INTRODUCTION

Crime and Delinquency in California is an annual report published by the Bureau of Criminal Statistics (BCS) to present data on the extent of crime and delinquency in the state and on the manner in which criminal justice is administered. In order to make these data available at the earliest possible time, the 1977 report is presented in two parts.

Part I displays statewide data on crimes, arrests, the number of law enforcement personnel, and the amount of law enforcement expenditures. Crime and arrest data for each county and the 36 largest law enforcement agencies in the state are provided in Appendix A. Part II will be available in June 1978. It will include data on adult and juvenile offenders processed through the courts and correctional systems, as well as personnel and expenditure information for those agencies.

Data contained in Parts I and II are compiled from reports submitted to the Bureau on a regular basis by state and local criminal justice agencies. Also, some agencies were surveyed for possible reasons for fluctuations in reported crimes and arrests. Some of the interpretive analyses were based on the results of these surveys. Through the outstanding cooperation and assistance of the state and local criminal justice agencies, this report was made possible.

In addition to the Crime and Delinquency publication, a supplemental report series, Criminal Justice Profiles, is published annually. Profile reports are prepared for the state and each of the 58 counties. The reports contain ten-year trend data for the counties as well as annual county and jurisdictional data for the report year. Criminal justice data not provided in either the Crime and Delinquency report or the Profile series may be available from the Bureau on a special request basis.

CRIMES

In 1977, serious crime in California, referred to as the Seven Major Offenses (willful homicide, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, theft [$200 and over], and motor vehicle theft) increased 1.0 percent (from 907,898 in 1976 to 917,358 in 1977). This increase is noticeably less than the 3.6 percent increase recorded from 1975 to 1976. Forcible rape and willful homicide showed the largest increases from 1976 to 1977, up 12.2 percent and 12.1 percent, respectively. During the same one-year period, theft ($200 and over) showed the largest decrease, 1.7 percent.

When the number of crimes reported was related to the population (crime per 100,000 population), there was a decrease of 0.7 percent in the crime rate from 1976 to 1977 (4218.9 in 1976 and 4189.6 in 1977). In light of the actual 1.0 percent increase in number, it appears that the population grew at a faster pace than reported crime during the one-year period. During the four-year period from 1973 to 1977, the total crime rate increased 17.4 percent, while there was an increase in actual numbers reported of 23.9 percent.

The Seven Major Offenses are grouped into two categories: crimes against persons (willful homicide, forcible rape, robbery, and aggravated assault) and crimes against property (burglary, theft [$200 and over], and motor vehicle theft). Crimes are classified according to the Federal Bureau of Investigation's (FBI) Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) definitions. However, there are differences for some offenses between the national UCR crime definitions and California Penal Code definitions. For example, thefts from locked vehicles and telephone booths are scored as thefts for UCR purposes, but are considered burglaries under the California Penal Code. Shoplifting, where intent to enter a premise to commit theft can be established, is classified as a burglary in California but is scored as a theft by UCR.

Further, the FBI and BCS differ in the method of presentation of crime data. The national FBI/UCR Program includes all thefts, regardless of value, in its Crime Index. The Seven Major Offenses reported by BCS include only those thefts $200 and over. To allow comparison between the two indices, both the FBI/UCR Crime Index and the Seven Major Offenses totals are shown in Table 1. It should be noted that percent changes for low-volume crimes will tend to show greater fluctuations than those for high-volume crimes because smaller numbers are involved.

Crimes Against Persons

Crimes against persons usually involve a violent or potentially violent face-to-face confrontation between the victim and offender. This offense category comprised 16.7 percent of the Seven Major Offenses in 1977. Aggravated assault and robbery accounted for 91.4 percent (aggravated assault, 77,424, and robbery, 62,207) of the reported crimes against persons during the year.

Crimes against persons increased 6.5 percent, from 143,507 in 1976 to 152,827 in 1977. Forcible rape showed the greatest increase, rising 12.2 percent, while willful homicide rose 12.1 percent. Robbery, which decreased 1.0 percent from 1975 to 1976, increased 5.2 percent in 1977.

Willful Homicide

In 1977, willful homicide registered its largest annual rise since 1971, increasing 12.1 percent (from 2,214 in 1976 to 2,481 in 1977). Deaths resulting from gang activity (youth gang, prison gang, etc.) may have been a contributing factor to the increase.

Information on the type of weapons used in willful homicides in 1973, 1976, and 1977 is shown in Table 2. In 1977, firearms (55.6 percent) and knives/cutting instruments (22.3 percent) continued to be the most often used weapons.

Information on homicides involving peace officers is summarized in Table 3. From 1973 through 1977, the number of justifiable homicides committed by peace officers has increased steadily each year, from a low of 64 in 1973 to a high of 97 in 1977. In contrast, the number of peace officers killed in the line of duty has fluctuated with a high of 16 in 1973 and a low of six in 1976. Thirteen peace officers were killed in 1977.

Forcible Rape

Table 4 shows data on the reported number of rapes by force and attempts to commit forcible rape during 1973, 1976, and 1977. During 1977, the number of total rapes reported to law enforcement agencies increased 12.2 percent (from 9,552 in 1976 to 10,715 in 1977). There has been an overall increase of 28.3 percent since 1973.

Contributing to this rise is an increased willingness on the part of victims to report these crimes. This is a result of new legislation which modified interviewing and processing procedures to better protect the rights and privacy of rape victims. Further, some communities have established rape crisis clinics which may have resulted in more rapes being reported to the police. In addition, a portion of the increase in this crime may be attributed to certain offenders in several areas of the state who have committed numerous rapes.

Robbery

The number of robberies reported in 1977 increased 5.2 percent over 1976 (from 59,132 in 1976 to 62,207 in 1977). From 1973 to 1977, a 25.6 percent increase was registered. Some law enforcement officials attributed the increase to an economic slump and high inflationary rates. It is purported that drug users are committing more robberies in order to purchase higher-priced narcotics. The proliferation of small all-night convenience markets has also been cited as a factor in the increased number of robberies.

Table 5 shows robbery crimes by location and type of weapon used for 1973, 1976, and 1977. In 1977, highways (including streets, alleys, etc.) was the most prevalent location for reported robberies (41.3 percent), followed by commercial establishments (33.9 percent). Banks comprised the smallest proportion (1.9 percent).

The miscellaneous category, which includes all other locations, showed the greatest increase from 1976 to 1977, up 15.1 percent. Commercial establishments showed the smallest increase, 1.8 percent in 1977. While bank robberies increased only 6.8 percent over 1976, they have more than doubled during the four-year period since 1973, up 153.1 percent. A contributing factor may have been the growth in the number of banks and savings and loan institutions throughout the state. Also, many of these banks have located in more suburban areas and have extended their banking hours, thus providing more "opportunity" and accessibility to potential offenders.

From 1976 to 1977, armed robberies increased 6.5 percent while strong-arm robberies, which involve the use of physical force (hands, fists, feet, etc.), increased 3.0 percent. In 1977, 64.4 percent of the total robberies were armed robberies. Firearms (including simulating a firearm) continued to be the weapon most often used. They were used in 43.7 percent of all robberies during the year. (Chart 2.) In the armed robbery category, firearms were used 67.8 percent of the time. From 1976 to 1977, the largest increase in the type of weapon used in armed robberies was in the "other dangerous weapon" category, up 23.9 percent. This category includes clubs, bombs, brass knuckles, chemicals, and so on.

Assault

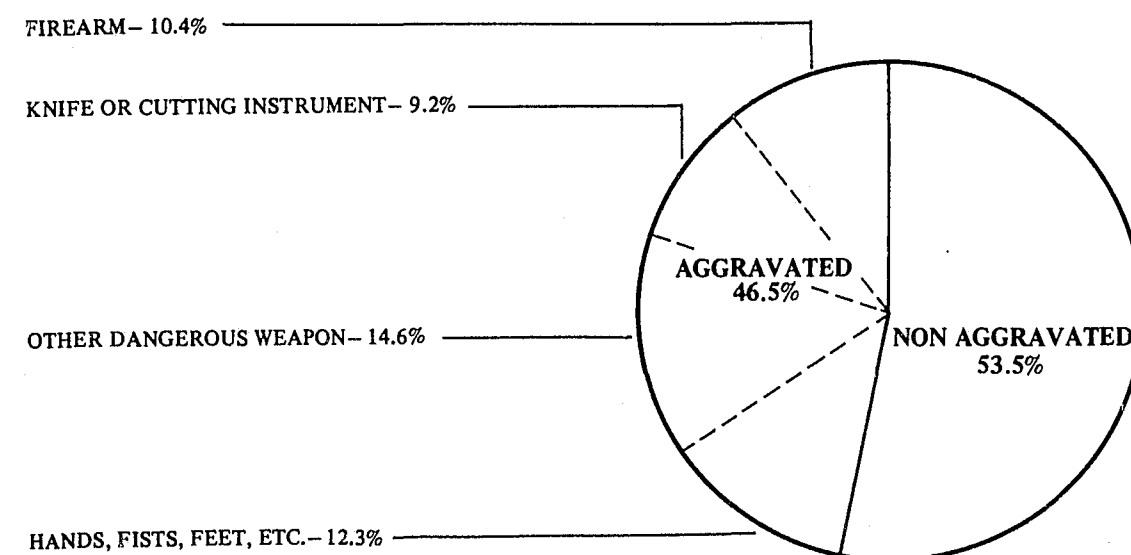

In 1977, aggravated assault continued to be the most frequently reported of the crimes against persons. Table 6 displays data for both aggravated and nonaggravated assaults, and the type of weapon used for aggravated assaults. (Only the aggravated assaults are included in the Seven Major Offenses and the FBI Crime Index.) The number of aggravated assaults increased 6.6 percent over 1976 (from 72,609 in 1976 to 77,424 in 1977) and has increased 36.4 percent since 1973. Nonaggravated assaults increased 5.2 percent. This represents a combined one-year increase of 5.8 percent for total assaults. The reason given by some law enforcement officials for the increase in total assaults is the rivalry among youth gangs.

Crimes Against Property

Crimes against property comprised 83.3 percent of the total for the Seven Major Offenses reported in 1977. Table 1 shows that from 1976 to 1977 crimes against property showed a slight increase of less than one-tenth of one percent (764,391 in 1976 and 764,531 in 1977). During the four-year period from 1973 to 1977 this category increased 22.6 percent.

From 1976 to 1977, theft ($200 and over) showed the greatest decrease of the property crimes, 1.7 percent, while burglary dropped 0.6 percent. Motor vehicle theft increased 4.3 percent.

Burglary

In 1977, burglaries represented 50.4 percent of the Seven Major Offenses reported. For the second year in a row, the number of reported burglaries decreased over the previous year, down 0.6 percent from 1976 (465,758 in 1976 and 462,736 in 1977). Burglaries increased 13.6 percent from 1973 to 1977.

Table 7 displays burglary crime data by the type of entry, location, and the time of day for 1973, 1976, and 1977. Residential burglaries constituted 68.5 percent of the burglaries reported in 1977. There were slight decreases of 0.5 percent in residential and 1.0 percent in nonresidential burglaries from 1976 to 1977.

While nighttime burglaries increased 1.3 percent, daytime burglaries (6 a.m. to 6 p.m.) dropped 2.2 percent. The overall decrease in burglaries may be attributed to the stepped-up activity of law enforcement in the area of crime prevention/community awareness programs and neighborhood watch patrols.

Theft

From 1976 to 1977, thefts ($200 and over) dropped 1.7 percent (160,564 in 1976 and 157,781 in 1977). As with burglaries, the decrease in thefts has been attributed by some officials to the effectiveness of crime prevention programs and intensified patrol activities. During the four-year period from 1973 to 1977, an 85.5 percent increase in thefts over $200 was registered.

As noted earlier, only those thefts $200 and over are included in the Seven Major Offenses. However, BCS also collects data on thefts under $200. As shown in Table 8, reported total thefts dropped 5.5 percent from 1976 to 1977. Theft $200 and over declined 1.7 percent, thefts $50 to $200 decreased 8.4 percent, and thefts under $50 dropped 5.0 percent.

Although data are displayed for all thefts, the Seven Major Offenses include only those thefts $200 and over.

The most noticeable increase in thefts occurred in pocket-picking, up 13.4 percent. The largest decrease in thefts was in the "from auto and auto accessories" category, down 10.7 percent. This decline could have been due to a combination of factors. Citizen's band radios (CB's) and car stereos were less attractive to steal because of their abundance on the "illicit market." Also, potential victims may have been more security conscious and actual victims may not have reported thefts of items which were not covered by their insurance. Many insurance companies no longer routinely insure against the loss of car stereos or CB's.

Motor Vehicle Theft

In 1977, motor vehicle thefts increased 4.3 percent (from 138,069 in 1976 to 144,014 in 1977). Since 1973, motor vehicle thefts have shown an overall increase of 9.7 percent. Some law enforcement agencies have attributed the increase to stolen car rings specializing in stealing and transporting motor vehicles out-of-state.

Table 9 displays motor vehicle theft data for 1973, 1976, and 1977. A breakdown by type of vehicle stolen is not available for 1973. However, the proportions by type of vehicle stolen were similar in 1976 and 1977. In 1977, autos comprised 76.1 percent of the total motor vehicles stolen. The "other vehicles" category, which includes motorcycles and snowmobiles, ranked second with 13.4 percent. The trucks and buses category comprised the remaining 10.5 percent of the total.

Stolen and Recovered Property

Law enforcement agencies report figures on the estimated dollar value of stolen and recovered property. Even though the data are not uniformly or consistently reported, the figures can be considered "good" estimates.

As shown in Table 10, the dollar value of property reported stolen during 1977 exceeded $619 million. This was an increase of 12.6 percent over 1976 figures. Livestock losses showed the greatest increase, 85.0 percent. Losses from clothing and fur thefts dropped 1.0 percent.

Stolen property recovered in 1977 was valued at over $182 million, a 24.5 percent increase over 1976. The value of recovered livestock registered the largest increase, 131.6 percent, while the dollar value of recovered household goods dropped 38.1 percent.

ARRESTS

California law enforcement agencies report arrest information to the Bureau of Criminal Statistics (BCS) on the "Monthly Arrest and Citation Register," generally referred to as the Arrest Register. This is a report listing each arrest, and includes information such as age, sex, and race of the arrestee, the "most serious" arrest offense, and police disposition.

The Arrest Register reporting document was introduced in 1972 to replace a summary reporting form which grouped similar offenses and did not provide detailed data on individual arrestees. In 1977, only three agencies in the state (San Diego County Sheriff's Department, San Diego Police Department, and San Jose Police Department) had not completely converted to the Arrest Register reporting document. These agencies continued to provide some summary arrest totals under the old reporting system during the year.

Revisions to California's drug laws in 1973 and 1976 have had a dramatic impact on the processing of adult and juvenile offenders by law enforcement agencies. In addition, these laws may have affected the reporting of arrest statistics to BCS. The 1973 law established new categories for classifying drug offenses. The 1976 law changed the possession of limited quantities of unconcentrated marijuana from a felony to a misdemeanor.

As with crimes, percent changes for low-volume arrests will tend to show greater fluctuations than those for high-volume arrests because smaller numbers are involved.

Total Arrests

Arrests reported in 1977 decreased from 1,447,750 in 1976 to 1,454,300 in 1977 (0.5 percent). One reason for this overall decline was the large drop (45.9 percent) during the year in the number of juveniles arrested for delinquent tendencies (truancy, runaway, incorrigibility, etc.). The decrease in arrests for delinquent tendencies can be attributed directly to legislation, effective January 1, 1977, modifying the juvenile court law. Among other things, new processes were instituted for handling youths charged for acts which would not be a crime if committed by adults.

When the number of arrests reported was related to population (arrests per 100,000 population), the total arrest rate decreased 1.3 percent from 1976 to 1977. (Table 11.) During the four-year period from 1973 to 1977, total arrests dropped 0.4 percent in rate (from 6669.1 in 1973 to 6641.9 in 1977), but increased 5.1 percent in number (from 1,383,234 in 1973 to 1,454,300 in 1977).

As shown in Chart 4, misdemeanor arrests accounted for the largest proportion of total arrests in 1977, 74.5 percent, while felony arrests comprised 22.5 percent, and delinquent tendencies represented 3.0 percent of the total.

ARRESTS REPORTED, 1977

Juvenile arrests comprised 21.7 percent of all arrests in 1977. They represented 31.3 percent of the felony arrests and 15.6 percent of the misdemeanor arrests.

While juvenile arrests comprised only 23.0 percent of all arrests for homicide, forcible rape, robbery, and assault, they accounted for more than 43.0 percent of the arrests for burglary, theft, motor vehicle theft, and forgery, checks, and credit cards. With regard to misdemeanors, juveniles accounted for 47.5 percent of the arrests for petty theft offenses but only 1.9 percent of the arrests for drunk-driving.

Adult Felony Arrests

Adult arrests for felony violations exhibited a slight increase in 1977, up 0.2 percent (from 224,532 in 1976 to 224,961 in 1977). The most noticeable increases in 1977 were arrests for felony drunk-driving, 16.9 percent; lewd and lascivious, 15.6 percent; and kidnapping, 15.3 percent. Arrests for "all other" drug law violations showed the largest decrease, 9.8 percent, followed by bookmaking, 8.9 percent. Arrests for forgery, checks, and credit cards declined 5.0 percent from 1976 to 1977.

From 1973 to 1976, there was an overall decrease of 6.0 percent in adult felony arrests. This decrease was primarily due to the large decline in arrests for marijuana offenses, down 78.0 percent from 1973. Most of this decrease was the result of the new marijuana law effective January 1, 1976. A noticeable decrease also occurred in the "all other" sex law violations category, down 28.1 percent. This category includes unlawful sexual intercourse, sex perversion, pimping, pandering, annoying/molesting children, and other sex law violations. The "all other" drug law category, which includes all drug offenses except marijuana, dropped 11.1 percent and bookmaking declined 11.0 percent.

During the four-year period from 1973 to 1977, sizable increases occurred in the arrest categories of homicide, 24.1 percent; assault, 24.2 percent; kidnapping, 45.5 percent; and theft, 51.9 percent. The "all other" felony arrest category also showed a significant increase, up 117.2 percent. Offenses grouped into this category include accessory, bribery, conspiracy, extortion, perjury, and other miscellaneous felony offenses.

Adult Misdemeanor Arrests

Adult misdemeanor arrests accounted for the largest number of total arrests reported in 1977, 62.9 percent. As shown in Table 13, they increased 5.2 percent (from 869,466 in 1976 to 914,464 in 1977). The largest increases in misdemeanor arrests were for lewd conduct, 27.1 percent; prostitution, 15.8 percent; and checks and credit cards, 14.4 percent. There were large decreases in arrests for obscene matter, 46.6 percent, and gambling, 23.1 percent.

Since 1973, adult misdemeanor arrests have shown an overall increase of 17.1 percent (from 781,222 in 1973 to 914,464 in 1977). Arrests for drug law violations showed the largest increase, 183.7 percent. This is due, at least in part, to the 1976 marijuana law reducing possession of limited amounts of unconcentrated marijuana from a felony to a misdemeanor. Lewd conduct and assault and battery arrests increased 50.7 percent and 46.0 percent, respectively. The largest percentage decrease occurred in obscene matter arrests, dropping 87.0 percent from 1973, followed by arrests for nonsupport, 65.2 percent.

Juvenile Arrests

Table 14 displays data on arrests of juvenile offenders. In 1977, total juvenile arrests decreased 11.0 percent (from 353,752 in 1976 to 314,875 in 1977). In the felony category, arrests for forgery, checks, and credit cards were up 17.3 percent followed by theft, 12.9 percent and homicide, 9.2 percent. Among the felony arrests showing decreases were those for marijuana and arson, down 29.9 percent and 6.7 percent, respectively.

Overall, juvenile misdemeanor-level arrests dropped 0.8 percent in 1977. Arrests for misdemeanor drug law violations were down 11.3 percent; weapons, 11.2 percent; malicious mischief arrests, 8.1 percent; disturbing the peace, 5.9 percent; and petty theft, 3.8 percent. The most significant increases in misdemeanor-level arrests were for glue sniffing, 30.0 percent; liquor law violations, 12.6 percent; and drunk-driving, 12.2 percent.

The most dramatic decrease in juvenile arrests was for delinquent tendency offenses, down 45.9 percent from 1976. Some of the changes in the juvenile court law, which went into effect January 1, 1977, were aimed specifically at "decriminalizing" the handling of youths charged with acts which would not be crimes if committed by adults. This law enactment was the culmination of a growing trend which started in 1973 to divert this type of youthful offender from the formal juvenile justice system. Under the revised law, these "status offenders" can no longer be detained in secure facilities (juvenile halls), therefore law enforcement agencies may have handled the juveniles informally without placing them under arrest.

During the four-year period from 1973 to 1977, juvenile arrests showed an overall decrease of 13.2 percent. This was mainly the result of a 57.6 percent drop in delinquent tendency arrests. Also, during this period, the juvenile population (ages 10-17) decreased by 48,626 (1.5 percent).

Juvenile felony-level arrests dropped 13.6 percent from 1973 to 1976. The 76.9 percent decrease in felony drug arrests was a major contributing factor. The greatest increase in the felony-level arrest category was in theft arrests. They more than doubled, up 106.1 percent over 1973 figures.

Overall, juvenile misdemeanor-level arrests increased 19.7 percent. The most noticeable increase was in the misdemeanor drug law violations, up 167.8 percent from 1973. Again, the 1976 marijuana law revision had a significant effect on this increase. Drunk-driving arrests also increased considerably, up 176.9 percent. This increase can be attributed to intensified enforcement programs instituted by law enforcement agencies to curb drunk-driving. There were decreases in arrests for misdemeanor weapons offenses, 33.4 percent and disturbing the peace, 37.6 percent.

Personal Characteristics of Arrestees

Since the "Monthly Arrest and Citation Register" document is now used by virtually all of the state's law enforcement agencies, BCS is better able to analyze arrest data in terms of age, sex, and race of arrestees. As mentioned earlier, three law enforcement agencies continued to provide data in 1977 on the old summary reporting form which does not include personal characteristics of arrestees. Arrest Register data in Tables 15 and 16 exclude information for those jurisdictions.

Felony-Level Arrests

In 1977, 315,263 felony-level arrests were reported on the Arrest Register. As shown in Table 15, the 18 to 24 age group accounted for the largest proportion of the total felony arrests (36.8 percent), followed by the under 18 age group (31.6 percent), the 25 to 39 age group (25.1 percent), and the 40 and over age group (6.5 percent). The under 18 age group accounted for over half (52.1 percent) of the arrests for burglary, 48.5 percent of the arrests for motor vehicle theft, and 13.2 percent of the arrests for homicide. Of the total felony arrests, whites accounted for 48.9 percent; Negroes, 27.9 percent; Mexican-Americans, 21.3 percent; and all other races, 2.0 percent.

Males comprised 86.9 percent of the total arrests and females 13.1 percent. Females accounted for 34.8 percent of the arrests for forgery, checks, and credit cards but comprised only 9.0 percent of the reported robbery arrests.

Misdemeanor-Level Arrests

As reported on the Arrest Register, misdemeanor-level arrests totaled 1,032,778 in 1977. The combined drunk and drunk-driving categories continued to represent the greatest number of all misdemeanor arrests, accounting for 47.6 percent of the total. Most of the misdemeanor arrests (32.5 percent) were of offenders in the 18 to 24 age group. However, of the four age groups shown in Table 16, the under 18 group accounted for the largest proportion of arrests for petty theft, 47.7 percent.

Whites comprised 56.5 percent of the total misdemeanor arrests reported on the Arrest Register, Mexican-Americans accounted for 24.2 percent, and Negroes represented 16.5 percent. Females accounted for less than 15 percent of the total misdemeanor arrests. Petty theft was the only misdemeanor offense where females represented more than 20 percent of the total (40.0 percent).

^bSee page 95 for known data limitations.
Notes: Percent changes from one given year to a subsequent year are not calculated when the given base year number is less than 50.

^bSee page 95 for known data limitations.
