OFFICE OF JUSTICE PROGRAMS AWARDS $25 MILLION TO TWO STATES TO ADDRESS COVID-19 PANDEMIC

Salt River Pima Maricopa Indian Community and Blackfeet Nation are first tribes to receive funding

WASHINGTON – The Department of Justice’s Office of Justice Programs announced that it has awarded $25 million to two states to address the public safety challenges posed by the outbreak of COVID-19. OJP also awarded grants to the Salt River Pima Maricopa Indian Community and the Blackfeet Nation, the first tribes to receive funding from the Coronavirus Emergency Supplemental Funding program authorized by the Coronavirus Aid, Relief and Economic Security, or CARES, Act signed by President Trump in March.

Awards are being made to: the Massachusetts Executive Office of Public Safety, $11,144,355; and the Tennessee Department of Finance and Administration, $13,942,098. The Salt River Pima Maricopa Indian Community received a grant of $107,346, and the Blackfeet Tribe of the Blackfeet Indian Reservation received $71,679. Since the program was launched in early April, OJP has already awarded more than $460 million to state, local and tribal agencies and organizations, well more than half of the $850 million available.

The states of Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia and Wyoming, and the territories of American Samoa, Guam and the Virginia Islands received awards previously. Seventeen tribes are eligible for funding under the program.

“The outbreak of COVID-19 and the public health emergency it created are sobering reminders that even the most routine duties performed by our nation’s public safety officials carry potentially grave risks,” said Katharine T. Sullivan, Principal Deputy Assistant Attorney General for the Office of Justice Programs. “These funds will provide hard-hit communities with critical resources to help mitigate the impact of this crisis and give added protection to the brave professionals charged with keeping citizens safe.”

The grants are among the most recent to be awarded under the Coronavirus Emergency Supplemental Funding program, authorized by the CARES Act. This program allows eligible state, local and tribal governments to apply immediately for these critical funds. OJP is moving quickly, aiming to have funds available for drawdown as soon as possible after receiving an application. In addition to statewide awards, many local jurisdictions within these states are eligible for direct awards. A list of all awards can be found at <https://ojp-open.data.socrata.com/stories/s/jitc-swxt>.

The Coronavirus Aid, Relief and Economic Security, or CARES, Act gives jurisdictions considerable latitude in the use of funds for dealing with COVID-19. Potential uses include hiring personnel, paying overtime, purchasing protective equipment and distributing resources to hard-hit areas. Funds may also be used to help correctional facilities cover costs related to COVID-19, including, but not limited to, sanitation, contagion prevention and measures designed to address the related medical needs of inmates, detainees and correctional personnel.

The solicitation, posted by OJP's Bureau of Justice Assistance, will remain open until May 29. As a top priority, OJP will fund successful applicants on a rolling basis as it receives applications. Grantees may apply the funds retroactively to January 20, 2020, subject to federal rules.

Agencies that were eligible for the fiscal year 2019 State and Local Edward Byrne Memorial Justice Assistance Grant Program are candidates for the emergency funding. A complete list of eligible jurisdictions and their allocations is available at <https://bja.ojp.gov/program/fy20-cesf-allocations>.
