U.S. COURTS OF APPEALS

Summary of Workload

During the twelve month period ended December 31, 1979, case filings in the U.S. Courts of Appeals rose to 21,680, an increase of 10.8 percent over the previous year. Case dispositions also increased, although at a slower rate; 19,049 cases were terminated, 5.1 percent more than in 1978. In 1979, a total of 2,631 more cases were filed than were closed. These combined with an already sizable backlog to expand the pending caseload by 15.1 percent, to 20,034. Table 1 provides a comparison, by circuit, of Court of Appeals activity during the six-month periods July - December, 1975 - 1979. Table 2 provides a comparison, by circuit, of Court of Appeals activity in 1978 and 1979.

Filings

Overall, cases filed in the U.S. Courts of Appeals increased at a rate of 10.8 percent over 1978. The 1979 total of 21,680 filings represents an increase of 2,116 cases over the 1978 total of 19,564.

Ten of the eleven circuits showed an increase in the number of cases filed. The largest increases over 1978 were shown in the Eighth Circuit (18.8 percent), the Ninth Circuit (18.1 percent), the Tenth Circuit (17.8 percent), D.C. Circuit (16.8 percent), and the Fourth Circuit (16.5 percent). The single circuit to record a decrease in filings was the Seventh, where filings declined from 1,720 in 1978 to 1,599 in 1979, a drop of 7.0 percent.

Much of the overall increase in filings can be attributed to a 13.9 percent rise in civil appeals, and particularly to a substantial increase of appeals (16.2 percent) in private civil filings. Civil appeals involving the U.S. rose at a slower rate (9.3 percent), while filings in criminal cases increased only 2.9 percent.

Dispositions

The total number of case dispositions in the courts of appeals grew from the 18,130 reported in 1978 to 19,049 in 1979, an overall increase of 5.1 percent. However, of the eleven circuits, six closed more cases than they did in 1978, and five closed fewer. The largest individual increases were seen in the Fourth Circuit (24.3 percent more cases terminated than in 1978) and the Second Circuit (a gain of 17.0 percent over the previous year). Other circuits reporting a higher 1979 figure for terminations were D.C., the Fifth, Sixth and Ninth Circuits.

Among circuits terminating fewer cases, the greatest drops were shown in the Eighth Circuit (13.4 percent fewer cases than in 1978), the First (9.3 percent fewer), and the Seventh (8.2 percent fewer). Smaller decreases in dispositions were reported by the Third and Tenth Circuits.

Pending Caseload Up 15.1 Percent Over 1978

In calendar year 1979, the pending caseload for all circuits rose by 2,631 to 20,034, an increase of 15.1 percent over 1978. Only one circuit, the Second, with a decline of 5.5 percent, was able to reduce its backlog of pending cases, from 793 in 1978 to 749 in 1979. Most circuits showed increases of 10 percent or more, with five circuits topping 20 percent: Eighth Circuit (44.2 percent), First Circuit (29.1 percent), Tenth Circuit (22.5 percent), Sixth Circuit (21.0 percent) and D.C. Circuit (20.4 percent).

Cases Disposed of After Oral Hearing or Submission

The number of cases that were disposed of after oral hearing or submission rose from 8,899 in 1978 to 9,605 in 1979, an increase of 7.9 percent. Of all 1979 case dispositions, 50.4 percent fall into this category. Cases terminated without oral hearing or submission rose 10.7 percent — 6,665 in 1979, compared to 6,020 the year before. Totals for consolidated cases dropped 13.4 percent from 1978 when 3,211 cases were disposed of by consolidation; only 2,779 were terminated in this way in 1979.

U.S. DISTRICT COURTSCIVIL*Summary of Caseload

During the twelve month period ended December 31, 1979, a total of 162,469 civil cases were filed in the district courts, an increase of 12.5 percent over the 144,400 cases filed during the same period last year. Similarly, the number of cases terminated rose to 151,465, a rise of 12.1 percent over 1978. Despite the significant increase in terminations, the pending civil caseload continued to rise, increasing 6.4 percent from 173,100 in 1978 to 184,104 in 1979. This pending caseload is the largest ever in the district courts. Table 5 provides a comparison, by district, of the civil workload in the district courts in 1978 and 1979. Table 4 provides a comparison of the workload during the six-month periods July - December, 1972 - 1979. Appendix Table C1 provides more detailed information on the civil workload in the district courts for the twelve month period ended December 31, 1979.

Civil Filings

The 162,469 civil cases filed in the district courts during the twelve month period ended December 31, 1979, represents the largest influx of cases during any comparable twelve month period. A number of districts showed tremendous increases in civil filings over the same period a year ago. The most dramatic increases were experienced in the Ninth and Tenth Circuits, with California, Southern; Washington, Western and Utah experiencing increases of 85.3 percent, 80.1 percent, and 67.2 percent, respectively. These increases are largely the result of rises in the number of U.S. contract actions and U.S. land condemnation actions. Despite the 12.5 percent overall increase in the number of filings, sixteen districts experienced declines in the number of civil filings. The largest declines were in Guam (down 63.6 percent) and Massachusetts (down 15.3 percent). These declines were largely the result of reductions in the number of land condemnation filings in Guam and in I.C.C. case filings in Massachusetts. Additional data on civil filings by district can be found in Appendix Table C3.

Civil Filings by Basis of Jurisdiction

Table 6 provides a comparison by basis of jurisdiction of civil cases filed in the district courts during the twelve month periods ended December 31, 1978 and 1979. The most substantial increase in filings in the district courts was in U.S. plaintiff cases which increased 46.7 percent over 1978. This is directly related to the increased activity on the part of the federal government in filing cases for recovery of overpayments and enforcement of judgments. This increased activity, related mostly to delinquent or defaulted student loans, caused the number of such cases to jump from 4,666 in 1978 to 13,223 in 1979, a rise of 183.4 percent. The only category experiencing a decline was local jurisdiction, which dropped 7.4 percent. Appendix Table C2 provides more detailed information on filings by jurisdiction.

Civil Filings by Nature of Suit

During the twelve month period ended December 31, 1979, a total of 162,469 civil cases were filed in the district courts, an increase of 18,069 cases over the previous year. This large rise in filings was highlighted by increased activity in several case types. As indicated previously, efforts by the federal government to recover delinquent or defaulted student loans has led to a significant increase in the number of cases related to recovery of overpayments and enforcement of judgments. The greatest activity in these type cases is centered in seven districts as shown in Table 7. This table illustrates the tremendous increase in these cases in the last two years.

California, Southern	1	170	372
California, Central	25	264	349
All Other Districts	819	3,511	8,732

Other case types with significant increases over 1978 were cases related to medical malpractice (up 60.0 percent), negotiable instruments (up 30.8 percent), banks and banking (up 25.7 percent) and the Freedom of Information Act of 1974 (up 24.5 percent). Despite the overall increase in filings, some case types declined. Among the most substantial drops were Agricultural Acts cases (down 60.9 percent), and Black Lung cases (down 41.6 percent). Additional data on civil filings, by type, are provided in Appendix Tables C2 and C3.

Civil Terminations

As was the case with civil filings, cases closed in the district courts increased greatly during the twelve month period ended December 31, 1979, with civil terminations rising to 151,465, an increase of 16,402 cases over the same period in 1978. This overall rise in civil terminations was led by significant increases in two case types: recovery of overpayments and enforcement of judgments (up 268.3 percent from 2,620 in 1978 to 9,650 in 1979), and U.S. tort actions (up 20.9 percent).

For the twelve month period ended December 31, 1979, increases were experienced in 70 districts and decreases in 25. The overall increase in cases closed was led by Arkansas, Eastern (up 83.7 percent), Utah (up 82.5 percent) and Georgia, Southern (up 71.5 percent). The most severe decline was in West Virginia, Southern, where terminations dropped 46.6 percent from 1,789 terminations in 1978 to only 955 in 1979, largely the result of an extensive drop off in the number of Black Lung cases handled by the court. Additional data on terminations is provided in Appendix Table C4.

Civil Pending Caseload

During the twelve month period ended December 31, 1979, the number of civil cases filed in the district courts exceeded the number closed by 11,004 cases. Therefore, despite the substantial increase in the disposition rate in the district courts, the total pending civil caseload increased 6.4 percent to 184,104 cases as of December 31, 1979. This represents the largest pending caseload ever in the district courts.

Despite the continuing growth of the overall pending caseload, 13 districts were able to reduce their pending civil cases. The most notable reduction was in Massachusetts where, due to a concerted effort to eliminate pending I.C.C. cases, the total pending caseload was reduced 19.8 percent, from 13,398 in 1978 to 10,742 in 1979.

Because of the large influx of cases into the courts, several districts experienced increases in their pending civil caseload. The most significant increases were in California, Southern (up 53.8 percent), Washington, Western (up 32.9 percent) and the District of Columbia (up 31.1 percent). The largest increase in California, Southern was in U.S. land condemnation cases (up from 11 to 509). In Washington, Western the biggest increase was in pending U.S. contract actions (up from 107 in 1978 to 624). In the District of Columbia, a large increase was experienced in pending U.S. tort actions, up from 313 to 853 in 1979. Additional data on the pending civil caseload can be found in Appendix Table C3A.

Civil Cases Pending Three Years or More On December 31

As the pending civil caseload in the districts has steadily increased, so have the number of cases pending three years or more. As of December 31, 1979, there were 21,661 civil cases which had been pending three years or more, an increase of 11.4 percent over 1978. These cases now represent 11.8 percent of the total pending civil caseload. As depicted in Table 8, the number of civil cases pending three years or more is at an all-time high. The impact of these cases has been felt most in the First Circuit, where 36.0 percent of the pending civil caseload (land condemnation excluded) has been pending three years or more, and most specifically in Massachusetts, where these cases represent 48.8 percent of the pending caseload. Conversely, several districts have a very small percentage of these cases: Vermont (0.6 percent), Tennessee, Eastern (1.1 percent) and Wyoming (1.6 percent). Appendix Tables 6A and 6B provide detailed data, by district, on the length of time pending in the district courts for civil cases.

CRIMINALSummary of Workload

During the twelve months ended December 31, 1979, criminal cases prosecuted in the U. S. district courts continued a downward trend. This calendar year, the total filings dropped to 30,106, a 10.3 percent decrease compared to the 33,573 case filings a year ago.

Although the 30,763 cases terminated this year represents a substantial decline of 10.5 percent when compared to the 1978 total of 34,381, cases terminated still exceeded the filings by 657 cases. This resulted in 14,662 cases pending as of December 31, 1979, a decline of 4.3 percent or 657 cases compared to those pending on the criminal dockets just one year ago.

The accompanying table shows the changes in the criminal caseload since 1965 by six month periods, from July - December and January - June. From July 1, 1979 through December 31, 1979, 13,542 cases were filed - a drop of 13.0 percent compared to the 15,562 cases filed during July - December 1978.

Criminal Filings in Major Offense Groups

Criminal filings (exclusive of transfers) dropped 9.9 percent during the current year compared to one year ago. Most major offense groups (as shown in the Appendix Table D-2) shared in this decline. Notably, weapons and firearms filings outpaced all groups with its substantial numerical decrease of 1,323 cases - a drop of 60.4 percent from last year. Forgery and counterfeiting and fraud prosecutions also showed decreases during the year of 813 and 343 cases, respectively. Declines were also seen in the prosecution of both white collar embezzlement crimes and larceny and theft violations. Filings in these offense groups fell behind last year's totals by 319 cases each or a downturn of 17.8 percent in embezzlement and 9.0 percent in larceny and theft prosecutions. Other offenses that experienced substantial declines during the current year were: Marihuana under the Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act and auto thefts. Filings for these two offenses dropped by 256 cases (27.8 percent) and 198 cases (34.8 percent), respectively.

The decline in the prosecution of auto theft violators and weapons and firearms offenders indicates a growing trend in selective prosecution. For example, for several years, federal prosecution of auto theft violators, as a whole, has declined as a result of joy-rider type offenders being diverted from the federal courts to the state and local authorities for prosecution. On the other hand, the operation of auto theft rings that are connected with organized crime receive the close scrutiny of federal investigative and prosecutorial authorities. Also, the steady decline noted in weapons and firearms filings may be attributed to the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms recommending prosecution by local and state authorities of first time offenders while electing to have the federal authorities prosecute repeat offenders and convicted felons in the Federal district courts.

Criminal Filings by Nature of Proceedings

Table D-2 in the Appendix provides the method by which cases are commenced in the U. S. district courts. The accompanying table provides a comparison of the nature of proceedings in the U. S. district courts for the last two years.

The majority of criminal cases (exclusive of transfers) continue to be brought into the district courts by indictment (59.1 percent). Compared to last year, however, 3,187 fewer indictments (-15.6 percent) were reported.

Criminal Filings by District

During the current year, 73 districts mirrored the overall downward trend, thereby accounting for the 10.3 percent national drop in filings (including transfers). The remaining 22 districts recorded increases. The largest increase, 76.6 percent or 157 cases, was seen in Puerto Rico. The increase in this district is attributed to immigration filings which jumped from 21 cases in 1978 to 169 this calendar year. A similar rise occurred in New York, Western where case filings increased 72.4 percent over the previous year (mainly due to 103 more larceny prosecutions during the year). Michigan, Western had the greatest decrease in case filings of 50.5 percent due primarily to declines in forgery and counterfeiting (-22), fraud (-19), larceny (-18), and embezzlement (-10) filings.

Districts that recorded increases of more than 30 percent in filings were:

For the same period seven districts had decreases greater than 35 percent in case filings:

Terminations Down 10.5 Percent

The 30,763 terminations continue to outpace the number of filings (30,106) during the current year. However, terminations continued to decrease compared to the previous year with a 10.5 percent drop.

During the current year 26 districts increased their termination rate compared to one year ago. Of the 26 districts, Guam, along with three other districts made impressive strides with increases of more than 50 percent in terminations:

Sixty-nine districts recorded fewer terminations this year. Twelve of the sixty-nine showed declines of more than 30 percent:

Pending Caseload Down 4.3 Percent

The higher number of criminal cases terminated compared to criminal cases filed resulted in a moderate 4.3 percent drop in the pending caseload. Georgia, Southern led the 54 districts that lowered their pending caseload at the close of this year with a decline of 74.8 percent. Three districts followed Georgia, Southern's lead with a reduced pending caseload greater than 60 percent:

Thirty-six districts recorded increases in their pending cases while five districts remain unchanged. The largest increase (82.1 percent) was in Tennessee, Eastern, which had a drop in both filings (-8.9 percent) and terminations (-18.9 percent). No other district came close to Tennessee, Eastern's mark. The remaining districts' increases ranged from a high of 63.2 percent in Nebraska (which experienced an increase of 12.9 percent in filings and a decrease of 18.3 percent in terminations) to a low of 0.5 percent in Texas, Western. Five districts recorded increases greater than 30 percent in pending criminal cases at the close of 1979:

JUROR UTILIZATION

(REPORT FOR SIX-MONTH PERIOD - JULY 1 TO DECEMBER 31, 1979)

Grand Jury

Grand jury activity increased in the six-month period ended December 31, 1979. As shown in the accompanying table, the total number of grand jury sessions convened rose by 5.6 percent from 4,439 in 1978 to 4,689 in 1979. Increases were also recorded in the number of jurors and hours in session. The number of jurors in session increased by 6.9 percent from 87,002 in 1978 to 93,046 in 1979, while the number of hours in session increased by 5.4 percent from 23,209 in 1978 to 24,469 in 1979. These increases can be attributed at least partially to the courts' efforts to reduce the time between a defendant's arrest and subsequent indictment in accordance with the mandates of the Speedy Trial Act of 1974.

Appendix Table J-1, "Grand Juror Usage", presents data for each district on the number of grand juries in existence, the number of sessions convened, the number of jurors in attendance, and the number of hours in session.

Nationally, 528 grand juries were reported in existence during the six-month period ended December 31, 1979. This is an increase of 4.3 percent over the 506 reported in 1978. Thirty-three districts reported more grand juries in existence in 1979 than 1978. New York, Southern and New York, Eastern reported the largest number of grand juries with 38 and 37, respectively. At the other end of the scale, eighteen of the 92 districts with grand jury activity reported one in existence during this time. The districts of the Virgin Islands, Canal Zone, and Northern Mariana Islands reported no grand juries in existence in 1979.

The Southern District of New York continues to report the most grand jury activity. This district recorded the greatest number of sessions convened - 425, the largest number of jurors in session - 8,580, as well as the highest number of hours in session - 2,025. North Dakota falls at the other end of the scale with its one grand jury reporting four sessions convened involving 77 grand jurors for total of 17 hours.

Table J-1 also indicates the average number of jurors for each session convened within a district as well as the average number of hours per session. Sixteen to 23 grand jurors must be present to conduct a grand jury session. The national average was 19.8 jurors per session with averages in the individual districts ranging from 18.1 jurors in Iowa, Southern to 22.8 jurors in West Virginia, Northern. The average hours per session ranged from a low of 3.64 hours in New York, Northern to a high of 7.75 in both Virginia, Western and Alaska. The national average remained stable at approximately 5.22 hours per session.

The table, "Proceedings by Indictment and Grand Jury Sessions", indicates that 7,841 cases were commenced by indictment in the period July - December 1979 as compared to 9,146 during the same period in 1978, a decrease of 14.3 percent. The number of defendants proceeded against by indictment also decreased in this report period. In 1979, 11,960 defendants were proceeded against by indictment, a drop of 4.7 percent from the 12,553 reported in 1978. The average number of defendants indicted per grand jury session continued to decline in 1979. In 1978 an average of 2.83 defendants were proceeded against, while in 1979 this figure dropped to 2.55. In addition, the number of cases commenced as a result of each grand jury session dropped from 2.06 in 1978 to 1.67 in 1979.

Petit Jury

The accompanying table, "National Petit Juror Usage", summarizes national trends in juror utilization for the six-month periods ended December 31, 1975 through 1979. There were 266,408 prospective jurors available during the current six-month period, a 3.5 percent increase over 1978. The percent of jurors selected or serving increased to 60.1 percent, while the percent challenged dropped to 15.1 percent.

The percent of jurors not selected, serving or challenged increased slightly to 24.8 percent. This category has been further classified to show the number of jurors who are in travel status. During this report period 2,022 jurors were reported in travel.

The number of jury trial days also increased during this report period. In 1978 there were 13,133 jury trial days, while in 1979 there were 13,786, an increase of 5.0 percent. Once again the number of jury trial days was almost evenly divided between civil (47.7 percent) and criminal (52.3 percent).

Appendix Table J-2, "Petit Juror Usage", provides, by district, a breakdown of the total available jurors and jury trial days. The percent of jurors selected for or serving on a jury trial ranged from highs of 82.6 percent in North Carolina, Western and 80.1 percent in Alabama, Southern to a low of 8.9 percent in the Northern Mariana Islands. Fifty-six districts reported 60 percent or more of the available jurors in this category.

In the category of jurors challenged either for cause or peremptorily, the Northern Mariana Islands reported the high of 46.5 percent, while at the other end of the scale New York, Northern reported 6.1 percent. Nationally, 15.1 percent of all available jurors were reported as challenged.

The Northern Mariana Islands and Tennessee, Middle recorded highs of 44.6 percent and 44.4 percent in the category of jurors not selected, serving or challenged. In contrast, Alabama, Southern and Oklahoma, Eastern reported 0.9 percent and 0.8 percent, respectively. Fifty districts reported jurors in travel status during this six-month period. Twenty-three of these districts reported less than 1 percent of their jurors in this category, while Puerto Rico reported the high of 15.7 percent of jurors in travel status.

The percentage of criminal jury trials ranged from a high of 100.0 percent in Oklahoma, Eastern to a low of 3.6 percent in Iowa, Northern.

The Juror Utilization Index (J.U.I.) is the average number of jurors on hand for each jury trial day. The national J.U.I. decreased from 19.60 in 1978 to 19.32 in 1979. Fifty-five districts reported improvement in their J.U.I.'s. The Virgin Islands reported a J.U.I. of 29.39 in 1979, while in contrast Iowa, Northern and Delaware reported J.U.I.'s of 11.98 and 11.70, respectively. Fifty-two of the 93 districts (55.9 percent) reporting jury trial days had J.U.I.'s less than the national J.U.I. of 19.32.

FEDERAL PUBLIC/COMMUNITY DEFENDERS
(REPORT FOR SIX-MONTH PERIOD - JULY 1 TO DECEMBER 31, 1979)

As of December 31, 1979, there were thirty-one federal public defender and seven community defender organizations in operation. Appendix tables K-1 and L-1 provide detailed statistical information on the case activity of these offices during the six-month period ended December 31, 1979. The information is classified into three major categories of representations: criminal, appeals, and other (includes habeas corpus, parole/probation revocation, witness, and motions to correct or reduce sentence). The statistics in tables K-1 and L-1 only cover representations by federal public/community defender offices and therefore exclude representations provided by private panel attorneys under the Criminal Justice Act of 1964. These statistics are available in a separate report.

Federal Public Defenders

Federal public defenders were assigned 6,872 new cases during the six-month period ended December 31, 1979, an increase of 185 cases, or 2.8 percent, over the 6,687 cases opened during the same period last year. The number of cases opened by the individual offices ranged from a high of 681 in California, Central to a low of 49 in Florida, Northern.

Of the thirty¹ offices in operation during the entire six-month periods ended December 31, 1978 and 1979, fifteen recorded increases in their case openings. Puerto Rico recorded the largest increase with a rise of 114.8 percent. Ohio, Northern and Florida, Northern recorded the largest decreases with declines of 50.0 percent and 31.9 percent, respectively.

The majority of matters assigned to federal public defenders were representations of criminal defendants before a magistrate or in the district court. In 1979, 4,148, or 60.4 percent, of the cases opened involved such matters. This is a decrease of 3.2 percent from the 4,285 criminal matters reported in 1978.

Appeals cases accounted for 3.2 percent of the caseload of the defenders in 1979; while "other representations" accounted for 36.4 percent. Approximately 15 percent (318 cases) of the "other representations" opened during this period were court directed representations of inmates of the U.S. Medical Center for Federal Prisoners at Springfield, Missouri handled by the Missouri, Western office. This is a decline of 22.1 percent from the 408 such representations opened in 1978.

Federal public defenders closed 6,614 cases, a 2.1 percent decrease from the 6,757 closed in 1978. Of this total, 4,055 (61.3 percent) were criminal cases, 193 (2.9 percent) were appeals cases, and 2,366 (35.8 percent) were "other representations". California, Central closed 690 cases during this six-month period, while the office in Illinois, Central and Southern closed only 40 cases.

The average number of hours in court per closed case remained at 1.6. In the individual offices this average ranged from a low of 0.6 hours in Missouri, Western to a high of 5.0 hours in Tennessee, Middle. The high average in Tennessee, Middle is the result of an extortion and rackets case which involved 280 hours of court time. Without this case Tennessee, Middle would have recorded an average of approximately 0.7 hours in court per closed case.

The pending caseload for the federal public defender offices rose from 3,170 in 1978 to 3,370 in 1979, an increase of 6.3 percent. Seventeen of the thirty-one offices reported an increase in their pending caseload at the end of this reporting period.

¹The federal public defender in Minnesota began reporting in September 1978.

Community Defender Organizations

A total of 3,273 cases were opened by the seven community defender organizations during the six-month period ended December 31, 1979. This was an increase of 11.6 percent over the 2,933 cases opened a year ago. Of the total number of cases opened, 2,368 (72.3 percent) were criminal cases, 111 (3.4 percent) were appeals cases, and 794 (24.3 percent) were "other representations".

California, Southern recorded the largest number of case openings with 1,407. This is an increase of 827 cases, or 142.6 percent, over the 580 cases opened by this office a year ago. Most of this increase can be attributed to the approximately 600 representations of aliens before a magistrate at the complaint level. California, Southern did not report on such cases prior to February 1979. These cases represented 42.6 percent of all cases opened by this defender organization. At the other end of the scale, Georgia, Northern recorded 138 case openings, a decrease of 11.5 percent from the 156 cases opened in 1978. Five of the seven defender organizations recorded decreases in their case openings. These decreases ranged from 11.5 percent in Georgia, Northern to 45.0 percent in Illinois, Northern.

The number of cases closed by community defender organizations increased by 7.0 percent during this period. Most of this increase can be attributed to the 95.9 percent increase in case closings in California, Southern. The significant increase in case closings in this district is also directly related to the reporting of representations of aliens before a magistrate at the complaint level.

Of the 3,461 cases disposed of by the community defender offices in 1979, California, Southern disposed of 1,424, or 41.1 percent. The New York organization disposed of 943 cases, or 27.2 percent of the total. At the other end of the scale, Oregon disposed of 132 cases during this time.

The average number of hours in court per closed case dropped dramatically from 3.3 hours in 1978 to just 1.8 hours in 1979. The largest decline was in the average hours for criminal cases which dropped from 4.4 in 1978 to 2.1 in 1979. California, Southern recorded the lowest average in this category with 1.1 hours; while Pennsylvania, Eastern recorded a high of 3.1 hours.

The 11.6 percent increase in the number of cases opened accompanied by the 7.0 percent increase in the number of cases closed resulted in a decrease of 16.1 percent in the number of cases pending as of December 31, 1979. Six of the seven offices recorded a decrease in their pending caseload with Illinois, Northern recording the largest of 39.1 percent. Oregon recorded an increase of 19.0 percent in its pending caseload.

BANKRUPTCY

Bankruptcy Reform Act of 1978

The twelve month period ended December 31, 1979 was a very significant period for bankruptcy activity in the United States courts. The Bankruptcy Reform Act of 1978 (Public Law 95-598, 92 STAT, 2549 approved November 6, 1978), which represents the first major revision of the bankruptcy laws since 1938, became effective on October 1, 1979. The major change implemented by the Reform Act was to upgrade the jurisdiction of the United States bankruptcy courts to include matters handled by other courts. Other significant changes initiated by the Reform Act include the following:

1. Allowing a husband and wife to file a single joint petition in liquidation cases instead of separate petitions
2. Enacting a single reorganization chapter, Chapter 11, to replace Chapters VIII, X, XI, XII
3. Enacting a totally revised Chapter 13 (in place of Chapter XIII), a relief chapter for the adjustment of debts of individuals which expands the number of persons eligible for relief and enhances the relief available to the debtors
4. A new appellate procedure that among other things permits direct appeal to the United States Courts of Appeals
5. Creates new and more liberal Federal exemption provisions and options for the debtor

Because of the significant changes implemented by the Reform Act, it is necessary to distinguish between those cases filed prior to the changes and those filed after. For purposes of this discussion and all related bankruptcy tables in this report, cases filed prior to October 1, 1979 will be referred to as "Bankruptcy Law" cases and those filed on or after October 1, 1979 will be referred to as "Bankruptcy Code" cases.

Summary of Workload

During the twelve month period ended December 31, 1979, 241,838 bankruptcy cases were filed in the bankruptcy courts, an increase of 16.1 percent over the 208,278 cases filed during the same period last year. These 241,838 case filings include 185,815 Bankruptcy Law cases and 56,023 Bankruptcy Code cases. Unlike the bankruptcy filing activity, the number of bankruptcy cases terminated dropped 4.4 percent from 209,082 cases in 1978 to 199,792 in 1979. The current figure includes 199,588 Bankruptcy Law cases and 204 Bankruptcy Code cases. As a result of the increasing filings and decreasing terminations, the pending bankruptcy caseload increased to 285,799 as of December 31, 1979, a rise of 17.2 percent. This pending caseload includes 229,980 Bankruptcy Law cases and 55,819 Bankruptcy Code cases. Table 16 provides a comparison of the total bankruptcy workload in 1978 and 1979. Appendix Tables F1 and F1BC provide more detailed information on the bankruptcy workload for the twelve month period ended December 31, 1979. (Appendix tables in this report are organized into two groups. F1 refers to Bankruptcy Law cases and F1BC, F2BC and F3BC reference activity under the Bankruptcy Reform Act, referred to as the new Bankruptcy Code (BC) in this report).

The impact of the Bankruptcy Reform Act on the bankruptcy caseload in the federal courts can be determined, to some extent, by comparing the number of cases filed during the three-month periods October - December, 1978 - 1979. Table 17 provides a comparison of bankruptcy cases commenced, by quarter, for statistical years 1975 - 1979.

Bankruptcy Code Filings 56,023; Bankruptcy Law Reopens 465

The actual number of bankruptcy cases filed during October - December 1979 was 56,488, a slight increase over the 55,275 cases filed during the same period a year ago. However, the latter figure includes separate filings for a husband and wife, while the figure for 1979 includes many instances where the husband and wife filed a joint petition. Of the 56,488 bankruptcy cases filed, 19,980 cases, or 35.4 percent, were joint petitions. Any comparison of the filing caseload after October 1, 1979 with a previous period must make allowance for these cases, since in many instances, the work involved with one joint petition is equivalent to two individual cases. Additional data on Bankruptcy Code cases filed during the three month period ended December 31, 1979 is provided in Appendix Tables F2BC and F3BC.

In addition to the original bankruptcy cases filed in the U.S. bankruptcy courts, adversary proceedings may arise out of any of these cases and be filed with the court. During the three month period ended December 31, 1979, a total of 3,086 such cases were filed. Table 18 provides the number of adversary proceedings filed, by district, during each of the months October - December, 1979. The most extensive adversary proceeding activity during the three month period occurred in Colorado with 214 filings and California Central with 205.

FEDERAL PROBATION SYSTEM

Summary of Workload

Persons under the supervision of the Federal Probation System declined by 1,492 or 2.2 percent from 66,641 at the end of 1978 to 65,149 this year. Persons received for supervision, excluding transfers, numbered 31,798, a decrease of 3,472 or 9.8 percent compared to last year. There were 33,778 persons removed from supervision other than by transfer, a drop of 1,712 or 4 percent from the number of persons removed during last year. Table E-1 in the appendix shows persons received and removed by district during the twelve month period ended December 31, 1979. Table 19 shows a comparison of the 1979 and 1978 totals by type of supervision.

Received for Supervision

Probationers received on terms imposed by district court judges continued to decline, with 2,856 (18.4 percent) fewer received for supervision this year than last. Probationers received on terms imposed by U. S. magistrates declined nearly as much on a percentage basis, down 17.5 percent or 997 persons.

The number of parolees received for supervision in 1979 increased by 908 or 14.7 percent compared to 1978, while there was a decline of 482 or 14.1 percent in the number of mandatory releasees received. Persons received on special parole terms decreased by 34 or 1.7 percent, the first time that this category has decreased since its establishment in the E-1 Table of the 1975 Annual Report of the Director.

The number of persons received on military parole and pretrial diversion remained nearly the same as last year.

Persons Under Supervision as of December 31

The number of probationers under supervision continues to decline with the reduction in criminal prosecutions. Persons under supervision from court probation and magistrate probation decreased by 2,600 (6.8 percent) and 431 (5.9 percent), respectively. Other decreases included 85 (3.7 percent) fewer persons serving under conditions of pretrial diversion and 82 (4.2 percent) fewer persons serving mandatory release terms.

The number of parolees under supervision continued to increase significantly with 1,323 (10.3 percent) more persons than last year. The number of special parolees showed an increase of 365 (9.4 percent), although the rate of increase has begun to decline. (See last year's December 31 report for information concerning the effects of special parole terms on the supervision caseload.)

Persons serving on military parole increased slightly from 225 at the end of 1978 to 243 at the end of this year. Table E-2 in the appendix shows the number of persons under supervision on December 31, 1979 by district and type of supervision.

Institutional Releases Rise

The accompanying table shows that persons serving terms after release from institutions now account for 31.4 percent of all persons under supervision. These persons generally require more time from supervising probation officers in the administration of their cases.

Parolees have increased from 19.2 percent of the total caseload in 1978 to 21.7 percent at the close of this year. Special parolees now comprise 6.5 percent of all persons under supervision, compared to 5.8 percent last year. Mandatory releasees and military parolees have remained constant at 2.9 percent and 0.4 percent of the total, respectively.

Exclusive of the Territory of Guam, the proportion of institutional releasees under supervision on December 31, 1979 within the individual districts ranged from a low of 9.8 percent of the caseload in Northern New York to more than half (51.7 percent) of all persons under supervision in Eastern Michigan. Institutional releasees make up 40 percent or more of the caseload for the ten districts listed below:

Offenses of Persons Under Supervision

Table E-3 in the appendix shows all persons under supervision on December 31, 1979 by district and offense. The accompanying graph shows a comparision by 11 major offense groupings of the number serving probationary terms and the number serving the remainder of institutional sentences.

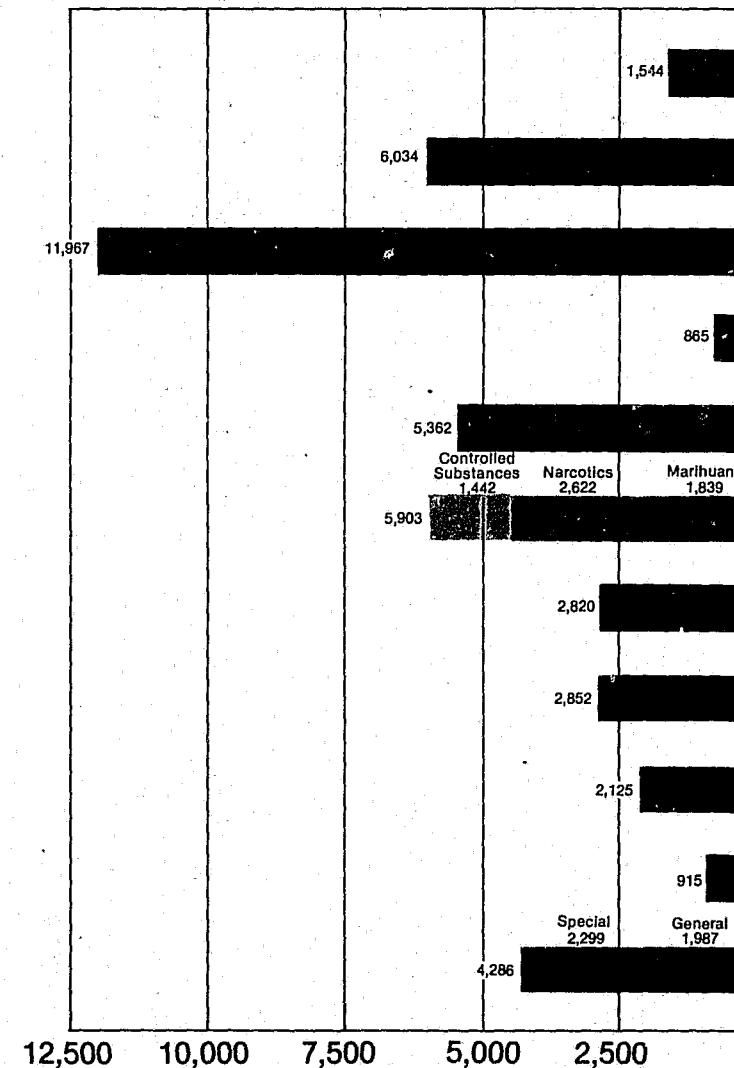

Nearly three-fourths (73.2 percent) of those persons whose supervision on December 31 had resulted from violent or forceful crimes such as homicide, robbery, assault or burglary were institutional releasees, while 93 percent of the persons under supervision for embezzlement or fraud were serving probationary terms. More than 61 percent of the persons under supervision for drug offenses were parolees, military parolees, mandatory releasees or special parolees. (all of whom are drug offenders)

Viewed from a different perspective, nearly two-thirds (13,526 or 65.9 percent) of the 20,532 institutional releasees under supervision on December 31, 1979 had committed a crime of force or violence or was a drug offender. Of the remaining 7,006 persons being supervised after institutional release, 4,044 (57.7 percent) had been involved in grand larceny (including auto theft), forgery, or counterfeiting.

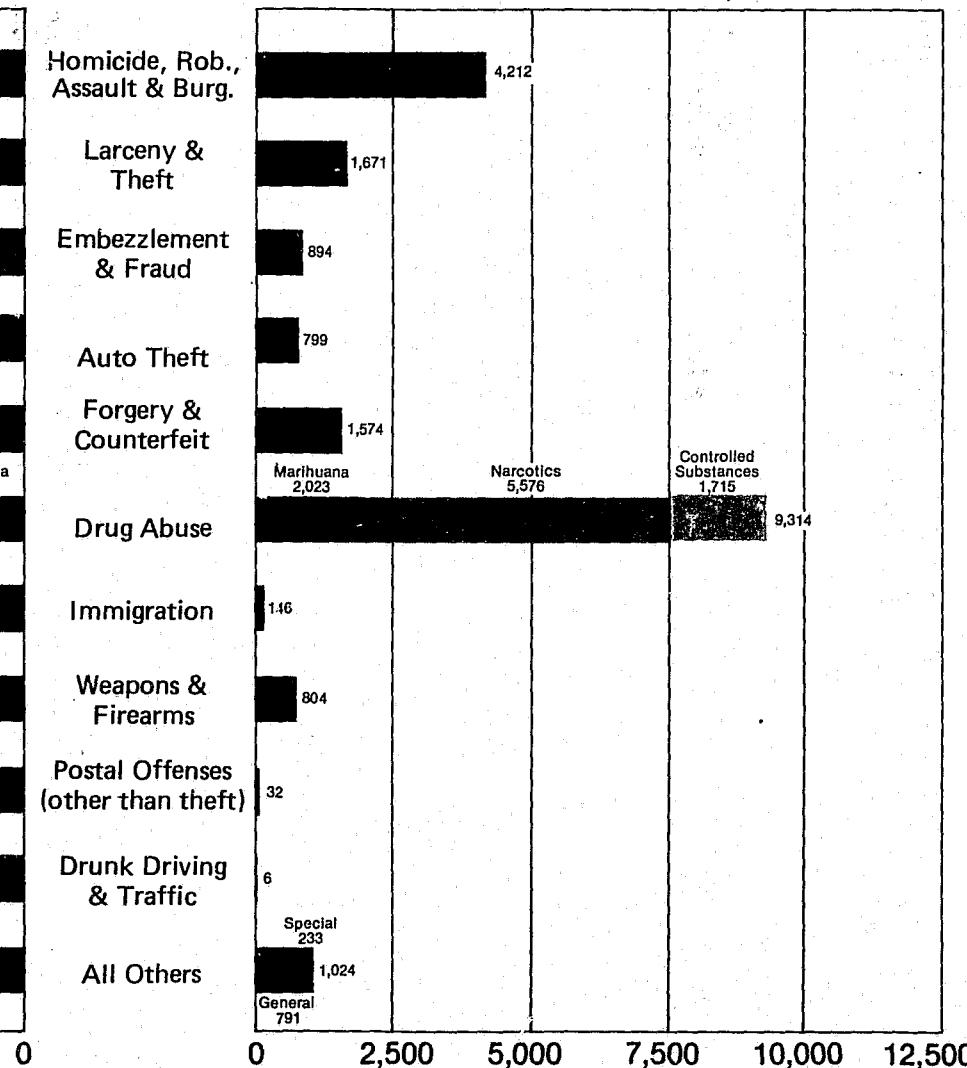

In contrast, more than one-third of all persons serving terms of probation at year's end had been involved in the non-violent crimes of embezzlement, fraud, postal offense (other than theft), or violation of immigration laws. The proportion rises to more than one-half when larceny is added, which includes a large number of probationers supervised after conviction for petty thefts.

Cases Under Submission in the Courts of Appeals and Other Federal Courts

There were 428 cases under submission over ninety days on December 31, 1979 in the United States Courts of Appeals. This was a slight decrease of 12 cases, or 2.7 percent below the 440 cases reported on December 31, 1978. This total does not include those cases awaiting the submission of additional memoranda or briefs, or awaiting an opinion in another case.

The Second, Fifth, Seventh, Eighth and Ninth circuits reduced the number of cases pending over 90 days, while the remaining circuits reported increases ranging from a one case increase in the Third Circuit to a 27 case increase in the District of Columbia. A total of 131 cases, or 30.6 percent of all cases under submission, were reported by judges of the Ninth Circuit.

Of the 428 cases reported under submission, 205, or 47.9 percent, had been held under submission more than three but less than six months; 108, or 25.2 percent, had been held more than six but less than nine months; 68, or 15.9 percent, had been held more than nine months but less than one year; and 47, or 11.0 percent, had been held under submission more than one year as shown in the following table. The 47 cases pending more than one year were reported by five circuits: the District of Columbia, Fifth, Seventh, Ninth and Tenth circuits. The Fifth Circuit had only one such case, while the Ninth Circuit reported 20, or 42.6 percent of all cases pending over one year.

The Court of Claims, the Temporary Emergency Court of Appeals, and the Court of Customs and Patent Appeals reported no cases under submission as of December 31, 1979.

Cases and Motions Under Advisement in the District Courts

Cases and motions held under advisement over 60 days by U. S. district judges increased 34.2 percent from 1,166 matters on December 31, 1978 to 1,565 matters on December 31, 1979. The following table shows that 515 district judges, including 98 senior judges, reported on the status of matters before the court and of these, 60.4 percent, or 311 judges, reported having no matters held under advisement more than 60 days. The number of active judges who did not report decreased from 22 in 1978 to 17 in 1979.

A total of 204 district judges reported 671 cases and 894 motions held under advisement more than 60 days. As in previous years, the majority of matters reported (69.6 percent) had been held less than six months.

The average number of matters held under advisement ranged from 1.3 matters for each of the 9 judges of the District of Columbia to 24.1 matters each for Seventh Circuit district judges. The average was 7.7 matters for each of the 204 judges reporting matters under advisement.

The number of cases and motions under advisement increased in all but the District of Columbia and the Fifth Circuit. The Sixth Circuit showed the largest increase in pending matters with 329 matters under advisement on December 31, 1979, compared to 150 matters in 1978, an increase of 179 cases. The Fifth Circuit showed a decrease of 16 pending cases from 137 on December 31, 1978 to 121 on December 31, 1979. The District of Columbia remained unchanged with 12 cases.

There were 467 cases and 623 motions which had been held under advisement more than 60 days but less than six months; 130 cases and 189 motions which had been held more than six months but less than one year; and 74 cases and 82 motions held more than one year.

Cases and motions held under advisement more than one year totalled 156 or 10.0 percent of all matters reported on December 31, 1979. The Sixth Circuit with 60 reported the greatest number of such matters, while only the Tenth Circuit had no matters pending over one year. Cases and motions held under advisement over 60 days on December 31, 1979, excluding those matters since reported as decided, were distributed by circuit as follows:

UNITED STATES MAGISTRATES

As of December 31, 1979 the Judicial Conference had authorized 201 full-time United States magistrate positions, 264 part-time positions, and 20 combination positions in which clerks of court, deputy clerks or bankruptcy judges perform magistrate duties.

Magistrates disposed of 93,480 misdemeanor cases in 1979, including 12,654 above the level of petty offense. Of these non-petty offenses, 8,175 involved serious traffic violation charges such as driving while intoxicated. There were 1,727 theft cases, 508 fraud, 488 food and drug, and 434 mail cases. Of the 80,826 petty offenses disposed of by magistrates, 53,499 were traffic violations. There were 13,627 immigration cases, 4,972 hunting, fishing and camping offenses and 2,239 drunk and disorderly charges.

Among the misdemeanor defendants 18,712 received a full trial on the merits; 62,319 defendants pled guilty; and 12,449 cases were dismissed in open court by the magistrates.

United States magistrates conducted 67,584 precommitment proceedings in felony cases during 1979. This includes applications for 10,064 arrest warrants, 4,587 search warrants and 1,645 summonses. Magistrates held a total of 40,377 bail hearings: 28,587 were for initial appearances, 9,995 for material witnesses and 1,795 for probation violations. Magistrates also reported conducting 5,218 bail reviews, 4,141 preliminary examinations and 1,552 removal hearings.

During 1979 magistrates disposed of 117,516 "additional duties" under 28 U.S.C. Section 636(b). Criminal matters included 17,914 post-indictment arraignments, 8,389 criminal pretrial conferences, 11,020 motions and 918 final probation revocation hearings. Among civil "additional duties" magistrates handled 11,610 prisoner petitions, 22,508 pretrial conferences, 42,237 motions and 4,204 social security reviews.

Magistrates also conducted 3,151 evidentiary proceedings during 1979. These included 521 criminal hearings, 819 civil hearings, 700 prisoner hearings, 156 E.E.O.C. cases referred to magistrates as special masters, and 372 other special master references. Magistrates also conducted 125 civil jury trials and 458 non-jury trials.

The accompanying table compares the nature and volume of the duties performed by United States magistrates during the twelve month period ended December 31, 1979 with the previous year. Magistrates handled a total of 281,731 duties in 1979, a drop of 4.6 percent from 1978. Misdemeanors above the level of petty increased by 3.0 percent in 1979, while petty offenses fell 8 percent. Precommitment proceedings in criminal cases were down 6.9 percent from last year. Criminal "additional duties" declined by 9.6 percent while "additional duties" performed in civil cases increased by 2.6 percent over 1978.

Appendix Tables M-1 through M-5 present additional detailed statistics on the work of the United States magistrates during calendar year 1979.
