The Honorable Harry Hughes
Governor of the State of Maryland

and

Members of the General Assembly

On behalf of the members of the Commission, I take pride in forwarding our First Annual Report. Since it was appointed in October the Commission has been hard at work addressing the mandates of the Standards Act.

Our first activities were aimed at assembling a staff. In January, after screening over one hundred applications from across the nation, we appointed an Executive Director and Assistant Executive Director. They are assisted by the three personnel who previously occupied the Jail Programming and Inspection Office in the Division of Correction. Having staff on board allowed us to develop an action plan through June, 1982. That plan included a Statement of Purpose, and Objectives and Strategies which helped to coalesce our activities.

Primary among our objectives was the development of standards. Knowing that task would be monumental, we decided to address basic life, health, safety and constitutional issues. The majority of these reflect existing health and fire code regulations, sound corrections practice, and statute or case law. We felt that addressing those issues first would give us a firm foundation on which to build.

Members of the General Assembly

The Commission has been most active in the standards development process and is meeting monthly to shepherd this process. We are confident that those standards will therefore be realistic, attainable and geared to the problems we face in Maryland.

While we are off to a fine start we look forward to FY 1982 as a year when standards will be promulgated and compliance can be assessed.

We appreciate your continued support, and commit to faithfully exercise the responsibility you have given us.

Very truly yours,

Marie C. Henderson
Chairperson

OVERVIEW OF COMMISSION ACTIVITIES

The Maryland Commission on Correctional Standards was created by the 1980 General Assembly by passage of Senate Bill 791. The Commission has the authority to develop and enforce standards for Maryland's prisons, jails and community correction centers.

The Commission had its origin at a conference of State and local correctional administrators in May, 1979. Those administrators saw the need to revise the jail inspection program and to develop a mechanism to audit State facilities. The principal driving force was in the fact that many correctional administrators were being sued for civil liability because of facility conditions or management practices. In the absence of credible State standards and an auditing system, administrators were unable to show good faith attempts to meet standards which reflected statutory and case law, as well as accepted correctional practices. Further, in many cases there was confusion over what was law in many aspects of correctional administration.

The Commission members were appointed in October. At a November meeting, Marie C. Henderson, a citizen member, was elected Chair and David M. Doxzen, the Frederick County Jail Administrator, was elected Vice-Chair. The Commission immediately began the staff selection process and in January it appointed Thomas A. Rosazza the Executive Director and Paul S. Hastmann the Assistant Executive Director. Both gentlemen are long time employees of the State correctional system. The Jail Programming and Inspection Office was abolished and its three employees are now staff to the Commission.

From October 1980 through June 1981, the Commission met nine times and generally meets on the second Thursday of each month. It has met in different locations, and tours of several State and local correctional facilities have been arranged. This has been helpful to the members, especially those who have had little or no experience with correctional problems.

In February, the Commission directed the staff to develop a work plan for the coming year. That plan, along with a Statement of Purpose, was approved in April. The chief objectives of the Plan call for the staff to: continue inspecting jails under the existing 1972 minimum standards; develop rules and regulations to accomplish the Commission's objectives; and to recommend to the Secretary of Public Safety and Correctional Services basic standards which address life, health, safety and constitutionally mandated issues.

The Commission decided to address basic issues in its first thrust in standards development because it felt that a good foundation was needed. The life, health, safety and constitutional issues are those which address State law, court decisions relevant to Maryland, and the fire and health codes. Further, these standards will address management and operational issues, not facility design.

The Standards Law provides that Advisory Boards shall assist the Commission in the development of standards. The Commission has appointed one Board for community correctional facilities, one for state correctional facilities, and one for detention centers. Board membership includes citizens, legislators, county government officials, sheriffs, state and local correctional administrators and employees, regulatory officials, and others. Approximately 30 people were appointed to the three Boards at the Commission meeting in May.

While these Boards advise the Commission on proposed standards to insure that standards are realistic and attainable, the Commission itself holds approval authority and recommends standards to the Secretary of Public Safety and Correctional Services for promulgation.

In April, the Commission gave preliminary approval to an outline, developed by staff, indicating those areas where basic standards were to be developed. That outline was presented to the Advisory Boards in May and their comments were considered at the Commission's June meeting. At that meeting the Commission approved the revised plan and directed staff to begin standards development.

It is hoped that the basic life, health, and safety standards can be promulgated by the Secretary by January 1, 1982. These standards will provide the basis for future audits of State and local correctional facilities in these critical areas.

THE STANDARDS ACT

The Act. The Act creating the Commission on Correctional Standards was passed during the 1980 Session of the General Assembly. It is codified as Article 41, Section 70C, in the Annotated Code of Maryland.

Salient Provisions.

1. To advise the Secretary of the Department of Public Safety and Correctional Services regarding standards for State and local correctional facilities.
2. To provide technical assistance to jurisdictions to aid in their effort to meet standards.
3. To inspect facilities to determine compliance with standards.
4. To determine schedules for remedial action when jurisdictions are in non-compliance with certain standards.
5. To hold public hearings in regard to possible closing of a correctional facility or one of its elements for failure to meet certain standards.
6. To issue orders to cease operations of correctional procedures or functions found in violation of certain standards.
7. To review and act on appeals of staff inspection reports.
8. To consult and coordinate with national bodies promulgating correctional standards to ensure a reasonable compatibility between State standards and nationally established standards.
9. To consult and cooperate with other State agencies and local jurisdictions concerning standards development and enforcement.
10. To establish advisory boards to assist the Commission in the development of standards.

Membership. The Commission consists of three ex-officio members: the Attorney General, the Secretary of State Planning, and the Secretary of General Services, and eight members appointed by the Governor for terms of three years. The membership includes two citizens-at-large, two State Correctional Officials, two local Correctional Officials, one representative of a national correctional accrediting body, and a local elected official.

MEETINGS OF THE COMMISSION

Since it was appointed in October, the Commission has met nine times generally in different locations. In most cases, tours of state or local correctional facilities have been scheduled after meetings. This has been helpful for all members, especially for those who have had little or no prior corrections experience. In May, 1981, the Commission decided to meet on the second Thursday of each month, and has met as follows:

1st Meeting	October 22, 1980	Office of the Secretary (DPSCS)
2nd Meeting	November 6, 1980	Baltimore City Jail
3rd Meeting	December 4, 1980	Md. Correctional Institution-Women
4th Meeting	December 19, 1980	Md. Correctional Institution-Women

7th Meeting	April 23, 1981	Maryland House of Correction
8th Meeting	May 14, 1981	Annapolis
9th Meeting	June 11, 1981	Upper Marlboro

In addition to the formal meetings, the Commission met several times informally when it was in the process of selecting staff.

STATEMENT OF PURPOSE AND INITIAL OBJECTIVES

At its February meeting the Commission directed the staff to develop a Statement of Purpose and Objectives as a blueprint for its initial activities. The staff developed those documents and the Commission approved them at its April 1 meeting.

Statement of Purpose

The Maryland Commission on Correctional Standards was created by Acts of the 1980 General Assembly. The Standards Bill was enacted according to the following Legislative Purpose:

The General Assembly hereby finds and declares the need to improve the method of establishing standards for correctional facilities and programs and insuring compliance with such standards in order to better protect the health, safety, and welfare of Maryland's citizens by reducing the incidence of crime.

The Commission was established at a time when Maryland's correctional system is in a most dynamic stage. Internally there is a massive construction program of State and local facilities, and an expansion of programs and services. There are external forces such as the involvement of courts in establishing correctional practices as well as national standards for both facilities and operations. There are day to day problems of managing this system in a time of shrinking revenues and increased public accountability. Finally, there are the expectations and concerns of all those who have an interest in public safety and the correctional process.

These forces bring the need for the Commission into focus. In recommending standards which address problems in Maryland, and ensuring compliance, the Commission: will seek advice and assistance from the community and local, State and national groups; will recommend standards which will ensure safety and accepted levels of decency for confined people and those who work within the system; and, will ensure the attainment of standards by providing technical assistance either directly through staff resources or through a network of professionals both in and out of corrections.

Objectives

1. To recommend to the Secretary of the Department of Public Safety and Correctional Services mandatory standards which will address life, health, safety, and constitutional issues.
2. To inform the correctional community, the public and state and local officials of the work of the Commission.
3. To develop administrative rules and regulations to accomplish the Commission's objectives.
4. To develop and implement a schedule of facility audits.
5. To develop a technical assistance network to aid agencies in complying with standards.

JAIL STATISTICS

The Commission staff compiles monthly jail statistics and reports them monthly and annually. The information is used by State and local agencies to discover trends and to attempt to predict future jail populations.

Maryland and its subdivisions effectively make use of these jail statistics. The local jurisdictions serve as the conduit of all prisoners that enter into the State correctional system. Statistics on the number of persons awaiting trial, the court of trial (district or circuit), total time held awaiting trial, length of time spent in incarceration, pre-sentence or sentencing status, etc., can assist the State in determining the estimated number of persons that will be entering the system. It greatly aids the Departments of State Planning, General Services, and Public Safety and Correctional Services in planning and determining priorities in the financing of construction, expansion or renovation of jails. Further, the Commission utilizes this information to provide technical assistance to the local authorities. Local jurisdictions need to have this information in determining their future correctional housing needs, especially if a new or expanded jail is being planned. Local jurisdictions also need comparative information on their counterparts in order to assist analysis of their current and future financial, staffing and housing needs.
