THE HAWAII PROGRAM

The purpose of the Criminal Injuries Compensation Commission is to compensate victims of certain crimes, dependents of deceased victims, and to indemnify private citizens for personal injury or property damage suffered in the prevention of a crime or the apprehension of a criminal.

During the reporting period of December 16, 1988 to December 15, 1989, the commission received 691 claims, awarded 463 claims, denied 138 claims, and 14 claims were withdrawn. The awards for this period totaled $553,258.18. Appendix A provides a case by case summary of the awards made by the commission. The increase projected in the last annual report did not materialize because the Victim/Witness offices did not implement their program changes until the end of the 1989. The commission's focus is not in the number of victims, but in providing personal, efficient service to the individuals. The following is reflective of awards made by the commission.

At approximately 1:17 p.m., the victim, a 73 year old retired female, was walking along the sidewalk by the Pali Longs Drug store. She was approached by an unknown female who asked her for the time. She told the suspect the time and the suspect suddenly grabbed her hand bag and attempted to flee. The victim, in her efforts to hold on to her bag, was dragged along the ground. She sustained injuries which included fractures to the right leg and right shoulder. Due to her advanced age and general physical condition, she was unable to undergo the required physical therapy. As a result, her mobility is restricted through the use of a walker. The suspect was never apprehended. The commission awarded the victim $4,693.83 for medical expenses and $5,000 for pain and suffering.

While enjoying an evening with friends at the Kapiolani Bowling Alley, the victim, a 37 year old female was shot in the legs. The suspect was the victim's husband and he appeared to be drugged or intoxicated. As a result of the gunshot wounds, she sustained fractures to both legs. The victim's loss of earnings totaled $6,121.75. The application was received on January 24, 1986. The award was limited by statute to the out-of-pocket medical expenses of $3,029.79 because the victim and suspect were members of the same household. As of June 6, 1989, the statute was amended and gave the commission discretion to compensate a victim for loss of earnings and pain and suffering when the victim and defendant are members of the same household. The additional award may be made provided the offender is not unjustly enriched by the award.

The commission staff continues to work closely with the Victim/Assistance Offices throughout the state. During the latter part of 1989, the Oahu and Hawaii Victim/Assistance programs have increased their outreach efforts. Previously their focus was servicing those individuals who were prosecuting their known assailants. Their expanded services now targets crime victims, who were unable to identify their assailants, but who may be potentially eligible for compensation.

Table I provides a breakdown of the applications received, completed and pending as of December 15, 1989.

The following is an example of a case that came before the commission and was denied.

The Applicant was a 19 year old female who claimed that she was sexually and physically assaulted. According to the statements made to the investigating officer, the Applicant acknowledged that she was standing on the corner of Pauahi and Nuuanu streets. She discussed the services to be rendered and the cost with the suspect prior to voluntarily entering his car. The Applicant and the suspect drove to an isolated area where they mutually agreed to engage in sexual acts. However, when the Applicant refused to comply with requests for additional sexual acts, the Applicant was punched, and slashed with a knife. The commission denied the claim because the Applicant was involved in prostitution which is an illegal activity.

Appendix B provides a case by case summary of each denial. Table III provides the reasons for denial and the numbers denied.

PERSONNEL

Mr. Geoffrey Hamilton continues to chair the commission while Mr. Thomas Blondin, and Mr. Jacob Manegdeg continues to render their services as commission members. Based on amendments made during the 1988 Legislative Session, the compensation for commissioners were increased from $50 to $100 per day. There were 65 commission meetings during the 1989 reporting period of which six were for training and for the development of commission policies. The remaining 59 meetings were for conducting hearings to determine eligibility for compensation. There were 11 meetings conducted on the neighbor islands. It was not uncommon for the commissioners to hear 25 to 30 cases per day and be in hearings for six to eight hours. On the island of Oahu, the commission hears nine applicants per meeting. A meeting on Oahu lasts from one to two hours. Prior to each meeting, the commissioners review the applicants' file and make a preliminary decision.

Although the commissioners received an increase in daily compensation, the statutory maximum earnings limit of $6,600 was not increased. It is anticipated that the commission must cease hearings in April or May 1990 because the commissioners would reach the statutory maximum earnings. This concern will be addressed in the 1990 Legislative Session to raise the maximum earnings to $10,000 per fiscal year.

As of August 28, 1989, the commission's office relocated to 335 Merchant Street (Old Federal Post Office). The increased office space was based on the newly authorized positions. Of the three temporary positions, two investigator positions were filled with emergency hires in September. However, the position for the temporary clerk typist continues to be vacant. With the increased investigative and clerical staff, the applicants should receive personal and efficient service on their claims.

In addition, the Investigators will be responsible for ensuring that the commission is reimbursed by Applicants who received payments from other sources, after a commission award is rendered. This would involve securing court documents to establish the collateral source amounts recovered through civil action, restitution, no fault or medical insurance, or workers' compensation.

In addition to the approval of the three additional staff positions, significant amendments were made to HRS Chapter 351. The eligible crimes now include Negligent Homicide I and II, Negligent Injury I & II, and Abuse of Family and Household. Additional amendments now provide compensation to Hawaii residents who are injured or killed in a State without a victims' compensation program to file claims. A good cause provision for late filing was also approved. The primary focus was on child victims who do not immediately report crimes committed against them.

The Administrator is looking forward to devoting her efforts to drafting and finalizing the commission's policies and procedures manual as well as updating the rules and regulations. This will ensure consistent decision making for the current and future commissioners. In anticipation of these projects, requests were already made to the other states compensation programs for their statutes, rules, and procedures manuals. These documents will be used as building blocks for the commission to formulate their rules and procedures. The possibility of alternative funding will also be explored as a method to reduce appropriations from the General Fund.

THE FEDERAL PROGRAM

The Omnibus Crime package signed by President Reagan on October 12, 1984 established a Crime Victim's Compensation Fund in the U. S. Treasury. Hawaii will receive $142,000 in Federal Funds in Federal Fiscal Year, 1990. These federal funds cannot be used to supplant state funds. In the past, the State Appropriations were depleted within six months of its receipt and victims have had to wait in excess of eight months after notification of their eligibility for benefits.

CONCLUSION

Since the inception of the program in 1967, the Hawaii commission completed 5,718 awards totaling $6,667,953.44, denied 1,856 claims and had 90 claims withdrawn.
