FROM THE DIRECTOR

A Network of Knowledge, the Directory of Criminal Justice Information Sources, Fifth Edition, issued by the National Institute of Justice/National Criminal Justice Reference Service (NCJRS), is part of the continuing effort by the National Institute of Justice to foster the exchange of information and to open channels of communication among those who have an interest in the field of criminal justice. By providing a reference tool such as this Directory, NIJ helps all concerned with law enforcement and the criminal justice system keep abreast of the available resources and services of many agencies. We hope this centralized listing of services assists busy criminal justice professionals as they work to meet the challenges of their important role in our society.

INTRODUCTION

The National Institute of Justice/NCJRS published the first edition of the Directory in 1977. This fifth edition updates previous editions and is based on questionnaires completed in 1984 by more than 300 criminal justice agencies. Questionnaires were mailed to all the agencies listed in the fourth edition (1981) as well as to additional agencies identified by NCJRS staff.

Criteria for Selection

The criteria that guided our selection process are as follows:

- The organization's service area is national or regional in scope.
- The information provided is a major component of the agency's function.
- Information services include data base searches, document dissemination or delivery, practical information on setting up programs, reference services, and technical assistance. (Note: An organization does not have to offer all these services to qualify for inclusion.)
- The organization answers telephone and mail requests and does not require users to visit the facility to obtain information.
- Costs for services or membership are not prohibitive or excessively restrictive.

Exclusions:

- Publishers and agencies providing only consulting services, technical assistance, or training are excluded.
- All foreign-based or State government-related organizations are excluded.

If an agency does not facilitate access to criminal justice information, NCJRS reserves the right to exclude it from the Directory. Although every effort was made to contact known criminal justice information sources, this Directory should not be considered exhaustive. Editorial selection requirements, unanswered inquiries, incomplete questionnaires, and lack of information may have excluded some sources.

Arrangement of the Directory

The Directory contains 158 organizational entries. Information presented for each organization includes the following:

PARENT ORGANIZATION/SPONSORING AGENCY
INFORMATION CENTER/LIBRARY
ADDRESS
TELEPHONE NUMBERS(S)
USER RESTRICTIONS
YEAR ESTABLISHED
HEAD OF CENTER

NUMBER OF STAFF (Professional, Support, Volunteer)
CONTACT PERSON

OBJECTIVES

SERVICES OFFERED

COLLECTION SIZE (Periodical Subscriptions; Audiovisual Items; Books, Reports, Documents; Microform Collection; Vertical File Drawers; Special Resources)

PUBLICATIONS

The headings for each entry appear only when information is available. If, for example, an organization did not list a telephone number on its response form, the heading TELEPHONE NUMBER(S) is deleted from the entry. Readers have several ways of finding specific organizations. Entries are listed alphabetically by Parent Organization or Sponsoring Agency, with all information centers or libraries for the same Parent Organization or Sponsoring Agency appearing on consecutive pages. Besides consulting this main section of the Directory, readers can find particular organizations by using the Information Center/Library Index as well as the Subject and Geographic indexes. Additional useful information is provided in the Appendixes:

- A listing of members of the Criminal Justice Information Exchange (CJIE) group and their addresses.
- A listing of State criminal justice systems representatives.
- A listing of Federal Information Centers and telephone numbers.
- Organization charts of the U.S. Department of Justice and the National Institute of Justice.

NIJ/NCJRS plans to continue providing biennial updates of the Directory of Criminal Justice Information Sources. Feedback from Directory users will assist us in making this publication more useful. If your agency would like to be listed in the next edition and meets the criteria, please complete the survey form on page F-2 and mail it to the address below. Guidelines for completing the form are directly opposite the blank response form.

OBJECTIVES: The Fortune Society's objectives are to create a greater public awareness of the prison system; to help the public understand the problems confronting inmates during their incarceration and when they return to society; to work with released prisoners in making their adjustment to society; and to develop community involvements with crime prevention programs by creating alternatives for released convicts.

SERVICES OFFERED: Fortune reaches the public by sending teams of speakers to schools, churches, and civic groups, and by providing witnesses and testimony before city, State, and Federal legislators. In addition, Fortune provides counseling to ex-offenders on a one-to-one basis. Through Fortune's Job Development Department, ex-offenders find employment. Fortune's volunteers operate a one-to-one educational tutorial program for ex-offenders. Fortune works with legislators in drafting bills; challenges, in court, archaic and harmful laws; and works to restructure the prison system.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE INFORMATION EXCHANGE (CJIE) GROUP MEMBERS

The Criminal Justice Information Exchange (CJIE) Group is an informal, co-operative association of libraries serving the criminal justice community. The Group aims to foster communication and cooperation among member libraries and to enhance user services. Group members will provide information to criminal justice patrons about their collection, policies, and services. The National Institute of Justice/National Criminal Justice Reference Service, a CJIE member, serves as the Group coordinator.
