YOUTH RESOURCE MANUAL

There are certain things that all Texans have in common, never mind their age. We all need the basics: food, someplace to live, a chance to work or go to school, and people to care about us. Sometimes, though, even the basics feel out of reach — like when there is no money for food or rent, and finishing school or finding a good job seem as likely as sprouting wings and flying to the moon. You know you need help, but there isn't any out there, especially not for you. Besides, finding help is just too hard. Right?

Wrong.

The Attorney Generals' Youth Resource Manual makes asking for help easy. It tells you who in your county is offering all kinds of services that you or your family might need, from education and job training to nutrition and child support. If you want to be a court reporter but have no idea how to start, look up "Proprietary Schools" under "Texas Workforce Commission" and learn about trade schools in your county — and across the state. Are you scared because you can't quit drinking or using drugs, no matter how hard you try? The information under "Texas Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse" tells you about substance abuse treatment close to home.

And the Manual is not just for young people; it can help whole families. If your mom's boyfriend keeps beating her up, you can show her how to contact the nearest women's shelter. Or if your brother's leg was shot up in a drive-by but your family can't pay for all the therapy he needs, you can turn to "Crime Victims Compensation Program" to see about help.

Each section in the Manual tells you, first, about the services offered by a particular agency or program. Next, the Manual shows how to find that service in your community, by looking up your city or county to find the office nearest you.

The hardest part of asking for help is knowing who to ask. With the Youth Resource Manual, the hard part is done for you. Now, it's up to you—ASK!

Texas Department of health

The Texas Department of Health (TDH) is a large state agency that oversees several smaller divisions and programs. You can turn to TDH for: help with family planning services; testing for sexually transmitted disease or the virus that causes AIDs; or counseling and treatment; and Women, Infants and Children (WIC) nutritional services.

Bureau of Vital statistics

The Texas Department of Health is a large state agency that oversees various smaller divisions, such as the Bureau of Vital Statistics.

What is the Bureau of Vital Statistics?

The responsibility of recording all the births, deaths, marriages and divorces in Texas belongs to the Bureau of Vital Statistics. Each year, almost 750,000 documents are registered, and the public requests more than 200,000 searches for documents such as birth certificates used by young people to enter school or for adults to prove citizenship.

How can I get a copy of a birth certificate?

There are two ways that you can get a copy of a birth certificate:

First, you can get a certified copy by going to the nearest county clerk's office in your area. It 'd probably be a good idea to call the county clerk's office before you go to find out what specific information you need to bring with you, and to find out how much it costs to get a birth certificate, because it may be different from county to county.

The list following this section offers locations and phone numbers of offices in your county that can help you get a birth certificate copy.

Second, you can also get a certified copy of a birth certificate by writing the Bureau of Vital Statistics in Austin at: Bureau of Vital Statistics, P.O. Box 12040, Austin, Texas 78711-2040

The searching fee for a birth certificate is $11.00.

In your letter, you must include the following:

- the name on the birth certificate being requested
- that person's date and place of birth
- their father and mother's full name, including mother's maiden name
- your purpose for getting the certificate
- your relationship to the person whose certificate you are requesting
- your daytime telephone number
- your handwritten signature and return mailing address
- a photocopy of your picture ID, such as your driver's license

Under Texas law, copies of birth certificates are confidential for fifty years and can be obtained only by qualified applicants. A qualified applicant is defined as the registrant, immediate family member either by blood or marriage, a guardian, or a legal representative. For more information, call (512) 458-7692.

CONSUMER CREDIT

Why is establishing credit important?

Having money problems can cause stress, family arguments, and health difficulties — that's why establishing credit is so important. Not having money sometimes means not having control of your life.

Having a strong credit rating gives you a certain "power of the purse" — you alone can control what you can and cannot buy. By developing skills in saving, tracking, and spending your money, you can get yourself and your family on the road to financial strength.

Common ways to establish good credit are:

- Always pay your bills on time
- Open a checking account
- Open a savings account
- Apply for a store credit card
- Take out a small loan
- Get a gas credit card

The trick to keeping good credit is not running up high balances that you can't pay.

Who can I call to ask questions about my credit rating?

The following are World Wide Web (WWW) sites that can give you information about establishing credit and setting up your own business.

The list following the WWW sites gives numbers to local Consumer Credit Counseling Services, which teach money management and give bill consolidation information. Calling your local number will put you in touch with someone who can help answer your financial questions. Look up your county on the list, then call the service in the city that is closest to you.

Expanded Nutritional program

What is the Expanded Nutritional Program?

How can you eat right on a tight budget? Have you ever faced empty cupboards with an empty wallet and wondered how anyone can survive on a limited income? The Expanded Nutritional Program (ENP) can help answer these questions. Run by Texas A&M University's Agricultural Extension Service, the ENP teaches food safety in the kitchen, how to purchase nutritional, low-cost food, and more.

How can ENP be reached?

At this time, ENP is available in only nine Texas counties. If you live in one of these counties, call to see how ENP can help you and your family.

Bexar County ENP (San Antonio)
(210) 732-9300

Cameron County ENP (San Benito)

Department of Protective and regulatory services

The Department of Protective and Regulatory Services (DPRS) is a large agency that supervises the work of several smaller agencies or programs, including Child Protective Services (CPS) and Services to At-Risk Youth (STAR).

CHILD PROTECTIVE SERVICES

What is Child Protective Services?

Texas law requires CPS to investigate reports of suspected child abuse and neglect, then take action to protect these children. CPS also provides services to children and families in their own homes, like teaching parents how to cook, clean, or shop for groceries — anything that needs to be done better if the family is to stay together. Plus, CPS works with at-risk and runaway youth, does gang prevention activities, and operates the Texas Runaway Hotline.

How can you reach CPS?

- To report suspected child abuse and neglect or get information and referrals for other services, call CPS toll free at 1-800-252-5400.
- The number for the Texas Runaway Hotline is 1-888-580-HELP (4357) and 1-800-392-3352.

CHILD SUPPORT PROGRAM AREAS

Office of the Attorney general

The Office of the Attorney General (OAG) is the place to turn for information on juvenile crime intervention programs, child support enforcement and compensation for victims of crime.

CHILD SUPPORT DIVISION

What is the Child Support Division?

The law requires that both parents help cover the cost of raising a child, and the OAG's Child Support Division works to make sure that both parents live up to that responsibility. To do this, the division:

- Finds absent parents
- Establishes paternity (identifies legal fathers)
- Sets up, enforces and sometimes changes court orders for child support and, in some cases, medical support
- Collects and distributes child support money

The division can also help parents who know they owe child support and want to pay, even if they're behind in their support payments.

Child support basics

Either the father or the mother can be a custodial parent, the parent who has legal custody of a child. Usually the other parent, the non-custodial parent, is required to pay child support. So either parent, mother or father, could need the services of the Child Support Division.

If a mother is the custodial parent and receives TANF benefits, she is required by law to help the Child Support Division identify the child's father in order to collect child support.

Paternity

If a child is born to parents who are not married, the child's father has no legal status. Having a father sign the baby's birth certificate or an Acknowledgment of Paternity form is a good first step, but it has to be backed up by a court order legally establishing paternity. If the father's whereabouts are not known, the division can help find him and, once he's found, prove whether he is the baby's father.

Enforcement

Once the court knows who fathered the child, the court can set up support orders. Since both parents are required to help pay for raising their child, either parent could be the non-custodial parent, who is ordered to pay child support. If the non-custodial parent does not pay, the division can:

- Require the parent's employer to withhold child support from the parent's pay check
- Claim the parent's tax refund check, lottery winnings or any other money the parent might get from the state or federal government
- File a lien against the parent's property or other assets
- Go through a process to suspend the parent's driver's license, professional license (for example, a nurse's license) or recreational license (for example, a hunting license)
- File a lawsuit against the parent asking the court to enforce the child support order — a judge can even order jail time for parents who are not paying court-ordered child support.

How can the Child Support Division be reached?

For more information about child support services or establishing paternity, please call the Office of the Attorney General's Child Support Program toll-free at (800) 252-8014. If you are deaf or hard of hearing, please call our Deaf Outreach Program at TDD (800) 572-2686, or TDD (512) 460- 6417 or (512) 460-6399 or you can contact the Child Support Division's Area Office in your region. In order to find the correct office, check the map on the following page for the area number which corresponds to where you live.

Texas Counsel on family violence

What is the Texas Council on Family Violence (TCFV)?

To understand the Texas Council on Family Violence (TCFV), first you need to know what family violence means. The term "family violence" has been defined as a pattern of physical, sexual or verbal attacks that adults or teenagers use against wives, girlfriends or other family members and loved ones. This kind of violence is often done in the name of "love," but it's really done in order to control or have power over the victim. Though it's sometimes called a private or family matter, family violence causes injuries and even death. It also ruins relationships, destroys self esteem, and can add to a never-ending cycle of violence from generation to generation. So family violence is a problem that goes beyond the family.

TCFV works to prevent violence against women and children, the most likely victims of family violence. (While men also suffer abuse, far more women are victims; each year in this country, two to four million women are abused by their husbands or boyfriends.) The Council is a statewide, non-profit association of battered women's shelters and other programs for abused women and their children.

The Council also operates the National Domestic Violence Hotline, the nation's only 24-hour-a-day hotline for family violence victims and their families. The hotline provides immediate crisis counseling, support, information, and referrals in English and Spanish.

Family violence victims can call local battered women's shelters for information about legal help, support groups, crisis intervention, and safe places to stay.

How do you reach TCFV?

TCFV can be reached in Austin at (512) 794-1133, or by writing to the following address: 8701 N. MoPac Expressway, Suite 450, Austin, TX 78759. The toll-free National Domestic Violence Hotline numbers are (800) 799-SAFE (7233) and (800) 787-3224 (TDD, for the hearing impaired).

How do you reach your local domestic violence shelter?

To contact your local shelter, find your county on the following list. The list is alphabetized by county. When you see the word OUTREACH, it signifies that a shelter from another area provides services to that city or county. If you don't see your city or county listed, call a shelter that is in a near-by city or county, or call the Domestic Violence Hotline number, (800) 799-SAFE, for help.

What about Driver's Licenses and Identification Cards?

The DPS issues several different kinds of driver's licenses, depending on the driver's circumstances.

- The most restricted type of license, an instruction or learner's permit, is issued to people who are at least 15 years old, enrolled in school, and have taken driver's education. The student driver has to pass the DPS written test about Texas driving laws. A learner's permit allows the person to drive only with a licensed driver who's at least 18 years old in the front seat with the underage driver. The permit is good for one year or until the person's next birthday, whichever comes first, and costs $5.00.
- A provisional license is issued to someone at least 16 years old who has passed both the classroom and behind-the-wheel parts of driver's education. Proof of enrollment in school may also be required. The provisional license is renewed every year until the driver's 18th birthday, and the fee is $5.00. If you keep a provisional license beyond your 18th birthday, it's renewed every four years, the same as a regular license.
- A restricted, or hardship, license is issued to drivers at least 15 years old who have to drive because of necessity. In order to be eligible for this type of license, the person must have completed both parts of driver's education and must meet at least one of the following requirements:
  - The family would not be able to make enough money to live unless the youth can drive.
  - Someone in the family has a serious illness or disability, and the youth must drive the family member to the doctor or to get the basic necessities, like groceries.
  - Because of the death of an immediate family member, the youth must drive in order to keep the family functioning.
  - The youth is enrolled in a vocational education program and needs to drive to school and work.

A youth must prove that hardship exists when applying for this type of license. Proof could be a doctor's statement about an illness or injury, an employer's letter confirming that a job exists, or a letter from a school verifying enrollment in a vocational education program.

An adult must apply for this license on the youth's behalf. Both the adult and the youth must sign the application and present it at the driver's license office in the county where they live. Only a parent, guardian, or person having custody of the youth can apply on the youth's behalf. If the youth has no parent, guardian, or custodian, an employer or county judge can complete the application.

A person is considered an adult at the age of 18 and can get a driver's license without a parent's permission, taking driver's education, or being enrolled in school. The applicant must pass both a written and behind-the-wheel driving test to get a license. Licenses for people 18 years or older cost $24.00.

The DPS also issues Texas Identification Cards (ID). Often, banks or state agencies require a legal document with a photograph on it—a picture ID—in order to cash checks, open bank accounts, or obtain other services. An ID can be used for these services but can't be used as a driver's license.

To apply for a driver's license or ID card, you will need a legal document proving your identity, and a payment of $24. The most common types of legal documents accepted by the DPS are birth certificates, passports, or ID cards or driver's licenses issued in other states.

You can apply for renewal of an expired driver's license or a replacement driver's license or ID card at any driver's license office in the state of Texas. To get a replacement, you must show proof of your identity and pay $10.

Free driver's license handbooks are available at every driver's license office. The books teach you what you need to know to pass the written part of the driver's test. The handbook also contains the location and telephone numbers of many of the driver's license offices in the state of Texas.

What about outstanding arrest warrants?

If you think you forgot to pay a parking ticket and are afraid there's an outstanding arrest warrant floating around with your name on it, contact the DPS office nearest you. DPS will let you know if a warrant exists, who issued it (DPS, county, or city) and how settle to it.

How can you reach DPS?

For more information about any DPS service, contact the DPS office nearest you or call the DPS customer service line in Austin at (512) 424-2600.

on alcohol & drug abuse

What is TCADA?

TCADA is the state agency that provides money to local drug and alcohol abuse programs around the state. The services that a program in your community might offer range from prevention efforts — to keep people from getting “hooked” — to treatment with substance abuse counselors who teach people to live without drugs or alcohol. Eligibility requirements change from program to program.

How can TCADA be reached?

You can contact the nearest local provider for information about the substance abuse programs in your area. The following provider list is divided into 11 regions. Find your region, then look up the provider closest to you.

- Region 1 — Highplains
- Region 2 — Northwest Texas
- Region 3 — Metroplex
- Region 4 — Upper East Texas
- Region 5 — Southeast Texas
- Region 6 — Gulf Coast
- Region 7 — Central Texas
- Region 8 — Upper South Texas
- Region 9 — West Texas

GENERAL EDUCATION DEVELOPMENT (GED) CERTIFICATES

What is a GED certificate?

Most Texas school districts have special programs for students who are at risk of dropping out of school or students who have already quit school and want to get their GED certificate, which is equal to a high-school diploma.

The term “at-risk” means different things, depending on the student’s age. A student who meets at least one of the following requirements is eligible for a GED program:

Grade 6 and below

- a student who didn’t do well on a test given at the beginning of the school year to see whether the student was ready for school
- a student who did poorly on a test required by the State to see how well the student was doing in school
- a student who has trouble with the English language
- a student who has been sexually, physically or emotionally abused
- a student who is involved in the juvenile justice system for delinquent conduct

Grades 7 through 12, if the student is younger than 21 years old

- a student who hasn’t moved to the next higher grade level for at least two school years — for example, a student who has been in the 9th grade for two years
- a student who is at least two years behind in math or reading
- a student who has maintained a below-70 average in at least two classes and isn’t expected to graduate from high school within four years
- a student who did poorly on at least one part of the most recent test required by the State to see how well the student was doing in school
- a student who is pregnant or already a parent

Also, students are said to be at risk for dropping out if they live in a detention center, substance abuse treatment center, emergency shelter, psychiatric hospital, halfway house, or foster home.

How do you find out about GED programs?

If you are interested in earning a high-school equivalency diploma, contact the central administration office of your local school district. Addresses of Texas school district contact information is listed alphabetically below.

Office for the Education of homeless children & youth

What is the Office for the Education of Homeless Children and Youth?

If you are having trouble enrolling in public school because you're living with friends or relatives, not with one of your parents or a legal guardian, the Office for the Education of Homeless Children and Youth can help.

This office will help you identify the school attendance zone in which you live and give you the address and phone number of the school you can attend. You can also learn how to enroll in school even if your parent or legal guardian refuses to help you. The Office also maintains an extensive list of service providers and can point you toward help with finding clothing, food, housing, and medical services.

How can you reach the Office for the Education of Homeless Children and Youth?

The Office runs a toll-free hotline 1-800-466-3142. You can also reach them by calling (512) 475-9702, or writing:

The University of Texas at Austin
Charles A. Dana Center
2901 North IH 35, Suite 3.200
Austin, TX 78722-2348

Office hours are Monday through Friday, 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., and you can leave a message after regular office hours.

Texas Dept. of Human Services

services for families and children

What are Services for Families and Children?

Have you ever been in a situation where you didn't have enough money to buy food? Or when you didn't have a place to live because you couldn't afford to pay rent? Has some unexpected problem — like a car accident or being sick — put your family in a really serious money crunch? If so, the Texas Department of Human Services (DHS) might be able to help. They give short-term help to families and single people by providing Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) benefits, food stamps and/or Medicaid.

Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC or TANF)

Families who qualify for this program receive cash to pay for the basics — expenses such as rent and utilities. Families with children and one parent in the household may be eligible for AFDC if the other parent is not providing support, or if one or both parents are disabled. Two-parent families may be eligible if the parent who earned the most money has become unemployed.

Food Stamps

Families, elderly and single adults can apply for food stamps — also known as the Lone Star Card — to help them meet basic food needs. The Lone Star Card can be used only to buy food.

Medicaid

Low-income families who meet certain federal requirements can also apply for help with medical care.

How can you reach the Texas Department of Human Services?

Look in the state government pages of your local phone book for the phone number and address of the DHS office nearest you. That office can send you an application and set up an appointment. Be sure to let the DHS office know if you are in a crisis situation and need emergency help. If you can not find the number in your local phone book, you can call (512) 438-3011 to the DHS office in Austin and ask for their help in locating the DHS office nearest you.

Bureau of HIV and STD Prevention

What is the Bureau of HIV and STD Prevention?

The Bureau of HIV and STD Prevention Services helps Texans find local testing, counseling and treatment for HIV (the virus that causes AIDS) and sexually transmitted diseases (STD), such as herpes, syphilis, chlamydia and gonorrhea. Many of the local services also provide pregnancy testing. The Bureau runs the AIDS Drug Assistance Program, where HIV-positive patients can get the medicine they need.

How do you find HIV and STD information?

The following pages list sources of information about HIV, STD and pregnancy services. They include:

- Toll-free, state agency (in Austin), and national telephone numbers for different health-related hotlines.
- Clinics for people who are HIV-positive or who have an STD — the services offered will vary from clinic to clinic.
- HIV counseling and testing sites.
- Clinics that specialize in working with children who are HIV-positive. Call your local clinic to find out what services they offer.
- Pharmacies that are part of the AIDS Drug Assistance Program

Find the city nearest you on the lists you're interested in to locate help close to home. You'll need to call the program to find out what services they offer. The lists are alphabetized by city.

Texas Workforce commission

The Texas Workforce Commission (TWC) is a large state agency that deals with employment, including apprenticeship training, employment information kiosks, proprietary or trade schools, and Project RIO-Youth.

What is the Texas Workforce Commission (TWC)?

The goal of the Texas Workforce Commission is to place Texans in jobs and give workers the skills they need to make a living. To meet that goal, TWC provides many programs and services including:

- TWC Public Bulletin Board System
- Alien Certification
- Apprenticeship Training
- Career Development Centers
- Communities In Schools
- Education Coordination Funds
- Employment Programs (JOBS)
- Employment Service
- Food Stamp Employment and Training
- Inmate Continuity of Care
- Inmate Employment Counseling

- Job Corps
- Job Counseling for Displaced Homemakers
- Job Opportunities and Basic Skills (JOBS)
- Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA)
- Labor Law
- Literacy
- National and Community Service
- Project RIO (ReIntegration of Offenders)
- Proprietary School Regulation
- School-to-Work Opportunities
- Senior Citizens Employment
- State Occupational Information Coordinating Committee
- Texas Work & Family Clearinghouse
- Trade Adjustment Assistance
- Work Opportunity Tax Credit Program

How do you reach TWC?

You can get information on these TWC programs and services by contacting the nearest regional TWC office. Use the map on the next page to find out which region you live in; then, look up the nearest office. Be sure to call the office before going in to see what services they offer.

Texas Workforce Commission

employment info kiosks

What are the Employment Information Kiosks?

For people who don't have access to Texas Workforce Commission (TWC) information on their own computers, TWC provides access through kiosks, or computerized displays, placed throughout the state.

How can you find a Kiosk?

The TWC Kiosks are easily accessible to the public. Consult the list below to find the Kiosk nearest you.

job corps

What is Job Corps?

It's a free residential job training and education program funded by the United States Department of Labor. Job Corps is an opportunity to obtain vocational training as well as personal and professional skills needed in order to get a job. This program also provides every applicant with the opportunity to enroll in English as a Second Language and driver's education classes, plus get help with job placement.

Who is eligible for Job Corps?

To be able to participate in Job Corps, you must:

- be 16 to 24 years old
- meet income requirements/be economically disadvantaged
- be a U.S. citizen or legal resident and have authorization to work in the U.S.
- be committed to completing training at
Job Corps

What do I need to apply?

To apply to the program, a person can meet with any Outreach and Admissions Counselor in their area to complete an application and give some other necessary information. The Outreach and Admissions Counselor (OAC) will ask every applicant to complete a health questionnaire and provide some behavioral information. Medical records may be requested from every applicant in cases where the information is needed to determine if the applicant can participate in the Job Corps program. Job Corps applicants can't currently be on probation or parole. (For job training information If you are currently on probation or parole, please look under "Project RIO" in this Manual.)

Will I be able to train in any field that I choose?

The Job Corps allows every student to choose their own field of study from a number of vocational fields according to what may be available at a given Job Corps Center.

Job Corps offers training in the following fields:

- Automotive trades
- Building trades
- Construction trades
- Manufacturing trades
- Business and Administrative Support
- Service Occupations
- Health Occupations
- Vocational Home Economics
- Protective Services
- Other vocational trades.

Do I have to be a high school graduate?

No, an applicant can earn a G.E.D. (high school equivalency diploma) at the Job Corps. The Job Corps is suited to help all students from elementary to college levels of education.

How long will it take to complete a training program?

It depends on you because you work at your own pace. Finishing the training usually takes 6 to 24 months.

Does this program offer any benefits?

Yes. This program offers a number of benefits. Benefits in the JobCorps Program include:

- Free tuition
- Free books, work clothes and tools
- Spending allowance
- Savings allowance

- Clothing allowance
- Child care allotment
- Job training
- GED program
- Driver's education
- Job placement assistance
- Paid vacation
- Free room and meals
- Free medical, dental and eye care

Who do I contact if I am interested in the Job Corps Program?

Proprietary Schools

What are Proprietary Schools?

Proprietary schools are privately owned, post-secondary (after high school) career or trade schools. TWC approves and regulates over 300 schools, about one-third of the private career schools in Texas. These schools provide training for over 70,000 students annually, preparing them for jobs in hundreds of fields, including secretarial and office occupations, electronics, dental and medical careers, and even commercial diving.

How do you find a Proprietary School?

Proprietary schools are located all across Texas. The following list can help you find a proprietary school near you. The list is divided into 10 regions:

- Austin/Killeen
- Central Texas
- Dallas/Fort Worth
- East Texas
- Houston/Beaumont
- Outside Texas (trade schools that aren't in Texas)
- Panhandle
- San Antonio/Corpus Christi
- South Texas
- West Texas

Decide which region you're in, then look up the proprietary schools in your area.

The following agencies might be able to help you if you're thinking about going to a trade school:

project rio-youth

What is Project RIO-Youth?

Project RIO-Youth is one of the bright spots in employment for youthful offenders who are trying to get their lives on track. Employment is one of the keys to keeping teenagers and young adults out of the criminal justice system. Project RIO started as a program to help adult ex-offenders prepare for, find and keep jobs, because an ex-offender who is working is three times as likely to stay out of prison as one who isn't working. Now Project RIO is working with juvenile ex-offenders, too. In 1996, Project RIO-Youth helped more than 502 juveniles in special start-up programs around Texas.

How do you find Project RIO-Youth?

Project RIO works through TWC offices to link education, training and employment. For more information, call the Project RIO office nearest you. The following list of Project RIO offices is alphabetized by city.

adult apprenticeship program

What is the adult apprenticeship training Program?

Have you ever thought about working at a trade — as a plumber or electrician, for example? The Adult Apprenticeship Training Program can help you not only to find a job, but also to build a career in your chosen trade. Apprenticeship is a way of training someone in a skilled occupation through a combination of classroom teaching and on-the-job work experience. Apprentices who successfully complete the apprenticeship training program become certified, skilled craft workers.

Each “wanna be” apprentice is tested and interviewed by a local apprenticeship committee. The committee decides how many apprentices will be taken into the program each year and conducts the final selection process. An applicant must be at least 17 years old and, in most cases, must have a high school diploma or General Educational Development (GED) certificate.

An apprentice has to work a regular 40-hour work week, plus attend related classroom teaching sessions. Some examples of related instruction classes are mathematics, safety, and blueprint reading. The classes are usually held in the evenings for three to six hours a week and last anywhere from one to five years, depending on the occupation. An apprentice must maintain an acceptable level of attendance and performance, both on the job and in class. Not showing up or doing a poor job for work or class usually results in a three- to six-month “setback” — in other words, the apprentice has to wait another three to six months before moving up to the next skill level (first year to second year, etc.). Since an apprenticeship is guaranteed a salary increase each time he or she completes a year of apprenticeship training, there’s a built-in incentive to attend and progress.

How do you reach the Apprenticeship Training Program?

The Apprenticeship Training Program is run through contracts with local education providers. For more information, contact the provider nearest you.

Texas juvenile probation commission

What is the Texas Juvenile Probation Commission (TJPC)?

The Texas Juvenile Probation Commission (TJPC) helps local juvenile probation offices, the offices that supervise juveniles who are in trouble. Besides supervising the juvenile to make sure he or she doesn't get into trouble again, they also help connect young people with programs and services they might need to stay out of trouble.

TJPC and your local juvenile probation office can help you in many ways — even if you are not referred to the juvenile probation department. They can give you information about programs in your area to help you keep out of trouble — like programs for coping with anger, substance abuse or any other problems you might be having. They can also tell you the truth about laws dealing with juveniles: for example, that your friends are wrong when they tell you nothing will happen to you if you help steal a car. The people at your local juvenile probation department can help you understand the real consequences of breaking the law.

How do you find your local juvenile probation department?

You can reach your local juvenile probation department by looking up your county on the following list and calling them up. If your county isn't listed, you can try another county near you. Or, you can call the Texas Juvenile Probation Commission at (512) 474-6700.

What is the Texas Rehabilitation Commission (TRC)?

TRC is a state agency set up to help people with physical or mental disabilities prepare for, find or keep employment. TRC's focus is on vocational rehabilitation, which means training to learn job skills in a trade school, college, university or at the work place. The help TRC can give includes, among other things:

- Artificial limbs and hearing aids
- Transportation
- Job preparation and placement
- Medical treatment and/or therapy to lessen or remove the disability
- Vocational training
- Counseling and guidance

TRC's Individual Transition Plan helps high school students plan their careers. In this program, counselors develop vocational rehabilitation plans that can include vocational testing, job application preparation and job interviewing skills. The actual services begin after the student has completed high school or received a GED.

In order to help, the TRC counselor needs to learn about a student's interests, abilities and skills. The counselors use tests to help determine the nature and degree of a person's physical or mental disability. (Don't worry! These are not the kinds of tests that you pass or fail.) People who qualify for services from TRC might also qualify for financial aid to help pay for training or medical assistance.

A person is eligible by meeting the following requirements:

- The person's disability must be what is keeping him or her from being able to work.
- The person must be able and willing to get and keep a job after receiving services from TRC.

Texas Department of _____ Mental Health and Mental Retardation

What is the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation (MHMR)?

Do you often feel so depressed that you don't want to get out of bed? Are you discouraged about your ability to learn in school or to control your own behavior? If you or someone in your family is having trouble coping with emotions or day-to-day life, MHMR might be able to help — all you have to do is call them to set up an assessment.

How do you find MHMR?

To find the MHMR office nearest you, look up your county under "County Guide to Services" below. The local agencies are listed alphabetically after the County Guide to Services.

What is the Women, Infants and Children (WIC) program?

WIC is a nutrition program that provides good, healthy foods to pregnant women, mothers who are breast-feeding or whose babies are younger than six months, and children from birth to age five. To be eligible for help from WIC, participants must be at risk for not getting enough nutritious food and must meet certain income guidelines.

The WIC program can help you in many ways. You are provided healthy food at no cost and free nutrition counseling on how to feed your family well on a budget. The money you save from having WIC supply some of your food can help you buy other foods not provided by the program: fresh fruits, vegetables, and meats. The WIC Program also provides free immunization shots to children.

How do you find the WIC Program?

To get more information, you can call WIC toll free at 1-800-942-3678, or contact the WIC office nearest you. Clinics that provide WIC services are listed alphabetically by city below.

Texas department of health family planning program

The Texas Department of Health (TDH) is a large state agency that oversees several smaller divisions and programs. You can turn to TDH for: help with family planning services; testing for sexually transmitted diseases (STD) or the virus that causes AIDS; or counseling and treatment; and Women, Infants and Children (WIC) nutritional services.

Bureau of Clinical and Nutrition Services Family Planning Program

What is the family planning program?

The following services are provided by federally-funded family planning clinics across Texas;

- Health histories and physical exams for women and men
- Breast cancer and cervical cancer screening
- Diabetes and anemia screening
- Pregnancy testing and counseling
- Referrals for prenatal care and other medical care
- Information about testing and treatment

- for sexually transmitted diseases
- HIV antibody testing and counseling (available at most clinics)
- Information about birth control methods
- Individual and community health education
- Services for youth

Who is eligible for services in clinics that receive government funds?

- Family planning services are provided to people regardless of their age, gender, marital status, handicap, religion, income, color, ethnicity or national origin.
- Payment for services is based on a sliding fee scale according to family income and size.
- Family planning services must not be denied because of a client's inability to pay.

How can you find a family planning program?

Health clinics across Texas provide the services offered by the Family Planning Program. To get more information, contact the participating clinic nearest you. The following list is alphabetized by city.

The Texas Department of Health (TDH) is a large state agency that oversees several smaller divisions and programs. You can turn to TDH for: help with family planning services; testing, counseling and treatment for sexually transmitted diseases and the virus that causes AIDS; and Women, Infants and Children (WIC) nutritional services.

TEXAS HEALTH STEPS

The Texas Department of Health believes in health care that stresses prevention and primary care as the most efficient and cost-effective ways to improve Texans' health. The mission of the Texas Health Steps Program is to provide primary health and dental care to Medicaid-eligible youth from birth through age 20. Through Texas Health Steps, clients receive regularly scheduled medical and dental checkups at no cost to them, as well as treatment for problems discovered during the checkups. In case of illness or emergency, a client may see a doctor through the Medicaid Program.

Texas Health Steps services include:

Medical Screenings—The Texas Health Steps screen is a health checkup that includes:

- a medical history (including physical and mental health and development)
- a complete physical examination
- an assessment of nutritional, developmental, and mental-health needs
- laboratory tests (including lead screening)
- routine immunizations
- health education
- vision screening
- hearing screening
- referrals to other health care providers (including dentists) as needed

Texas Health Steps checkups are offered according to a recommended schedule: the frequency varies according to the client's stages of growth. In addition to an inpatient newborn screening, Texas Health Steps clients can get 25 outpatient checkups. The recommended schedule for health checkups is:

- 1-2 weeks to 23 months old—eight health checkups
- 2 to 5 years old—four health checkups (one per year)
- 6 to 10 years old—three health checkups (once every two years)
- 11 to 20 years old—ten health checkups (one per year)

Texas Health Steps checkups are frequent during the adolescent years because growth and development then can cause real challenges for the young clients and their families. Clients are eligible for Texas Health Steps services until the end of the month when they turn 21 years old.

Public schools support the Texas Health Steps Program, so children may be excused from school for Texas Health Steps medical and dental checkups.

Diagnosis and Treatment—If any problems are found in a medical screening, follow-up visits may be scheduled with medical specialists and dentists.

Dental Services—Texas Health Steps clients can also get routine dental checkups every six months (starting at one year of age) and treatment for dental problems. Services include dental sealants on permanent molars. Limited orthodontic treatment is also covered by Texas Health Steps. Emergency or medically necessary dental services are available to Texas Health Steps clients at any time from birth through age 20. Checkups include age appropriate education about dental health, including use of fluoride and prevention of baby bottle tooth decay.

Vision Services—Each Texas Health Steps health checkup includes a vision screening. The Texas Health Steps Program provides one eye examination per state fiscal year (September through August) and eyeglasses every two years. The client may receive additional services if those services are medically necessary because of change in vision.

Hearing Services—Each Texas Health Steps health checkup includes a hearing screen. The Texas Health Steps Program also provides testing and treatment of hearing problems. Hearing aids are available through the Program for Amplification for Children of Texas (PACT), which is also run by the Texas Department of Health.

The Texas Health Steps Comprehensive Care Program (CCP)—Children and adults younger than 21 are eligible for any medically necessary and appropriate health care services that are covered by Medicaid regardless of the limitations of the current Texas Medicaid Program. Services such as medical equipment, braces and artificial limbs, private duty nursing and therapy services can be provided through CCP, but the physician must document that the service is medically necessary. CCP services end on the day of the client's 21st birthday.

Clients' Rights in the Texas Health Steps Program

- All Texas Health Steps services are free to the client and are offered without regard to sex, race, color, disability, national origin, or religion.
- All Texas Health Steps services are confidential and voluntary.
- Any Texas Health Steps client who feels he or she has been treated unfairly has the right to file a complaint or ask for a hearing.

How To Reach A Provider In Your Area

Call the Texas Department of Health at no cost to you by dialing 1-800-252-8263 to be referred to a provider in your area.

Department of protective and regulatory services

The Department of Protective and Regulatory Services (DPRS) is a large agency that supervises the work of several smaller agencies or programs, including Child Protective Services (CPS) and Services to At-Risk Youth (STAR).

Services to At-Risk Youth

What is the Services to At-Risk Youth (STAR) program?

The goal of the STAR program is to provide services to at-risk teens and their families. STAR aims to keep young people out of the juvenile justice system and to strengthen families. STAR encourages teenagers to continue living at home if at all possible. When you aren't living at home, sometimes it's harder in the long run for both you and your family. If you can't live at home, STAR may be able to provide you with an emergency place to stay, depending on your circumstances.

At-risk or delinquent youth can qualify for help from STAR if they meet one of the following requirements:

At-risk youth

- Runaway youth—A young person who has left home without his or her parent's permission or who has no identifiable residence. You may also be considered a runaway if your parents or caretakers have told you to leave or have consented to your departure.
- Truant youth—A young person who has been voluntarily absent from school for reasons the school does not accept.
- Youth in family conflict—A young person or someone in their family who asks for help because of significant family conflict.

Delinquent youth

- Youth from 7 to 9 years old who are involved in a delinquent offense.
- Youth from 10 to 16 years old who are involved in misdemeanor offenses or state jail felonies, but who are not adjudicated delinquent by a court. Pre-adjudicated and/or youth on deferred adjudication are also eligible.

There are some exceptions to qualifying for STAR services.

- Youth from 7 to 9 years old can't receive emergency residential services through the STAR program, although they may qualify for other services.
- Youth who are currently on probation for delinquent conduct, on parole, or in the custody of the Texas Youth Commission are also not eligible for services.
- A youth who is involved with an open CPS case is not eligible for services under the category of Youth In Family Conflict, but may receive services under any other category. When beginning STAR services, a youth can't be involved with an initial CPS investigation.
- Youth who are in CPS custody and are living in facilities that house more than 12 children aren't eligible for services from STAR. Youth who are in CPS custody and are living in foster or group homes may receive nonresidential services, but not residential services.

How can you find a STAR program?

Services are provided through contracts with local agencies in your community. STAR contractors decide whether a youth or family is eligible for STAR services and, if so, work with the family to determine what services are needed. Screening, intake and crisis intervention services are available 24-hours a day, 365 days a year. Contractors help the family develop a plan for relieving stress or conflict and may offer any of the following services:

- Short-term counseling
- Skills-based and/or advocacy training for parents and youth
- Emergency residential services
- Mentoring

STAR services are meant to be short-term—they usually don't last more than 90 days.

When the service is finished, the contractor meets with the youth and family to discuss the progress made and may suggest additional services in the community. Contractors get back in touch with former STAR clients or families 90 days after STAR services have ended to find out how they're doing and if they need more help.

To find out more about STAR, look up your county under "County Guide to Services" below. The local agencies are listed alphabetically after the "County Guide to Services."

Texas department of commerce

The Texas Department of Commerce is a large state agency that oversees several smaller divisions and programs, such as the Office of Community Assistance and Small Business, a part of the Business Development Division.

What is the Office of Community Assistance and Small Business

The Office of Community Assistance and Small Business gives help and referrals on technical issues related to developing a small business. If you own a small business or if you are planning on starting a small business, they can help you. Small businesses are businesses that have less than 100 employees or less than $1 million in gross annual sales. The following list shows what services are provided by the Office of Community Assistance and Small Business:

- Small business startup and expansion information
- Referrals to community resources
- Assistance through training seminars and workshops
- In-house technical assistance
- Toll-free information number
- On-line information through the Internet

How can you reach the Office of Community Assistance and Small Business?

The Office runs a tollfree hotline 1-800-888-0511 for businesses and individuals looking for information on starting a business. You can also reach them by writing or calling the Small Business Development Center (SBDC) nearest you. SBDC locations are listed below.

Texas department of public safety

The Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS) is the place to turn for information on everything from driver's licenses and ID cards to outstanding warrants and sex offender registration information for both teenagers and adults.

Sex Offender Registration

What about the Sex Offender Registration Program?

If you're required to register as a sex offender, you must contact your local law enforcement agency—the police department if you live in the city or the sheriff's office if you live in the county. The purpose of the sex offender registration law is to help police in investigations, establish legal grounds to hold offenders found in suspicious circumstances, prevent sex offenders from committing new offenses, and offer citizens information so they can protect themselves.

After you are released or adjudicated, a law enforcement officer, judicial officer, or juvenile probation officer, has to inform you of your personal responsibility to register as a sex offender with the local law enforcement agency in the city you plan to live in. This is where the actual registration will take place. The Department of Public Safety does not perform the actual registration, but only maintains the statewide records

Under current law, juvenile probations officers have been added to the list of law enforcement officers who must help to oversee the ongoing registration of juvenile sex offenders. For instance, if you are a registered juvenile sex offender and are planning to move, you must report to your probation officer weekly. The juvenile probation officer has to inform the local law enforcement agency in which you live of your moving plans, as well as inform the law enforcement agency for the city you are planning to move to of your pending move.

Some things you should know:

- Juvenile and adult sex offender information is considered public information.. However, juvenile probation cannot release the information to the public. Only the Department of Public Safety, local law enforcement, or a penal institution has this authority. Juvenile sex offender information is still excluded from newspapers.
- In addition to notifying public schools of a sex offender within the district, law enforcement agencies must also notify private schools. The private school administrator may release to the public information regarding the person required to register, but note that public schools do not have the same authority.

How can you reach DPS?

To register as a sex offender, first contact your local law enforcement agency. For more information about any DPS service, contact the DPS office closest to you or call the DPS customer service line in Austin at (512) 424-2600.

OAG sexual assault prevention and crisis services division

What is the Sexual Assault Prevention and Crisis Services Division?

The Sexual Assault Prevention and Crisis Services Division gives funding and other types of help to sexual assault programs in Texas. The Sexual Assault programs themselves provide counseling and support to victims of sexual assault, or rape.

How do you find out about a sexual assault program in your area?

The following pages list sexual assault programs alphabetically by city. Some of the services that these programs offer are:

- 24-hour crisis hotline
- Crisis counseling when you need help

because of a sexual assault or attempted sexual assault

- Public education—for example, a rape crisis staff member may do a presentation at your school
- Someone to go to the hospital, the police or sheriff's office, or to court with you or your family
- Volunteer training
- Someone to help you work with police, doctors, nurses, and prosecutors

Not all of the communities in Texas have a sexual assault program. If you need one, look for the city nearest you.

You do not have to file a police report to receive help from these programs.

OAG crime victims' compensation division

What is the Crime Victims' Compensation Program (CVC)?

If you or your family become victims of crime, you may qualify for financial help to pay certain costs related to the crime. Texas law sets the guidelines and, using those guidelines, CVC decides who qualifies for help.

Who may qualify?

- An innocent victim of a violent crime who is either physically or emotionally hurt.
- A person who is helping the victim pay for certain expenses caused by the crime.
- An authorized person acting on behalf of the victim.
- Family members related to the victim by marriage or by blood who need counseling because of the crime.
- An intervenor, which is someone who went to the aid of the victim or a peace officer.
- A peace officer, fire fighter, or individual whose job includes protecting the public.

What crimes are covered in Texas?

- Sexual assault, kidnapping, aggravated robbery, assault, homicide and other violent crimes where someone killed or hurt either physically or emotionally.
- Only these motor vehicle related crimes: DWI, failure to stop and render aid, manslaughter, criminally negligent homicide, aggravated assault and intoxication manslaughter.
- Acts of mass violence and international terrorism.

Basic qualification requirements:

To be eligible for help from CVC, a victim has to meet the following requirements:

Residency

- The crime must have happened in Texas to a Texas resident or a United States resident, or
- The crime happened to a Texas resident while they were in another state.

Reporting the crime

- The crime must be reported to the appropriate law enforcement agency within a reasonable period of time, but not so late as to interfere with or hamper the investigation and prosecution of the crime.

Filing for Compensation

- A victim must file an application not later than three years from the date of the crime. The time may be extended for good cause, including the age of the victim or the physical or mental health of the victim.

Cooperation

- A claim may be denied or reduced if the victim has not substantially cooperated with the appropriate law enforcement agency.

Who is not eligible:

- A victim whose own behavior contributed to the crime—in those cases, benefits may be reduced or denied.
- A victim who knowingly and willingly participated in the crime.
- A victim who was engaged in illegal activity at the time of the crime.
- Anyone who was in prison or on probation or parole when the crime occurred.

Limits on awards:

- No one is eligible for more than $50,000 unless the victim suffered total and permanent disability.
- Victims who suffer total and permanent disability because of the crime may qualify for an additional $50,000, which can be used only to pay for:
  - making a home or car wheelchair accessible
  - providing job training and vocational rehabilitation
  - training in the use of special appliances, such as artificial arms or legs
  - home health care
  - reimbursement of lost wages

What expenses are eligible?

CVC can't reimburse you for property that was damaged or lost because of the crime. But victims whose claims are approved may be reimbursed for the following costs, if the cost was caused by the crime:

- Reasonable medical, prescription and rehabilitation expenses
- Mental health counseling
- Funeral expenses
- Loss of earnings or support
- Child care
- Loss of wages and travel expenses due to participation in or attendance at the investigation or trial
- Cost of crime scene cleanup
- Replacement costs for clothing, bedding, or property seized as evidence or destroyed in the investigation
- Reasonable attorney fees for help with filing for and obtaining benefits, if the claim is approved

Payment from other sources

The Crime Victims' Compensation Fund is regarded as the payer of last resort, which means that any other available assistance (insurance, Medicaid, etc.) has to pay before CVC benefits could be paid.

How can CVC be reached?

Every law enforcement agency in Texas is required to provide Crime Victims' Compensation Program information and an application to victims of crime. You can contact the crime victim liaison in your local police department or sheriff's office, or the victim assistance coordinator in your prosecutor's office, for information about victims' rights and crime victims' compensation. Crime victim liaisons and victim assistance coordinators are also required to help fill out the form. Hospitals and medical centers may also have this information.

You may obtain an application from the Crime Victims' Compensation Division in the Office of the Attorney General by calling 1-800-983-9933 or writing to:

Office of the Attorney General
Crime Victims' Compensation Division
P.O. Box 12548
Austin, TX 78711-2548

Your county may offer other victim services, such as rape crisis centers and domestic violence shelters, and several statewide groups help crime victims in different ways. The following list provide victim service contacts both statewide and at the county level, including:

- Statewide victim services groups
- Local law enforcement agencies (to reach your crime victim liaison or crime victim assistance coordinator)
- Other victim service organizations, like rape crisis centers and domestic violence shelters

The list is alphabetized by county.

public libraries

What are public libraries?

Maybe you think libraries are just for the “super-student” types. Well, if you check it out, you’ll get a really different idea. Public libraries are for everyone. You can use them to teach yourself all sorts of things: job skills, GED, sports, hobbies, how to raise your children—the list is endless. You can use libraries to get information about health problems, family problems, or job hunting. Librarians are trained to help you, and they will treat your requests for information as confidential.

Public libraries have books (of course!), but they also have videos, music CD’s, magazines, and newspapers. Many even have computers and access to the Internet. They can also be a good place to go when you just need a quiet place to be alone. All public libraries will let you come in and use their services. If you live in the area, you can ask how to check out books and other materials to use at home. There is little to no cost for checking items out, but you will be responsible for late charges if you don’t return the material on time.

How do you find the closest public library?

For information about anything under the sun, call or go to your local library. The address and phone number for the main branch of your local library is listed below. You can call the main library to find out which branch library location is nearest you.

Texas Information & Referral Network community information centers

What are Community Information Centers?

Community Information Centers can help you find everything from low cost housing and employment information to baby-sitting services and parenting support groups.

The best way to start is to make a list of what you need to know. For example, you need to know about:

- a GED program
- job training information
- available jobs in your town
- low cost food, clothing and housing
- Alcoholics Anonymous (AA) meetings

Call the Community Information Center in your town. They'll direct you to local providers who offer the help you need.

When you have the names, addresses and phone numbers of local providers, call and ask:

- Do you need to schedule an appointment to start their service?
- What requirements do you need to meet in order to obtain services—for example: Is there an age requirement? Is a GED required?
- What are their hours of operation?
- Where are they located and is there bus service?
- Do you need to bring anything with you, like an identification card or social security card?

And you're set to go.

How do you find your Community Information Center?

Find the county closest to you on the following list, then call or go by the center nearest you. You'll find more resources out there than you can imagine, and it never hurts to ask for help!

What is a junior or community college?

A junior or community college is a two-year academic program that offers specialized training in different fields of interest. Associates degrees or certificates can be earned in certain areas of medicine, law, computer science, business administration, or technical arts.

Many people choose to begin their college careers in community schools because they are often close to home, have small class sizes, and are reasonably affordable. The advantages of a community or junior college education are that, upon graduation, you can either transfer your credit to a four-year university or enter the job market with valuable and competitive job skills.

Who can enter a community college?

Junior and community colleges require a GED or high school diploma for admission. Contact the community college which you wish to attend to get more information on their admission guidelines.

How can you contact your nearest community college?

The following list gives world wide web sites which contain information about community and junior colleges. Also, the list following the WWW sites gives contact information for community and junior colleges by county. These contact people in your county who can offer guidance in selecting, financing, and enrolling in a community college that is right for you.
