FOREWORD

This volume is the seventh in the OBSCIS series. It reports on the continued progress of the concept developed as a definitive work and reported in Volumes 1-6 of the OBSCIS series. OBSCIS is a Project of SEARCH Group, Inc. (SGI). It has been funded by a grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA), U.S. Department of Justice.

The seven volumes, their purposes, and their interrelationships are described below:

- 1. THE OBSCIS APPROACH. This is an overview description of the needs for corrections information reporting and how these needs can be met by the OBSCIS model and its accompanying tools. The volume is prerequisite reading for all the others.
- 2. OBSCIS APPLICATION GUIDE. This is a reference workbook that describes and provides system development selection criteria for 20 separate information processing applications, which can be incorporated into OBSCIS systems in individual states on a modular basis. This guide will be for structuring and developing the applications in each state's system.
- 3. OBSCIS DATA DICTIONARY. This volume contains descriptions, definitions, and suggested coding structures for the data elements used to establish the data base for an OBSCIS system. It was used as a reference guide in the development of each state's data base. Volume 7 supersedes this volume.
- 4. OBSCIS IMPLEMENTATION PLAN. This volume contains a detailed listing of a sequence of activities, tasks, and subtasks to be performed in the specification, design, and development of an OBSCIS system. This, in effect, is a reference guide describing the development methodology for establishing an OBSCIS within any participating state.
- 5. LAUNCHING OBSCIS A COMPOSITE EXAMPLE. This is a hypothetical example of how one imaginary state, named Composite, proceeds with the planning and analysis phases which initiate an OBSCIS project. The project is carried through the initial procedures for tailoring system specifications to the needs of a specific corrections authority.
- 6. THE OBSCIS EXPERIENCE: A PHASE II SUMMARY. This report provides an overview of the OBSCIS concept, implementation progress as reported by the OBSCIS states, observations regarding OBSCIS implementation and a data demonstration for use by researchers and statisticians. This summary will be particularly useful for states undertaking OBSCIS development because it permits a comparison of state corrections information system environments.
- 7. OBSCIS DATA DICTIONARY (Revised). This volume supersedes the OBSCIS Data Dictionary (Volume 3). Part I provides a refined version of the OBSCIS data elements previously presented in Volume 3. Changes in the data elements are based on OBSCIS state implementation experiences. Part II provides an example of a code structure for the data elements itemized in Part I. The structure in Part II is that used in the Basic OBSCIS software package.

PREFACE

This report is the product of a maturation process. It could be considered a "coming of age" for OBSCIS (Offender-Based State Corrections Information System). During the project's first year, an OBSCIS model was designed by participants of 10 states and documented in Volumes 1-5. The second year of OBSCIS witnessed individual states planning and implementing various aspects of the OBSCIS model. At that time, 18 states were participating in OBSCIS development, and their experience was documented in volume 6. During the third phase of OBSCIS, 23 states have participated in the OBSCIS community by making refinements in the OBSCIS data elements.

We have observed OBSCIS grow in importance from a theoretical model through a period of testing and implementation into a time of refinement. The Data Element Catalog in Part I of this volume reflects the experience gained through this process and represents the outcome of the OBSCIS Committee's endeavor to refine the original data elements.

To complement this work, SGI has developed a tool for use by states not now having an operational OBSCIS. This tool is a software package known as Basic OBSCIS. The data element code structure contained in Part II of this volume was developed for the Basic OBSCIS software package and sets forth one example of a coding arrangement for the data elements listed in Part I.

Basic OBSCIS itself is now being tested and upon successful completion of these tests will be available to any state interested in implementing a corrections information system. Thus, the maturation process continues; OBSCIS has become operational in many states and an outgrowth of that operational experience will soon be available for other states.

The success of the OBSCIS program is due to the efforts of many dedicated people and to commitment from many organizations. Without continuing support from the National Criminal Justice Information and Statistics Service, Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA), success would not have been possible.

Thanks is due to the members of the OBSCIS Committee listed on the opposite page and its Chairman, Dr. Charles Friel. Particular thanks go to all members of the data element subcommittee (noted by asterisks) who devoted many long hours to study and discussion. The subcommittee labored at developing alternative approaches for submission to the full committee for its consideration and ultimately its approval. Part I of this volume is the approved product of that subcommittee's efforts. Thanks also is due to the staffs of the 23 OBSCIS states that have as their daily task the planning, implementing, and upgrading of OBSCIS. The refinements appearing in Part I represent their concerted efforts over the past three years.

Our appreciation also to Stochastic Systems Research Corporation of Rochester, New York, for their rigorous efforts in assisting SGI to develop the Basic OBSCIS software package. The major portion of Part II is taken from that package.

Finally, encouragement should be offered to those dedicated individuals who will participate in this model's development in the future. They, too, will contribute to the maturation process. They are the individuals who will take OBSCIS beyond its "coming of age". We wish them well in this exciting and important endeavor.

GENERAL INTRODUCTION

This volume of the OBSCIS Series supersedes Volume 3: OBSCIS Data Dictionary, Supplement to Technical Report No. 10, which was published in May, 1975.

Part I of this volume contains a revised and improved catalog of the OBSCIS data elements, based on the experiences of OBSCIS implementors. While it resembles the former data dictionary, it is essentially a set of information requirements — data element and code descriptions — listed, in most cases, without numerical or alphabetical codes. It is presented in this form to emphasize and clarify OBSCIS factual content, separate from choices of actual code symbols (characters). Many different software designs can accept and deliver the same direct and derived facts.

Part II contains examples of code structures for the OBSCIS data elements. Part II is a reproduction of the Basic OBSCIS Data Fields and Attachments, as published in the Basic OBSCIS software package. It is presented in this volume to indicate possible code structures for states in the OBSCIS design phase, or in the process of revising an established system.

It also serves as an illustration of the changes that occur when information requirements are converted into actual computer software designs.

An alphabetical listing of the data elements is provided here for ease in relating data elements in Part I to the suggested coding of each element in Part II. It should be noted that Part II does not provide codes for all of the data elements in Part I. Part II, being an illustration of possible codes drawn from an actual software package, is limited to "core" elements and other substance necessary in a minimum data base.

PART I. THE OBSCIS DATA ELEMENT CATALOG INTRODUCTION

The data element revisions in Part I were derived from the results of three years of experience with actual system design, implementation and operation. Changes in federal statistical reporting needs and the advantages of a different format also were taken into account. But throughout, the informational content has been changed as little as possible, in order to minimize interference with established systems.

The data elements in Part I are presented in subject matter groups. This has been done so that the user can see, almost at a glance, the range of facts described by the elements and code delineations, and the relationships between them. It should be noted that these groupings of elements are different from the OBSCIS application areas. The application areas remain as presented in Volume 2. The revised data element names and code descriptions represent refinements of content, not changes in basic information requirements. For convenience an alphabetical list of data elements is provided on pages 1 and 2 for quick reference to a single element.

The various recommended lengthy standard codes, such as the NCIC offense classification, have been placed in the appendixes section, to avoid interruptions of the data element descriptions that might obscure information limits and relationships.*

Different levels of need and choice are indicated by the Core, Recommended and Optional level labels of the material within elements.

Core level information is the data that is required of states participating in the OBSCIS program. It is that which is basic to all state corrections information systems and/or is necessary to meet state-to-state information sharing needs, and national reporting requirements. Items at this level include such basic data as sex, birth date, sentence length, etc. Insofar as possible, this level contains data which can be identically structured and is needed for national reporting. These core level elements are printed in bold face type to emphasize their importance.

Recommended level information is that which the OBSCIS Committee believes is needed by all state corrections systems though not for national reporting. It may not be codable in identical or similar structures from state to state. Such items as birthplace, institution security level, sentence effective date, etc., are found here. Many of these are expansions in greater detail of what is required at the Core level. Others are not expansions, but rather are items requiring state-specific definitions.

Optional level information also often consists of expansions of what is listed in the two previous levels, but may cover facts not touched upon at all elsewhere. Many of these items, such as vocational education, work furlough eligibility, etc., are codable only in structures specific to each state.

An important characterisic of OBSCIS data at all levels is that, in every area that has a historical dimension, new data must be added to old; it must not replace it. Changes in offender location and legal status, for example, must be recorded in such a way that data concerning prior actions and statuses can be retrieved.

Nothing in this presentation of factual content and levels of importance should be taken to imply that a given state could not need more information overall in its system, or that what is optional in one jurisdiction could not be critical information in another.

The original OBSCIS model and all later versions of the data elements are intended to set forth certain minimum requirements, but to be very flexible in the direction of enlargement or variation to suit different state corrections systems.

*The appendixes are: A. NCIC State/Country codes. B. Dept. of Labor occupational codes from the Dictionary of Occupational Titles, (1) two-digit, (2) three-digit. C. NCIC Uniform Offense Classifications. The current NCIC codes are not likely to change, but a revised version of the Dictionary of Occupational Titles is scheduled for publication. OBSCIS participants should regularly check the standard national codes cited in the appendixes and within the text of the catalog to insure conformity with current usage.

OBSCIS DATA ELEMENTS

GOVERNMENT IDENTIFICATION NUMBERS

STATE CORRECTIONS IDENTIFICATION NUMBER

- NOTES -

Core level

The number assigned to the offender by the State Department or Division of Corrections, or by the correctional institution to which the offender is committed. States may, under certain circumstances, have the need to assign more than one number. In those cases, the Core requirement is to maintain a state corrections ID number which can be related to the original state number assigned.

- Offender has no known alias

Optional level

All known aliases.

SEX

Core level

- Female
- Male

BIRTH DATE

Core level

Birth date of offender, verified when possible. Code by month/day/year.

BIRTHPLACE

Recommended level

State or country (if outside of United States) of birth, using State/Country codes developed by NCIC. See Appendix A.

Optional level

County of birth. Use if individual was born in state in which committed. State specific code.

CITIZENSHIP - NOTES -

Optional level

Country of citizenship. See Appendix A for State/Country codes.

ADDRESS AT TIME OF ARREST

Recommended level

State and county in which the offender maintained a permanent residence, if any, at the time of his arrest. For state codes see Appendix A. County codes are state-specific.

Optional level

The mailing address and zip code of the offender's permanent residence, if any, at the time of his arrest.

Note that this address is not necessarily the location at which the offender may have been apprehended, such as a hotel, other person's apartment, etc.

SOCIAL DESCRIPTORS

ETHNIC ORIGIN

Core level

Ethnic/race identification (standard federal combined format; see below):

- American Indian or Alaskan Native
- Asian or Pacific Islander
- Black, not of Hispanic origin
- Hispanic
- White, not of Hispanic origin

Note: The above codes are one set of minimum acceptable standard categories set forth in Office of Management and Budget Circular No. A-46, Revised, Exhibit F. Excerpts from that document are quoted here to show the various standard race and ethnic categories that OMB requires for Federal program administrative reporting and statistical activities:

Definitions: The basic racial and ethnic categories for Federal statistics and program administrative reporting are defind as follows:

- 1. American Indian or Alaskan Native. A person having origins in any of the original peoples of North America, and who maintains cultural identification through tribal affiliation or community recognition.
- 2. Asian or Pacific Islander. A person having origins in any of the original peoples of the Far East, Southeast Asia, the Indian subcontinent, or the Pacific Islands. This area includes, for example, China, India, Japan, Korea, the Philippine Islands, and Samoa.
- 3. Black. A person having origins in any of the black racial groups of Africa.
- 4. Hispanic. A person of Mexican, Puerto Rican, Cuban, Central or South American or other Spanish culture or origin, regardless of race.
- 5. White. A person having origins in any of the original peoples of Europe, North Africa, or the Middle East.

Utilization for Recordkeeping and Reporting: To provide flexibility, it is preferable to collect data on race and ethnicity separately. If separate race and ethnic categories are used, the minimum designations are:

- A. Race:
  - American Indian or Alaskan Native
  - Asian or Pacific Islander
  - Black
  - White
- b. Ethnicity:
  - Hispanic origin
  - Not of Hispanic origin

When race and ethnicity are collected separately, the number of White and Black persons who are Hispanic must be identifiable, and capable of being reported in that category.

If a combined format is used to collect racial and ethnic data, the minimum acceptable categories are:

American Indian or Alaskan Native

Asian or Pacific Islander

Black, not of Hispanic origin

Hispanic

White, not of Hispanic origin.

The category which most closely reflects the individual's recognition in his community should be used for purposes of reporting on persons who are of mixed racial and/or ethnic origins.

In no case should the provisions of this Exhibit be construed to limit the collection of data to the categories described above. However, any reporting required which uses more detail shall be organized in such a way that the additional categories can be aggregated into these basic racial/ethnic categories.

Three alternative categorizations are provided by OMB for special situations:

• majority race

white

minority races

- black and other races, or
- black

all other races-including white where applicable

· all other races

· all other races

The designation "nonwhite" is not acceptable for use in any presentation of federal data.

The basic structure is a state-specific code, dependent upon each state's particular statutes, for each offense for which the offender was committed on the current sentence(s).

For national reporting purposes [National Prisoner Statistics and Uniform Parole Reports] states must be prepared to provide their state-specific offense code structures, and descriptions of the crimes represented by each code item.

These codes must be translated into the NCIC code structure for CCH reporting. Utilize first two digits of NCIC offense codes. See Appendix C.

MOVEMENT

This element records movements in and out of state correctional systems, facility systems, and parole systems. It is chiefly designed to record almost all the population movement information needed for national reporting, and also the major changes in legal status and operational responsibility significant to state agencies.

Movements are divided into four main areas: new entries, exits, returns, and final terminations from state correctional systems.

The movement codes should be used each time an offender changes location and status. All previous movements must be retained in a historical file to enable derivation of facts such as time served, whether an admission or release is the first or second on a given commitment, etc.

Record date of each movement (month/day/year).

PART II. EXAMPLES OF CODE STRUCTURES FOR OBSCIS DATA ELEMENTS INTRODUCTION

The data element code structures in the section of the Basic OBSCIS software package reproduced in Part II illustrate possible coding arrangements for all OBSCIS "core" level data and selected "recommended" and "optional" level information. (The Basic OBSCIS software package is a series of standard, tested computer programs and documentation materials developed by SGI for use by states in the process of developing or revising OBSCIS programs.)

The displays here presented, "Basic OBSCIS Data Fields" and "Attachments", show OBSCIS data element code structures as they appear in actual, immediately usable software. Other coding arrangements can be used. A good place to find some of these is in the data dictionaries of the currently operational OBSCIS states.

The Basic OBSCIS software, it should be noted, does use one type of code assignment that is not arbitrary.

Codes that also serve as abbreviations (e.g., M for male, MJ for marijuana), or as direct representations of the facts (21 for age 21), were used where possible in order to prevent the need for costly translation as the data moves from input form to output form.

To provide the reader with a picture of the whole system, a schematic of the Basic OBSCIS software package appears below.

Page 35 explains the meaning of the various headings employed in the Data files.

Pages 36 through 47 are the Data Fields containing the code structures.

Pages 49 through 53 contain three Attachments, setting forth lengthy code structures for three unusually complex elements. These were separated from the other code structures simply to keep the basic Data Fields compact and readable.
