SUMMARY OF PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) grant award of the Treatment and Rehabilitation for Addicted Prisoners (TRAP) Program to the Addiction Services Division of the State of Connecticut Department of Correction allowed for the continued development and operationalization of a comprehensive treatment service program for sentenced drug abusing inmates. A continuity of care system characterized by a multi-modality approach to treatment and coordination of services has been established at the Connecticut Correctional Institution-Somers (a maximum security facility) and the Connecticut Correctional Institution-Enfield (a minimum security facility). This system begins with the inmate's admission to the correctional system in sentenced status and continues with the outreach, identification, screening and evaluation of drug abusers, comprehensive treatment services being offered while institutionalized, community and pre-release planning and services, and the out-patient community services of Project FIRE and other agencies while in parole status.

Data collected on TRAP Program outreach and identification substantiates state and federal studies which consistently indicate that a significant percentage of drug abusing offenders enter state correctional systems of which approximately 19% have received prior treatment. Thus, with the TRAP Program, a higher percentage of the state's population of sentenced inmates with a prior history of drug abuse are receiving institutional treatment services. Of those in the TRAP Program, 36% of the participants are receiving substance abuse treatment for the first time. The establishment of the TRAP Program has expanded the previous scarce system of services developed by the Addiction Services Division in Connecticut's state correctional facilities and in the community. The National Advisory Commission on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals recommended in Standard 11.5 for Special Offender Types that "each institution must experiment with and work toward the development of institution programs that can be related eventually to community programs following parole or release and that have more promise in dealing effectively with addiction". The TRAP Program, with its documented policies and procedures is a long awaited model program which has addressed the needs and the goal of providing substance abuse treatment and continuity of care for sentenced inmates with addiction problems.

There is now an adequate and properly coordinated treatment service system available within the Connecticut Department of Correction's major male correctional institutions for the drug dependent inmate. Skilled personnel, including minority candidates, have been hired and trained to treat drug abusers and are able to provide comprehensive services necessary for adequate treatment within the correctional facilities. Operational guidelines and procedures on the regulatory functions and structure of the TRAP Program have been established by a Treatment Committee, are acceptable by all affected parties, and have allowed for the effective implementation

B. Impact on Criminal Justice, Treatment and Other Systems

The implementation and operationalization of the TRAP Program has had a strong and positive impact within and outside the Department of Correction and the State of Connecticut. In general, impact has been made in the following areas: increased communication, cooperation, coordination and rapport among key parties, establishing unprecedented policies, regulations and procedures, administrative interface and treatment linkages with agencies outside the Department of Correction, public relations, and expansion of institutional addiction services and continuity of care in the community. The above-mentioned factors have had a positive impact philosophically toward the treatment of addiction and the aim of providing quality services to addicted prisoners.

The most substantial impact has been accomplished within the Connecticut Department of Correction. At the institutional level, the Addiction Services TRAP Program has gained recognition with all custodial, treatment, administrative personnel, and the inmate population. Prior to program implementation, all institutional and diagnostic counselors, and correctional officers at the respective institutions, who serve as possible referral sources for the TRAP Program, were provided with descriptive information including program eligibility criteria. Inmates were oriented to the TRAP Program through the following mechanisms: a major outreach effort was provided by TRAP Program staff utilizing institutional inmate master file lists to research and identify eligible candidates; orientation of newly admitted inmates; program information provided by the above-mentioned institutional referral sources; advertisements on all institutional bulletin boards and in the weekly circulated inmate newspapers; and word of mouth. A good rapport has been established between the Director of Addiction Services, the Wardens and Deputy Wardens of the respective institutions, and the Deputy Commissioner of Institutions which has resulted in increased communication, and excellent cooperation and coordination in regard to TRAP Program and substance abuse treatment concerns.

Another major impact has resulted from the development of an excellent relationship between the members of the TRAP Screening Committee composed of the Addiction Services TRAP Project Director, the Chairman of the Board of Parole, and the Chief of Community Release. Positive communication and cooperation between all parties has led to a realistic and viable set of TRAP Program Eligibility Criteria, the TRAP Program Statement, and established Procedures and Guidelines for the TRAP Screening Committee. These written documents and excellent cooperation have resulted in a very low rate of denials by the TRAP Screening Committee of TRAP Program applications. A reasonable time period of Board of Parole processing of TRAP applications has emerged from this excellent relationship. From the point that the TRAP application is submitted to the Board of Parole until disposition there is an average of 11.84 working days. The Board of Parole TRAP application processing time is broken down by institution as follows: C.C.I. -Somers, 13.13 working days; and C.C.I. -Enfield, 10.88 working days.

To facilitate communication and continuous cooperation, there are Monthly Progress Reports sent to the Board of Parole on TRAP participants, and regular meetings are held to monitor the TRAP process and alleviate any operational problems (See Appendix B for TRAP Program Eligibility Criteria, Procedures for the TRAP Screening Committee, and Monthly Report to the Board of Parole). An example of this excellent relationship is the positive cooperation which has emerged between the Board of Parole and the TRAP Program. Addiction Services receives an average of seven (7) referrals a month on inmates at C.C.I. -Somers and Enfield who have recently been denied parole and who are recommended by the Board of Parole for the TRAP Program. These inmates are approached by TRAP Program staff and are asked if they wish to participate in the program. If they are interested, they are immediately processed. Major accomplishments have been made with regard to program operations, the implementation of the various treatment approaches, development of treatment plans, provision of treatment services, and active client participation. TRAP Program Procedural Guidelines for client intake, treatment planning, development of treatment files, and, discharge and referral to Project FIRE have been established (See Appendix C for TRAP Program Guidelines). All TRAP staff members have completed 70 hours of training in the Behavioral Studies Methodology in addition to extensive departmental training. The staff of the TRAP Program have received over 2,000 hours of training. A Manual for a Behavioral Studies Program, a comprehensive handbook and guide for program facilitators, has been developed, distributed, and implemented. This manual has complemented and enhanced the counseling skills of all staff trained in the methodology of the Behavioral Studies Program. In order to enhance the quality of the TRAP Program, TRAP staff members are continuously receiving training and skill development in the areas of group dynamics, family counseling, assessment and treatment planning, and other counseling skills. Appropriate training has been made available to staff with the assistance of the TRAP Program Educational Curriculum Specialist, the Connecticut Justice Academy, and the Connecticut Alcohol and Drug Abuse Commission (CADAC) training programs. In addition, bi-weekly treatment meetings are held for TRAP staff in order to facilitate such training opportunities and in order to continuously strive toward increased professionalism and quality TRAP treatment programming.

The Audio-Book Unit has become operational within the TRAP Program at C.C.I. -Somers. This unit records books for the blind and physically handicapped and is being conducted with the cooperation of the Connecticut State Library. The Ensworth Charitable Foundation has provided the funds for the recording equipment. The Audio-Book Unit provides a constructive activity for the participants of the TRAP Program in that it raises the self-esteem of the participant by making him feel, through a sense of accomplishment, that he is making a positive contribution to society. In addition to Recording for the Blind, coordination with public and private social service agencies has resulted in outside speakers visiting the TRAP Program. These vocational services and visits have been favorably received by TRAP participants.

Continuity of care for TRAP participants, placed in Community Release status after completing the Institutional Phase of treatment has been insured through established procedures and pre-release planning. Coordination has been developed for the inmate's smooth transfer to either a Halfway House (under contract with the Department of Correction) or to a Pre-Release Program at a Community Correctional Center in the locale in which the individual lives. A Project FIRE counselor visits the TRAP client approximately one month prior to transfer from the institution and makes periodic visits with the client during the Community Release Phase in order to allow for a smooth re-entry to the community. Upon release on parole, the client is actively involved in Project FIRE for 6-9 months and then will be followed-up bi-monthly for an additional 12 months. Mechanisms have been established such as report forms, and coordination procedures for the TRAP Institutional Program, the Community Release facility, the Division of Parole and Project FIRE to insure that there is no break in the continuity of care between the TRAP Institutional Phase and TRAP parole. Cooperation between the above-mentioned parties has been excellent and a good working relationship is shared by all parties.

A precedent has been set between the Addiction Services Division of the Department of Correction and the TASC Program of the Office of Adult Probation in the form of a Letter of Agreement. This Letter of Agreement between these two parties has allowed for the development of mutual coordination and delivery of treatment services to mutual clients. Specific procedures have been developed and formulated to assure such coordination and regular meetings are held to monitor the interaction. There is frequent telephonic communication between the Project Directors of the TRAP and TASC Programs and a good working relationship has developed (See Appendix D for Letter of Agreement, and Procedures for Addiction Services Division Coordination with the TASC Program).

In general, the quality of coordination and cooperation between the staff of The Institute for Human Resources Research (IHRR) and the TRAP Project Director and Research Analyst has been excellent. Frequent correspondence has been maintained with the IHRR staff. The research and methodological design for the evaluation of the TRAP Program has been extremely comprehensive and accurate which should result in valid and reliable findings if the evaluation receives continued funding.

The last impact area to be discussed refers to the impact the TRAP Program has made outside the State of Connecticut. The Connecticut TRAP Program at C.C.I. -Somers has hosted visits from an employee of the Drug Dependence Division of the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health, employees of the Department of Correction Drug Unit at the Adult Correctional Institution at Cranston, Rhode Island, and employees of the New Jersey Department of Correction, TRAP Program at Annandale, New Jersey. These visitors were interested in seeing the TRAP Program and talking to the staff in order that they may learn the basics of developing and operating a drug program within a maximum security facility. The visitors were welcomed and information was shared. It is believed that such methods of information sharing can only positively impact all the parties involved.

Problems Encountered and Strategies Employed to Deal with the Problems The Connecticut TRAP Program has experienced many problems which commonly arise when a new experimental program is instituted. Strategies and alternatives have been employed to resolve these problems. Some of the problems encountered are typical of such an endeavor; others are unique to the circumstances in the State of Connecticut. It is not atypical for a program to experience problems that were unforeseen at the time when the grant application was developed or awarded. However, as the Connecticut . TRAP Program reaches the end of its second phase of funding, all the major problems have been resolved and emphasis is being placed on refinement of the program.

D. Progress Toward Second Year Goals, Performance Objectives, and Impact Goals

- 5a. To attempt to follow-up for 12 months on all TRAP Program participants in order to measure the long-range effectiveness of the program.
- 5b. Due to the present suspension of funding for the National Evaluation, follow-up to measure long-range effectiveness of the program has not begun vet.
- 6a. To improve the manner and quality in which drug treatment services are provided to Connecticut prison inmates.
- 6b. The TRAP Program has been established at C.C.I. Somers and C.C.I. -Enfield and provides quality drug treatment services to Connecticut prison inmates. A continuous effort is and will continue to be made to improve the manner and quality of the drug treatment services provided to Connecticut prison inmates.
- 7a. To decrease the rate of recidivism of illicit drug use and re-incarceration among TRAP participants.
- 7b. The attainment of this goal is extremely important to the evaluation of the TRAP Program. Every attempt will be made to maintain and continually improve the quality of TRAP treatment program so that such a goal will be achieved.

Impact Goals

- 1. Obtain a re-arrest rate for TRAP Program participants that is significantly less than a control group.
- 2. Reduce illicit drug use by TRAP Program clients to a rate that is significantly less than a control group.
- 3. Obtain a re-incarceration rate for TRAP Program participants that is significantly less than a control group.

It is certain that the three above mentioned impact goals will be achieved through the successful operation of the TRAP Program and the quality treatment services offered to all program participants. The status of the impact goals cannot be measured at this point, nor by the end of the grant period. The data is incomplete and inconclusive at this point. Evaluative data is being collected continuously in order to research the impact of these goals. The impact of these goals will not be determined until a significant number of TRAP clients complete the Parole Phase, are followed-up, and until all necessary data is collected, compiled, and analyzed. Please note Section E-Progress on Evaluation.

4. Develop a coordinated approach to the identification and treatment of drug dependent inmates at C.C.I. -Somers and C.C.I. -Enfield.

complete the Evaluation.

E. Frogress on the Evaluation

The collection of the TRAP Screening Instruments continued until January, 1981 at which time a total of 303 -creening instruments had been completed. There are a total of 128 screening instruments for the experimental group and 171 screening instruments for the comparison group.

The collection of the TRAP Parole Officer/Agent Locator Update Form on the experimental and the comparison group by Project FIRE staff continued until September, 1981. The TRAP Parole Officer/Agent Locator Form was completed on a quarterly basis for 66 TRAP clients. The form was completed on a monthly basis for 78 clients from the comparison group. Even though the collection of the TRAP Parole Officer/Agent Locator Update form has been discontinued, the Director of the Addiction Services Division and the TRAP Project Director are confident that if additional funding is secured for the evaluation that the clients in the experimental and comparison group can be efficiently and effectively followed-up. Please note letter of support to Dr. Marvin Burt of I.H.R.R. in Appendix E.

Although the comprehensive evaluation has not been completed, there is some other data that has been collected over the past three years that has yielded some interesting information. Approximately 36% of those clients in the TRAP Program are receiving substance abuse treatment for the first time through TRAP. Only 14% of the TRAP clients have had no prior convictions while 50% have had at least three prior convictions. 66.5% were under the influence of drugs or alcohol at the time of the offense causing their present imprisonment. 69% of the clients were previously involved in opiate abuse, either alone or in addition to other drugs including alcohol.

Progress on the evaluation of the TRAP Program has been poor since the funding for the Institute for Human Resources Research (I.H.R.R.) was discontinued in September, 1980. There continues to be communication between the TRAP Project Director and I.H.R.R. staff discussing the prospects for additional funding to Heroin was the primary drug of abuse for 57% of the clients while 34% of the TRAP clients primary drug(s) of abuse was hard, non-opiate drug(s). The median length of time served by the clients in their respective institutions prior to entering the TRAP Program was ten (10) months. These are merely a few of the findings and yet, they present an interesting TRAP client profile.

and another of the The Program Director should maintain a record of all prospective clients and their assigned counselor to assure that a counselor is available to perform a thorough intake (at least an hour). Counselor-client rapport should be initiated at this interview. The treatment "helping" aspects of the program should be emphasized. Referral sources should be contacted to convey results following the client's first appointment to promote good relations. Before concluding each session, the next appointment should be scheduled establishing definite days and times. Each time, this information should be given the client in writing. At the Intake Interview, the following should be covered: 1. A reiteration of an overview of the program. 2. A review of the TRAP Program's treatment services. 3. A Thorough Explanation of Confidentiality Rules and Regulations. Each program is to comply with the Federal Register for Confidentiality of Alcohol and Drug Abuse Patient Records. The standardized individual Authorization of Disclosure Form is to be utilized for all client disclosure of information outside of the Department. Any information sent out should be stamped with the Prohibition of Redisclosure statement. Extreme caution should be taken in releasing a client's identity or other data over the telephone. The caller should be instructed that the program cannot release any information on a client unless a specific waiver for this information is signed by the client. P 4. Explanation of TRAP Program Statement. Each client should be given a thorough explanation of the TRAP Program Statement and a copy of the Program Statement.

> A client is expected to behave responsibly in attending his appointments. He must be willing to agree to formulate a treatment plan with his primary counselor tailored to client's individual needs. It is expected that the client will attempt to meet the goals of the plan. A client is expected to remain drug-free while participating in the TRAP Program.

A client can expect a counselor's credibility, honesty, and treatment of him as an individual.

A client is formally notified by a pretermination letter when a decision is made to terminate his treatment. Reasons for termination are stated in this letter. In addition, the right for a review process is stated.

The client is required to contact the program by the date indicated on his letter if he wishes a review. An appointment is then set up to discuss the reasons for termination. The client is allowed to bring any persons or other documentation he may wish to substantiate his case. The program encourages efforts to continue treatment. A realistic agreement toward this end is developed between the program and client which both parties hold.

5. Termination Criteria and Review process. Successful completion of the program is determined by a client's performance in meeting his treatment plan and compliance to program requirements.

• The following procedures we is discussed at our meeting on 7/2/79. They will be implemented immediately to expedite the coordination between the Addiction Services Division and the Connecticut TASC Program.

1. A monthly referral list with all the referrals to TASC from the Addiction Services staff in each of the correctional centers will be developed. A referral list will be developed for each geographical area. The list of referrals wi be forwarded to TASC Program Project Director by the 10th day of the following month. The referral list will be reviewed by the TASC Program and the appropriate disposition will be indicated. The referral list will be returned to the Addiction Services Division for dissemination to the appropriate staff in the correctional centers. Please find attached the proper form for the referral list.

2. As was discussed in our meeting, it has been recommended that in those drug cases that are expected to be sentenced to the custody of the Commissioner of Corrections that a specific recommendation to the TRAP Program be indicated in the Pre-sentence Investigation Report prepared by the Office of Adult Probation. All such cases upon sentencing will receive immediate consideration for the TRAP Program. Please find attached a one sheet description of the TRAP Program.

3. The Project Director of the TASC Program will send a list of names of those TASC clients that are sentenced to the specific community correctional centers to the Director of Addiction Services. The Addiction Services Division will offer the treatment services of the SIP Program or TRAP Program to such clients.

4. Active Project FIRE clients who are arrested may be referred to the appropriate TASC Program for assistance in court dependent on the offense and TASC eligibility.

The above procedures should provide a comprehensive screening network for drug abuse clients entering the criminal justice system, and enhance the cooperation and coordination between the TASC, TRAP, and SIP Programs.
