INTRODUCTION

We have attempted to identify criminal justice literature available in the State of Washington which concerns the State of Washington. In defining criminal justice we have taken the broad view and included corrections, the courts, juvenile delinquency, drugs and alcoholism, and any peripheral areas we could identify.

The bibliography is intended for a broad audience and is arranged to try and satisfy various needs. We have arranged the entries by large category headings for ease of browsing. There are two indexes to allow access in a more specific manner: one index is by author/main entry and the other is a keyword (subject) index. These indexes use an item entry number to refer back to the main body of entries.

In compiling the bibliography we contacted many agencies, libraries, organizations and individuals throughout the State. One of our criteria was that the material be readily available at nominal, or no cost. Most of the material is available through the people contacted or through a library. Sources are given where the item is known to be most readily accessible.

When a library is indicated as the source, the item is probably available through interlibrary loan. Contact your local library for specific information on ordering.

We have limited our scope to the past five years: 1973-1978, and we have tried to include books, reports, studies, information systems, and audio-visual materials. Although an attempt was made to be complete, we know that that would not be possible. Therefore, we plan an update annually to include the new materials and any past data that may come to light.

Thank you to the many people who have helped us by providing us with the information or access to the data. Without their help and cooperation we would not be publishing a bibliography.

The largest thanks go to Dolly Sampson and John Jacobson for their patient explanation of KWOC (keyword out of context) -- a system available from the University of Washington for indexes produced via the University's computer.
