Foreword

The research staff of the Office of Correctional Information and Statistics of the State Intake Service Centers has put together statistics showing current trends of the felon population.

This year's report compares data from the initial reporting years (FY 1974-75 and FY 1975-76) with that of the most recent period (FY 1981-82). For certain tables, recent changes in the definitions of life with or without parole has created a problem when comparing the recent fiscal year with prior years. Previously, these sentences were arbitrarily set at 88 years 88 months for life with parole and 99 years 99 months for life without parole.

A more realistic definition of a life with parole sentence has been worked out based on age at admission and life expectancy of 74 years.

TRENDS OF THE FELON POPULATION:
ADULTS COMMITTED CORRECTIONAL FACILITIES
FY 1975-76 to FY 1981-82

This report describes the trends of the felon population in the State of Hawaii and the method in which the criminal justice system deals with this population. It compares the statistics of the initial data-reporting period of FY 1975-76 with that of FY 1981-82. Graphs and statistics for the years between this period are also provided.

Unfortunately, some statistics are affected by missing data, but the continued presentation of these within future reports will hopefully motivate the individuals responsible to improve their data reporting.

DATA SOURCE

The data for this report was drawn exclusively from the Felony Offender Computerized Update System (FOCUS) which contains detailed information on sentenced felons in corrections since January 31, 1975. Not included in FOCUS is the "jail-type" population of felon probationers, sentenced misdemeanants, and not-sentenced individuals.

Five (5) basic types of information were collected from the Corrections Division and the Hawaii Paroling Authority (HPA) for FOCUS: Admission data, Incarceration Program data, Furlough Release data, Parole Release data, and HPA mandatory consideration data. The data used for this particular report include those related to identification, medical history, and offense information.

As a last word of caution, the data presented in this report covers only those felons under the jurisdiction of the State's correctional facilities. These range from felons with community release status to long-term felons. Also included are felons in hospitals and mainland facilities. Parolees are not included.<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup>It was erroneously stated in the last report that these individuals were included.

SUMMARY HIGHLIGHTS

- o The number of felons continued to increase, averaging a growth rate of 15 percent per year since FY 1974-75 (Figure 1).
- o The number of felon admissions increased by 80 percent between FY 1975-76 and FY 1978-79 prior to stabilizing between FY 1978-79 and FY 1980-81 (average growth rate of 4 percent). In FY 1981-82, the growth rate accelerated again with a 22 percent increase over the previous year (Figure 2).
- o The average time served for released felons slowly rose from an average of 30.2 months in FY 1975-76 to 52.2 months in FY 1981-82; the greatest increase being for felons committed for personal crimes (from 37.7 to 63.5 months) (Figure 3).
- o The average maximum sentence for admissions (excluding life with and without parole sentences) gradually increased by 48 percent since FY 1975-76 from 76.4 to 113.3 months. Whereas, the average maximum sentence for releases fluctuated with a period of decline between FY 1975-76 to FY 1978-79 from 126.3 to 89.2 months, and a period of increase between FY 1978-79 and FY 1981-82 from 89.2 to 131.6 months (Figures 5 and 6).
- o The average minimum sentence for admissions decreased since FY 1979-80 from 69.4 to 38.8 months. Prior to FY 1979-80, however, the average minimum increased 58 percent over FY 1975-76 from 43.8 to 69.4 months.

In contrast, the average minimum sentence for releases steadily increased 87 percent between FY 1975-76 and FY 1981-82 from 31.5 to 58.8 months (Figures 5 and 6).

- o The gap between average minimum and maximum sentences (excluding life with parole sentences) for admissions widened since FY 1977-78 with an average difference of 39.3 months during the period FY 1975-76 to FY 1979-80 as compared with a difference of 76.2 months for fiscal years 1980-81 and 1981-82.

In contrast, the gap between average minimums and maximums for releases decreased from an average difference of 84.1 months for the three years prior to FY 1978-79 to 67.3 months for the years after FY 1978-79 (Figures 5 and 6).

- o The current age of committed felons was slightly higher as of June 30, 1982 when compared with that of June 30, 1975. As of June 30, 1982, the current median age was 28.7 years, whereas on June 30, 1975, it was 27.1 years.

- o As for age at commitment, the median age as of June 30, 1982 was 24.2 years, somewhat lower than the 25.4 years as of June 30, 1975 (Tables 10 and 11).
- o As of June 30, 1982, 96 percent of the committed felons claimed a residency of over 20 years. As of June 30, 1975 however, only 85 percent made such a claim (Table 14).

General Population Trends

As seen in Figure 1, the statewide felon population in FY 1981-82 nearly tripled since FY 1974-75.<sup>2</sup> After experiencing a steady rise from FY 1974-75 to FY 1977-78, the growth rate increased to over 20 percent for the following two years before decreasing to 12 percent in FY 1980-81. In FY 1981-82 however, the growth rate increased again to 22 percent. The growth is attributed to the increase of admissions over releases and longer sentences, both of which will be covered in the report.

In FY 1974-75, the average number of felons represented approximately 68 percent of the average total statewide inmate population. However, despite the nearly tripling of felon population between FY 1974-75 and FY 1981-82, the percentage of felons dropped to 63 percent in FY 1981-82 due to a relatively large increase in the number of sentenced misdemeanants (10 percent) and not-sentenced individuals (27 percent).

Admissions and Releases

Part of the felon population growth during the study period was attributed to the increasing number of admissions over releases. Figure 2 shows a widening gap between admissions and releases from FY 1975-76 to FY 1979-80, prior to decreasing during FY 1980-81, and widening again in FY 1981-82.

Looking at Table 1, a larger number of felons admitted in FY 1981-82 were incarcerated for personal crimes when compared with FY 1975-76.<sup>3</sup> In contrast, Table 2 shows that the number of felons released after being incarcerated for personal crimes decreased between the same time periods.

1/ Assign count population at fiscal year end dates.

The two tables appear to indicate that felons convicted of personal crimes are being incarcerated at a greater rate and are being detained longer. However, there are other factors which have to be taken into consideration as the report will later show.

Another interesting fact related to admissions and releases comes into view when sentence types are compared. Table 3 shows admissions by sentence type. Note that in FY 1981-82, 91 percent of all admitted felons received other or regular (indeterminate) sentences as opposed to 58 percent in FY 1975-76. Also note that those admitted for life with parole sentences numbered 12 in FY 1981-82, whereas only one (1) individual received such a sentence in FY 1975-76. Conversely, the number of individuals convicted under the Youthful Offender Act dropped from thirty (30) in FY 1975-76 to 8 in FY 1981-82.

The trend for releases differs from that for admissions. Table 4 shows that the percentage of felons released under "Other" sentences was exactly the same in FY 1981-82 and FY 1975-76 but the percentage of youthful offenders released increased from 4 percent in FY 1975-76 to 18 percent in 1981-82. Also, no individuals under parole and technical violations were released in FY 1981-82 as compared with the 12 released in FY 1975-76. This was probably due to the decrease of parole violation admissions during the study period (See Table in the Appendix).

The trend of the felon population receiving more indeterminate and life sentences appear to reflect the harsher conviction terms associated with felons convicted of personal crimes. This will become more apparent later in the report.

(See Tables C & D in Appendix I to note trends relating to sentence types between FY 1975-76 and FY 1981-82.)

Time Served

Figure 3 shows that the average time served for felons increased from 30.2 months in FY 1975-76 to 52.2 months in FY 1981-82, a growth of 73 percent. The most significant increases are associated with those committed for personal and property related crimes (+68 and +66 percent, respectively). Keep in mind that although individuals committed for technical violations experienced the largest net increase in average time served, their numbers were too small to be significant.

Includes life with parole sentences.

Average Sentence

Figure 4 shows the average minimum and maximum sentences of the felon population through fiscal years 1974-75 and 1981-82 inclusive. Since FY 1974-75, the average maximum sentence decreased by 18 percent (from 291.5 to 237.6 months); but there has been an upward trend beginning in FY 1978-79. Since that year the average maximum has increased by 27 percent (from 187.7 to 237.6 months). Meanwhile, the average minimum sentence for felons has slowly risen since FY 1974-75 by 29 percent (from 67.4 to 87.0 months).

Figures 5 and 6 show trends in average minimums and maximums for admissions and releases. The averages are somewhat complicated because of life sentences. Figure 5 shows how the average maximums for admissions may differ when life parole sentences are included. Life with parole sentences are calculated based on the average life expectancy of males subtracted by the individuals age at admission.<sup>5</sup> Life without parole sentences are not included in average minimums and maximums for admissions and releases.

Life with parole sentences are included in average minimums because like regular indeterminate sentences, the minimums are determined by the Paroling Authority. Such sentences are also included in average maximums and minimums for releases because there are individuals being released with life with parole sentences (See Table 4).

<sup>5</sup>The average life expectancy from birth for males in Hawaii is approximately 74 years according to the 1981 State Data Book. The male life expectancy figure was used because 90 percent of all sentenced felons in Hawaii are males.

Includes life with and without parole sentences.

2/ Excludes life with parole sentences.

Includes life with parole sentences.

Tables 6 and 7 show average minimum and maximum sentences of admissions by offense type. Note that the average minimum for admissions decreased by 27 percent, while the average maximum increased by 32 percent. It appears that the Paroling Authority is setting lower minimums despite higher maximum sentences. (See Figure 5)

Tables 8 and 9 are similar to 6 and 7 with the exception that they are concerned with released felons. Table 8 shows that the average minimum sentence increased by 60 percent in FY 1981-82 over FY 1975-76. Table 9 shows that the average maximum sentence increased by 4 percent over the same two periods.

In comparing Table 8 with Table 6, the average minimums for releases are usually higher than that of admissions. Keep in mind that the Paroling Authority, in reconsidering minimum sentences, can extend such terms.

As in Tables 6 and 7, there is no distinct pattern involving offense classes. (See Tables H and I in Appendix I for information between FY 1975-76 and FY 1981-82.)

DEMOGRAPHIC STATISTICS

Age at Commitment

Table 10 compares the age at commitment as of June 30, 1975 with that of June 30, 1982. Excluding the unknown factor, the 1982 data shows some change when compared with that of 1975. The median age of commitment dropped from 25.4 years in 1975 to 24.2 years in 1982.<sup>6</sup> (See Table J in Appendix I for trends occurring since 1975.)

Current Age

Table 11 matches the current age of committed felons. The median age as of June 30, 1982 was 28.7; slightly higher than the 27.1 of June 30, 1975. Apparently, the longer time served by felons affected the age factor, as committed felons 30 years of age and over comprised 44 percent of the total population as of June 30, 1982, as compared to 1975, which was only 35 percent. (See Table K in Appendix I.)

Ethnic Background

Table 12 shows the ethnic background of felons as of June 30, 1975 and June 30, 1982. Although there was a large increase in the number of Caucasians and Part Hawaiians, there has not been a significant change in the overall ethnic distribution of felons. (See Table L in Appendix I.)

County of Conviction

According to Table 13, the percentage of felons convicted in Oahu, Maui, and Kauai increased percentage wise in 1981 whereas that of Hawaii decreased.

Overall, the combined percentage of felons convicted outside of the City and County of Honolulu (Oahu) was 18 percent as of June 30, 1982, whereas in 1975, it was 16 percent. The change can be misleading because there is a significant unknown factor. (Refer to Table M in Appendix I.)

Length of Residence

Table 14 compares the length of residence for felons committed as of June 30, 1975 and June 30, 1982. The 1982 data shows a greater percentage of individuals with residences of 20 years or more (96 versus 85 percent in 1975). ( See Table N in Appendix I to note the changes occurring since 1975.)

Prior Felony Commitments

Table 15 shows prior felony commitments of felons. The 1982 data indicates that there were relatively more felons committed with no prior felony commitment records than in 1975. This would suggest that the recommitment rate is low due to either low recidivism rates, convictions resulting in non-commitments, or other types of commitment (e.g., misdemeanors). (To note trends, refer to Table O in Appendix I.)

Drug and Alcohol Use

Tables 16 and 17 show drug and alcohol use by felons. Because of the large number of unreported cases, it was decided to use 1977 as the base year rather than 1975. Tables P and Q in the Appendix contain data for the years 1975 to 1982.

Crime Types

Table 18 shows crime types committed by felons for 1975 and 1982. Larger percentages of felons were committed for sex and property crimes in 1982, but not for personal and "other" crimes.

Even with the inclusion of sex crimes, the percentage of felons committed for personal crimes have been stable since 1975. (See Table U in Appendix I.)

CONCLUSION

The widening gap between admissions and releases, longer time served, increasing minimum and maximum sentences, and the aging of the felon population appear to be manifestations of the prevailing attitude and policies related to the punishment rather than rehabilitation of offenders.

As long as the trend continues, not only an increasing felon, but an increasing non-felon population can be expected as misdemeanants and pre-trials are being incarcerated at an equal or greater rate.
