PAROLE AND PROBATION SERVICES

In accordance with Chapter 247.29 through 247.32, Code of Iowa, the following report was submitted by the Parole Board and attached is a report of the Division of Adult Corrections regarding the Bureau of Community Correctional Services which has provided parole and probation services.

Supervision of parolees and probationers is provided by the Bureau of Community Correctional Services, Division of Adult Corrections. In addition parole and probation staff have provided pre-sentence investigation services to District Courts and work closely with other agencies in the local community.

Since the parole and probation staff are key elements in the re-integration of the offender into the community, a cooperative relationship is required with the staff of the correctional institutions and with the staff of the Riverview Release Center at Newton, as well as half-way houses located in Iowa.

Parole and probation staff have the responsibility of receiving probation cases from the District Courts and parole cases from the correctional institutions, as well as supervision of cases transferred to the state through the Interstate Compact for the Supervision of Parolees and Probationers. Following the granting of a parole by the Board of Parole the Parole and Probation Officer investigates the proposed plan and determines its suitability for release. Adults on parole and probation provide for their own maintenance and support. While employed, they can contribute to the support of their families thus reducing the public welfare rolls, and remain in the community as productive citizens, paying taxes and not using taxes in supporting them within institutions.

As of the end of this reporting period, 56 parole and probation officers were supervising a total of 507 adult parolees 1471 adult probationers (felons), 91 adult probationers (misdemeanants), and 397 Compact parolees and probationers transferred through the Interstate Compact for the Supervision of Parolees and Probationers.

During the current 24 month reporting period 3443 pre-sentence investigations were prepared and submitted to the District Courts of Iowa by the staff of the Bureau of Community Correctional Services

Parole and Probation services within the Bureau of Community Correctional Services is organized on a Judicial District basis with one supervisor and a staff Parole and Probation Officers assigned to each Judicial District. The Bureau administrative staff was composed of a Bureau Director, Associate Director, Special Services Administrator, 2 Bureau Representatives, and a Resource and Program Planner. Clerical support is provided by positions assigned to the Bureau or through cooperative arrangements with other units of the Department of Social Services.

In addition to the supervision of parolees and probationers, preparation of Pre-Sentence investigation reports, and operation of Half-way Houses, the Bureau was responsible for providing for jail inspection services and correctional escort services. The utilization of correctional escort services for the return of work release violators, escapees, and parole violators allowed the parole and probation officers to spend full time in the supervision of their caseloads.

Services as of this reporting date are provided by 56 parole and probation officers. In addition planning and implementation of transference of pre-trial release, pre-sentence investigations, probation supervision and community based residential correctional centers is being carried out by the Bureau staff.

STAFF DEVELOPMENT

Grants of Federal Funds are made directly from the Department of Justice to schools and colleges in Iowa. Agents apply for grants to study special courses to improve their skills and ability to supervise. The Department of Social Services has stipends available to Bureau employees to take special courses while working full time to improve skills and gain knowledge. This method may be used to attain a B.A. or M.A. degree. Administrators and supervisors are also participating in management training programs at the Center for Labor and Management of the University of Iowa.

All staff are required to attend an intensive week long orientation and training session conducted by the Bureau which addresses itself to the entire spectrum of the Criminal Justice System. Staff are also scheduled to visit each institution for a one week introduction and orientation program.

Each year, a small number of selected staff attend national conferences such as the National Institute on Crime and Delinquency, the American Correctional Association meeting and the Interstate Compact Administrator's Association meeting.
