INTRODUCTION

This report represents the fourth, and last, in a four-part series, entitled "Iowa's Police Departments," and is a continuation of statistical work being done for the Iowa Association of Chiefs of Police and Peace Officers, Inc.

In responding to the Association's need for data, the Iowa Statistical Analysis Center (SAC) conducted an extensive survey of the 332 municipal police departments in Iowa.<sup>1</sup> A lengthy, technical data form (see Appendix I of Volume I) was initially distributed in March, 1981, to all agencies with full-time, paid police officers. Accompanying this survey was a letter of endorsement from the Iowa Police Chiefs' Association. Those not responding were sent follow-up letters in June and again, in September (see Appendix II of Volume I). In some cases telephone calls were also made to nonparticipants by the Association's Executive Board in order to draw additional responses. Ultimately, 190 law enforcement agencies submitted surveys.

In December of 1981, Volume I of this series was released, with more than 400 copies distributed to police departments and other interested parties. The report provided data on the manpower, budgets, salaries, and benefits of the 190 departments participating in the survey of that date. Since release of that initial report, 12 additional agencies have submitted survey forms to permit inclusion of their data in Volumes II-IV. The following table shows the response rate of departments serving various populations:

RESPONSE RATE

|----------------------------------------|-----------------|
| Cities of 5,000 population or more---- | 100% (67 of 67) |
| Cities of 2,000 - 4,999 population---- | 73% (57 of 78)  |
| Cities of less than 2,000 population-- | 42% (78 of 187) |

(202 of 332)

Volume II of this series provided a profile of all personnel (sworn, civilian, full and part-time) serving the 202 responding police departments. In addition to data on personnel strength and departmental positions, it also examined employee characteristics, such as age, experience, and education, and other departmental information, such as staff turnover and educational benefits.

<sup>1</sup> The actual number of police departments eligible to be surveyed, i.e. those with full-time officers, was drawn from two sources: 1) large cities--those with a population of 2,500 or more, and 2) small cities--less than 2,500 population but identified as having full-time capabilities.

As in Volume I, data were arranged in descending order by population.<sup>1</sup> Approximately 350 copies have been disseminated to interested parties.

Volume III of this series, released simultaneously with Volume IV, examines the hiring and promotional policies of Iowa's police departments. In addition, it presents data on entry-level and in-service training practices of these agencies.

Volume IV lists some of the departmental resources (e.g., weapons, equipment, and vehicles) available to municipal police agencies in Iowa. It also provides comparative data on workload and staff function, and examines crime prevention programs offered by departments. Finally, the 17 departments contracting for jail services are listed, along with costs per prisoner. As in previous volumes of this series, data are arranged in descending order, by population.
