INTRODUCTION

This supplement to the 1978 Compendium of Criminal Justice Statistics from Alberta continues the format of presenting crime and corrections data in tabular and graphic form. As a result, only statistics from the years 1978 and 1979 are included, although 1977 statistics are included where they were not available in the previous publication.

Statistics for the supplement were gleaned from a variety of sources. Crime data for 1978 and 1979 were extracted from the Police Information System (PoLIS) of the Alberta Solicitor General Department and where possible, were verified with Statistics Canada sources. Corrections data was collected from the month-end reports of the provincial correctional institutions. Populations for Alberta and its municipalities were taken from the Alberta Statistical Review (Alberta Treasury, December 1979) and Municipal Affairs information for 1979.

Once more, court statistics are absent in this attempt to produce a source-book of province-wide criminal justice statistical data. There were many gaps in those statistics which were available, rendering them unusable.

DATA LIMITATIONS

One of the most prominent limitations in the crime data was the source of population figures for the calculation of rates. As most of the population figures used were not based on an official census, a wide variety of estimates were available from various sources. The figures from Alberta Treasury and the Department of Municipal Affairs were finally judged to be the most useful. As a result, some of the 1977 rates published in the Compendium have been revised. As well, rates were calculated using the whole population in order to be comparable with Statistics Canada when actually only the population over seven years of age can be held accountable for criminal offences. Therefore, the rates of crime per 100,000 population are probably slightly lower than they should be.

The use of the sub-category "Other Criminal Code" presents limitations for the crime and corrections data. This catch-all group probably contains components which should be found in other categories but which do not fit into their limited number of sub-categories. For example, arson is entered in the Other Criminal Code sub-category although it might be better classified in an other property crimes sub-category if one existed. Following the same format as Statistics Canada for categorizing offences may result in a deceptively high crime rate for other crimes.

The accuracy and comparability of corrections data for 1978 and 1979 was limited by problems in the transition from manual to machine generated statistics. As well, the opening of the Edmonton Remand Centre in October, 1979 was a factor which affected the inmate population of Fort Saskatchewan Correctional Institution but which had no effect on the other provincial institutions.

Once again, the variations of departments and institutions in the recording and categorizing of the data must be recognized as a limitation to its applicability. For example, in the section dealing with statistics of the individual provincial institutions (2A, B, C, D, E, F, G, and H), admissions refer not only to fresh admissions to the institutions but also to inmates' movements in from temporary absences during their incarceration.

The absence of statistics for the Belmont Community Corrections Centre limits the accuracy of statistics on inmate populations in Alberta. Because Belmont was not an institution at this time, monthly records were not available in the same format as the other institutions. Belmont does not have any fresh admissions but it does receive transfers of sentenced inmates from Fort Saskatchewan Correctional Institution. Its average daily population has been 103.8 males and 23.3 females for the period 1979-80.

I CRIME STATISTICS

A. Policing in Alberta

Generally, both the police operating budgets and number of police in Alberta and selected municipalities appear to be increasing, reflecting the increasing populations. In the fiscal year 1978-79 the total police operating budget for Alberta was $101,231,872 as compared with $84,867,259 for 1977-78, and the number of police had increased from 3,308 to 5,152 for the same period. Despite the large portions of the budget allotted to Edmonton and Calgary, these two cities have lower ratios of police to population than Medicine Hat and Lethbridge in 1979.

B. Crime in Alberta

Crime in Alberta does not appear to be following the trend of continuous increase which has occurred since 1962. The crime rate for all offences rose slightly in 1977, decreased in 1978, and rose above the 1977 rate in 1979, primarily due to increased rates for provincial statutes and municipal by-laws. Crime rates for Criminal Code offences dropped in 1978 and rose in 1979, but not above the 1977 level. The actual numbers of Criminal Code offences and all offences dropped in 1978 but rose above 1977 numbers in 1979. The reason for the increase in actual numbers as opposed to the decrease in rates might be Alberta's steadily increasing population.

Figure 2 illustrates a trend toward an increasing propensity to clear offences by charge. This trend is consistent from 1977 through 1979, with the exceptions of assault (not indecent), crimes of violence, and municipal by-laws which have higher clearance by other means. Table 1.12 shows that, in general, homicide, stolen goods, prostitution, drug offences, other federal statutes, and provincial statutes have the highest total percentage cleared. Police per 100,000 population increased from 174.1 in 1977 to 206.3 in 1979, affecting perhaps the lower crime rates per 100,000 population and the higher clearance rates.

Alberta's crime rate has consistently been higher than Canada's and it tends to be overrepresented in the percentage of actual number of offences in Canada in comparison with its percentage of the Canadian population. Although it was still higher than Canada, in 1978 there was a drop in Alberta's portion of all offences and all other categories. As Canadian statistics were not available for 1979, it is not known whether this trend will continue.

C. Crime in Municipalities and Other Alberta Areas

In this supplement special tabulations are compiled for Calgary, Edmonton, Medicine Hat, and Lethbridge. These four municipalities are overrepresented in their percentage of Alberta's crime in terms of their percentage of Alberta's population. Some exceptions are Calgary, which is underrepresented in violent crimes, other crimes, and Criminal Code offences and Lethbridge and Medicine Hat which are underrepresented in violent crimes. Edmonton and Calgary account for about 50% of the offences in Alberta. Prostitution is particularly high in these two municipalities - between the two they accounted for 96% of that offence in 1977, 97.6% in 1978 and 92.4% in 1979. On the other hand, other federal statutes and provincial statutes offences are very low in Calgary and Edmonton. Edmonton's supremacy over Calgary in offence rate per 100,000 population continues.

In the four municipalities crime rates per 100,000 population went down in 1978 and rose again in 1979 except for Medicine Hat. It is interesting to note that the relationship between crime rates and clearance rates is clearly negative. Generally if crime rates were up the total percentage of offences cleared was down and vice versa.

In other areas of Alberta the crime rate and absolute number of offences continued to rise between 1977 and 1979 with no downward turn in 1978. As crime rates rose, the total percentage of offences cleared also rose. Other Alberta areas are generally underrepresented in crime in proportion to their percentage of Alberta's population with the exception of the "other crimes" category.

1. Edmonton

Between 1977 and 1978 the offence rate for Criminal Code offences and all offences dropped. Crimes of violence were up quite a bit - 33.73% for homicide and 20.67% for sexual offences - as were gaming and betting and offensive weapons. There was a 20.22% decrease in robbery rates. Prostitution, possession of stolen goods, and other federal statutes also showed a decrease from their 1977 levels. In 1979, the rate for all offences rose above the 1977 rate and the trend of 1978 appeared to be reversing. The violent offences of homicide and sexual offences decreased in rate, and the rate for possession of stolen goods was up 61.47%. Only the rates for prostitution and other federal statutes followed the downward trend of the previous year.

The year 1979 showed only a slight increase in the total percentage of offences cleared, due to a drop in percentage cleared otherwise and an improvement in total percentage cleared by charge. Between 1978 and 1979, an increase in offence rate was generally accompanied by an increase in the total percentage cleared and vice versa. This relationship held true for crimes of violence which decreased, property crimes which increased, and Criminal Code offences which increased.

2. Calgary

Between 1977 and 1978, there was a large drop in the rate for all offences resulting from a drop in every offence except possession of stolen goods and gaming and betting. The largest decreases were for the crimes of prostitution, other federal statutes, drugs, and provincial statutes. In 1979, the rate for all offences went up, but not above the 1977 rate. The rate for prostitution reversed its trend and rose, but rates for other federal statutes, drugs, and provincial statutes continued to drop. Violent crimes rate remained below its 1977 rate as did property crimes, other crimes, and Criminal Code offences. The only offences which rose above their 1977 rates were possession of stolen goods, theft over $200, and break and enter.

The percentage of offences cleared by charge and otherwise dropped in 1979. Prostitution, gaming and betting, drug offences and provincial statutes were among the highest of the total percentages cleared and stayed generally high in 1979. In general, it appears that offence rates went up between 1978 and 1979 and the total percentage cleared went down. This relationship held true for all categories of Criminal Code offences and all offences. As with Edmonton, there was a slight drop in police per 100,000 population between 1978 and 1979.

3. Lethbridge

The actual number of offences in Lethbridge showed an increase from 1977 to 1978 and 1978 to 1979, but rates decreased in 1978. This decrease was probably due to sharp declines in the rates for drug offences, prostitution, robbery, and sexual offences. However, crimes of violence (total) increased, particularly homicide and assaults (not indecent), and continued to increase in 1979 with the exception of homicide which went down to zero. For the most part, the offence rate rose in 1979, in particular for all offences and Criminal Code offences.

Because of a decline in total percentage of offences cleared otherwise, the total clearance rate dropped in 1979 from 56.5% to 49.3%. Homicide, which had risen so dramatically in 1978, had a 100% clearance rate, as did possession of stolen goods which also had risen.

4. Medicine Hat

Medicine Hat proved to be the exception to the trend of fluctuating rates in 1978 and 1979. The rate for all offences went down in 1978 and continued to go down in 1979. In 1978, all major categories of Criminal Code offences were down and the only offences displaying a rise in rates were robbery, theft over, prostitution, offensive weapons, other Criminal Code, and municipal bylaws. A further turn downward was evident in 1979 except for crimes of violence which were up due to large increases in sex offences and robbery.

Statistically, Medicine Hat appears to be the most favorable of the featured municipalities as far as crime is concerned. Its offence rate shows a tendency to decrease and the total percentage of offences cleared is increasing despite the fact that the number of police per 100,000 population is decreasing.

5. Other Areas of Alberta

Like Medicine Hat, the other areas of Alberta show different trends from Edmonton, Calgary, and Lethbridge. Actual number and offence rate of all offences rose from 1977 to 1978 and 1978 to 1979. There were no discernible trends within the different categories, as they seemed to vary slightly up or down over the years. Increases for offensive weapons and sex offences contributed considerably to the increase of the total crime rate in 1978. In 1979, municipal bylaws and prostitution were the major sources for the increase.

The total percentage of offences cleared was slightly up in 1979 although the percentage of offences cleared otherwise dropped slightly. In 1979, less prostitution offences were cleared and none were cleared by charge in either 1979 or 1978. Homicide, possession of stolen goods, drugs, other federal statutes, and provincial statutes had the highest total percentage cleared. Again, as with Medicine Hat, there was a negative relationship between offence rates and clearance rates. Generally, when rates were up, the percentage cleared was down and vice versa.

D. R.C.M.P. "K" Division

Table 1.50 summarizes the statistics for the offences and offenders which fall under R.C.M.P. jurisdiction. The actual number of offences has increased between 1977 and 1979, but in proportion to the actual number of offences in Alberta, there is a marked decrease. As has held true over previous years, the total percent of offences cleared is around 50%, with the percent of offences cleared by charge being only slightly higher than those cleared otherwise. The total number of persons charged has risen dramatically, from 13,760 in 1976 to 18,010 in 1979. As usual, the majority of persons charged were adult males, followed by juvenile males, adult females, and juvenile females.

E. Specific Offences

1. Homicide

Between 1978 and 1979, the actual number of homicides and the rate per 100,000 population decreased in Alberta as well as in the municipalities of Edmonton, Calgary, Lethbridge, and Medicine Hat. However, Alberta's portion of homicide offences in Canada increased in both those years. Edmonton led the four municipalities in 1978 with 53 homicides and a rate of 11.1 per 100,000 population. In 1979, Calgary edged out Edmonton slightly in actual number (33 to 32) but Edmonton had a higher rate at 6.5 per 100,000 population. Together, Edmonton and Calgary contribute approximately 50% of Alberta's homicides in both years while Medicine Hat did not have any homicides in that time period.

Homicide offences are classified into three categories: murder, attempted murder, and manslaughter. Generally, attempted murder accounts for the greatest number of homicide offences, with murder a close second. In 1978, Edmonton had the largest number of attempted murders (35), and in 1979 other Alberta areas led with 45. More murders were committed in other Alberta areas in 1978 (40) and in 1979 Calgary had the most with 18.

2. Sexual Offences

In the years 1977 and 1978, Alberta's share of the actual number of sexual offences in Canada appears to be increasing, from 10.0% in 1977 to 11.1% in 1978. Edmonton and Calgary contribute more than 50% of these offences, Edmonton leading with 33.0% in 1978 and 30.3% in 1979. Calgary, Lethbridge, and Medicine Hat had increased actual numbers and rates in 1979 while Edmonton and other Alberta municipalities decreased their actual numbers and rates between 1978 and 1979.

Sexual offences are divided into two categories: rape and other sexual offences. The rape component is usually the smaller category. In Edmonton, Calgary, Lethbridge, and Medicine Hat, the actual number of rapes increased from 1978 to 1979, while in other Alberta areas rapes decreased. Other sexual offences were also on the upswing in Calgary, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat and on the downswing in Edmonton and other Alberta areas. Generally in Alberta, total sexual offences were slightly down in 1979, with rapes slightly up and other sexual offences down.

3. Drug Offences

The percentage of drug offences in Alberta as a percentage of drug offences in Canada appears to have decreased between 1977 and 1978. Unfortunately 1979 figures were not available to see whether this trend is continuing. Between 1978 and 1979 the actual number and rate per 100,000 population of drug offences increased in Alberta. Other Alberta areas account for over 50% of the offences in both 1978 and 1979, and also had the highest rates with 533.0 in 1978 and 636.7 in 1979. Edmonton and Calgary account for the next major portion of Alberta offences, with Edmonton leading Calgary in both actual number and rate for both years. Medicine Hat decreased in actual number and rate of drug offences from 1978 to 1979.

Cannabis is the largest classification of drug offences in actual numbers, with restricted drugs a trailing second. In Alberta as a whole, all classifications of drug offences rose in 1979 with the exception of addicting opiate - like drugs.

In Edmonton, only cannabis offences were down in 1979, and in Calgary all classifications were down except restricted drugs.

II CORRECTIONS STATISTICS

A. The Institutions

The statistics presented on the institutions can be divided into two types. One type focuses on how many inmates there are at the institutions and includes total average daily population, admissions, discharges, and daily average turnover. The trend for the three year period (1977-1979) being featured for all institutions seems to be a decline of the total average daily population, particularly since the quarter April to June, 1979. Most institutions experienced some decreases but Fort Saskatchewan Correctional Institution appears to be the most affected. Fort Saskatchewan admits the largest number of inmates per month of all the Alberta provincial institutions. During the period of June 1978 to October 1979, the number ranged from 760 to 1,099 admissions. With the opening of the Edmonton Remand Centre in October 1979, much of Fort Saskatchewan's population shifted there, particularly prisoners who were sentenced and remanded or being held for a penitentiary. The result was a drop to 199 admissions in November and 229 admissions in December. However, since most provincial institutions experienced decreasing admissions at the same time, other factors than the opening of the Edmonton Remand Center must be influential in this trend.

The number of discharges and the daily average turnover is related to the size (in terms of number of inmates) and types of institution. Fort Saskatchewan is the largest institution and, therefore, has a large daily average turnover. Calgary Correctional Institution, Lethbridge Correctional Institution, and Calgary Remand Centre have approximately the same size population, yet Calgary Remand Centre has a larger daily average turnover than the other two because its population is so dynamic.

The second type of statistics focuses on the characteristics of the inmates at the institutions. One noticeable trend is that the proportion of Indians and Metis inmates to other inmates is decreasing. Looking at a three year period (1977-1979) the highest proportion of Indian and Metis inmates were incarcerated in the quarter of April to June, 1977. The lowest proportion were incarcerated in the October to December quarter of 1979. The largest numbers of Indian inmates can be found on the male side of the Fort Saskatchewan Correctional Institution and the Lethbridge Correctional Institution, while the majority of Metis inmates can be found at Peace River Correctional Institution and at Fort Saskatchewan Correctional Institution (male). The proportion of repeaters to first offenders has also changed from approximately one third first offenders to two thirds repeaters from the beginning of 1977 to about June 1978 to a fifty-fifty division at the end of 1979. All Nordegg inmates are attached to forestry camps, as well as many inmates from Fort Saskatchewan Correctional Institution (male) and Calgary Correctional Institution. No females or remand centre inmates are attached to forestry camps.

B. Demographic Profile of the Inmates

Looking at the tables and graphs concerning the numbers and percentages of the demographic characteristics of inmates in Alberta's provincial institutions, the most outstanding trend is the consistency of these characteristics over the years featured in this supplement. Almost 50% of the inmates are in the 16 to 35 year old category and over 50% had an education level between grades nine and eleven and are in for less than 3 months. The majority are single, temperate, and incarcerated for property crimes or "other crimes".

The second largest category in the statistics on marital status of inmates was the "married" category. However, many institutions did not record common-law status so the size of the married and single categories may be inflated. For example, at Fort Saskatchewan Correctional Institution, which does record common-law status, the married and common-law categories are similar in number.

While property crimes and other crimes are generally the most common offences committed by inmates, there are specific offences which account for a greater proportion within these categories. Break and enter and theft $200 and under are the most common property offences, while driving offences account for a large portion of other crimes. Violent crimes, of which the most common is assault (not indecent), were found to be less than 5% of offences.

The inmates of some of the institutions appear to have very similar demographic characteristics. For example at Nordegg, inmates tend to be younger and have longer sentences than the average. At Calgary Correctional Institution, more sentences appear in the six months to under two years category.
