federal emergency management agency

Federal Crime Insurance insures against financial losses from burglary and robbery. Policies can be purchased from licensed property insurance agents or brokers and from the Federal Crime Insurance Program's servicing company.

The problem: In many locations, homeowners, tenants, and business men and women find themselves being denied renewals of their crime insurance policies or experiencing difficulty in purchasing new policies. Crime is continuing to rise nationwide.

The solution: The Federal Crime Insurance Program is the answer -- a program which offers federally-subsidized crime insurance to those homeowners, tenants and business owners located in those areas where it has been determined that there is a problem of availability or affordability of insurance through the voluntary market.

The program began in 1971, following Congressional hearings which resulted in legislation passed in 1970 that created Federal Crime Insurance and gave the authority for its administration to the Federal Insurance Administration.

Today, the Federal Insurance Administration, as part of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, makes crime insurance available in states where this insurance is not fully available at affordable rates. The rates for policies in these states are uniform within entire metropolitan areas, and policies are not cancelled because of losses.

Twenty-five states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands are participants in the program, and more than 85,000 policies are in force.

After a business location has been inspected and a policy issued, claims for losses will be paid provided the policyholder has not removed or changed the protective devices previously approved by the inspector. Policies on all locations meeting the protective device requirements become effective at noon on the day following the date of a U.S. affixed postmark or proof of Certified or Registered mailing.
