After completing this unit, you will be able to:

Establish and maintain credit

Identify credit as a way of paying over a period of time for things you buy Identify different types of credit

Identify installment loans as money borrowed from a bank which you pay back in installments

Identify installments as a number of payments in equal amounts Identify deferred payment plans

Recognize that deferred payment plans allow you to "buy now and pay later"

Identify charge accounts as a way of getting credit at a particular store

Recognize what being able to establish credit depends on

Identify your payment record on any previous loans

you had before, there is a danger that you may default again Identify how well you pay your present bills

Recognize that if you have a record of paying your bills regularly, it will show that you are responsible and able to repay

e Merrel percet beni ke tana padatan kilatan 👘 🤅 🕫

Identify interest as what you pay for using someone else's money

Recognize that interest is usually a certain percentage of the amount you borrow

Recognize that any time you pay a finance charge because you can't pay a bill in full, you're using credit

Recognize that you should decide if you need something right away or if you can wait until you have the cash to pay for it Avoid overloading yourself with installment payments

Avoid spending more than 15 to 20 percent of your monthly income on installment payments

Recognize that you should keep at least two months income in your savings account so you can keep up payments if you can't work for awhile

Notify your creditors (people, banks or stores you owe money) right away if you cannot make a payment

Recognize that you can usually work out some type of agreement Avoid having your account turned over to a collection agency or having your purchases repossessed

Recognize that you should shop around for credit just as you should for anything else

Recognize that there are different types of agencies which lend money Identify commercial banks as a source of loans in cash

Identify small loan companies as a source of loans in cash

Recognize that small loan companies can and do lend smaller amounts than commercial banks

Identify savings banks or savings and loan associations as a source of loans in cash

Recognize that savings banks lend money mostly for the purchase of homes and home improvements

Recognize that interest rates for home improvement loans will probably be slightly lower than at commercial banks

DIRECTIONS

Before you begin this unit, complete the test items on the Unit Test. Use a blank sheet of paper to write down your answers, or an answer sheet provided by your instructor. DO NOT WRITE IN THIS BOOKLET! When you have finished, check your answers using the Unit Test Key which you will find in the back of the booklet. Count the number of items you answered wrong and mark your score on your answer sheet (for example, -6). After you have finished reading the text, take the Unit Test again. When you have finished, check your answers using the Unit Test Key. Count the number of items you answered wrong and mark your score on your answer sheet (for example, -1). By comparing the two scores, you can see how much you have learned.

In the unit you will find review questions to check your progress. Answer the review questions on a separate sheet of paper. Then, check your answers using the Review Question Key. You will find the answers printed upside down. If you answer any of the questions wrong, read over the section right before the questions. If you answer all of them right, keep reading.

At the back of the booklet, you will find a list of words and their meanings. If you come across a word you do not understand, look it up in the word list. Words which appear in the list are underlined in the text.

Credit is a way of paying, over a period of time, for things you buy. It gives you a chance to have and enjoy things that you probably would not otherwise be able to afford.

There are many different types of credit, but the following are the most common: installment loans money borrowed from a bank which you pay back in installments (a number of payments in equal amounts); deferred payment plans - allow you to "buy now and pay later"; credit cards - plastic cards which allow you to use credit in different stores; and charge accounts - a way of getting credit at a particular store.

Being able to establish credit depends on: (1) your payment record on any loans you had before; (2) how well you pay your present bills; (3) home ownership or continued residence at one address; (4) your employment record; and, (5) how well you can handle any new bills.

If you have defaulted (not paid) on any loan you had before, there is a danger that you will default again. If, however, you have a record of paying your bills on time, it will show that you are responsible and able to repay. It is equally important, especially after incarceration, for you to establish a reliable permanent address. For example, you should try to keep the same address for at least two or three years.

The length of your employment is important too. Hopping from one job to another, for example, hurts your chance to establish credit. Finally, your ability to handle additional bills will be taken into consideration. If you barely make enough money to pay your present bills, you probably will not be allowed to make new bills.

To establish credit, the first thing you should do is open both a savings and checking account. ADD TO YOUR SAVINGS ACCOUNT REGULARLY AND USE YOUR CHECKING ACCOUNT TO PAY BILLS. Then, apply for a charge account at a local department store, using your bank accounts as credit references. Be sure to pay your charge account bills regularly and on time. The final step is to apply for a bank card (VISA or Master Charge), making sure again, to pay your bills regularly and on time. You can use your other charge accounts and bank accounts as references.

Check your progress by answering the following review questions.

DIRECTIONS:

On your response sheet write the letter or letters which most correctly completes the statement.

- 1. Being able to establish credit depends on:
 - a. payment record on loans you had before
 - b. how well you pay present bills
 - c. home ownership or continued residence at one address
 - d. automobile ownership
 - e. employment record
 - f. how well you can handle new bills
- 2. To establish credit you should:
 - a. open both savings and checking accounts
 - b. apply for local department store charge accounts
 - c. apply for bank card
 - d. all of the above

Check your answers by using the key below. If you get the answers right, keep reading. If you get any of them wrong, go back over what you have already read.

ΚελτεΜ Οπεεττου Κελ

Once you have established credit, use it wisely. It can be an important part of your plan to improve your way of living. But you must decide whether owning something right away makes up for paying interest. Interest is the term used for the amount you pay for using someone else's money. It is usually a certain percentage of the amount you borrow.

The finance charge you pay because you can't pay a bill in full is really interest on the credit you are using. So you should decide if you need something right away or if you can wait until you have the cash to buy it.

Don't overload yourself with installment payments. Avoid spending more than 15 to 20 percent of your monthly income on installment payments. For example, if you take home $500.00 per month, do not spend more than $75.00 to $100.00 on installment payments each month. Always try to keep at least two months income in your savings account so you can keep up your payments if for some reason you can't work for awhile.

If for some reason you cannot make your monthly payment, write or call your creditors (people, banks or stores you owe money) right away. You can usually work out some type of agreement. At all costs, avoid having your account turned over to a collection agency or having your purchases repossessed.

Check your progress by answering the following review questions.

DIRECTIONS:

On your response sheet write the letter of the phrase which most correctly completes the statement.

1. In using credit wisely you should:

- a. make credit an important part of your plan to improve your way of living
- b. always take advantage of the chance to own something now
- c. not worry about finance charges
- d. always buy items if they're on sale

2. In taking on installment payments you should:

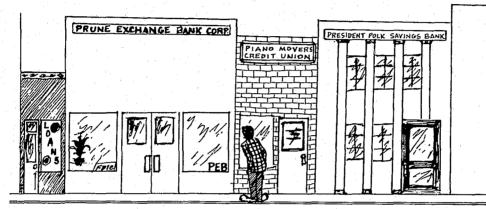

- a. keep your monthly installment payments about equal with your monthly income
- b. write or call your creditors right away if you cannot make your monthly payment
- c. both a and b
- d. neither a nor b

Check your answers by using the key below. If you get the answers right, keep reading. If you get either of them wrong, go back over what you have already read.

Review Question Key

When you need a loan in cash, you should shop around for credit just as you would for a used car. There are a number of agencies which lend money. Your best bet would be to apply at the same bank where you have a savings or checking account.

Small loan companies can and do lend smaller amounts than banks, but interest rates will probably be a little higher.

Credit unions also lend money, and tend to have the lowest interest rates of all sources. However, there isn't always a credit union available. But they are a good source of loans in cash and should be the first source you turn to.

Savings banks or savings and loan associations lend money mostly for the purchase of homes and home improvements. Interest rates for these loans will probably be slightly lower than at commercial banks.

Establishing and maintaining credit is a good way to show that you are an accepted member of your community, but you have to be careful about how you use it.
