FOREWORD

It is my pleasure as Chief Justice of Pennsylvania to present the Annual Report of the Administrative Office of Pennsylvania Courts. This Report, prepared under the supervision of our able Court Administrator of Pennsylvania, Judge Abraham J. Gafni, provides a statistical profile of the productivity of our courts throughout the Commonwealth during 1982.

In 1982, over 300,000 cases were filed in Pennsylvania. The Annual Report demonstrates that our unified judicial system has responded to this avalanche of litigation with dedication and efficiency. In 1982, our Supreme Court had the third heaviest workload of any state supreme court in the nation. Our Superior and Commonwealth Courts, courts of common pleas, Municipal Court of Philadelphia, and district justices also faced a staggering workload, but, as the Annual Report demonstrates, they too responded with prompt, diligent adjudications.

Of course, the efficiency of our judicial system should never be evaluated on the basis of numbers alone, and I would hope that our courts, lawyers, and fellow citizens would never make the mistake of equating sheer speed and productivity with quality and justice.

In a continuing effort to reach the best and fairest judgments possible, courts throughout the Commonwealth are taking steps to maximize the use of existing administrative and professional resources. Our courts of common pleas have increased the availability of judicial time by using masters, hearing officers and arbitrators where appropriate. These non-judicial officers are able to bring many cases to settlement without the expenditure of judicial time and effort and, by developing and framing the issues thoroughly, to reduce the time needed for judicial disposition in those cases which do ultimately require action by the courts. At our request, a bill has recently been introduced in the Legislature which would increase the statewide jurisdictional maximum for arbitration from $20,000 to $40,000. This increase would permit an even greater use of non-judicial personnel where it is warranted, with each judicial district able to set the arbitration limit within the maximum best suited to its needs.

In order to maximize the efficient use of available judicial time, many courts of common pleas are implementing an individual calendar system, with random assignment of cases to each calendar. The benefits of a system in which judges control their own cases from start to finish are obvious, as is the crucial importance of the random assignment of cases to individual judges.

As part of our continuing commitment to the goal of excellence in every segment of our unified judicial system, our Supreme Court has requested Court Administrator Gafni and his staff to establish a statewide continuing judicial education program. It will be a Pennsylvania program distinctly relevant to Pennsylvania jurisprudence, providing instruction in both practice and procedure at times and places convenient to all members of our Commonwealth's judicial system without undue intrusion on the daily functioning of our courts. As with many aspects of the administration of our unified judicial system, we look to the members of the Bar and to the fine law schools of this Commonwealth for assistance in assuring an educational program of the highest caliber.

In the daily administration of our unified judicial system, we have had the ongoing assistance of our Rules Committees, all of which have been requested to examine existing rules of court with a view toward reducing their complexity and increasing their efficiency. Among the many contributions of our Committees has been the drafting of a civil procedural rule, adopted this year, which substantially reduces the amount of judicial time required to verify the financial status of a party requesting to proceed in forma pauperis.

Members of the Bar have contributed to the work of our Rules Committees, as well as to many other activities essential to the ongoing success of our unified judicial system. Through individual contributions and hours of volunteer service, members of the Bar have made our Commonwealth's Disciplinary Program a model for programs across the country. The Client Security Fund was created in 1982 to provide redress to clients who suffer financial loss through lawyer malfeasance. Like the Disciplinary Program, the Fund is completely financed through individual contributions by members of the Bar.

As significant as were the achievements of our Bench and Bar in 1982, every segment of our judicial system is resolved to work even harder in 1983, not simply to make the best of what we have but to make what we have the best. With the support and cooperation of our coequal branches of government, members of the Bar, and concerned citizens throughout the Commonwealth, we shall continue to strive daily to achieve our supreme goal of a unified judicial system of uniform excellence.

Samuel J. Roberts
Chief Justice of Pennsylvania

REPORT FROM THE COURT ADMINISTRATOR

To: The Chief Justice of Pennsylvania and the Justices of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania

I am pleased to transmit to you, pursuant to R.J.A. 505 (14), the eleventh Annual Report of the Administrative Office of Pennsylvania Courts. This Report describes judicial system activities and presents statistics related to calendar year 1982.

In addition to the achievements noted by Chief Justice Samuel J. Roberts in the Foreword, some of the special services performed by the Administrative Office of Pennsylvania Courts (AOPC) during 1982 should be highlighted. Under the leadership of former Court Administrator Alexander F. Barbieri, the Data Processing Department completed the computerization of the Superior Court Docketing System, which now provides the Court with the information necessary for actively monitoring and managing its workload. Of course, that department continued to provide computer support to the Administrative Office in areas of budgeting, accounting, payroll and caseflow management.

The Legal Department, consisting of only three attorneys, provided representation to judges, court personnel, and the courts themselves, in 138 legal proceedings in 1982. Not only has that department performed its task most ably, but it has also received national recognition for its expertise in court-related litigation.

Finally, I wish to note the special efforts which have been made to further the education and training of judicial system personnel. The Administrative Office, in cooperation with various professional associations and the Minor Judiciary Education Board, has provided numerous educational conferences, seminars and workshops for judges, district justices, court administrators, probation officers, domestic relations officers, secretaries and others.

While these achievements have been significant, much, of course, remains to be done. I look forward to working with you in further improving the administrative components of our unified judicial system so that the citizens of Pennsylvania will continue to be well-served during the coming years.

Respectfully submitted,

Abraham J. Gafni

Court Administrator of Pennsylvania

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA UNIFIED JUDICIAL SYSTEM As of December 31, 1982.

OVERVIEW OF THE PENNSYLVANIA JUDICIAL SYSTEM

Pennsylvania has 60 judicial districts, 309 authorized Common Pleas judges in its trial courts of general jurisdiction, 553 District Justices, thirty-two thousand lawyers, 67 counties and uncounted local laws to serve its 11,866,728 citizens. To provide some direction in a potentially trackless maze, the Pennsylvania Constitution created a Unified Judicial System in 1968.

A Brief History of the Courts of Pennsylvania*

Prior to the State Constitution of 1776, there existed in Pennsylvania a collection of courts, some inherited from the rule of the Duke of York (1664 to 1673), some established by William Penn, and some—such as the Pennsylvania Supreme Courtcreated by Pennsylvania's Provincial Assembly. Although attempts were made from time to time to create a unified system which would define and organize the powers and jurisdiction of the several courts, these attempts were often nullified in England. It was not until the Constitution of 1776, which established courts of sessions, courts of common pleas and orphans' courts in each county, that Pennsylvania saw the beginning of a statewide framework for the development of its judicial system.

The Constitution of 1790 furthered this development, grouping the counties into judicial districts and providing president judges for the Common Pleas Courts in those districts to ease the burden of the Supreme Court. While the Constitutions of 1838 and 1874 effected changes in the jurisdiction, tenure and election or appointment of members of the judiciary, the basic structure created by the Constitution of 1790 remained essentially unchanged. The Constitution of 1968, however, initiated many judicial reforms and reorganized the judiciary under a Unified Judicial System consisting of the Supreme, Superior and Commonwealth Courts, Courts of Common Pleas, Philadelphia Municipal Court, Pittsburgh Magistrates Court, Traffic Court of Philadelphia, Justices of the Peace (now called District Justices) and "such other courts as may be provided by law."

Thus the stage was set for coordinated management by the Supreme Court of all courts as a part of a single, integrated system. In 1981, with the support of the Legislature and approval of the Governor, the jurisdiction of the Superior Court was expanded with a corresponding decrease in the areas of manadated jurisdiction of the Supreme Court. As a result, the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, like the United States Supreme Court, can now exercise its discretion in accepting or rejecting most appeals, allowing it to devote greater attention to cases of far-reaching impact, as well as to its constitutional obligation to oversee the entire judicial system.

Special Courts

At the first level in the court system are the special courts. In counties other than Philadelphia. these courts are presided over by district justices, formerly known as justices of the peace. District justices have jurisdiction over summary criminal cases, landlord-tenant matters and other civil actions where the amount claimed does not exceed $4,000. They may also accept guilty pleas of misdemeanors of the third degree under certain circumstances. District justices also have jurisdiction to issue warrants and to hold arraignments and preliminary hearings in all criminal cases.

Although district justices need not be lawyers, they must complete an educational course and pass a qualifying examination before taking office. They also must participate in one week of continuing education each year.

In Philadelphia, the special courts are the Municipal Court and the Traffic Court. Municipal Court is the only special court of Pennsylvania which is a court of record. It has 22 judges, who must be lawyers, and has jurisdiction over all criminal offenses, other than summary traffic offenses, which are punishable by a term of imprisonment not exceeding five years. Otherwise, the Municipal Court has the same jurisdiction as the district justices except for civil actions, where the amount claimed may not exceed $1,000.

The Philadelphia Traffic Court is composed of six judges who need not be lawyers but must complete a course and pass a qualifying examination. Its jurisdiction covers all summary offenses under the Motor Vehicle Code and related city ordinances.

The City of Pittsburgh has six police magistrates in addition to the county district justices. These magistrates, who need not be lawyers. may issue arrest warrants and preside at arraignments and preliminary hearings for all criminal offenses occurring within the city. They also have jurisdiction over criminal cases brought by the city police for violations of city ordinances and other specified offenses. The police magistrates also sit on the Pittsburgh Traffic Court, which has the same jurisdiction as the Philadelphia Traffic Court.

There are no jury trials in the special courts. However, appeals from special court judgments may be taken to the county Common Pleas Court where the case is heard de novo.

Common Pleas Courts

The Common Pleas Courts are the courts of general trial jurisdiction. They have original jurisdiction over all cases which are not exclusively assigned to another court. There is one Common Pleas Court for each of 60 judicial districts in the state and 309 authorized Common Pleas judges. These districts generally coincide geographically with the counties, although seven of the districts are comprised of two counties.

Appellate Court System

There are two levels of appellate courts in Pennsylvania. The first consists of the intermediate appellate courts: the Superior Court with 15 judges and the Commonwealth Court with nine. Above these is the Supreme Court which has seven justices and is the commonwealth's court of last resort. It is the oldest appellate court in the nation and predates the U.S. Supreme Court by 67 years.

In general, appeals from the Common Pleas courts are taken to one of the two intermediate appellate courts. Commonwealth Court basically has jurisdiction over appeals involving government agencies and officials, as well as many matters involving not-for-profit corporations. It also has original jurisdiction over many cases in which state officials are parties.

Superior Court has jurisdiction over all direct appeals which are not within the specific statutory jurisdiction of another Appellate Court.

Judges: Qualifications, Election, Tenure, Vacancies

In addition to certain basic requirements such as citizenship and residency, judges are subject to strict standards of conduct and may be removed, suspended or otherwise disciplined for misconduct in office. All judges within the system are elected to 10-year terms, with the exception of judges of Philadelphia's Municipal and Traffic Courts and District Justices who are elected to terms of six years, and judges of Pittsburgh Magistrates Court, who are approinted to four-year terms by the mayor. Vacancies may be filled by gubernatorial appointment subject to Senate confirmation until such time as the vacancy is filled by election.

The "merit retention" provision allows judges to run for reelection on a "yes-no" vote, without ballot reference to political affiliation. This provision was designed to remove them from pressures of the political arena once they serve their first term of office.

Mandatory retirement age for judges is 70, although retired judges may continue to serve in a "retired active" status to ease court backlogs.

Chief Justice and President Judges

The Chief Justice of Pennsylvania and the president judges of all other courts of seven or fewer judges are those judges in longest continuous service. The one exception to this is the president judge of the Philadelphia Traffic Court who is appointed by the Governor. In courts of eight or more judges, the judges select from their ranks a president judge, who serves in that capacity for five years.

AOPC

Wide ranging responsibility for this System falls to the Administrative Office of the Pennsylvania Courts (AOPC). As part of its supervisory, administrative and long range planning duties, the AOPC:

Represents the Judicial System before legislative bodies.

Manages fiscal affairs like budget preparation, approval of disbursements, procures goods and services.

Reviews practices, procedures and efficiency of the System.
Supervises all administrative matters relating to offices engaged in clerical functions.
Collects statistical data.
Maintains personnel records.
Conducts education programs for personnel of the System.
Receives comments and complaints from the public.

Provides legal services to System personnel.
Publishes an annual report.
Examines administrative and business methods.

Develops recommendations for the Supreme Court regarding improvements of the system.

ACTIVITIES OF THE ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICE OF PENNSYLVANIA COURTS

The Administrative Office of Pennsylvania Courts is responsible for the "prompt and proper disposition of the business of all courts" and district justices.

Although the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has the constitutional responsibility for overseeing the administration of the entire state judicial system, it is the Court Administrator of Pennsylvania who is responsible for the "prompt and proper disposition of the business of all courts" and district justices. The Court Administrator, who is appointed by the Supreme Court, directs the activities of the Administrative Office of Pennsylvania Courts (AOPC).

1982 Activities

The Administrative Office's technical assistance capabilities were significantly expanded by the creation of two new professional positions: a Domestic Relations Specialist and a Personnel Specialist. The Domestic Relations Specialist, who was hired to foster improvements in the field of Domestic Relations court administration, conducted a number of studies and helped prepare and publish a manual outlining the practices and procedures in domestic relations matters.

The Personnel Specialist, who was hired to strengthen personnel management throughout Pennsylvania's trial court system, focused on providing technical assistance on an individual county basis in all areas of personnel management, including compensation, personnel classification, performance evaluation, affirmative employment and position justification. Over 22 judicial districts made requests for such personnel assistance during 1982.

The Data Processing Department continued to provide computer support to the Pennsylvania Superior Court as well as to other AOPC departments. Significant enhancements were made in the areas of budgeting, payroll, statistical programs, criminal history programs and district justice financial reports. The selection process for new computer hardware was also begun in 1982.

Possibly the most exciting development in the Data Processing Department was the final implementation of a computerized docketing system for the Superior Court. The new computer-based record-keeping system now provides a capacity for rapid and accurate entry of data, secure storage and easy retrieval of information and speedy production of court dockets, notification letters and management information reports.

Charged with the task of overseeing the offices of Pennsylvania's 553 district justices, the Administrative Office recently revised its highly regarded District Justice Office Procedures Manual. To assure compliance with the Manual's standards and procedures, AOPC staff visited dozens of district justice offices and instructed district justice personnel at special seminars.

Sponsored by the Administrative Office of Pennsylvania Courts, a special study of the Superior Court was conducted with funding from the Pennsylvania Commission on Crime and Delinquency. The Institute of Judicial Administration and the Institute for Court Management completed an analysis of the Court's internal operations and procedures and made recommendations for handling its caseload in an expeditious manner without impairing the quality of appellate justice.

The Superior Court, to a greater degree than most American appellate courts, has in recent years faced serious problems of case volume resulting in delayed dispositions. By 1978, the problems of steadily rising volume and limited resources had become so severe that the American Judicature Society, in reporting the results of a study of Pennsylvania's three appellate courts, observed that the Superior Court had "for some years been one of the most overworked courts in America." During the four years that have passed since publication of the AJS Report of 1978, the court has undergone a number of changes, the most significant of which have been an increase in the size of the court from 7 to 15 commissioned judges, establishment of the system of hearing cases in three-judge panels, and an initial introduction of new equipment and technology into the internal operations of the court. Considerable progress has been made in some critical management areas, including statistics for management purposes, record-keeping and caseflow management. Also, a small Central Legal Staff has been established to screen incoming cases, prepare pre-argument memorandums

in selected categories of cases, review and review draft opinions for possible

motions, prepare proposed rulings,

IJA/ICM Study recommendations indicated that the Court is now in a conflict with prior opinions. The position to effectively handle its business in a focused, systematic speedy modernization has taken fashion. Noting that "a remarkably place," the Study team gave much of the credit to highly motivated judges.

Educational Programs Sponsored

The unified judicial system of Pennsylvania is a highly complex, closely interwoven system which employs over two thousand persons in the capacity of judges, district iustices, court administrators and support personnel. However, few persons in the system come to their positions equipped with the full range of skills and knowledge necessary to perform all of his or her duties expeditiously, efficiently and completely. Similarly, changes in the law and the technology of management require the continued acquisition of new skills and knowledge. To meet these ongoing needs, the AOPC helped conduct educational and training seminars for system personnel.

At the trial court level, a series of seven conferences for Common Pleas Court personnel were held in 1982, including a Mid-Annual and Annual Meeting of the Pennsylvania Conference of State Trial Judges, an Orientation Seminar for "freshman" judges, a Juvenile Court Training Seminar, a Domestic Relations Training Conference, a President Judges/District Court Administrators Seminar, and an Orphans' Court Conference. The Administrative Office also assisted the Superior Court in organizing its Annual Educational Conference.

The Minor Judiciary Education Board, with the support of the AOPC, developed and offered educational programs to strengthen Pennsylvania's District Justice System. The AOPC provided administrative secretarial services for the Board and taught some of the courses given to district justices, district justice candidates and district justice secretaries.

Legal Services Provided

The services provided by the AOPC's Law Department fall into three categories: the department head is Legal Counsel to the Court Administrator: the department provides in-house counsel services to the personnel of the unified judicial system; and, finally, the department provides direct legal representation to personnel of the system who have been sued as a result of action taken in the scope of their official duties. Due to the demands of litigation and staff limitations, services rendered in calendar vear 1982 were virtually restricted to this last category.

The department provided representation to judges and other court-system personnel in 138 legal proceedings, a figure comparable to that of the preceding year in which representation was extended in 140 cases. It should be noted that these figures do not reflect the actual number of cases filed against judges and other court personnel. Since many federal cases involve in forma pauperis matters, the district courts, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1915(d), routinely dismiss complaints deemed to be frivolous without service of the complaint.

The number of counseled complaints whether counsel originally brought the action or was courtappointed, remained approximately the same as in the previous reporting year. About 60 percent of the litigation involved counseled complaints, with the balance involving pro se actions. The degree of sophistication of the complaints in this latter category increased substantially during the reporting period. Few complaints sought monetary damages as the principal form of relief; rather, the primary relief sought in these complaints as well as in counseled complaints was equitable relief in the form of injunctions and declaratory judgments. The issues raised in both categories of complaints covered the gamut of legal issues, with considerable emphasis placed upon constitutional challenges to practices of the judiciary. The substantial majority of trial litigation in the reporting year was in the federal system.

Litigation during this report year was punctuated by this department's successful defenses advanced in Pittsburgh Corning Corp. v. Honorable Edward J. Bradley, et al. and Medve v. Walakovits; Appeal of Orloski. The former case involved a constitutional challenge to Philadelphia General Court Regulation 82-5, which established a program of non-jury trials, with the right of trial de novo, for asbestos litigation in the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia County. Petitioners in that case invoked the original jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania in a Writ of Prohibition. The latter case involved a contempt appeal before the Superior Court, which concluded as a matter of first impression that evidence of recklessness satisfied the element of intent necessary for a finding of contempt.

The issue in the case of Morrison v. Ayoob was whether judicial immunity bars an award of counsel fees under 42 U.S.C. §1988. The U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit answered this question in the negative and efforts to seek review from the United States Supreme Court were unsuccessful.*

Legislative Developments Monitored

Over 4,300 legislative proposals were introduced into the General Assembly during the 1981-1982 legislative session. Of these, over 500 proposals with numerous amendments were introduced which could have impacted upon the judicial system. The AOPC legislative office worked with members of both the House and Senate on legislative issues and represented the judiciary with respect to matters affecting the judicial system.

is year the legislative office continued to inform and advise appellate court justices and judges, trial court judges, and administrative staff as to proposed legislative activities in Harrisburg. Some of the key legislation which was enacted concerned driving while intoxicated, mandatory sentencing, the jurisdiction of district justices. creation of a sixtieth judicial district (i.e. Pike County), permanent extension of the Post Conviction Hearing Act, and certification and amendments to Title 42 (Judiciary and Judicial Procedure) of the Pennsylvania Consolidated Statutes.

*In early 1983, the nation's high court decided to review this issue in a Virginia case, Pulliam v. Allen. The timing of the Supreme Court's decision coincided with the District Court's entry of an award of fees in the Ayoob case. An appeal from this Order has been taken to the Third Circuit.

ADVISORY BOARDS AND COMMITTEES

To ensure a broad representation of viewpoints, expertise and information, the judicial system relies on a number of judges, practicing lawyers and citizens. They come from various parts of the Commonwealth and serve on advisory committees and boards. Their diversity and knowledge strengthen the judiciary and help it reflect the changes integral to a dynamic society.

The Disciplinary Board

Herbert J. Johnson, Jr., Esq., Chairman; Raymond Pearlstine, Esq., Vice-Chairman; and the following attorneys: James J. Curran, Jr., Robert C. Daniels, John M. Elliott, Mary Bell Hammerman, Gilbert J. Helwig, Sidney L. Krawitz, Frank J. McDonnell, and Pasco L. Schiavo; Professor Winfield Keck and Nancy M. Neuman. Nan Cohen, Secretary.

A total of 2,373 complaints, 338 more than the year before, were lodged against Pennsylvania lawyers. This upward trend has prevailed since the establishment of the Disciplinary Board in 1972. The increase in activity is attributed to the large number of attorneys now registered, 32,385 by the end of 1982 (1,515 more than the previous year), and to increased public awareness of the Board.

During 1982, the Disciplinary Board disposed of 2,508 complaints, 401 more than in 1981, and disciplinary action was taken against 209 lawyers. This figure does not include 6 interim suspensions of various types (See Table 1). There was a net increase of 65 complaints received over matters terminated and 916 active complaints were pending at the start of 1983. The Disciplinary Board considered 44 matters and referred 32 to the Supreme Court for final decision. Fourteen of these were petitions for reinstatement to active status after being inactive three or more years with no discipline involved.

Two developments should be noted. First, there has been a significant increase in the number of reinstatement proceedings, which logically follows from the increased tempo of disciplinary actions during the preceding ten years resulting in disbarments and suspensions of various lengths. Many of the respondents involved in such matters are now seeking reinstatement and the investigation and hearings incident to consideration of their petitions for reinstatement present an additional burden for all involved in the disciplinary process. Pursuant to the creation of the Client Security Fund Board, the second development has been the establishment of new requirements regarding investigation procedures and records management.

Judicial Inquiry and Review Board (JIRB)

Hon. William Franklin Cercone, Chairman; Hon. Gwilym A. Price, Jr., Vice-Chairman; Hon. Joseph F. McCloskey, Hon. Charles P. Mirarchi, Jr., Hon. J. Warren Watson; and the following attorneys: Paul A. Manion, Linda Z. Marston, S. Raymond Rackoff, Robert B. Surrick. Richard E. McDevitt, Executive Director.

Responsible for investigating complaints against judges and district justices, this Board has a duty to maintain the integrity of Pennsylvania's judicial system, while recognizing the need to protect judges and district justices from unjust accusations.

Frivolous or unfounded complaints consist primarily of conclusions drawn from a misunderstanding of the law.

Complaints not within the Board's jurisdiction are mainly against court officers, lawyers, police officers and Federal judges.

Tables 2, 3 and 4 show the sources of complaints and the types of judicial misconduct acted upon in 1982.

Pennsylvania Board of Law Examiners

Desmond J. McTighe, Esq., Chairman; Hon. Justin M. Johnson, Vice-Chairman; Yolanda Barco, Esq.; John W. English, Sr., Esq.; and Anthony S. Minisi, Esq. Susan L. Anderson, Esq., Secretary-Treasurer.

The Board conducted two examinations of two days each, the first day for the Multi-state Examination and the second for the Essay Examination. In February, 1982, 465 of the 733 Bar examinees (63.4%) passed. In July, 1982, 1,588 of the 1,896 Bar examinees (83.8%) passed.

During the year the Board heard 16 applications for admission to the Bar involving, inter alia, questions of moral fitness, false statements on applications or declarations and cheating on the Bar exam. Thirteen appeals from actions of the Board were filed with the Supreme Court; they involved applicants from unaccredited law schools, out-of-state attorneys and applicants' declarations.

Civil Procedural Rules Committee

John A. Metz, Jr., Esq., Chairman; Stephen M. Feldman, Esq., Vice-Chairman; Hon. Ruggero J. Aldisert, Consultant; Hon. Albert E. Acker, Hon. John J. McLean, Jr., Hon. Madaline Palladino, Hon. Lawrence Prattis, Hon. Dale F. Shughart, and the following attorneys: Philip W. Amram, Edward J. Balzarini, Herbert Fishbone, James J. Flaherty, John G. Gent. Richard L. Grossman, Richard Henry Klein, Morton Meyers (deceased), Rod J. Pera, Judd N. Poffinberger, Jr., David S. Shrager, Charles H. Welles. Harold K. Don, Jr., Executive Director, and Debora K. H. Sutch, Research Assistant.

Rules governing change of venue, the effective date of rules, foreign attachment, promulgation of local rules, and divorce were among the work accomplished by this Committee in 1982.

The Judicial Code and the Judiciary Act Repealer Act (JARA) will, together with the JARA Continuation Act of 1980, continue to provide the Committee with the basis for much of its work in the coming year. The Committee is considering the advisability of rules governing appeals from administrative agencies, judgment liens and revival, deficiency judgments, partitions of personal and real property, tax and municipal claim procedures, proceedings on appeals from district justices and small claims courts, actions against the Commonwealth, and the consolidation of the forms of action in assumpsit and trespass.

Criminal Procedural Rules Committee

James Strazzella, Esq., Chairman; Hon. Robert I. Shadle, Vice-Chairman; Hon. Max Rosenn, Consultant: Hon. D. Michael Fisher: Hon, G. Thomas Gates: Hon. Thomas C. Raup; Hon. Anthony J. Scirica; Hon. Henry R. Smith; Attorney General Leroy S. Zimmerman: District Attorneys William H. Platt, Edward G. Rendell, Robert L. Eberhardt, Bernard L. Siegel; Defender Benjamin Lerner; District Justice/Attorney Nicholas Sellers; private defense attorneys: A. Richard Gerber, Abraham J. Brem Levy, and Stanford Shmukler. James A. Shellenberger, Secretary/Staff Counsel, and Anne T. Panfil, Staff Counsel.

As one of the advisory groups to the Supreme Court, this Committee continued its efforts to streamline and improve the Rules of Criminal Procedure. Much of its work in 1982 was a necessary response to court opinions or changes in legislation, as well as to the Judiciary Act Repealer Act, JARA. Matters come to the Committee from members and staff, referrals by other court agencies and communications with interested members of the bench and bar.

New rules and rule amendments adopted, implemented or recommended* in 1982 include:

- -District Attorney election to require prior prosecutorial approval of police complaints, arrest warrant affidavits, and search warrant applications.
- -Joinder or consolidation and severance of offenses and defendants for trial and joinder and severance in indictments or informations.
- -Pre- and post-trial matters when change of venue is ordered and implementation of statutory authority for change of venire.
- -Post conviction proceedings, which were later vacated when the Post Conviction Hearing Act was reenacted in its entirety.

- -Dismissal of cases for noncompliance with procedures for proceedings before the minor judiciary and for defects in the form or content of the documents used in such proceedings.
- -Taking and preserving testimony of witnesses who may become unavailable to testify at trial or any other proceeding.
- -Local rules of criminal procedure and the local criminal rulemaking process, which with a virtually identical Civil Rule on local rules of civil procedure and the local civil rule-making process are intended to provide uniform procedures regarding local criminal and civil procedural rules.
- -Conditions of ARD, particularly payment of reasonable charges relating to the expense of administering the program.
- -Several areas of criminal procedure affected by the Judicial Code and JARA, including jurisdiction and venue, appeals of summary convictions, execution of arrest warrants, settlement and nolle prosequi, selection and summoning of trial and grand jurors, challenges to the sufficiency of the evidence to convict, bail, and forms of subpoenas.
- *Only those recommendations which were adopted in early 1983 are listed.

All attorneys licensed to practice law in Pennsylvania were assessed $50* each to finance the program. Payments totaling more than $330,000 were approved in 1982. with $25,000 being the maximum for any one claim.

*Reduced to $40 for 1983.

THE APPELLATE COURTS

During 1982, recent legislative changes affecting the jurisdiction of the appellate courts began to take effect. The Supreme Court became primarily a "certiorari" court with discretionary power to review appellate cases. The jurisdictions of both the Superior Court and Commonwealth Court were expanded.

The Supreme Court, in 1982, experienced a dramatic increase in the number of petitions for allowance of appeal. These 1,245 petitions represent a 40.2% increase over 1981 filings and a 22.5% increase over 1980 filings. By selecting 10.3% of those petitions for allowance of appeal (allocatur) for formal appellate review, the Court was able to give greater attention to precedent-setting and constitutionally noteworthy cases as well as to administrative matters.

The Superior Court, despite a steadily increasing workload, significantly reduced the number of cases awaiting decision. Due to the hard work of the judges and their staffs, as well as having a full complement of fifteen judges for the first time, over 50% more opinions were filed in 1982 than in 1981 (3,025 as compared with 2,003).

The Superior Court also expanded its very successful appellate settlement conference program, which has been operational in Philadelphia since 1980, to include civil appeals filed in the Western District. The primary purpose of the program is to expedite disposition of the appellate docket through the settlement of cases prior to their submission to the Court for decision.

The number of cases filed with the Commonwealth Court increased to 3,614. Although there were two vacancies on the Court during most of the year, the 940 opinions filed represented a decline of only fifty over 1981. During 1982, the Court implemented a screening process to identify cases for submission on briefs. In 1982, 355 cases were submitted without argument in contrast to 94 in the preceding years.

The number of Commonwealth Court trials and evidentiary hearings increased to 272 in 1982 compared with 228 during 1981. The Court also received 3,439 petitions, motions and applications during the year.

TRIAL COURT DEVELOPMENTS IN 1982

Although the primary responsibility of Pennsylvania's 309 trial judges is to resolve human disputes, they also have the responsibility to ensure that the courts' non-judicial business is effectively and competently managed. Assisting the court, and the president judge particularly, in most counties are professionally trained court administrators.

Assisting the Court, and the president judge particularly, in most counties are professionally trained court administrators.

What follows is a summary of some of the major administrative developments adopted in many of Pennsylvania's trial courts during 1982. These include innovations in the areas of jury management, caseflow management, public education, technology, probation, quasi-judicial officers and internal auditing. Some of the developments mentioned had, perhaps, already been instituted in other judicial districts while no reference is made here. In no event, therefore, should the following enumeration be considered as all-encompassing. Rather, it is merely representative of procedures being implemented throughout the state to improve the judicial system.

Jury Management

By reducing the length of service and computerizing the jury selection process, several counties realized benefits in the area of jury management. Benefits included reducing costs of juror fees, enlarging the pool from which to select jurors, changing the composition of juries to include more professionals and full-time employed persons, and utilizing juror time more efficiently.

During the final four months of 1982, after implementing a computerized One Day/One Trial jury system, Berks County was able to save $11,000. Carbon County completely computerized its jury system, including the selection of individual jury panels. Lackawanna County now summons jurors in a one-step process for a period of two days. Stand-by jurors who are required to call in the day before service are also utilized.

Caseflow Management

Caseflow management has always been one of the primary concerns of court administration and several counties made improvements in this area during 1982. Lackawanna County instituted what is referred to as the "Scranton Plan" for the administration of criminal cases. The plan provides that all cases be scheduled for a conference before a judge shortly after court arraignment. At the conference the court determines if there will be a trial, a plea of guilty, a plea bargain, or a diversion into the ARD program. Through the early identification of non-trial cases, Lackawanna reduced its trial list to a more manageable size and made more efficient use of its trial judges and jurors.

Allegheny County's Criminal Division implemented an individual calendar system which produced very positive results. More cases were disposed of in less time, costs were reduced, and there were fewer jury trials.

One of the most important achievements in civil case administration is the new Philadelphia Arbitration Center which has greatly improved the disposition of arbitration cases. All civil cases, except those concerning equity and title to real estate, in which the amount of controversy is $20,000 or less, are heard by a threemember arbitration panel at the Arbitration Center. The program's increased efficiency has produced substantial savings in arbitrator's fees and has disposed of cases at a rate far in excess of that which previously prevailed. Philadelphia's arbitration program was cited by U.S. Supreme Court Chief Justice Warren Burger as a model for non-judicial disposition of civil litigation.

Jefferson County designed and put into use a daily court scheduling book which allows sufficient space for scheduling all cases requiring court action. This enables the court administrator to easily monitor all cases at issue and to utilize the available court time with maximum efficiency.

Monroe County, to expedite trials, changed its court term of four months per year (nine days of criminal court and nine days of civil court each term) to a court term of ten months (six nine-day terms of criminal court and four nine-day terms of civil court).

Indiana County's criminal list has become more manageable by utilizing a Call Day procedure. On the Friday before the Monday of jury trials, the District Attorney and counsel for each defendant, together with the defendants, must appear in Court for the purpose of answering a list and advising the court of what is intended in the case. Pleas are taken on that day, continuances are granted for cause shown, Rule 1100 waivers are placed on the record, and cases for trial are then scheduled for the next two weeks.

Montgomery County, limited by two judicial vacancies of long standing, found it necessary to allocate all available trial judges to disposition of criminal cases during a four-month period in 1982. To offset the effect on the civil trial bar, settlement conferences were scheduled.

Public Education

Advances in the area of public education also were made in 1982. Delaware County developed a number of informational brochures about the court system which were distributed throughout the county. Lackawanna County initiated a program for offering tours of the Courthouse to school groups. The format for these tours includes discussing the history of the Courthouse, explaining the functions of the various offices, observing a trial, and sometimes meeting with a judge or the District Attorney.

Technology

Modern technology is increasingly being adopted throughout Pennsylvania to improve the efficiency of court operations. In addition to using computer technology in the area of docketing and case scheduling, computer-aided transcription is also used to satisfy some districts' court reporting needs. One very exciting development is in Lancaster County where a computer system is being developed which will service both the police and the Court. This joint type of system is one of the first of its kind in the country. Another application of technology is in Delaware County where a microwave unit has been installed to conduct all criminal arraignments for prisoners via television.

Philadelphia's new Transcription Copy Center facilitates the efficient reproduction of notes of testimony; it is anticipated that this will save $400,000 a year in transcription fees. Also, to increase its collections, Beaver County has completely automated its child support system.

Probation

Beaver County has established a county-based intensive probation unit which has reduced institutional costs by 75 percent. Court officials hope to shift away from the institutionalization of youthful offenders. District field offices have also been established in high crime areas to increase adult probation officer contact and reduce operational expenses.

Quasi-Judicial Officers

Recognizing the value of masters and hearing officers and their indispensable role in the judicial system, many counties have made great use of such quasi-judicial officers. In many courts, hearing officers have been appointed to assist in various aspects of domestic relations matters.

Internal Auditing

Bucks County has developed an extensive system of program performance auditing to measure the performance of existing programs. The Court is attempting to take the guesswork out of financial, personnel, caseflow and calendar management. Through the use of management tools such as cost-benefit analysis and demographic studies, Bucks is developing a system that may set a national precedent.

Criminal Dispositions by Type

The following table shows an overall increase of 30.16 percent (15.98 percent if transfers to inactive status are excluded) in criminal dispositions between 1981 and 1982. Increases in productivity were reflected in nearly all disposition categories and were the highest amount since completion of Common Pleas statistics began. There were significant increases in guilty pleas (4,900 cases), non-jury trials (1,300 cases), and nol pros (2,500 cases). Cases dismissed (Rule 1100) were at their second lowest point in the past six years.

Civil Dispositions by Type

Total civil dispositions decreased by 7.21 percent in 1982, largely due to a 1,200 case decrease in settlements, both before and after commencement of trial. The actual number of trials, both jury and nonjury, changed slightly from 1981 to 1982: 5,665 vs. 5,687. In 1982, there were over 216,000 civil cases docketed in the local Prothonotary offices. These included general and vehicle trespass, assumpsit, ejectment, statutory appeals, slander, and mortgage foreclosure. Of these, praecipes to list for trial were filed in only 22,271 cases (or 10.38 percent).

COMMON PLEAS CASE VOLUME BY COUNTY

Although the table that follows reflects the workload and output of each district, comparisons should be made with care. The most obvious example is Philadelphia, which has a unique jurisdiction affecting its caseload. Philadelphia's Municipal Court has broader criminal jurisdiction than district justice courts elsewhere. The result is that criminal cases heard by its Court of Common Pleas tend to be more serious, complex and time-consuming.

The compare-with-care caveat also applies to civil cases, particularly dispositions. These are strongly affected by each county's arbitration limits, ranging from $2,000 to $20,000. Civil filings are also affected by the types of cases included, particularly statutory appeals; i.e., appeals from administrative agencies. Most districts include these appeals in their filings; but some, like Philadelphia, do not.

Inventory is what remains after dispositions have reduced the total of both pending and newly filed cases. The formula is:

Inventory 1/1/82 + Filings -Dispositions = Inventory 1/1/83

The percentage of change in inventory compares the number of cases on hand this year compared with the number last year. A negative figure indicates a smaller inventory; a positive figure shows the reverse.

PHILADELPHIA MUNICIPAL COURT

As the only special court of record in Pennsylvania, Philadelphia Municipal Court has 22 judges, all of whom must be lawyers. It has jurisdiction over all criminal offenses, other than summary traffic offenses, which are punishable by a term of imprisonment not exceeding five years. Otherwise, Municipal Court has the same jurisdiction as the district justices, except that civil actions are limited to cases in which claims do not exceed $1,000.

THE PEOPLE'S COURT: DISTRICT JUSTICES

District Court is the first and, in most cases, the only court most people see. It handles traffic tickets, parking fines, fender benders, feuding neighbors, the distressing and disputatious matters which are part of living. It is no wonder that the District Justices have the largest case volume of any of Pennsylvania's courts. Nor is it surprising that the Administrative Office of Pennsylvania Courts is constantly upgrading the District Justice system so that its dealings can be handled uniformly and professionally.

In addition to handling an enormous volume of cases and serving as the citizen's first contact with the judiciary, district justices have the considerable responsibility for setting bail in criminal cases. The amount of bail often determines what happens between accusation and adjudication, or who will be confined to prison and who will go free. In impact and effect, these decisions can be far reaching.

When the magisterial district system first evolved in 1969, there were 595 magisterial districts. As of December, 1982, there were 553 districts, due principally to realignment for the purpose of achieving equitable population and caseload.

Filings with the district justice system diminished, although only by 2.2% compared to last year. Traffic citations made up 64% of the nearly 1.9 million new cases in 1982.

Misdemeaner/Felony complaints, which totaled 113,614, represented 6% of all filings.

District Justices disposed of more than 1.7 million cases in 1982, a 3% increase since 1981. Traffic dispositions totaled nearly 1.1 million. The ratio of cases disposed to cases filed was 91.3%, a 2% increase from the previous year.

COURT FINANCES

Hundreds of thousands of people interact with and are affected by the courts each year. Yet the Judiciary of Pennsylvania costs taxpayers less than one half of one percent of all state government expenditures.

The Unified Judicial System receives both state and county financing. The state pays the salaries of all judges, district justices and personnel in both the Appellate Courts and the Administrative Office of Pennsylvania Courts. It also provides substantial reimbursement for running the county courts, including a significant portion of county juror costs. With the exception of this reimbursement, the counties support the county court

A breakdown of the distribution of funds across the three branches of government is found in Figure 3. Table 23 shows where the money goes within the Judiciary system on a fiscal year basis.

The total amount of fees collected by Appellate Courts for Fiscal Year (FY) 82-83 is approximately $573,000. Fees received by the county Courts of Common Pleas are not included. Although 1982 figures are not yet available, district justices collected $70,608,843.68 in fines and costs in 1981, 44.3% of which was remitted to local or county governments.

The largest single portion of State general funds is earmarked for the county reimbursement program—
Table 23. Direct expenditures for the Courts of Common Pleas and district justices make up the next largest portion of expense; however, 99% of the state's costs for the lower courts are spent on salary and fringe benefit expenses with staff and operations costs funded by county government. At the appellate level, personnel expenses account for 79% of the state's cost which cover all expenditures.

Where does the money come from? In Pennsylvania, during the past year, the Courts were financed through a combination of federal, state and county revenues. Most federal grants expired during 1982 and provided a much lower amount than in past years—see Table 24.

Other items in Table 23 are notable. The almost $1 million increase for the Superior Court is a result of its expansion from seven to 15 judges and the significant increases in cases filed.

The state indirectly finances the counties' court costs through a reimbursement program which uses general funds. In FY 82-83 the Common Pleas Court reimbursement payments were made on the basis of $70,000 per authorized Common Pleas judgeship. In addition, the state pays 80% of the higher juror fees paid to all Pennsylvania citizens sitting as trial jurors for more than three days. These jurors now receive $25 per day for their fourth and subsequent days of service instead of the previous $9 per day. The cost in FY 82-83 was $1.6 million.

GLOSSARY

Adjudication: A judgment, decree or sentence.

Adversary System: The system of trial practice in the United States and some other countries in which each of the opposing, or adversary, parties has full opportunity to present and establish its arguments before the court.

Allocatur: It is allowed. A word denoting the allowance of a writ or order.

Appellate Court: A court having jurisdiction of appeal and review; not a trial court.

A.R.D. or Accelerated Rehabilitative Disposition: A program primarily for non-violent offenders set up by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania in 1972, involving the concept of probation supervision without conviction. Its purpose is to take offenders who have not yet made crime a way of life and encourage them to make a new start under this program. Removing these first offenders from the criminal courts will, in turn, make those facilities available for the trial of habitual or violent criminals.

Assumpsit: A promise of engagement by which one person assumes or undertakes to do some act or pay something to another.

Bail: To set at liberty a person arrested or imprisoned, on security being taken, for his appearance on a specified day and place. Certificate of Readiness: Written notification that a lawyer is ready to go to trial in a civil case.

Change of Venire: Bringing in a jury from one community to another.

Change of Venue: Change of place; moving the trial from one community to another.

Citation: The document issued by a police officer formally charging an individual with a summary offense.

Common The body of unwritten principles originally based on the usages and customs of the community which were recognized and enforced by the courts. Also called "case law."

Court of Record: A court that is required to keep a record of its proceedings. Example: Court of Common Pleas, Appellate Courts. On the other hand, District Justice Courts are not courts of record. They have no court stenographers, no record of proceedings.

De novo: Anew; afresh; a second time.

Defendant: In criminal law the one charged with a crime. In civil law the one that has been sued.

Equity: Justice administered according to fairness as contrasted with the strictly formulated rules of common law.

Felony: Crimes punishable by death or imprisonment of more than five years. The fundamental distinction between felonies and misdemeanors rests with the penalty and the power of imprisonment. In Pennsylvania, felonies are of the 1st, 2nd, or 3rd degree, depending upon their statutory designation and the length of their term of imprisonment.

In Forma Pauperis: Permission given by a court to a poor person, an indigent, to proceed without liability for court fees and costs.

Injunction: A prohibitive, equitable remedy used by a court requiring a party defendant to do or refrain from doing some act.

Mandamus: Command issuing from court of law of competent jurisdiction requiring the performance of a particular duty. The action is not available when the duty to be enforced is purely discretionary.

Misdemeanor: All crimes or indictable offenses not amounting to felonies, for which a punishment other than death is prescribed by law, such as fines or imprisonment. In Pennsylvania, they are divided into three grades, in reverse order of their severity. For example, a Misdemeanor 3, giving cigarettes to a minor, is less serious than a Misdemeanor 1 for the sale of firearms, or a Misdemeanor 2 for carrying explosives.

CO.

Nol Pros: "Nolle Prosequi." Formal entry on the record by the prosecuting officer, or the plaintiff in a civil suit, declaring that he or she will not prosecute the case further.

Orphans' Court: Having probate jurisdiction, relating to the proof of wills.

Peremptory Challenge: The challenge which the prosecution or defense may use to reject a certain number of prospective jurors without assigning any reason.

Plaintiff: A person who brings an action; the party who complains or sues in a personal action and is so named on the record.

Post Conviction Hearing Act (PCHA): This act establishes a procedure for providing relief from convictions obtained and sentences imposed without due process of law.

Preliminary Hearing: A hearing held in the special courts on a felony or misdemeanor charge to determine if the defendant should stand trial.

Recusal: The act by which a judge disqualifies himself in a particular case by reason of interest or prejudice.

Rule of Court: An order made by a court having competent jurisdiction. Rules of court are either general or special: the former are the regulations by which the practice of the court is governed: the latter are special orders made in particular relief cases.

Rule 1100: Supreme Court Rule of Criminal Procedure which requires all cases to be tried within 180 days from the filing of a complaint.

Special Courts: District Justice, Philadelphia Traffic and Municipal and Pittsburgh Magistrates Courts.

Stare Decisis (Sta're De-si'sis): The doctrine that, when a court has once laid down a principle of law as applicable to a certain set of facts, it will adhere to that same principle and apply it to future cases where the facts are substantially the same.

Substantive Law: The law dealing with rights, duties and liabilities.

Summary Offense: A minor offense that is adjudicated by a court not of record but is appealable to a court of record. It is punishable by a term of imprisonment not exceeding 90 days.

Tort: A private or civil wrong or injury, other than a breach of contract, for which the court will provide a remedy in the form of an action for damages.

Trespass: Committing an unlawful act, or a lawful act in an unlawful manner, causing injury to another's person or property.

Warrant: A writ issued by a district justice or judge authorizing a law enforcement officer to make an arrest, a seizure, or a search.
