FOREWORD

The Law Enforcement Standards Laboratory (LESL) of the National Bureau of Standards (NBS) furnishes technical support to the National Institute of Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice (NILECJ) program to strengthen law enforcement and criminal justice in the United States. LESL's function is to conduct research that will assist law enforcement and criminal justice agencies in the selection and procurement of quality equipment.

LESL is: (1) Subjecting existing equipment to laboratory testing and evaluation and (2) conducting research leading to the development of several series of documents, including national voluntary equipment standards, user guidelines, state-of-the-art surveys and other reports.

This document is a law enforcement equipment report developed by LESL under the sponsorship of NILECJ. Additional reports as well as other documents are being issued under the LESL program in the areas of protective equipment, communications equipment, security systems, weapons, emergency equipment, investigative aids, vehicles and clothing.

Technical comments and suggestions concerning the subject matter of this report are invited from all interested parties. Comments should be addressed to the Law Enforcement Standards Laboratory, National Bureau of Standards, Washington, D.C. 20234.

Directory of Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice Associations and Research Centers

The directory lists national, nonprofit professional and volunteer social action associations and research centers which are active in the fields of law enforcement and criminal justice. The international and foreign organizations which are listed either have a large number of American members, have a U.S. chapter, or are doing work which is applicable to the United States. The local organizations which are listed either cover several States or are of national interest. The organizations are listed alphabetically. The format of an entry is: title of organization; mailing address; officer; telephone number; year founded; number of members; number of staff; description of purpose and activities; affiliations; publications; meetings. A subject index is included.

Key words: Associations; criminal justice; directory; law enforcement; research centers.

INTRODUCTION

This is a directory of organizations that are active in one or more areas of the criminal justice system, including law enforcement, courts, corrections and rehabilitation. The directory lists national organizations primarily, but also includes regional organizations and local organizations of special interest as well as international organizations which have a significant number of American members, a U.S. chapter or subcommittee, or are doing work applicable to law enforcement in this country.

The types of national law enforcement and criminal justice organizations listed in this directory are limited by the criterion that they be nonprofit. Included in this category are professional and volunteer social action associations, research centers (usually connected with a university), and government agencies. Strictly social or fraternal organizations are not listed.

The information about each organization in this directory forms a separate entry. Each entry contains the following information: (1) the full title of the organization and its acronym, where applicable; (2) the mailing address; (3) a person to contact within the organization, usually an incumbent officer; (4) the telephone number at which a contact person can be reached; (5) the year when the organization was founded; (6) the number of members; (7) the number of staff, where applicable; (8) a brief description of the purpose and activities of the organization; (9) affiliations, if any; (10) publications, if any; and (11) the date and place of the next meeting or convention, or when they generally occur. There are entries which do not contain any more than the first four of the above data items. In these cases it was not possible to obtain further information before the deadline for publication of the directory.

The first edition of this directory was developed primarily by scanning the Encyclopedia of Associations, the Research Centers Directory, and other general directories, and extracting from them the data on organizations relating to law enforcement and criminal justice. Whenever personal investigation revealed organizations which were not included in the primary source material, they were included in this directory.

Once the information was obtained from the general directories it was verified by telephone or by mail. Although in some cases it was not possible to obtain verification of the descriptions of the organizations, the names, mailing addresses, officers and telephone numbers for all entries are accurate as of June 1977.

The organizations are listed alphabetically. A subject index, which is located at the back of the directory, is cross-referenced and is based solely on information given in the descriptions of activities.

The first edition of this directory was prepared by B. J. Latka of the Law Enforcement Standards Laboratory (LESL) and was issued in June 1973 as NBS Technical Note 752. This thoroughly revised and updated second edition is the result of the efforts of several LESL staff members.

Nonpolitical organization seeking to arouse public concern with the nation's crime problems. Aims are: "To explore the needs for effective enforcement of criminal law, inform the public about them, and help the police, prosecutors and the courts to promote a more effective and fairer administration of criminal law." AELE intends to act as a friend of the court, representing the law-abiding public, in cases before the United States Supreme Court or before other courts where cases with a bearing on effective criminal law enforcement are being heard. Plans to aid in the defense of citizens who come to the aid of crime victims or the police and who are later charged or sued because of their "justifiable attempts to maintain law and order." Will draft model legislation and constitutional amendments to aid in effective law enforcement and public protection. AELE has stated that it is concerned with equal justice for all and that it will reject support and withhold voting membership from "advocates of racial bias or other unconstitutional concepts."

BATTELLE LAW AND JUSTICE STUDY CENTER

Human Affairs Research Centers
Box 5395
Seattle, Wash. 98105

Acting Director: Mr. Herbert Edelhertz
Phone: (206) 525-3130
Founded: 1971
Staff: 10

The Law and Justice Study Center is part of the Human Affairs Research Centers (HARC) which are formed by Battelle Memorial Institute at Seattle to focus and increase Battelle's capabilities in scientific research and development towards the solution of major societal problems. The Center undertakes research and evaluations for governmental and private agencies concerned with the social and legal aspects of criminal and civil justice systems. Multidisciplinary staffing of the Center embraces the fields of law, psychology, sociology, criminology, economics, statistics and operations research. The Center's capabilities are augmented by its access to the resources of Battelle's national and international components in Seattle, Richland (Washington), Columbus (Ohio), Frankfurt (Germany), and Geneva (Switzerland). The Center is currently involved with or has completed projects or reports in the areas of economic crime, victim compensation, restitution, rape, criminal receiving of stolen goods, multi-disciplinary training for criminal justice personnel, and alternatives to incarceration. Research results are published in reports to sponsors and in the form of monographs and books.

The Center has had a criminal justice component since 1971, providing group therapy sessions for the Corrections Honor Farm. Since July 1972 there have been two special programs for offenders: (1) DESEO (meaning "I desire" in Spanish) is a social orientation and rehabilitation program for convicts, ex-convicts and their families. It conducts pre-release groups at the State Penitentiary and the Honor Farm, conducts groups for wives in the community, has a youth group, sponsors a Little League Team (for children of offenders), takes families of offenders to visit inmates at the State Penitentiary, conducts groups for ex-convicts on parole and helps them find jobs; (2) PASO stands for "Positive Approaches to Sex Offenders" and is a community-based program for diagnosis and treatment of sex offenders. Some of its clients are assigned to group therapy and individual consultation as an alternative to incarceration. Others are referred to the program by probation and parole personnel or the staff of the Mental Health Center. PASO also conducts pre-release groups at the State Penitentiary. In July, 1974 a Court Clinic was funded by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration. This is sponsored by the Second Judicial District Court and is sub-contracted to the Mental Health Center, which hires the professional staff. The forensic-psycho-therapeutic team consists of one psychiatrist, one psychologist, two psychometrists and two social worker-counselors. The Court Clinic team provides diagnostic and evaluative services to the court on offenders referred to them. When appropriate, the team recommends treatment in the community using present community resources as an alternative to incarceration. The Mental Health Center is also providing some crisis intervention evaluation and therapy for offenders both at the Crisis/Intake Unit at BCMH/MRC and at the County Jail.

The Criminal Law Education and Research Center (CLEAR), financed largely by private foundation grants and by a Ford Foundation grant, coordinates the undergraduate and graduate criminal justice programs at New York University School of Law. More than twenty criminal justice courses and seminars are presently included in the curriculum. The program includes extensive criminological research and action components of an interdisciplinary nature. The Comparative Criminal Law Project, an operating division of the Criminal Law Education and Research Center, offers seminars in international, foreign, and comparative criminal law and criminology. It was established in 1958 and has been instrumental in making information about American criminal justice available to governments and research institutions abroad and in informing American governmental and private agencies about the system and developments in criminal justice abroad. Foreign scholars have served on the research and teaching staff of the Comparative Criminal Law Project, enabling it to carry on extensive comparative research in the workings of various aspects of criminal justice. Many of the results have been published in articles and books, forty of which are now in print.

The purpose of this project is to improve criminal justice planning, coordination and technical capacity in urban areas. It concentrates on the 55 major cities in the United States, but also provides information and some technical assistance to medium-size cities and to state municipal leagues. Activities include provision of technical assistance in developing or improving local criminal justice planning capacity; encouraging cities to broaden planning beyond Federal grants; and assisting with problems related to planning, program development, evaluation, and institutionalization of successful programs. Also, project staff gathers, screens and disseminates information on activities, programs and publications of innovative cities and other criminal justice organizations. Finally, the Project acts as a liaison between the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) and the cities and state municipal leagues. This includes monitoring LEAA guidelines review, and updating cities and state municipal leagues on new developments and programs within the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

The Section is involved in virtually every aspect of law enforcement, substantive and procedural criminal law, and the achievement of fair, speedy and effective criminal justice administration. Since 1968, the Section's major responsibility has been its nationwide program to implement the ABA Standards for Criminal Justice. These 18 volumes, developed over a ten-year period by leading professors, lawyers, and judges, provide guidance at every stage of criminal proceedings from the police function through the last post-conviction proceeding. In addition to its Committee on Implementation of the ABA Standards, the Section sponsors 18 other committees to consider and make recommendations to appropriate parties and organizations on such timely topics as alcohol and drug abuse, legal status of prisoners, psychiatry and criminal law, and reform of the federal criminal laws. In addition, the Section monitors and testifies on Congressional legislation which may affect the substance and practice of criminal law.

Not a membership organization. "To further the equal protection of the laws...by research into neglected aspects of court procedure, law enforcement, and the nature of crime; by sharing research results with jurists, lawyers, correction officials, and the public..." Conducted 3-year Manhattan Bail Project as a research-demonstration program designed to develop an alternative for the use of bail in criminal proceedings. Co-sponsored National Conference on Bail and Criminal Justice with U.S. Dept. of Justice. Since 1966 Vera has developed numerous projects designed to increase efficiency in court and police systems, e.g., the Calendar Control Project, which adjourned cases in advance and out of court in attempt to free judges of some clerical duties; Appearance Control Project, which makes it possible for only those police officers actually required in court to appear there, thereby saving substantial police time. Many of the projects have been institutionalized. Vera's other concern has been diversion of cases from the criminal justice process at the earliest stage possible, e.g., through the Manhattan Bowery Project, a detoxification center for indigent alcoholics to test non-penal approaches to the skid row problem; the Manhattan Court Employment Project, which offers counseling and finds work for certain criminal defendants and recommends dismissal of charges for those who participate successfully; the Manhattan Summons Project, which substitutes a summons for an arrest in qualified misdemeanor cases; the Bronx Sentencing Project, experimenting with developing community supervision alternatives to sentences of prison or parole; a variety of "supported work" projects which provides structured jobs and counseling for ex-offenders and ex-addicts, including the Wildcat Service Corporation that employs several thousand ex-addicts in public service tasks; the Neighborhood Youth Diversion Program, which seeks to divert delinquency-prone youths from the family court process into a community-based system; Pretrial Services Agency, which conducts verified interviews and supervises defendants to increase the rate of release-on-recognizance. Technical assistance available to local jurisdictions outside New York City interested in mounting Vera-type projects. Formerly: (1966) Vera Foundation.

7th STEP FOUNDATION

133 Oak

Bonner Springs, Kansas 66012

President: Anton L. Dusil

Phone: (913) 441-6858

Founded: 1963

Staff: 20

Founded "to help rehabilitate inmates and former inmates of penal or correctional institutions." Members are ex-convicts who attend a pre-release training class run by the Foundation in a penitentiary, or other ex-convicts who attend a post-release class. The Foundation also offers counseling by ex-convicts and finds sponsors who help released inmates with employment and financial problems. The Foundation's biblical motto: "Know the truth and the truth shall make you free" (John 8:32), aims to help convicts realize they have alienated themselves from society and must change if they are to avoid returning to prison. The Foundation's seven steps of personal development are: (1) facing the truth about ourselves and the world around us, we decided we needed to change; (2) realizing that there is a power from which we can gain strength, we decided to use that power; (3) evaluating ourselves by taking on an honest self-appraisal, we examined both our strengths and our weaknesses; (4) endeavoring to help ourselves overcome our weaknesses, we enlisted the aid of the power; (5) deciding that our freedom is worth more than our resentments, we are using the power to help free us from those resentments; (6) observing that daily progress is necessary, we set an attainable goal towards which we can work each day; (7) maintaining our own freedom, we pledge ourselves to help others as we have been helped. The Foundation developed from Freedom House, a Kansas corporation founded in 1963 by the late W. P. (Bill) Sands, an ex-convict and author of "My Shadow Ran Fast," and "The Seventh Step." A national expansion program was begun and the name changed to 7th Step Foundation in 1965, with Mr. Sands also a founder of the national organization.

A program of the Freeport, New York Police Department for citizen participation in the protection of their neighborhoods. It is designed to encourage all Freeport citizens to assist their local police in the prevention of crime by developing in each neighborhood a feeling of personal responsibility for what is happening there. Each participant is requested to be alert for anything concerning his neighbors' houses and to report any suspicious happenings.
