in 1975 with the enactment of Chapter 27-23 of the North Dakota Century Code. It is empowered to investigate complaints against any judge in the state and to conduct hearings concerning the discipline, removal, or retirement of any judge.

The seven members of the Commission include one district judge, one county judge, one attorney, and four citizen members. Members of the Commission are Louise Sherman, Dickinson, Chairman; Ernest Pyle, West Fargo, Vice Chairman; Norene Bunker, Fargo; Nathan Paul Goodiron, Mandaree; Honorable Gary A. Holum, Minot; Honorable William A. Neumann, Rugby; and Fred E. Whisenand, Williston. The Clerk of the Supreme Court, Luella Dunn, is Secretary for the Commission. Staff Counsel is Vivian E. Berg.

Complaints against judges are filed with the Commission's secretary, who acknowledges their receipt and forwards them to staff counsel for investigation. The judge against whom the complaint is filed is given notice and provided an opportunity to present such matters as he or she may choose.

By far the majority of complaints are dismissed as being without merit. However, the Commission may issue a private censure or direct that formal proceedings be instituted. If formal proceedings are instituted, the matter may be heard by the Commission or by a master or masters appointed by the Supreme Court.

The following table summarizing the nature and disposition of complaints in 1986 suggests that many complaints reflect matters properly the subject of appellate review.

State Bar Board Annual Report - 1986

The North Dakota State Bar Board was created by statute in 1919. This statute provides for a three-member board comprised of resident, licensed members of the Bar of North Dakota appointed by the Supreme Court. Presently serving as President is John D. Kelly of Fargo, and as members Malcolm H. Brown of Mandan and Gerald D. Galloway of Dickinson. By statute, the Clerk of the Supreme Court, Luella Dunn, is designated ex officio secretary-treasurer of the Board. The administration of the bar examination, preservation of records, collection of attorneys' annual license fees, and issuance of licenses to practice law are done by the ex officio secretary-treasurer. Each year the Bar Board publishes a directory of attorneys and judges.

The State Bar Board, by statute, is charged with the responsibility of the annual licensing of attorneys and judges. An attorney suspended or disbarred by Order of the Supreme Court is not eligible for licensure. In 1986, there were 1,510 attorneys licensed to practice law in North Dakota compared with 1,475 in 1985.

The Board is also charged with the responsibility of examining applicants for admission to the Bar of North Dakota as to their legal ability and character and fitness to practice law. The North Dakota state bar examination consists of the Multistate Bar Examination and the North Dakota Essay Examination. The Multistate Bar Examination covers the subjects of Constitutional Law, Contracts, Criminal Law, Evidence, Torts and Real Property. The North Dakota Essay Examination covers the subjects of Practice and Procedure; Equity; Business Associations; Commercial Transactions; Wills, Estates, and Trusts; and Family Law. The Board offers an examination in February and July of each year. Statistics for the 1986 bar examinations were as follows:

	# Applicants	# Successful % Successful	# UND Grads.	# Successful % Successful
2-86 Exam	18	10/56%	10	6/60%
7-86 Exam	70	61/87%	62	54/87%

Seventy-three individuals were admitted to the North Dakota Bar in 1986. Four of the seventy-three were admitted on motion, having been admitted and practiced law in another state for five years or more and having met the requirement of having received 45 hours of Continuing Legal Education credits approved or approvable in North Dakota during the three years immediately preceding application for admission.

A significant change regarding licensure of lawyers was made when the North Dakota Supreme Court in November of 1986 adopted as an emergency rule to become effective December 1, 1986, proposed amendments to Rule 5, Admission to Practice Rules. The effect of this rule change is that licensure depends upon the active practice of law and obtaining the required Continuing Legal Education credits. These amendments provide that an attorney who has been previously admitted to the Bar of North Dakota, but has not secured a license for one or more years anytime after the date of admission, shall file an application for licensure with the State Bar Board. Under this Rule, an attorney who has not been licensed for a period of less than two years must meet the requirement of having received 15 hours of Continuing Legal Education credits approved or approvable in North Dakota during the year immediately preceding application. An attorney who has not been licensed for a period of more than two years but less than three years, must meet the requirement of having received 30 hours of CLE credits during the two years immediately preceding application. And finally, an attorney who has not been licensed for a period of three or more years must meet the requirement of having received 45 hours of CLE during the three years immediately preceding application.

If an attorney submitting application for licensure under Rule 5 has been admitted in any other jurisdiction, he must include with his application certification of admission to practice by the admitting authority in each jurisdiction where the attorney has been admitted. The attorney's application must also include certification by the attorney disciplinary authority in each jurisdiction where the attorney has been admitted stating there are no prior or pending proceedings of disbarment or suspension of the attorney's license to practice law.

The amendments to Rule 5 also provide that if the State Bar Board determines that an attorney's legal experience during the nonlicensure period does not demonstrate sufficient competency in the practice of law, the Board, in its discretion, shall require the attorney to take an attorney's examination.

Judicial Conference

The North Dakota Judicial Conference was originally established as an arm of the judicial branch of state government in 1927. At that time, the organization was known as the North Dakota Judicial Council. Present statutory language covering the Judicial Conference is found in Chapter 27-15, NDCC, as amended in 1985.

There are currently seventy-one members of the Judicial Conference. As ex officio members, the conference consists of all Supreme Court Justices, District Court Judges, and County Court Judges. Other ex officio members are the Attorney General, the Dean of the University of North Dakota School of Law, and the Clerk of the North Dakota Supreme Court. Other members of the Conference include two judges of the Municipal Courts, as appointed by the Municipal Judges Association, and five members of the North Dakota Bar Association, who are appointed by the Bar Association. All Surrogate Judges, as appointed by the Supreme court under Section 27-17-03, NDCC, are also Conference members.

All ex officio members of the Conference serve during the time they occupy their respective official positions. The term of office of the two Municipal Judges is two years. The term of office for the five members of the bar is five years. Vacancies on the Judicial Conference are filled by the authority originally selecting the members.

The State Court Administrator serves as the Executive Secretary of the Judicial Conference.

The officers of the Judicial Conference consist of the chairman and chairman-elect, who are selected for a term of two years by the members of the Conference. In addition, there is an executive committee consisting of the Chairman, Chairman-elect, a Justice of the Supreme Court elected by the Supreme Court, a District Judge elected by the Association of District Judges, and a County Judge elected by the Association of County Judges.

Under North Dakota law, the Judicial Conference is required to meet twice each year. These meetings are usually held in June and November. Special meetings, however, may be called by the chairman. While members of the Judicial Conference are not compensated for their services, they are reimbursed for their expenses while discharging their Conference duties.

The Judicial Conference has four major duties. They are:

1. Solicit, receive, and evaluate suggestions relating to the improvement of the administration of justice.
2. Consider and make recommendations to the Supreme Court for changes in rules, procedures, or any matter pertaining to the judicial system.
3. Coordinate continuing judicial education efforts for judges and support staff.
4. Establish methods for review of proposed legislation which may affect the operation of the judicial branch.

To support the activities of the full conference, there has been created by Conference bylaws the following standing committees:

1. Program Planning Committee, Judge William Neumann, Chairman
2. Committee on Legislation, Judge Dennis Schneider, Chairman
3. Committee on Judicial Salary and Retirement, Justice H.F. Gierke, Chairman
4. Committee on Courts with Limited Jurisdiction, Judge Harold B. Herseth, Chairman
5. Committee on Judicial Training, Judge Larry Hatch, Chairman

The conference has also created a special committee known as the Judicial Immunity Committee chaired by District Judge Kirk Smith and the Jury Management Committee, chaired by District Judge Jon Kerian.

Committee membership results from appointment by the chairman after consultation with the executive committee of the Judicial Conference. The bylaws provide that non-conference members can serve on either standing or special committees.

For 1986, the officers and executive committee of the Judicial Conference are as follows:

Justice Gerald W. VandeWalle, Chairman
Judge William A. Neumann, Chairman-elect
Justice H.F. Gierke, Executive Committee
Judge Dennis A. Schneider, Executive Committee
Judge Harold B. Herseth, Executive Committee
