The project is supported by BJS grant number 91-BJ-CX-K025. Carol Kaplan, chief, Federal statistics and information policy branch of BJS, supervised the project.

Foreword

This report presents detailed information on the processing of cases in the Federal criminal justice system for the years 1982, and 1986-91. Some tables also contain data for 1992. The data describe initial prosecution decisions, referrals to magistrates, court dispositions, sentencing outcomes, length of sentences imposed, and length of time served in prison. Both the number of defendants and the percentage rates are presented for each stage of the process.

The report was developed under the Bureau of Justice Statistics' Federal Justice Statistics Program and is intended to complement the Compendium of Federal Justice Statistics issued each year and the various Bulletins and Special Reports on the Federal system. The BJS Federal justice database, maintained under the program, is available for public use at the National Archive of Criminal Justice Data, Inter-university Consortium for Political and Social Research, as data collection ICPSR 9296. BJS believes that this report will be of value to criminal justice practitioners, policymakers, researchers, and all others interested in understanding the workings of the Federal criminal justice system and dedicated to ensuring its successful performance.

This report is made possible through the cooperation of three Federal agencies that provided source records to BJS: the Executive Office for U.S. Attorneys, the Administrative Office of the United States Courts, and the U.S. Bureau of Prisons.

Acting Director

Methodology

The data in this report come from the BJS Federal justice database. The database is constructed from source files provided by the Executive Office for U.S. Attorneys, the Administrative Office of the United States Courts (AO), the U.S. Bureau of Prisons, and other Federal agencies whose files are used in other BJS reports. Federal law prohibits the use of the BJS database for any purpose other than research or statistics.

In each table, data describe the calendar year indicated.

The source for 1982 and 1986-89 data is Federal Criminal Case Processing, 1980-89, with Preliminary Data for 1990. Data for 1990 and 1991 supersede that publication. Comparable data for 1980-85 may be found in Federal Criminal Case Processing, 1980-87. Additional information for each year may be found in the Compendium of Federal Justice Statistics.

Data for 1991 in tables 1 through 7, 13 and 14 are incomplete because the Executive Office for U.S. Attorneys phased out the Docket and Reporting data system during 1991-92. The tables are based on records entered into the system through January 1992. In years prior to 1991, data for tables 1 through 7, 13 and 14 for each calendar year included records entered into the Docket and Reporting data system through the end of the following year.

The data shown in tables 8-12 and 15-17 for 1990 through 1992 reflect a change in the AO's file closeout procedures and are not exactly comparable to data for earlier years. (The number of defendants shown for 1990 through 1992 are slightly lower than would have been anticipated under previous file closeout procedures.)

The offense classifications in tables 1-17 are based on the classification system used by the AO. Specific offenses in the AO classification are combined to form the BJS categories in the tables. These categories are designed to be as consistent as possible with BJS publications on State criminal justice systems. Offense categories in table 18 are based on combinations of offense designations used by the Bureau of Prisons. They are similar to the categories in other tables, but may not be directly comparable.

Where more than one offense is charged or adjudicated, the most serious offense is used in the classification. The offense description may change as a case goes through the criminal justice process. In tables 1-17, the offense which may result in the longest sentence is used. In table 18, prisoners are classified according to the offense which actually bears the greatest sentence. Tables indicate whether charged or adjudicated offenses are used.

Tables 1-7, 13 and 14, which describe the number and rate of prosecutions and the results of magistrate proceedings, include only those matters handled by U.S. attorneys. Tables 8-12 and 15-18, which describe the number and rate of convictions, sentencing patterns, incarceration rates, and lengths of sentences imposed and served, include all cases regardless of the prosecuting agency.

In tables 1-7, 13 and 14, from 1980-89 some matters concluded as racketeering offenses were categorized according to their predicate offense (e.g. murder), or were included only in the total of "all offenses," if the predicate offense was not shown in the source data. Beginning in 1990, racketeering offenses are included in the category "racketeering and extortion."

The average sentence lengths reported for 1991 in table 17 are based on partial data. 1,688 offenders (approximately 6% of the total) were excluded because of questionable sentencing information.

Explanatory notes

Exact definitions of all offense categories are provided in the glossary.

Tables 1-7, 13 and 14. These tables describe the disposition of matters handled by U.S. attorneys. Suspects are classified according to the most serious offense investigated. Data describing prosecutions by other agencies, including the Criminal Division of the U.S. Department of Justice, were not available for this report. Data in all the remaining tables describe the processing of defendants in all court cases, regardless of the prosecuting agency.

In 1991, the Department of Justice provided U.S. attorneys with lists of cases shown in the data as having remained inactive for long periods of time, and directed that resolutions be reported to the Docket and Reporting system, if possible. As a result, many cases which had been shown as pending were reported to be declined for prosecution, or were shown as resolved by U.S. magistrates. Statistics for 1991 were substantially affected by these recordkeeping activities.

Tables 8 and 10-12. These tables tabulate defendants according to the most serious offense charged.

Tables 9 and 15-17. These tables tabulate convicted offenders according to the most serious offense of conviction.

Tables 15 and 16. These tables include all sentences to incarceration longer than 4 days regardless of whether the term was concurrent or consecutive with a period of probation, a fine, or other condition.

Suspended sentences and sentences to "time already served" are not included as incarceration sentences.

Table 17. Average lengths of imposed prison sentences are tabulated for all adult offenders receiving a sentence with a maximum term, excluding only offenders receiving an indeterminate sentence such as a life sentence or a death sentence. The average is the mean value of the maximum terms to be served, considering all consecutive and concurrent sentences.

These figures differ from statistics published by the Administrative Office of the United States Courts for the average "regular" sentence imposed. "Regular" sentences exclude two categories of offenders included in the BJS calculations: offenders receiving a "split" sentence (5 days through 6 months followed by probation) and offenders sentenced under 18 USC 4205(b)(1) and (b)(2) (where a maximum term is set accompanied by no or a small minimum).

Table 18. Prisoners are classified according to the offense associated with the longest sentence actually imposed. (Classifications in other tables are based on the longest potential sentence allowed by law.) Offense categories are based on combinations of offense designations used by the Bureau of Prisons. They are similar to the categories in other tables, but may not be directly comparable. The table includes only prisoners committed by U.S. district courts for violations of the U.S. Code. Other prisoners, such as probation and parole violators, and other types of offenses, such as military, D.C., or state offenses, are excluded. Unlike BJS publications concerning State prisoners, which exclude prisoners serving sentences under one year, table 18 includes Federal prisoners who received sentences of any length. Offenses for a few offenders could not be classified; these offenders are included in the total. Time served is the number of months from the prisoner's arrival into custody of the Bureau of Prisons until first release from prison, plus any jail time served and credited. The calculation is the same as that currently used by the Bureau of Prisons. Other publications may include different groups of prisoners, calculate time served differently, or use a different offense classification, and consequently their estimates of time served may differ from those in table 18.
