SUMMARY

As stated in previous reports, the Ad Hoc Committee for Logan is doing an excellent job of meeting the goals and objectives as set forth in their grant application. The Program has done a good job of becoming an intricate part of the total community structure. It has created and implemented innovative techniques to foster community relations and participation. As the Program has progressed over the summer it has continued in this vein.

The programmatic emphases for this summer were on developing and maintaining more cohesive community relations through cultural, recreational and educational activities. The Program received a grant of $1,000 from the City this summer. This money was used to promote recreational and educational activities for the youth in the Logan area. The money was shared with the Police Athletic League, the Muhelenberg Lutheran Church and the Bouvier Wagoner Block Club. The Center also sponsored several cultural and recreational field trips for the community's adults and youth. Also, one of the most outstanding activities of the Center this summer was the developing of "Youth Employment Services of Logan" Proposal which was submitted to the City of Philadelphia for funding.

The Program will be funded for operation starting this fall. It will be located in the Muhelenberg Lutheran Church. Preparation for programmatic implementation has already begun. The program is designed to find jobs for youth, ages 15 to 22. There will also be career counseling and motivational workshops for youth. The program promises to be a very active and worthwhile project.

The conclusion of this report will feature the residents of the Ad Hoc Committe of Logan's Controlled Impact Interview which was conducted by the Community Management and Technical Assistance Consultants' evaluators.

COMMUNITY IMPACT SURVEY

٠.

A pre-selected sample of target area residents were surveyed by telephone interview concerning their perceptions of and involvement with Ad Hoc Committee for Logan. Inverviews were conducted between the hours of 12:00 noon and 10:00 p.m. on June 27, 1976. The 14 respondents were contacted from a list of 26 project participants. Among the listing, which was provided by the Project Director, were Project officers, Block leaders, and other volunteers. Interviews were performed according to a standard-ized questionnaire. See Figure 2, "Community Impact Survey."

Respondents were all adults, including four males and ten females.

Although they were blacks, whites and various ethnics, no exact characteristics were obtained. Eight respondents indicated that they had children, mostly young.

All respondents were very enthusiastic about the Project. Accordingly, they exhibited high civic consciousness. They expressed high degrees of motivation and willingness to be involved in Project activities.

While all respondents were thoroughly familiar with ANCL, they indicated no acquaintance with other neighborhood agencies and organizations that were "... working to better conditions ... as regards to crime control, citizen involvement in law enforcement, or information and referral on social services ...". When asked "how did you first hear about this organization," most respondents explained the effectiveness of public relations that is conducted by the Project. All respondents became familiar with the Project through articles and announcements in the Lagan Times newspaper, announcements of meetings and Project activities in the monthly AHCL newsletter (which is distributed through block captains to neighbors), advertisements, city-wide newspapers, and radio and television spots.

Eight persons became involved in seeking to have various neighboring problems and conditions corrected. While one volunteered to be Block Captain to get her street cleaned, another was elected AUCL Vice President after she had been advised by friends to go to the Project to have a stop sign placed on the corner of her block. The Project President complied with the participants' encouragement to head a housing committee, when she first approached the group at a meeting to address problems of housing abandonment. On the other hand, one participant learned of the Project three years ago when she moved into the area, becoming involved by attending meetings as a replacement for a friend and neighbor, who was her Block Captain.

Lengths of participation ranged from one to three years. When asked "... residents of this community [are] familiar with Ad Hoc Committee for Logan" all respondents were very affirmative, indicating "yes" to the questions "...that your neighbors know enough about AHCL," and "... that enough community residents are familiar with ACHL." To the latter question they expressed consensus that the Project has been extremely successful in generating resident participation and publicizing its activities. Most people in the target area learn about AHCL through means that the respondents became familiar. They are: through the 65 organized blocks, block meetings and Block Captains that have direct contact with the Project, newspapers, and mass media, agency newsletter, and (more importantly) an area-wide community organization convention attended by 450 people that was sponsored by AHCL.

All respondents were familiar with no other agency or project in the target area that operated similarly to AHCL. Noted one interviewee, other programs in the area are issues-specific, being designed to deliver a particular service or function. Such are the Kensington Action Now (KAN) and Neighborhood Action programs.

When asked "what type of organization is Ad Hoc Committee for Logan? What does it do in this community?" All persons described it as a comprehensive community organization and advocate agency. Exclaimed one interviewee: "If anyone in the community needs help, other than of a political and legal nature, they will get help. Ad Hoc prevented the neighborhood from changing into what North Philadelphia is now. Another explained that she's gotten a lot of support from Ad Hoc for her block. The following were cited as functions performed by the Project:

- -Boarding up and fixing up vacant houses through the Department of HUD;
- -Controlling gang activity;
- -Providing youth activities through Youth Committee;
- -"Keeping City Hall on its toes, as far as community needs are concerned;

- -Working with schools to get better education accommodations;
- -Working against "red lining;" and
- -Conducting safety activities.

One respondent saw AHCL as helping the community, doing what the community wants. "They don't tell you what to do." "Ad Hoc is a viable group that encourages community involvement in handling problems that affect the community. It causes people to get involved," pointed out another. He further explained that with the changing demographic character of the neighborhood and increasing youth population the public schools are over burdened; Ad Hoc is working to resolve such problems.

Concerning effectiveness and impact, "what are your feelings about this organization? What are your impressions? Why do you feel the way you do about this organization?" To these questions one interviewee felt that AHCL is very well organized and has come a long way in four years. She further noted that the Project is more than adequate; in such a diversified community AHCL has helped to reduce fears and suspicions.

One person pointed out that he has been pretty well impressed with AHCL's ability to "get things done" and win the respect of the community. Likewise, another felt that community residents who have not been active in the Project feel the same way. Added another, "they get results, and are backed up by the people. People do rally around problems." Concerning neighborhood responsiveness, she explained that "they do come out if there's something bothering them or personally affecting them."

Most respondents were fully involved in the Project activities. Furthermore, members of their families regularly participated. Asked "do you feel that you or your family should have become involved with AHCL?" respondents who were parents noted that their children participated in youth activities. One man noted that his children attended a gathering at the Project office when Congressman Green visited to inspect the HUD housing program. His children also participated in the block clean up.

"What should Ad Hoc Committee for Logan do in this community" that it's not doing now? All respondents again were very affirmative. Cited one, "the more people, the better, but it's a good thing." "It's doing so much; it's doing all it can," claimed another. One man felt that there is a "lot" to be done, and that "things" are only at the beginning, the effort is on-going.

However, one respondent residing on the west side of Broad Street felt that AHCL is placing far too little emphasis on working on the west side than on the east side. She explained that her "side" largely got involved with the Project through independent Black More Beautiful Clubs. But there seemed to her to be too little effort directed toward doing more on the west side. Nevertheless, she felt that the situation was understandable. That is, the high visibility of problems on the east side makes problems on the west side to be fewer. She explained that people on her "side" are aware of Ad Hoc, but some feel that they should be organized independently of the Project. The respondent felt that all efforts can be more effective if the entire community is organized with AHCL in a unified program. Otherwise, she knew of no more the Project can do in terms of services and activities.

Summary

The Ad Hoc Committee for Logan is a comprehensive community crime prevention program, located at 4900 N. 11th Street. The program has as its major challenge the progressive development of the Logan community. This challenge is being met through the developing, organizing and implementing of youth activity programs, community crime prevention programs, housing programs and community awareness and educational awareness projects. The Ad Hoc Committee for Logan was organized in 1973. The broad base of the organization has encompassed all of the major religious, educational and civic organizations in its area.

One of the most unique factors about the Logan community is its multi-racial population. It is the only community in Philadelphia that is composed of over six (6) distinct ethnic groups. Prevalent in this area are Jews, Ukrainians, Koreans, Blacks, Portuguese and Puerto Ricans.

The service area of Ad Hoc Committee for Logan is located in census tracts 281, 282, 283 and 284. The 1970 census reports that the population is 26,516. However, due to the constant changing of the racial make-up of the area, the population has fluctuated. For example, there has been a constant influx of Blacks and Puerto Ricans moving into the Logan area. The Koreans, Chinese and Indian population has also increased since the 1970 census.

Consus statistics of the seventies also revealed that as the ethnicity of the community changed so did many socio-economic factors. The majority of the residents of Logan are working people. Thirty-three percent work in manufacturing, twenty-two percent in trade occupations and forth-five percent in services. The median years of school completed by residents who live in this area is 11.3. The 1970 census also revealed that there were over 310 vacant and abandoned houses in the area. The median value of homes owned in the area was $10,250. The contracted rentals ranged from $85 to $184 per month.

Three (3) major proviems have come about as a result of changes in the community's racial mix: an increase in crime, soaring unemployment, and an increase in abandoned houses. Therefore, the Ad Hoc Committee for Logan has banded together with various community constituents to combat the cocio-economic ills that have come with a changing community.

Ad Hoc has made phenomenal accomplishments in its short period of existence. The purpose and function of Ad Hoc Committee for Logan has permeated the mainstream of the community. Through well planned and organized efforts and dedicated leadership, Ad Hoc has effected definite and positive changes in the progressive development of its service area.

The core and volunteer staff of Ad Hoc is racially and sexually mixed. This mix includes Whites, Blacks, Koreans, Ukrainians, Portuguese and Puerto Ricans. There are four (4) core staff members under the LEAA grant and three (3) trainees under a grant from the Department of Community Affairs. This makes a total of seven (7) full-time staff members. There are over forty (40) volunteer staff members who are active Board members and block organizers.

A synopsis of the program's activities and accomplishments shows its comprehensive nature and the impact that it has had on the Logan community. The program recently organized fifty (50) blocks with seventy-five (75) block captains. The summer youth activities involved over 300 youth from the area. The program referred and placed fifteen (15) youth with the Neighborhood Youth Corps. Ad Hoc has also joined forces with the Philadelphia Department of Recreation and project PRIDE to provide staff for the Cook Task Force (CTF) on youth educational, recreational and tutorial programs. This provides evening socialization and educational activities for 617 youth from the Logan and Nicetown area. Other youth activities with which the Center is involved is: gang control, the sponsoring of various athletic teams and participation in youth advocacy training.

The Ad Hoc Committee has been extremely active in developing and implementing projects to enhance community safety. Such projects have gravitated around improving street lighting, getting rid of abandoned housing and establishing the Logan Safety Committee. In the past year, the City has installed approximately 331 street lights in the Logan area. The trees on twelve (12) streets have been pruned in order to improve night lighting. There has also been established a signed agreement with the Department of Housing and Urban Development to rehabilitate and sell fifty (50) houses in the Logan area.

The Ad Hoc Committee for Logan is a vibrant part of the Logan community. It has in the past two years made a major impact on the progressive development of the Logan area. There is a need for this program. The staff has worked diligently to accomplish all the goals and objectives as set forth in the Grant Application.

The Ad Hoc Committee for Logan has made phenomenal accomplishments in the positive development of the Logan community. This has been successfully done through the project's well organized plan to meet the growing community development needs of Logan. Ad Hoc interfaces with all of the major religious, educational and civic organizations in the community. The major areas of concentration for Ad Hoc are the following: block organization, youth activities, gang violence prevention, housing and community, and youth advocate training. In each of these areas the project has made marked accomplishment. The following chart gives details of the progress and achievements during the current funding year.

- (3) In March, 1976 eight parttime block organizers were hired.

G. Staff Development

During the last evaluation period there were three major recommendations made by the Evaluators. These re-commendations were:

- A. Advancement in core staff.
- B. Improved standardized record keeping procedures.
- . C. More diversified youth programs.

Ad Hoc has made much effort in trying to improve the quality and quantity of its development.

Recommendations

Progress

- A. Advancement in core staff. (1) The program obtained a grant from the Department of Community Affairs which allowed it to add more staff from the community.
  - (2) The program hired a block coordinator in January, 1976 and in March several parttime block organizers.
  - (3) The program presently has one Director, one secretary, a youth worker, a block coordinator, three trainees and 35 to 40 volunteers.
- B. Improved standardized record keeping procedures.
- (1) Some improvement has been made in this area. However, there is room for improvement.

Progress

- (2) Activity Report which gave a detailed account of all the activities and accomplishments made by the project in 1975-76.
- (3) The development and distribution of a program brochure.
- (14) Based on the program activities, the program has received very good coverage in local newspapers.
- C. More diversified youth programs.
- (1) The program co-sponsors a basketball team, football team and several youth activities. There is a youth employment service. There has been an expansion of cultural, recreational and educational activities.
- (2) Summer youth program.
- (3) Co-sponsors tutorial program.
- (4) Worked closely with Crisis Intervention Team to prevent gang violence.

Recommendations (cont.)

Progress

(5) The participation rate in youth activities has more than doubled in the past year.

* Note: In the area of public relations the Center has produced a monthly newsletter which sometimes is printed in several languages. The program has also distributed a brochure as part of fund-raising efforts. It has also received news coverage in the local community newspaper and City-wide newspapers.

Recommendations

Ad Hoc has done an excellent job of servicing and working with the Logan community. However, the following are some recommendations based on the impact evaluation survey of 1975, current interviews, collected data and onsite observations.

- A. Improvement in record keeping system. Emphasis should be placed on a management information system so that more accurate data can be collected on the on-going progress of the program.
- B. More quantifiable goal definition. There should be designed a measurable plan of goals and objectives. This should be done in planning sessions with the entire staff.
- C. In the area of public relations, the program can develop an annual report that can give pictorial detail of the progressive development of the program.
  - D. Strategic development to educate the community in the functioning of local, state and national government in relations to crime prevention and community development.
