THE REDUCTION OF CRIME, AND THE CLEARANCE OF CRIMES COMMITTED

One of the things that we in the Hawaii Police Department are most proud of is our high record of clearances in criminal cases. Throughout the nation, according to FBI statistics, police clear about 20 percent of the major crimes reported.

During 1985, on the Big Island, our clearance rate of major crimes was 37.9 percent. We've been in that area of clearance rate for several years, and strive to maintain that level.

Crime on the Big Island has remained fairly level in recent years. We hit an all-time high, in 1981, of 5,623 major crimes. (By standard criminal statistics, these include murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny and motor vehicle theft.)

That figure dropped to 5,516 in 1982, to 4,869 in 1983, to 4,697 in 1984, and rose to 5,111 for 1985. The 1985 figure was still well below the 1981 high of 5,623, although our population during that same period has increased by more than 10 percent.

Our population is up, our crime statistics are holding their own and our clearance rate is about double the national average. It is a record we believe we can be proud of.

One of our specific areas of emphasis has been crimes against visitors. The visitor is a comparatively easy victim for the criminal. People on vacation tend to let down their guard, to carry large sums of money and to be careless about their possessions.

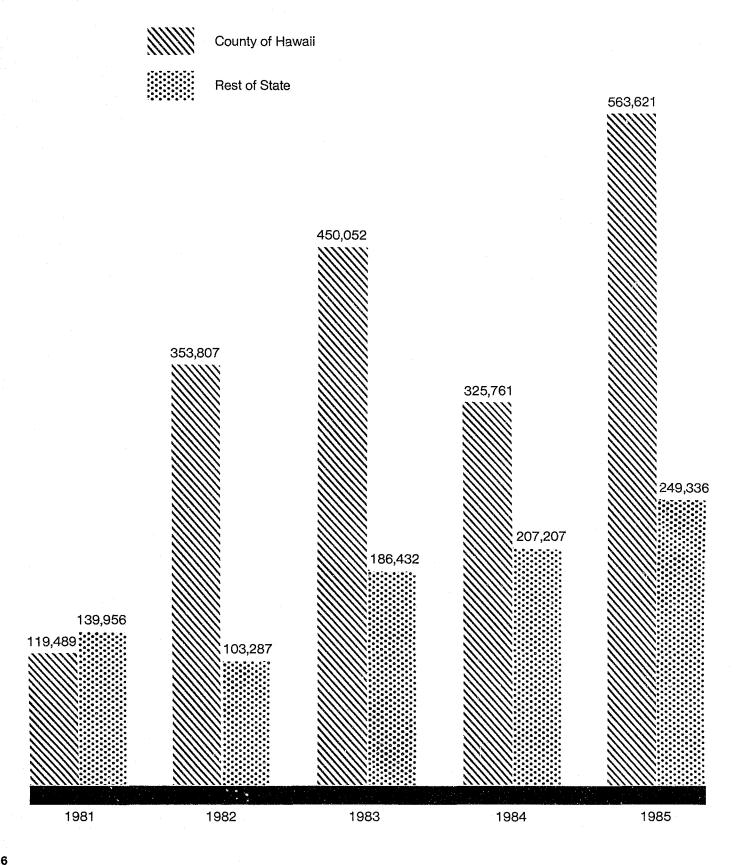

Visitors also are frequently unable to identify people of various local races, and often do not wish to make the effort or take the time to insure that the culprit is prosecuted.

We've initiated two specific programs to deal with crimes against visitors. One is the deployment of special enforcement units, normally officers in plain clothes, working on irregular schedules, in areas such as Banyan Drive and Kailua-Kona.

Their focus has been to reduce public drinking, drug use or sales, harassment and other violations in these areas.

We have also initiated patrols on Cushman scooters in Kailua, to heighten police visibility and to increase law enforcement.

MARIJUANA ERADICATION

INHIBITING THE GROWTH AND DISTRIBUTION OF DRUGS ON OUR ISLAND

During 1985, the officers of the Hawaii Police Department pulled up five marijuana plants for every man, woman and child on the Big Island.

That is a lot of marijuana, a total of 563,621 plants. It was a substantial increase over 1984, when we destroyed 325,761 marijuana plants. Additional utilization of helicopters resulted in the large number of plants destroyed, in part because of increased funding from the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration.

We also seized and destroyed 2,783 pounds of dry marijuana in 1985, and we arrested 461 people on marijuana related charges. Another 142 people were arrested on charges relating to the sale, use, distribution or possession of drugs other than marijuana.

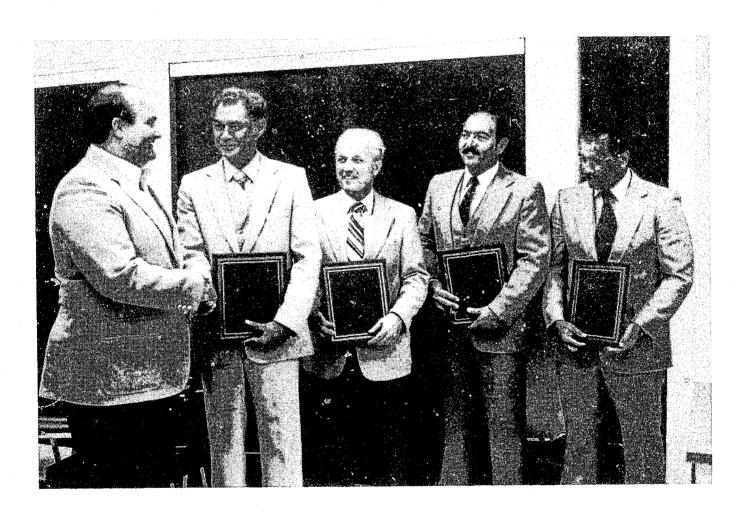

The marijuana destroyed on the Big Island, by DEA estimates, had a street value of more than a half-billion dellars. We believe we were able to get only 15 to 20 percent of it.

In one major incident in late 1985, police officers raided a 'marijuana factory' at Glenwood where we seized three large green houses, a residence, 1,084 plants, 300 pounds of dried marijuana and $52,000 in cash.

We are noticing a greater importation of cocaine into Hawaii, a trend that concerns all of us in law enforcement. In one major breakthrough, we were able to arrest 14 people in Hilo and Honolulu as the result of an investigation into a large-scale ring of cocaine importers.

During August, 1985, in the U.S. Attorney General's Operation Delta Nine, a nation-wide marijuana eradication project, officers of the Hawaii Police Department pulled up 82,779 marijuana plants, more than any state in the nation and about one-fifth of the national total.

In March, 1986, the department, and three individual officers, were honored by the Drug Enforcement Administration for helping in the fight against drugs.

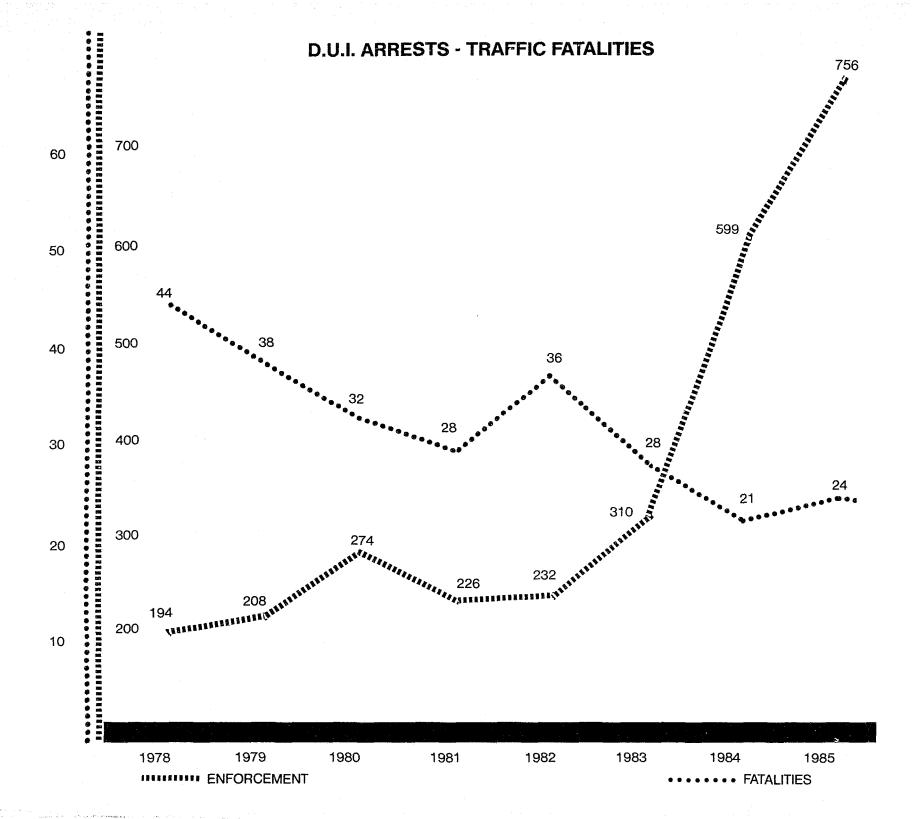

Certificates of appreciation were presented by Joseph Brzostowski, resident agent in charge of the Honolulu office of the DEA, to:

- *---Chief Guy A. Paul, who received the award on behalf of the entire department.
- *---Captain Charles Wakita, now commander of the Hamakua District but formerly head of the vice squad in Hilo.
- *---Lt. Dennis Correa, who heads the vice unit in Kona.
- *---Detective James Ferry, now in the criminal investigation section in Kona, but formerly a vice officer in Hilo.

The department, Correa and Wakita were cited for their ongoing assistance in the eradication of marijuana.

Ferry's award came as a result of his investigative work into the cocaine distribution ring as well as the initiation of an investigation in Hawaii that led to a number of California arrests by the DEA.

REDUCING TRAFFIC FATALITIES

The drinking driver, we believe, is a primary cause of traffic death on the Big Island's highways and roads. Because of that belief, the Hawaii Police Department has increased our effort at apprehending the drinking driver, hopefully before he kills himself or someone else.

Our total number of DUI arrests has been increasing annually. In the past two years, we have arrested more people for DUI than in the prior five years. And yet we continue to arrest them, by the day.

Traffic fatalities on the Big Island hit an all time high in 1978 of 44. With the increased emphasis on traffic enforcement since that time, the totals have decreased to 38 in 1979, to 32 in 1980, 28 in 1981, then increased to 36 in 1982, dropped to 28 in 1983, to 21 in 1984, and then showed a slight increase in 1985 to 24.

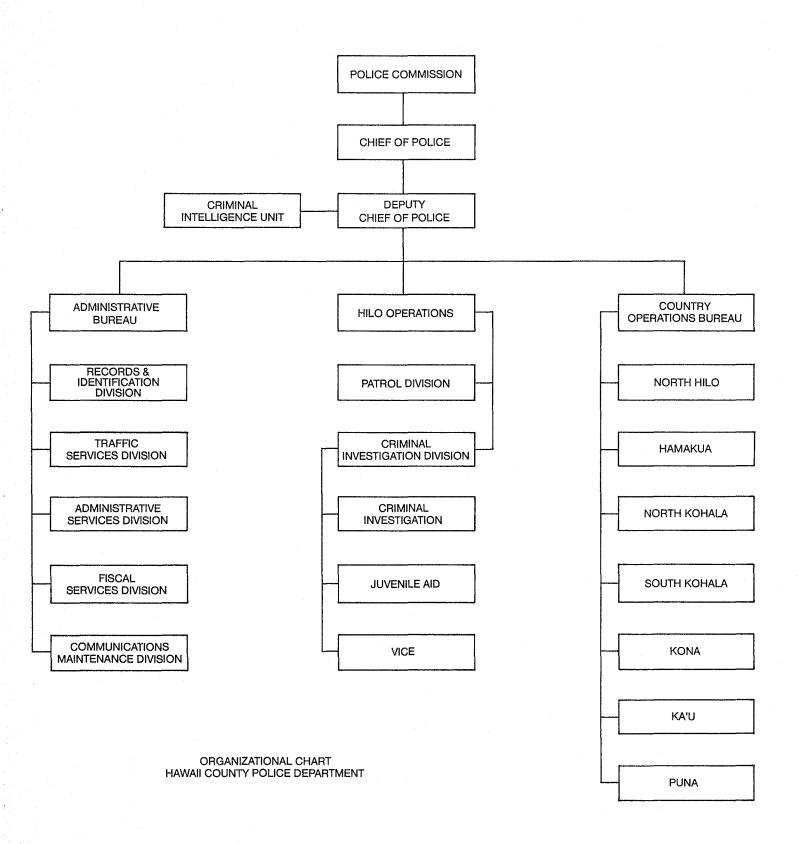

DUI arrests, meanwhile, have been increasing. We arrested 194 in 1978, 208 in 1979, 274 in 1980, 226 in 1981, 232 in 1982, 310 in 1983, 599 in 1984 and an all time record of 756 in 1985.

During the first half of 1986, we arrested 357 persons for DUI, and the emphasis continues.

One trend that has caused some concern is the tendency of some drivers to get their second, third or even fourth DUI conviction. The two-year-old law strengthening Hawaii's DUI penalties requires mandatory license suspensions for first, and second offenses, and a license revocation for the third conviction, but some drivers have been arrested for driving under the influence during that suspension period.

Among the other factors influencing traffic enforcement have been new regulatory laws, especially the ordinance prohibiting overtaking of a school bus displaying alternating red lights, and the new seat belt law. While these new laws help to reduce traffic accidents and injuries, they also require a substantial amount of time to enforce.

YEAR ENDS WITH DEPARTMENT'S RANKS FULL

The Hawaii Police Department ended the 1985-86 fiscal year at full strength, with a recruit class beginning on July 1, 1986.

The recruits, after four months of training, will go into the field to fill existing vacancies.

During the fiscal year, three veteran members of the department announced their retirement.

They were Inspector Robert Pung, head of the Administrative Bureau, Captain Albert Paiva, commander of the Honokaa District and Sgt. Joseph Keliipaakaua, a Kona patrol sergeant.

Pung, a member of the department for more than 30 years, was the senior of the department's three inspectors when he retired. He served most of his career in administration.

Paiva, a member of the department for more than 27 years, had served in Hamakua and Hilo, in traffic and patrol assignments, before being named Hamakua commander in 1984.

Keliipaakaua, also a member of the department for more than 30 years, served nearly his entire career in Kona.

Glenn Todd, who was commanding the Kona District, was promoted to inspector and named to head the Administrative Bureau. In other major promotions, lieutenants Charles Wakita and Raymond Simao were named captains and placed in command of the Honokaa and Kohala districts, respectively.

RECRUIT TRAINING THE BEAT GOES ON

One of the highlights of 1985 for the Hawaii Police Department was the graduation of a class of 20 police recruits, on Oct. 18, 1985.

The officers were then assigned to duty stations around the Island of Hawaii.

County Council vice chairman Kalani Schutte, a former Honolulu Police officer, was the keynote speaker at the graduation ceremonies, where Police Chief Guy A. Paul, Mayor Dante Carpenter and Police Commission Chairman Jacqueline Blackshear handed out diplomas to the graduates.

Richard A. Miyamoto was honored for the highest academic standing in the class, and Robert Hironaka received the top award for firearms proficiency.

Paul H. Kealoha, Jr., was the class president, Martin Ellazar, Jr., was the vice president, and Keith Tom served as secretary-treasurer.

Joining the 20 police officers for the four-month class was James F. Weller, Jr., a conservation officer for the State Division of Conservation and Resources Enforcement.

COMMUNITY COOPERATION CRITICAL TO SUCCESS

The cooperation of the public in solving crime has been a major factor in the efforts of the Hawaii Police Department.

The CrimeStopper program, in 1985, solved an all-time high of 96 cases through information received from the public. During the first half of 1986, another 44 cases were solved through public cooperation.

Rewards are paid out by two community groups, in East Hawaii and in West Hawaii, who handle the chore of raising funds, deciding on the amount of the reward and paying the money.

Through the program, we recovered $111,224 in stolen property and confiscated $1.0 million worth of drugs in 1985, and, in the first six months of 1986, recovered $18,185 worth of property and seized more than $3 million worth of drugs.

A total of $2,800 was paid out in 1985, and $2,250 in the first half of 1986, in rewards.

FIVE HONORED FOR ACTION IN KONA SHOOTING CASE

Five members of the department were honored for outstanding service during a shooting incident in Kona in December, 1985.

Honored in ceremonies during a meeting of the Police Commission at the King Kamehameha Hotel in Kailua-Kona were:

- *---Officer Julio Resureccion, who was cited for valor.
- *---Officers Bradley Ballesteros and Keith Tom, who were cited for meritorious action.
- *---Officer Leroy Victorino and dispatcher Linda Hirai, who received commendations.

All five were on duty in the Kona District during a shooting incident in the parking lot of a restaurant at the Honokohau Harbor.

Resureccion, a 15-year member of the police department, was the first officer on the scene at the restaurant parking lot.

He was cited for calmly assessing the situation, positioning the other officers as they arrived, exposing himself to possible danger while attempting to talk with the suspect after he locked himself in the car, and, after the suspect wounded himself, taking charge of the situation, getting medical help, recovering evidence and interviewing witnesses.

Ballesteros and Tom, who arrived at the scene after Resureccion, were cited for their efforts at maintaining control of the scene while the attempts to capture the suspect were in progress.

Ballesteros has been a police officer since July, 1982. Tom joined the department in 1985. Both have spent their entire careers, after recruit training, in Kona.

In letters to all three officers, Police Chief Guy A. Paul said "You were in a position where you could have used deadly force against the suspect with ample justification, but you avoided doing so.

"Your actions reflected an unusually high degree of professionalism and courage."

Victorino and Hirai were on duty at the police station when the calls came in.

Both were commended for their coolness during the frantic calls as they obtained information that was helpful to the officers arriving on the scene.

Victorino has been a police officer since 1979. Hirai has worked as a dispatcher in Kona since 1983.

1985 STATISTICS: AN OVERVIEW

The Hawaii Police Department's 1985 statistics showed an increase in major crime during the year, with the clearance rate remaining very high when compared to national average.

A total of 6,065 actual Part One (major) offenses were reported to police, compared to 5,448 for 1984. A total of 7,014 actual Part Two (lesser) offenses were reported to police in 1985, compared to 5,610 in 1984.

The grand total of actual cases reported was 13,079 for 1985, compared to 11,058 for 1984.

A total of 23,608 people, or nearly one out of every five living on the Big Island, received citations or were arrested for traffic violations during the year.

Of the department's $12.5 million budget, 65 percent was spent on salaries, 4 percent on equipment and 30 percent on other expenses, including contractual services, materials and supplies.

It cost each resident of the Island of Hawaii $114.76 for police service during 1985. There were 409 people on the island for every police officer.

Officers patroled nearly three and a half million miles on the Island of Hawaii during 1985, ranging from the South Point area to Upolo Point in North Kohala and from Cape Kumukahi in Puna to the Kailua-Kona area of North Kona.

Law Enforcement Code of Ethics

As a Law Enforcement Officer, my fundamental duty is to serve mankind; to safeguard lives and property; to protect the innocent against deception, the weak against oppression or intimidation, and the peaceful against violence or disorder; and to repect the Constitutional rights of all men to liberty, equality and justice.

I will keep my private life unsullied as an example to all; maintain courageous calm in the face of danger, scorn, or ridicule; develop self-restraint; and be constantly mindful of the welfare of others. Honest in thought and deed in both my personal and official life, I will be exemplary in obeying the laws of the land and the regulations of my department. Whatever I see or hear of a confidential nature or that is confided to me in my official capacity will be kept ever secret unless revelation is necessary in the performance of my duty.

I will never act officiously or permit personal feelings, prejudices, animosities or friendships to influence my decisions. With no compromise for crime and with relentless prosecution of criminals, I will enforce the law courteously and appropriately without fear or favor, malice or ill will, never employing unnecessary force or violence and never accepting gratuities.

I recognize the badge of my office as a symbol of public faith, and I accept it as a public trust to be held so long as I am true to the ethics of the police service. I will constantly strive to achieve these objectives and ideals, dedicating myself before God to my chosen profession. . . law enforcement.
